SHAMROCK DISABLED, ENTERPRISE SAILS ON TO WIN THIRD RACE

Challenger, Pressing for Lead at 4½-Mile Point, Loses Her Mainsail as Cable Snaps.

DEFENDER FINISHES BRISKLY

British Yacht Is Towed to Her Berth and Repaired Before American Sloop Comes In.

LOSER MADE FINE START

Heard Outmanoeuvred Vanderbilt for First Time on Getaway—Fourth Race Today.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—Riding over the water like an ancient sea serpent, with sun-silvered mane, Enterprise, defender of the America's Cup, swept on today to her third straight victory over Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger.

She came on alone, Shamrock having dropped out of the contest when her main halyard, or sail hoisting cable, tore out forty-four minutes after the start.

At the time of the accident Enterprise was a quarter of a mile ahead and gaining steadily. Shamrock had covered four and one-half miles of the thirty-mile course.

The two yachts were close hauled in a thrash on the wind for fifteen miles, over toward Block Island, with a run home to follow. The breeze was twelve knots an hour.

The Challenger's Start Good.

Captain Ted Heard, the challenger's professional skipper, had made a fine start, having a shade the better of skillful Harold S. Vanderbilt at the helm of Enterprise. The defender was creeping ahead, inch by inch, but Shamrock was doing well, and her supporters were hoping she would be up near Enterprise's flying heels at the turn and perhaps outrun her home.

Suddenly Shamrock's 1,400-pound mainsail slipped down, dropping and fluttering like a sheet off a clothes line.

The halyard, a wire cable three-quarters of an inch thick, had broken at the sheave at the head, or as a landlubber would say, at the pulley at the top of the mast. There was nothing left for her to do but drop out.

Seas had run throughout last night, but there was only a ground swell, with ruffled top. It was anything but a wind to tear out lashings. As a matter of fact, the fog of days and all that had come with it had vanished and it was a perfect day—for sailing.

Enterprise Sails on to Win.

The racers at the time of the mishap were rising and cutting down through head seas in a grapple on the wind, but Enterprise afterward tore on over the course in an increasing breeze that reached eighteen knots. She scooted fast, but everything held.

Shamrock's halyard that parted had been used in twenty-two races on the other side and in two here, besides all her trials and evidently had weakened. It had been pulled as taut as possible to get her mainsail up to the limit for close hauling on the wind in an endeavor to make the yacht point up with Enterprise. As she went down over one sea, the strands of wire gave way.

After Shamrock had been towed back to port a new halyard was quickly put in place, and it was officially announced that both yachts would be ready for the fourth and possibly decisive race tomorrow, weather permitting.

Enterprise took in her jibtopsail after the accident to Shamrock, but running home she set sail before the wind—ballooner and spinnaker—instead of going over the course with little canvas, which she would have been entitled to do.

Spectators Have Lively Time.

Destroyers went on with her, and they rolled and pitched. Part of the spectator fleet turned back when Shamrock was disabled, but about half of the accompanying boats followed Enterprise.

They had a lively time while the breeze came at its best, but on the run home the wind side-stepped, breaking some of its force.

When the yachts went out this morning there was an overcast and streaked gray sky with a few ribbons of blue clearing. Gradually all the gloom covering disappeared. The breeze then was eight knots and giving evidence of increasing. The course was set west southwest, against the wind.

Manoeuvring for the start, Skipper Vanderbilt went about his business of putting Enterprise in position for a getaway under full headway, while on the starboard tack close to the buoy opposite the committee tug, which this time was the advantageous end of the line, Captain

149,000 Veterans of 1917 Ask New Disability Compensation

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—More than 149,000 World War veterans have applied for compensation for non-service connected disabilities under the provision made for them in the last session of Congress.

Colonel George E. Ijams, acting director of the Veterans' Bureau, announced this figure today, adding that it is estimated that within a year 156,000 men will benefit from the new legislation.

By Aug. 31 more than 7,000 of the new claims were adjudicated. These resulted in 3,613 awards.

Applications are being filed in fifty-four regional headquarters of the bureau. The largest block, 9,048, is from the combined hospital and regional office at Hines, Ill.

BRITAIN CONCERNED OVER OTTAWA TARIFF

Reduced Preference on Some Items Expected to Cut Trade—Seen as Retaliation on Us.

ISSUE FOR EMPIRE PARLEY

Washington Experts Minimize Effect of New Schedules as Deterrent to Commerce.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The political results of the new Canadian tariff so far as Great Britain is concerned are more immediately obvious than the economic effects. It was about the only subject of discussion between Premier MacDonald and his Ministers at today's Cabinet meeting.

The industrialists and exporters are deferring their judgment until more specific details are received from Ottawa. In the meantime the chief hope in this country is that it may derive benefit from the new Canadian provision that British textiles are to receive preferential treatment and need contain only 33 per cent instead of 50 per cent of domestic materials. But, as the textile tariff has been raised, the Lancashire cotton men are not yet sure they are going to have any real net gain for their exports to Canada.

What is more apparent is that the British preference on steel exports has been reduced on plates of forty inches and less. Formerly, English exporters of this class of steel had a preference over the United States of $4 a ton. Under the new tariff the preference has been reduced to $2.75. Since no mention has been made in the dispatches from Ottawa of schedules on plates exceeding forty inches, the British steel men are hoping such sizes will remain on the free list so far as they are concerned.

Say England Cannot Complain.

The fact that the duties on American agricultural machinery have been greatly increased, while this commodity from England has been put on the free list, does not mean much to this country, for the exports of agricultural machinery are very limited. If, however, there were any certainty that the present law would continue, the British tractor industry would receive a great impetus.

While there is much uncertainty, there is apparently no bitterness against Canada on the part of the British exporters. They say that so long as the preferential system continues, England cannot complain of the increases, but they do not agree with Premier Bennett that the new rates will not increase the cost of commodities in Canada. On the contrary, they say, the higher prices will be passed on to the consumer.

Incidentally, these same English business men lay the blame for the whole situation to the tariff system of the United States. They look upon the move primarily as an economic war between Canada and the United States, precipitated by the

BRIAND PRAISES SELECTION

Says Co-Author of Peace Pact Would Play Exceptional Role in Case of Grave Conflict.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—Frank B. Kellogg, co-author of the Kellogg-Briand pact, which often is described from the League Assembly platform as "the great contract between the members of the League and the United States" supplementing and strengthening the League covenant, was elected this morning as a judge of the World Court to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles Evans Hughes. He was elected on the first ballot by the Assembly and Council sitting separately.

Foreign Minister Briand of France said tonight in warmly welcoming the result that it would be of great importance to have Mr. Kellogg on the World Court bench in case a grave conflict came before it.

"The election of Mr. Kellogg has caused me the greatest satisfaction," he said, "not only because I consider his profound acquaintance with international affairs calls him to his high functions but because I consider him fitted by the personal prestige attached to his name to play an altogether exceptional rôle in case of a grave conflict coming before the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Recalls Work for Peace.

"I cannot forget the great part Mr. Kellogg has taken in the establishment of the mechanism of peace in the world. During our long negotiations I always found his views broad and far-seeing. He showed no hesitation in pledging himself to go forward when the great cause of world peace was at stake. In his new functions he will find every opportunity to make the most beneficial use both of his great ability and his great name."

Referring to the fact that Mr. Kellogg would be the second American former Secretary of State to accept a World Court judgeship and the third internationally prominent American to sit on that bench, the first one being John Bassett Moore, M. Briand added:

"I am very glad to see the United States maintain its tradition of sending men of the highest rank to the Permanent Court of International Justice."

That fact caused similar comment in many circles here today, for it is generally recognized that no other country has in this respect a record equal to that of the greatest non-member of the World Court.

M. Briand's reference to the rôle Mr. Kellogg would play in case of a grave conflict coming before the court calls attention to the fact that any such conflict would almost be certain to involve interpretation of the Briand-Kellogg pact. It is thought here that the co-author's interpretation of that instrument not only would be an additional safeguard to peace but would play an influential part in assuring that the League and the United States would work together to maintain peace.

Before Mr. Kellogg's election the Assembly filled the places in the Council vacated by Cuba, Finland

Wilbur Renames Boulder Dam for Hoover And Starts Work on $165,000,000 Project

By The Associated Press.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 17.—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, today formally started work on the $165,000,000 Boulder Dam, and announced that the Colorado River project would be known as the Hoover Dam in honor of the President.

Announcement of a name to be attached to the huge engineering feat was made by Secretary Wilbur after he sledged a spike of Nevada silver into a railroad tie. The railroad will be used to haul material to the dam site.

"I have the honor," he said, "to name this dam after a great engineer who really started this greatest project of all time—the Hoover Dam."

The blows resounded in the desolate desert seven miles from here as the Cabinet member pinned down a ninety-pound rail upon the twenty-two mile branch of the Union Pacific Line.

Officials from six Colorado River Basin States—Nevada, California, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Wyoming—attended the ceremony.

"This is one of man's greatest victories over nature," Secretary Wilbur said in his brief dedicatory address. "It is as if our country suddenly had a new State added to it, for a new and wider use of this controlled water will care for millions of people and create billions of wealth."

He expressed belief the project would be paid for by the power it developed, but that, of even more importance, the waters of the river would be "brought to the home and the field after the water has earned its way through the whirl of the dynamo."

The celebration was the occasion of a reunion of the engineering, political and financial leaders who have waged a ten-year fight to bring the project to fruition.

In Las Vegas it became, perhaps, one of the last great pioneer scenes in the West, with veteran desert rats, gaming tables and hurdy-gurdies much in evidence.

Hoover Works on 4 Speeches, Aiming to Keep Out Politics

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—President Hoover devoted practically all of today to work on the four speeches he is to deliver during the first week of October. He had only two callers and abandoned practically everything else.

His secretaries left early, followed by the stenographers, and Mr. Hoover shut himself in his offices for concentration on his addresses, which are reported to be nearly completed.

The President, it has been said at the White House, will seek to avoid any statement to which a political twist might be given. This, it is thought, explains the pains he is taking in preparing his addresses.

PRISONER SAYS RING STOLE CARS TO ORDER

Former Yale Man Admits Score of Expensive Autos Were Taken by Gang Here.

A BUYER AIDS IN CAPTURE

Organized Sales Methods So Efficient "Prospects" Never Suspected Thefts.

The existence of a ring specializing in the theft of costly automobiles which they sold to prominent men and women and frequently "stole to order" is said by the police to have been disclosed yesterday with the arrest of William Stanley Hayes, 44 years old, of 305 West Seventy-second Street, described as a Yale graduate and member of a well-to-do New Haven family.

The method employed by the ring, it was said, was to locate "prospects," persons who were considering buying a car, then send a salesman to see them. If the ring happened to have in its possession already the kind of a car the prospect wished to buy, a demonstration was given at once and the prospective buyer told that the owner of the car had been compelled to sell it because of heavy financial losses in the market crash.

If, however, the make of car desired was not already available, it was pointed out, the ring would "steal it to order"; that is, they would steal the exact make and model of the car desired and drive it around to the prospect's door for a demonstration. Usually, the police said, they had no trouble disposing of their cars, as they sold them at prices well below the market figure.

Buyer Aids in Capture.

Hayes was arrested yesterday afternoon at Broadway and Forty-first Street by Detective Brady of the automobile squad on the specific charge of having stolen a Packard sedan belonging to William A. Lane, Deputy Commissioner of Jurors in Brooklyn, from in front of the Lane home at 244 East Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, on June 30. Subsequently the license plates on the car were changed, the motor numbers altered and it was sold to Wilson Baden, employed in the promotion department of The New York Herald Tribune.

Mr. Baden, who bought the car in good faith, learned only a few days ago that it had been stolen. He volunteered to aid the police in locating the "high-power" salesman who had sold him the car. Yesterday he was walking in Forty-first Street with Detective Brady when at Broadway they encountered Hayes. The latter was pointed out as the man sought, arrested and taken to police headquarters.

There, according to Detective Sergeant Bernard J. Dowd of the automobile squad, Hayes admitted that he and two other men had been members of a ring of automobile thieves that had stolen more than a score of expensive cars in the last four months. Thirteen of these cars have been recovered by the police from reputable owners, the majority of them living in fashionable residential sections of Long Island, New Jersey and Connecticut.

In every case, Sergeant Dowd said, the original license plates had been removed and engine numbers changed. The method of selling the cars was so well organized that the buyers never suspected that stolen cars were being sold to them.

Hayes is said to have told the police that the ring operated also in Chicago, and it was reported that Scarface Al Capone was one of the prime movers. But when Sergeant Dowd was questioned last night regarding this report he declared that there was nothing to it. "Capone," he said, "has not been connected with the case in any way."

Fails to Identify Others.

When Detective Brady arrested him, Hayes is said to have protested his innocence at first and to have insisted that the cars he sold were

EWALD, HEALY BALK AT IMMUNITY WAIVER; TESTIMONY BARRED

Grand Jury, After Declining to Hear Them, Begins Examining Their Bank Accounts.

QUESTIONS SIX OTHERS

Peter Eckert Repeats Loan Story—Anxiety Reported in Political Circles.

CRAIN TO CALL MRS. CRATER

Dissatisfied With Her Replies to His Questionnaire—Justice Is Hunted in Nova Scotia.

The extraordinary grand jury investigating the charge that former Magistrate George F. Ewald paid $10,000 to Martin J. Healy, a Tammany leader, for his appointment declined to hear either of them yesterday after they refused to waive immunity.

Without wasting ten minutes of their time, the grand jurors proceeded to seek evidence against them in canceled checks and photostatic copies of bank records. After hearing six other witnesses, including four bank employes, the grand jury adjourned until today, when Mrs. Bertha E. Ewald, the former magistrate's wife, and Thomas T. Tommaney, the alleged intermediary in the transaction that preceded Ewald's appointment in 1927, are expected also to refuse to waive immunity.

Special Prosecutor Hiram C. Todd, who is conducting the inquiry for Attorney General Hamilton Ward, made it clear that all witnesses who are unwilling to sign waivers when asked will be excused from testifying but will be regarded with suspicion.

The practice of the special prosecutor in asking all the political leaders thus far summoned to sign away their privilege of immunity from prosecution before testifying, is causing some uneasiness in Tammany circles, it became known, because of the possible scope of the investigation now under way as outlined by Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook in his charge.

Similar Inquiries Required a Year.

It is regarded as almost certain now that the special grand jury, called into being by Governor Roosevelt after District Attorney Crain failed to obtain indictments in the Healy-Ewald case from a county grand jury, will go into the "system" of office bartering, as Justice McCook said was its right. Similar bodies in times past have remained in office for a year or more.

Legal authorities pointed out that once a witness had waived immunity the waiver remained in force for the whole term of the grand jury. He may, however, refuse to answer questions on the ground that "new matter" is involved, but then it would be for Justice McCook to decide whether the matter were new or old.

In his charge to the jury, his only qualification, when he told the grand jurors they had the right to investigate other phases of "the system," was that first they must be convinced that Ewald's purchase of his appointment was in accordance with that system. There are virtually no precedents in decisions of the Court of Appeals in similar cases.

Sheriff Thomas Farley, leader of the Fourteenth District, who was one of the first witnesses before the grand jury, cheerfully signed a waiver. John Mara, leader of the Twenty-third, did so yesterday when his turn came. City Clerk Michael Cruise, one of the leaders of the Twelfth, is expected to do likewise today when his name is reached. None of them, with the possible ex-

CAPITAL SEES BIG WET GAIN IN PRIMARIES WITH UNREST AIDING IN UPSETS OF DRYS; LEADERS IN QUANDARY ON TUTTLE STAND

Drys Pledge a United Front Against Repeal; Say Enemies Seek to Destroy the Constitution

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A pledge of united opposition to those who attempt to repeal or nullify the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted today at a meeting of the executive committee of the National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment.

Taken in connection with the defeat of Representatives Cramton and Hudson in the Michigan primaries, the recent "wet" statements of Governor Roosevelt and Charles H. Tuttle in New York and the movements in other States toward dry law modification or repeal, the action was regarded as of considerable political importance.

The declaration read in part:

"On this seventeenth day of September, the one hundred and forty-third anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States by the Fathers who drafted it, we congratulate the country on the maintenance of our Charter of Liberty against assaults from without and attacks from within.

"Believing in the success of national prohibition, so completely proved by the blessings it has brought to the American people that our most bitter opponents dare not advocate the restoration of the saloon, we declare our purpose to resist to the last every effort to repeal the amendment by which the liquor traffic is outlawed—the sure bulwark that blocks the way to the return of the saloon.

"Protesting against nullification of the Constitution by repeal of the legislation. State and national, which supports the amendment, and denouncing law violation as a means of restoring the drink traffic, we call upon the patriotic citizens to join with us in our refusal to surrender to those enemies of the Constitution, who, by these means, seek its destruction.

"We pledge ourselves anew to the President of the United States and all other officers who, in accordance with their solemn oaths of office, devote themselves to the preservation of the Constitution and the maintenance of law and order."

Secretary Says Revolutionary Governments Are Pledged to Meet Obligations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — The United States will formally recognize the provisional governments of Argentina, Bolivia and Peru tomorrow.

Secretary Stimson announced today that instructions had been sent to Robert Woods Bliss, the United States Ambassador at Buenos Aires, and to Fred Morris Dearing, Ambassador at Lima, to resume normal diplomatic relations. Edward F. Feely, United States Minister accredited to Bolivia, has been directed to present his credentials to the provisional government there and resume normal diplomatic relations.

The decision to accord recognition was announced by Secretary Stimson in the following statement:

"I have directed Mr. Bliss, our Ambassador to Argentina, to resume normal diplomatic relations with the provisional Argentine Government: and have directed Mr. Dearing, our Ambassador to Peru, to resume normal diplomatic relations with the provisional Peruvian Government: and have directed Mr. Feely, our Minister accredited to Bolivia, to present his letters of credence and resume normal diplomatic relations with the provisional Bolivian Government. This is to be done tomorrow, Sept. 18.

TUTTLE'S MOVE ADDS TO PARTY'S PROBLEM

Leaders Face Task of Making a Wet Declaration That Will Not Offend Drys.

PROSECUTOR IN SECLUSION

Despite His Request "Not to Be Considered" His Nomination Is Deemed Likely.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, after defying dry sentiment within his own party by coming out for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, has gone into seclusion at his camp on Lake George, threatening to cut all telephone wires behind him.

He has left the leaders of his party with a problem on their hands. They were laboring over it yesterday, but it was said that if a solution can be reached it would probably not be until on the very eve of the Republican State convention, which will meet at Albany a week from today. The problem over which the leaders will burn midnight oil is how to reconcile Mr. Tuttle's statement with a platform declaration on prohibition that may not prove too offensive to the Republican drys up-State and which will cause the minimum of embarrassment to candidates running for Congress, Senate and Assembly, as well as local offices who will depend for their success at the polls on distinctly dry constituencies.

For all the blunt wetness of Mr. Tuttle's statement on prohibition and his declaration that he did not want "to be considered" when nominations become the order of business at the convention next week, a belief persists among the most influential of the Republican party leaders that Mr. Tuttle's nomination for Governor on the first ballot is more than a possibility and that the views he expressed on the wet and dry issue will meet with joyful acclaim from a substantial wet majority of the delegates who will sit in the convention.

Press Is Divided.

Editorial comment in newspapers up-State yesterday on Mr. Tuttle's statement in favor of repeal was divided between praise and disapproval, with opposition somewhat in the preponderance. Newspapers of the Gannett chain up-State, such as The Utica Observer-Dispatch and The Albany Evening News, declared that Mr. Tuttle's views on prohibition would involve him in inevitable defeat and that the Republicans should nominate a dry.

One development during the day was a report that William J. Maier, chairman of the Republican State Committee, would not offer himself as a candidate for re-election to the position he now holds when the new State committee meets to organize at Albany next week, with the State convention in progress. The report came on seemingly good authority.

Mr. Tuttle before he took his de-

Bandits Rob Lincoln (Neb.) Bank of $40,000; Onlookers Took Them for Armed Messengers

Special to The New York Times.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 17.—Five unmasked bandits, armed with machine guns, held up the Lincoln National Bank a few minutes after it opened at 10 o'clock this morning and took $20,000 in currency and a like amount of securities.

The robbers escaped in an automobile which had waited under guard of one of the band armed with a machine gun.

Another machine gun was taken into the bank and trained on the employes and patrons. While one of the robbers went through the cages scooping up money, two went to the basement and made Florence Zeiser, the assistant trust officer, open the vault. The other officers and every one in the bank were forced to lie on the floor.

Philip L. Hall, the cashier, and Vice President W. E. Barkley were struck on the head by one of the bandits when they tried to argue with him. Mr. Hall was dazed, and Mr. Barkley's head was so badly cut that several stitches were required to close the wound. Mr. Barkley is president of Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank.

The bandits carried out boxes and bags of currency and got into their car with so little haste that many people in the street did not at once realize that a robbery had been committed.

An observer from a window across the street saw money bags being carried out, but thought from the manner of the men that they were taking funds to another bank. The bandit left with the car seemed to heighten that impression as he prevented people from coming near the bank. At one time a patrolman and a detective approached in a car, but drove on while the bandit handled the machine gun threateningly.

The alarm was given by a woman who was stopped by the man outside when she wanted to enter the bank. She ran into the nearest store and told the manager to telephone to the police, which he did.

Sounding the siren of their car, the bandits sped out of town and were sighted at a number of places south of Lincoln. They were reported to have gone into Saline County, adjoining Lancaster County on the southwest.

DEMPSEY DEFEAT STRESSED

Curran Claims Score Over Prohibition in It—Says Tuesday Was "a Very Damp Day."

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The results of yesterday's primaries in several States, the last before the November election, and in which intense interest was shown in political quarters here today, were "spotty" in their political significance, but it is pretty generally agreed that, as far as the prohibition issue was concerned, the wets had the better of it.

"Yesterday was really a very damp day," was the cheerful comment of President Henry H. Curran of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The wet-dry question, however, was not the only issue which figured in these party contests. If some veteran political experts here are to be accepted as competent to analyze the state of popular mind, there is running throughout the country a feeling of unrest, a desire for change, which, these observers contend, is in consonance with a similar reaction among the peoples in various parts of the world.

In this connection it was pointed out by one of the most experienced politicians that upsets of political fortunes or modification of party policies, which yesterday's and recent primaries have demonstrated, were in accord with what has been taking place politically in Germany, Canada and some of the Latin-American Republics.

Economic Factors in Upsets.

Economic depression, unemployment, the new tariff, the havoc of the prolonged drought and the failure of the Farm Board to adopt measures which satisfy farmers in parts of the West, some or all, have been playing a part in many of the intra-party battles.

In certain sections, the administration of President Hoover has figured prominently in the campaigns, and it is apparent that when the two parties cross swords in the near future, with their parrying and thrusting to continue until election day, all the conditions mentioned, together with prohibition, must be discussed by the contestants in many Senatorial, Congressional and Gubernatorial struggles.

Outstanding in importance in these primaries, judging by the eager attention given to them here, were the results in the Republican battles over the Senatorial nomination in Massachusetts and the Gubernatorial nomination in Wisconsin.

The victory of former Senator William M. Butler, a dry, over his wet opponent, Eben S. Draper, who made prohibition the chief issue, was interpreted here as meaning that the Republican party in Massachusetts was opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or modification of the Volstead act, but not excessively so, as Mr. Butler appears to have won the prize by a plurality of something less than 10,000.

As the third contestant, Mayor "Bossy" Gillis of Newburyport, running on a wet platform, polled more than 22,000 votes. It is being contended that if Mr. Gillis had remained out of the race Mr. Butler would have been defeated by his anti-prohibitionist rival. In other words, the combined vote of the two wets, Draper and Gillis, exceeded that of Butler by about 15,000.

Such being the case, there is ground for disputing the claim that the Republican party in Massachusetts is dry. Against this disputant suggestion is to be considered the fact that Governor Frank G. Allen, an outstanding dry, was renominated over merely negligible opposition, but without the wet-dry question figuring as an issue.

La Follette Victory Scrutinized.

Considerable significance was attached to the fact that Philip La Follette, who is younger than his brother, the 35-year-old Senator Robert M. La Follette, won the Gubernatorial nomination in Wisconain over a formidable rival, Governor Walter J. Kohler. The Democrats and other anti-Hooverites took great comfort out of Governor Kohler's defeat, for the La Follette faction had made, as a main issue of the primary campaign, the personality and administrative acts of President Hoover and had contended that the Governor was the President's man.

As Senator La Follette put it in supporting his brother's cause, President Hoover had no more ardent supporter than Governor Kohler. They were hitched in double harness, he asserted.

Chairman Jouett Shouse of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee, was quick to take advantage of this by calling attention to a press dispatch from Milwaukee today saying that the party leaders at Governor Kohler's headquarters attributed the Governor's defeat to the "burden of carrying Hoover."

Mr. Shouse said that, as the contest in Wisconsin was a Republican fight, he preferred to leave comment to the Republicans. But no comment was forthcoming from the headquarters of the Republican National Committee. It was said there that the committee had consistently refrained from expressing itself with regard to primary contests between Republicans. There was no comment obtainable at the White House.

Wet Trend Generally Granted.

That yesterday's primaries in both major parties emphasized prior indications of the manner in which the wet cause is gaining strength seems to be a pretty fair estimate of the way political observers here appraised the outcome.

The recent action of the Illinois Republican convention in modifying the previous dry position of the party in the State, and the acceptance of that modification by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the candidate for Senator, followed by the anti-prohibition declaration of Governor Roosevelt of New York and yesterday's somewhat similar announcement by District Attorney Tuttle, who was generally regarded as having a superior chance of obtaining the Gubernatorial nomination from the New York Republican convention, had furnished a foundation for the erection of a considerable wet superstructure through the outcome of the primaries.

Through President Curran, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment was unable to conceal its glee over the success of wet candidates. A rather formidable list of wet victories was listed in the statement issued in Mr. Curran's name.

"To sum it all up without touching on other lively and contemporaneous incidents," he said, "the drys have not won a single seat in the primaries for the next House of Representatives, but the wets have increased their repeal representation in the House by thirty-seven Congressmen, and there are more to come on election day."

In Wisconsin, both contenders for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination were wet. In Massachusetts, while the Republican nominees for Senator and Governor are dry, their opponents, chosen in the Democratic primary, are wets; and this is regarded as significant in view of a widespread impression that, like 1928, this may be a Democratic year in the Bay State.

Delaware Wet-Dry Fight.

Contrary to expectations, Delaware Democrats in their convention chose former Senator Thomas F. Bayard, avowed wet, for their Senatorial candidate, over Josiah Marvel, president of the American Bar Association, supported by the drys. More than that, the Delaware Democrats launched Mr. Bayard's candidacy on a platform calling for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Thus in Delaware, as in Massachusetts, the contest between the two parties will be a straight-out battle between the wets and the drys, for the Delaware Republican nominee for Senator, the incumbent Daniel O. Hastings, is a dry running on a straight-out prohibition platform.

Satisfaction was expressed also by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment over the renomination of Representative A. Piatt Andrew, Republican, in the Massachusetts primaries. His opponent, to quote the association's statement, was "a very dry person."

Mr. Andrew, who is sponsor for a Congressional resolution to continue the President's Law Enforcement Commission for two years, with instructions to declare itself on the efficacy, or the contrary, of prohibition enforcement at the end of that period, was set down by the anti-prohibition organization as for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Added to this showing in behalf of anti-prohibition sentiment is the action of the Connecticut Republican Convention in adopting a platform plank calling for the restoration of liquor control to the States. At the same time, the convention nominated a dry for Governor.

The other side of the shield is in the fact that, in addition to the triumph of the drys in the Republican Senatorial contest in Massachusetts and the renomination of some dry Representatives in that and other States, five up-State dry members of Congress were renominated in the Republican primaries in New York. Among the wets the disposition is to attribute their victories partly to the fact that they had the advantage of holding office and were well known to their party constituencies and in addition had organization support.

Two dry Representatives in Congress, Merlin Hull and Edward E. Browne, were beaten for renomination in the Republican primaries in Wisconsin. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, in its statement, expressed satisfaction over this and also showed its joy over the defeat of Representative S. Wallace Dempsey of Lockport, N. Y., one of the veterans in Congress. The statement referred to him as "old dry Dempsey."

According to the understanding here, Mr. Dempsey, whose district includes part of the city of Buffalo, never made a definite declaration on the prohibition question, but he has had a dry record in Congress. At any rate, he was accused by his wet opponent of being on the dry side and the prohibition issue was very much stressed in the campaign.

Mr. Shouse for the Democratic national organization carefully avoided any reference to the wet-dry issue in Mr. Dempsey's district, but found the tariff a reason for the Representative's downfall within his own party.

Shouse's Comment on Dempsey.

The defeat of Mr. Dempsey was "perhaps the most interesting" of the results of the Republican primaries, according to Mr. Shouse. Referring to Mr. Dempsey, he said:

"He is chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House and has been one of the recognized spokesmen of the Hoover Administration. It will be recalled that on his return from a recent trip abroad and after a conference with President Hoover, Mr. Dempsey issued a statement that, after an extended tour of Europe, he had learned 'there is no foreign feeling against the United States because of the enactment of the recent tariff bill.'"

Shouse Hopeful on Bay State.

Without mentioning how any of the Democrats nominated for public office yesterday stood on the prohibition question, Chairman Shouse praised Marcus A. Coolidge and Joseph B. Ely, the party's candidates for Senator and Governor in Massachusetts, and said that, with them "we have every right to anticipate a victory over William M. Butler and Frank G. Allen."

Mr. Shouse expressed himself as "equally delighted" with the nomination of Mr. Bayard in Delaware, and added that he thought the party was fortunate in having as a candidate "this distinguished scion of a family that has so often given men of high calibre to the public service."

"Perhaps," said Mr. Shouse, "the Republicans will attempt to comfort themselves and reassure their followers by citing the intense interest of the many candidates for these Democratic nominations as indicating that Democratic factionalism will continue into the campaign. My own feeling is that that interest and rivalry was indicative of confidence that nomination meant election, and there is no danger that these contests will have any other influence than to still further encourage the will for victory."

Speaking in behalf of the association against the prohibition amendment, Mr. Curran said:

"I know very well that we have still a long way to go before Congress catches up with the people on this question, but we are on our way and we cannot be stopped.

"I wonder how soon the Republican leaders in the North and the Democratic leaders in the South will wake up and decide to go along with this tidal wave of American public opinion, instead of trying to push it back. I think that at least these leaders will agree that yesterday was a very damp day."

Aquarium Gets New Supply Of Sea Water From Cape Cod

Visitors at the Aquarium need not be unduly sympathetic today nor shed salt tears over the captives. For since yesterday, when the freighter Frieda poured 125,000 gallons of pure Cape Cod sea water into the reservoirs the fish have been, in a saline way, among the richest in the world.

The city has for years scorned using neighboring water for this purpose, and this year when the time came for the annual change Captain Thulin of the Frieda, plying from Norfolk, Va., to New England, was asked to supply the water. After being aerated, the water is fed to the tanks as required.

ROOSEVELT STARTS NORTHERN TIER TOUR

Will Consider Campaign Strategy and Speeches Between Visits to Institutions.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

WHITEHALL, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Governor Roosevelt began mapping his final plans for the Democratic State Convention and the Fall campaign as he voyaged on Lake Champlain today aboard the yacht Inspector. He will travel as far north as Plattsburg. While he will visit several institutions, he will spend most of the next two days in resting and preparing for the intensive period ahead.

Campaign strategy and policy will be weighed by the Governor, and the latest developments in the State political situation will be surveyed with the idea of putting the Democratic program in accord with them.

While the Governor refrained from any comment on the statement of United States Attorney Tuttle favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, it was disclosed today that Democratic leaders are a bit mystified by Mr. Tuttle's assertion that he does not want to be considered a candidate for the nomination for Governor. While at first they were inclined to believe that he was gesturing, the fact that his statement was issued after a conference with Chairman Maier somewhat modified this opinion. Nevertheless, the general opinion is that Mr. Tuttle will be the Republican nominee, although the view is advanced that he might be genuinely desirous of holding off this year with the idea of becoming a candidate in 1932, when, in all likelihood, Mr. Roosevelt will not be a candidate for re-election, and, it being a Presidential year, the full Republican vote will be cast.

During his tour, the Governor, it is understood, will deliberate on his campaign addresses. It is believed that his policy will be to keep the wet issue fairly alive, but not make it predominant. It is reported that he will make at least one speech on the subject and in other ways make his position plain.

The Governor, Mrs. Roosevelt, their son Elliott and Miss Marguerite Lehand, the Governor's private secretary, motored to Schuylerville this morning and boarded the Inspector in the barge canal there. They were met at Comstock by officials of the Great Meadow prison and passed into Lake Champlain. They were to spend the night anchored off Port Henry.

Tomorrow the Governor will speak at a luncheon in Plattsburg and visit Clinton prison at Dannemora. He will motor back to the yacht at Westport and on Friday go down the lake and travel by car to a dinner at Glens Falls.

Returning to Albany Saturday, the Governor, after a week-end at Hyde Park, will complete his work at the capital in time to go to the Democratic convention in Syracuse. His nomination assured there without opposition, the Executive, according to tentative plans, will be presented to the convention by former Governor Smith.

The Democratic slate is complete except for the nominee for Attorney General and the opinion now is that Frank Clegg of Syracuse is the leading aspirant for that place.

CANCELS AIR CONTRACTS.

Argentina Grants Request of New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Line.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 17.—At the request of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Line, the government has canceled concessions granted to the company early this year for air mail routes to the United States via the east coast and to Santiago, Chile.

The office of the Pan American-Grace Airways, which recently purchased the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Company, said the cancellation of these concessions would not interfere with services and was a mere formality, since the Pan American-Grace company had purchased only the physical assets of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Company and not its contracts. A Pan-American plane will leave this city for Miami Sunday morning following the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires schedule.

PRESS IS DIVIDED ON TUTTLE'S STAND

Conditions Imposed Weaken Wet Proposal, Is One View Expressed Here.

STRATEGIC MOVE ALSO SEEN

Albany Newspaper Declares Statement Is a Challenge to Republican Drys.

Editorial comment of New York State papers on the stand taken by Charles H. Tuttle, United States Attorney, follows:

NEW YORK CITY.

Holds Conditions Weaken Stand.

The Herald Tribune.

Mr. Tuttle, who seems more likely than any other candidate to become the Republican nominee for Governor, has announced that he is in favor of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. So far so good. As in the case of Governor Roosevelt's statement along parallel lines, we welcome this forthright opposition to a measure which has no business in the Constitution of the United States and which, apart from its constitutional incongruity, violates the conception of State rights at the foundation of our system of government.

Unfortunately, however, Mr. Tuttle, following Mr. Roosevelt's lead, imposes conditions which weaken his stand. He would substitute for the Eighteenth Amendment another constitutional provision, which, while more liberal in character, would still narrowly restrict the States in dealing with the liquor problem. He fails to see that what the situation requires is not another sort of Federal dictation embodied in the organic law, but a return to the democratic principle of local autonomy. * * *

But the point is that the effort to make the Federal Government through its Constitution responsible for a single standard of liquor control throughout the entire nation can only lead to confusion. The simple remedy is straight repeal and the return to the States of the authority they possessed originally to deal with the problem each in its own way. This not only complies with the practical exigencies of the situation, but with the principles which underly the whole popular revolt against the present régime.

Evidence of Careful Strategy.

The New York World.

Mr. Tuttle has earned the respect and gratitude of the people of New York City, and if he is nominated for Governor he will make a powerful appeal to that section of the voters known formerly as "Al Smith Republicans," who since 1922 have held the balance of power in Gubernatorial elections. They will almost certainly feel that at this time the election of a wet Republican might further the movement for repeal more effectively than the election of a wet Democrat. They will feel too that the presence of a Tuttle at Albany may be the only effective way to set the forces in motion which will break the grip of Tammany on New York City.

If Mr. Tuttle is to make the best of his opportunities, he will have to do better than he did in his statement in yesterday's papers. That statement does not give an impression of entire candor and it is far from being clear. What, for example, is to be made out of Mr. Tuttle's remark that he does "not wish to be considered" for Governor? If Mr. Tuttle really does not wish to be considered he has only to use the classic American formula that he will not run if nominated or serve if elected. * * *

The platform itself shows more evidence of careful strategy than it does of clear thinking. Mr. Tuttle is for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but unfortunately in his desire to mollify the drys he has committed himself to another amendment which betrays a radical misunderstanding of the problem of prohibition. * * *

Mr. Tuttle's argument for a constitutional prohibition of the "saloon system" may serve for a while as a talking-point in placating some of the drys. But the intelligent drys will in the end be most impressed by a straightforward and realistic attitude on this question.

ALBANY.

A Challenge to Drys.

From The Knickerbocker Press.

Considered in relation to attending circumstances, the Tuttle announcement amounts to a challenge to the Republican drys. * * * For Mr. Tuttle's ability, his sincerity, and his achievements in office, The Knickerbocker Press has a high respect. But he has chosen to affront the conscientious and profoundly persuaded prohibition element in his party. We do not believe his political fortunes have been advanced by so doing. Certainly, the dry element will not accept him, nor follow his leadership.

TROY.

Can Hardly Be Criticized.

From The Times.

Mr. Tuttle's declaration will have wide attention and can hardly be adversely criticized. Even the Anti-Saloon League cannot well find fault with it, since his positive stand against the saloon system is in conformity with the purpose that is proclaimed in the name of the organization.

MIDDLETOWN.

Views of Great Importance.

From The Times-Herald.

Mr. Tuttle's position with respect to the Eighteenth Amendment is of great importance at the moment. He is, in spite of the reiterated wish not to be considered, the leading candidate for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination in Albany next week. His statement, in view of his circumstance, makes it virtually impossible for certain timorous leaders to ignore or sidetrack the issue of prohibition repeal. * * * As the situation exists today the nomination is virtually certain to fall to Mr. Tuttle, and the party convention can hardly fail to provide a declaration of principles according with his views.

BINGHAMTON.

Detects Note of Regret.

From The Press.

One detects a note of regret in Mr. Tuttle's statement. He says he has reached his opinion very reluctantly. The regret will not be confined to Mr. Tuttle. Dry Republican leaders are also likely to regret that he has gone as far as he has in a forthright call for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the return to the States of the determination in such matters.

UTICA.

"Leaf From Socialist Platform."

From The Observer Dispatch.

Like Governor Roosevelt, he [Mr. Tuttle] takes a leaf from the Socialist platform. He says take the profit out of the liquor traffic and let the government handle the business. That is the heart of socialism,

"Lack of Political Discernment."

From The Daily Press.

The Tuttle statement showed a surprising lack of political discernment, for he was the party's strongest candidate and his exposure of graft gave the Republicans the best opening for a winning issue for years. He destroyed the opportunity by his stand on prohibition, and if he were nominated the fanatical drys would probably nominate a dry and defeat him.

ROCHESTER.

Encouragement for Wets.

From The Democrat and Chronicle.

Mr. Tuttle's announcement will encourage the element in the party which has been urging the adoption of a platform in the State convention calling for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The theory has been advanced that if the two great parties take a similar stand on prohibition the State campaign can be fought on other issues and prohibition ignored. But it will remain true that the friends of prohibition have more to hope for from the Republicans, both as regards enforcement and also the problems raised by the agitation for the repeal of the amendment, than from the Democrats, because the bulk of the dry votes are in the Republican party, and the bulk of the wet votes are in the Democratic party.

BUFFALO.

Sees Honesty of Purpose.

From The Courier-Express.

Mr. Tuttle's stand on the prohibition question can be considered as notice to the leaders of the Republican party in this State that his convictions are no longer dry and that if made a candidate for Governor there must be no misunderstanding of his position. * * * Mr. Tuttle's statement indicates an honesty of intelligence and of purpose which ought to be an example to others of prominence in his party. Prohibition is our most vexing "problem of government." No right solution of it can be reached, however, so long as sly poltiicians find they can win victories by looking two ways at one and the same time. * * * The people are getting tired of over-lords who vote dry and drink wet.

WATERTOWN.

Foresees Tuttle Defeat.

From The Daily Times.

We cannot see how he can hope to be elected after his statement. He has taken the bait which Mr. Roosevelt and the Democratic political leaders handed out to him when they planned the Roosevelt statement. He has gone with with the wet Democratic party when he must appeal to the dry up-State to elect him.

JAMESTOWN.

His Experience Significant.

From The Evening Journal.

It is significant that his experience in connection with the enforcement of prohibition has led him to favor its abandonment, and his stand on prohibition should not remove him from the field of Gubernatorial candidates.

Unfortunate for Party.

From The Morning Post.

It is most unfortunate for the Republican party and the cause of law enforcement that he should have seen fit to follow Governor Roosevelt in declaring for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. Tuttle says he does not wish to be considered for the Republican nomination for Governor. In view of the unequivocal position he has taken on a vital issue, we believe the State convention should take him at his word.

COMMISSION OPENS SAMOA INQUIRY TODAY

Investigation by Congressional Group Is Expected to Lead to Self-Government.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, Sept. 17.—Investigatiton of the conditions in American Samoa, which is expected to result in the drafting of an organic act for self-government in the South Sea Islands, will begin here tomorrow, following the arrival today of the Congressional commission headed by Senator Hiram Bingham. Other members who came aboard the cruiser Omaha, are Senator J. T. Robinson of Arkansas and Representatives C. L. Beedy of Maine and Guinn Williams of Texas.

Three public hearings will be held here at which witnesses with constructive suggestions to offer will present their views. Special invitations have been extended to L. A. Thurston, Honolulu publisher, and Bruce Cartwright, who have made special studies of the local conditions.

According to Senator Bingham, the attitude of the commission is one of complete open-mindedness. "We are approaching the problem with no preconceived notions," he said today. "We have no platform with orders to sign. We sincerely hope to be able to reach an agreement satisfactory to the chiefs of Samoa as to the principles which should be embodied in the organic law. We shall make recommendations to Congress, and the further procedure will be up to that body."

The Omaha will depart on Saturday for a six-day voyage to Pago-Pago. The return trip will start about twelve days after the arrival there. Albert F. Judd, Honolulu lawyer, will accompany the commission as its legal adviser.

TO INSTALL DR. NEWMAN.

Congregation Rodeph Sholom Welcomes Its New Rabbi Tomorrow.

The Rev. Dr. Louis I. Newman, for the last six years rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, San Francisco, will be installed tomorrow evening as rabbi of the Congregation Rodeph Sholom, Eighty-third Street, near Central Park West. When he left the Pacific Coast, Dr. Newman was the guest at a farewell function given by the Commonwealth Club, the largest community organization in the West.

Rabbi Newman will succeed the Rev. Dr. Rudolph Grossman, who died in 1927 after serving as the rabbi for thirty years. The present temple was completed and dedicated some months ago. The congregation was formerly on the east side. Its president is Ernest J. Wile. Addresses of induction will be delivered tomorrow by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue and Rabbi Nathan Krass of Temple Emanu-El. Rabbi Newman will preach on "The Indwelling Presence of God." Before he went to San Francisco Dr. Newman was associate rabbi with Dr. Wise here.

parture declined to amplify his statement of Tuesday in any way.

"I said all that I care to say on the subject in my statement and now I am going away for a brief holiday," the United States Attorney said with a smile.

A Dry Only Alternative.

As summed up by one prominent party leader, the situation confronting the Republicans is this. If they should turn Mr. Tuttle down, it would obviously be on account of the views expressed in his statement. Under the circumstances they could not very well pick any candidate for Governor except one politically dry or willing to run on a platform containing a prohibition plank straddling that important issue. They are well aware that this would spell inevitable defeat, especially in a year when New York City, if the Republicans are to make the most of the Tuttle disclosures, must be made the foremost battleground in the coming campaign.

They know that with the preponderance of wet sentiment among the local Republicans, any Republican candidate for Governor, except a pronounced wet, would be bound to suffer for his lack of wetness at the polls in this city. In addition to that, they are confronted with the fact that to make the most of the Tammany disclosures the party needs Mr. Tuttle who better than anybody else is in a position to dramatize what the Republicans are compelled to make the dominant issue in their fight to dislodge Governor Roosevelt and the Democrats from control of the State Administration.

While it may be stated on good authority that most of the influential Republican leaders are fully convinced that the nomination of Mr. Tuttle would afford their party its only chance to win and are determined to leave nothing undone to induce him to accept the nomination and in the framing of a platform plank on prohibition to conform with his views, the names of Attorney General Hamilton Ward and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies loomed yesterday as possibilities in the discussion of Gubernatorial timber, in the event these efforts should fail.

Ward Sees Maier.

Attorney General Ward has been a frequent visitor at Republican State headquarters during the last few days and he was there again yesterday for a conference with William J. Maier, chairman of the Republican State Committee. Their talk was behind hermetically closed doors, but Chairman Maier said that they had discussed nothing of political portent. Speaker McGinnies has been sent for and Chairman Maier said he would arrive in this city tomorrow.

Mr. Ward, after he left Chairman Maier's inner sanctum, declined to be interviewed on the prospect that he might be the Republican nominee for Governor. He said his official duties were keeping him very busy at present. He also remained silent when asked whether, in the event that he should not be named for the place at the head of the ticket, he would be willing to accept renomination to his present office.

"I may have something to say on that subject within a few days," Mr. Ward said.

Asked to define his views on the wet and dry issue, the Attorney General said:

"I would rather not discuss that question just now."

Mr. McGinnies has already made it known that he favors a platform containing no, or only casual, reference to prohibition, in accordance with the dry formula sponsored by William H. Hill, leader in the dry Southern tier, and some other up-State leaders of his way of thinking. Mr. Hill has already come out for Mr. Tuttle, however, and nothing that he said yesterday gave indication that he was willing to desert him, the wet statement notwithstanding.

Maier a Factor.

Opposition to Mr. Tuttle's candidacy on the part of Chairman Maier, as the head of the Republican State Committee, makes him a leader to be reckoned with. The opposition has been attributed to fears on the part of Mr. Maier that in the event of Mr. Tuttle's nomination some one might be selected to supersede him in the position of influence and responsibility he has been filling for a little more than a year.

Yesterday friends of Mr. Maier were most insistent that these suspicions were doing the Republican State chairman grave injustice and denied that he had done anything to place obstacles in the way of the nomination of Mr. Tuttle or pursued any policy with regard to his boom to which friends of Mr. Tuttle could take exception. They maintained that in his position as head of the State committee Mr. Maier had persistently refused to take a stand in opposition or endorsement of any candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination.

Nothing could be learned from Chairman Maier to indicate whether the new State committee when it organizes next week would be in a position to draft him for continued service in a position he accepted with reluctance when it was tendered him last year, following the retirement of H. Edmund Machold.

Chairman Talks to Leaders.

Chairman Maier yesterday was in conference with a number of up-State party leaders, who either visited him at State headquarters in East Forty-second Street or called him on the long distance telephone. The all-absorbing topic was Mr. Tuttle's stand on prohibition, his statement that he did not want to be considered for the Gubernatorial nomination and the reaction to those among constituents of the leaders who talked with the State chairman Study was also given by Mr. Maier to the results of primary elections throughout the State and the editorial comment in newspapers up-State on Mr. Tuttle's statement, in their relation to the necessities of the coming State campaign.

Among leaders who called on Chairman Maier at headquarters yesterday were William H. Hill, Representative Bertrand H. Snell of St. Lawrence, Cyrus L. Durey, former Congressman and leader in the Fulton-Hamilton District, where a sensation was created some weeks ago by the announcement of Eberly Hutchinson, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and representative of the district in the lower house, that from being a pronounced wet, he had become a modificationist, in deference to a radical change of sentiment on the wet and dry question among his constituents. Senate Leader John Knight, Attorney General Ward and J. Wilbur Doughty, leader of the Republican forces in Nassau County, were other callers.

Hill to Fight Repeal.

Mr. Hill following his conference with Chairman Maier said that while Mr. Tuttle's pronunciamento in favor of strict observance and enforcement of the prohibition laws as long as they remained laws was worthy of commendation, his bloc of delegates from the southern tier would oppose a repeal plank.

"We will make a fight for all we are worth before the Committee on Resolutions against a repeal plank," Mr. Hill said. "If we are beaten, like good soldiers we will go along with the majority."

Representative Snell, who occupies a position of conspicuous influence in the House of Representatives as well as in the party organization in this State, could not be reached last night after his talk with the State Chairman. Mr. Maier said that in his talk with Mr. Snell, the latter had told him that he would be compelled to sound out sentiment in his district in the northern tier before he could take a stand on the Tuttle statement and what action should be taken as a result of his advocacy of repeal.

Chairman Maier said that very much the same attitude had been manifested by other party leaders with whom he had talked during the day, either in person or over the telephone. He said that probably the situation would not be clarified until the eve of the State convention, which will meet a week from today.

"I expect to be in Albany on Tuesday of next week when I shall have my opportunity to get the consensus of opinion among the leaders from up-State to enable me to take a definite stand in the matter of both candidate and platform. I have invited a number of the up-State leaders to come down and see me here, if they can come before Friday. I understand Speaker McGinnies will be down Friday morning."

Knight Working on Planks.

President pro tem. of the Senate John Knight had a long talk with the State chairman. Senator Knight is at work on certain planks of the tentative platform which is to be submitted to the committee on resolutions. Senator Knight was asked to give his reaction to the Tuttle statement.

"I do not want to say anything on the subject at present," he replied. "It would do no good for me to talk now. The convention is too close at hand. As I see it, that is where we ought to settle this question."

J. Wilbur Doughty, the veteran Republican leader of Nassau County, was less reticent.

"The fact that Mr. Tuttle has come out as a wet will not hurt him with the delegates from Nassau, if after a thorough sounding of sentiment among the Republicans up-State it should be found that they believe he would make a good candidate. Our delegates are unpledged and will go to the convention to support any candidate that the leaders after deliberation believe it will do the party the most good to nominate. We want to nominate the man who can make the strongest fight and gives most promise of victory."

Asked if he regarded Mr. Tuttle's statement that he did not want to be considered for the nomination as a refusal on his part to run, Mr. Doughty said:

"I do not so regard it; it merely indicates to me that Mr. Tuttle whom I have known for a great many years is a Republican first and does not want to force either himself or his views on the party, if not wanted. I think this attitude has placed him in the strongest possible position."

Another leader who had talked with Chairman Maier said he thought Mr. Tuttle's statement should be acceptable to the convention as a means of eliminating the wet and dry issue from the campaign, his views running practically parallel to those expressed by Governor Roosevelt, who will lead the Democratic fight.

He expressed the opinion that the convention would meet in an atmosphere very friendly to Mr. Tuttle's views on the whole and recalled that on the very eve of the convention there would be a meeting at Albany of the party leaders from the western and central parts of the State, who met at Syracuse last Saturday. This conference was held on initiative of Harry J. Bareham, Clarence King and Fred A. Bradley, leaders of Monroe, Onondaga and Erie Counties, respectively, and aimed at forming a bloc of wet delegates from the larger cities up-State, such as Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica and Albany.

Information was brought to the office of Mr. Tuttle yesterday that the Harding Republican Club of 168 East 105th Street, which is the regular Republican organization of the Eighteenth Assembly District, South, Tuesday night unanimously adopted a resolution offered by David R. Levy, acting Republican leader, favoring the nomination of Mr. Tuttle for Governor.

ATTACKS TUTTLE'S STAND.

Dr. R. P. Carroll Says Slump Has Been Accentuated by Noise of Wets.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP).—Dr. Robert P. Carroll, university professor, who will be supported as an independent candidate for Governor by the W. C. T. U. if the Republicans pick a wet candidate at the State Convention, today expressed "disappointment in the wet stand taken by Charles H. Tuttle."

The statement by the Professor of Psychology at Syracuse University is the first he has made since the meeting here Monday of the forty county W. C. T. U. organizations out of sixty-one, at which an agreement was made to throw the dry support to him if the Republicans choose a wet.

He declined to be interrupted in his work at the university, feeling that until something "definite is done there is no use of fussing."

"But I would like to give a statement," he said. "First, I am disappointed in the wet stand taken today by Charles H. Tuttle. Personally, I think there is little question he will be the Republican nominee.

"Secondly, I want to say that the present financial depression has been accentuated by the noise of the wets. They have forced the President, Congress, State Governors and Legislatures to concentrate on something which should not have been brought up but which should have been regarded as settled.

"Our President and State Governments have been forced to more or less neglect of really worthwhile issues of the day to turn their attention to this question forced upon them.

"I agree with others that the question of replacing some section of the Constitution does not logically come up in a Gubernatorial campaign. But since it has been thrust upon us we must face it."

DIVORCES KING BAGGOT.

Wife Accuses Movie Director of Habitual Intemperance.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17 (AP).—King Baggot, motion picture director, was divorced today by his wife, Ruth Considine Baggot, who accused her husband of habitual intemperance.

Mrs. Baggot complained that the director had been a "heavy drinker" all his life. Four years ago, she said, when her son, Robert King Baggot, reached the age of 13, she forced the issue.

"I told him when the boy came back from Summer camp to live with us," she said, "he would have to stop drinking or the boy and I would have to leave him. He did not stop and we left on Aug. 20, 1926."

Mrs. Baggot won the decree on the grounds of desertion. She testified she married the director at Fort Lee, N. J., Dec. 3, 1912.

The court approved a property settlement in which Baggot agreed to pay his wife $325 a week from the time of their separation and, in addition, one-half of all he earned over $850 a week. Baggot also agreed to pay $100 a month for the support of their son.

$159,000,0000 DROP IN REVENUE IN YEAR

Treasury Reports a Decline of $117,941,695 in 77 Days, as Compared With 1929.

EXPENSES ROSE $41,694,142

Average Daily Loss of $2,000,000 Seems Likely to End Hope of Keeping Tax Cut.

IMPROVED TREND EXPECTED

Department Believes Continuance of Decrease in Customs Receipts Is Improbable.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Loss of ground by the administration in its efforts to keep its finances in such condition as to permit the continuance of the 1 per cent reduction on normal income taxes after Dec. 31 was shown in treasury figures for the first seventy-seven days of the fiscal year 1931, made available today.

The net loss in the seventy-seven days, as compared with one year ago, was $159,635,837, brought about by a loss of $117,941,695 in revenue and an increase of $41,694,142 in expenses.

On Sept. 11, for which date a recapitulation was made by THE TIMES, the net loss for seventy-three days of the fiscal year was $135,270,269, made up of a decrease of $96,108,005 in revenues and an increase of $39,162,264 in expenses.

On the basis of the Sept. 15 figures, the treasury suffered an average daily net loss of about $6,000,000 between Sept. 11 and 15, and of more than $2,000,000 for the first seventy-seven days of the fiscal year 1931, as compared with its position in the same days in the previous year. As Sept. 15, 1929, fell on Sunday, the period covered last year was one day shorter, but this would not sharply affect the net loss.

That this rate will continue throughout the fiscal year 1931 is believed unlikely, as the treasury suffered severe losses in customs collections from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1930, the last six months of the fiscal year 1930, which officials are confident will not be faced in the period from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1931. In fact, they are confident that the customs collections in the last six months of the current fiscal year will considerably exceed those for the last six months of the fiscal year 1930, particularly if there is a sharp upturn of industrial activity, which will call for large importations of raw materials and also increase the purchasing power of the nation's population by providing fuller employment.

Income Tax Causes Worry.

The real worry on the part of experts now is that income tax collections will be greatly reduced in the period from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1931, even if the 1 per cent tax reduction should not be continued, for income taxes paid in that period will be assessed against corporate and individual incomes received in the calendar year 1930, during which many corporations have reduced or omitted dividends and suffered sharp curtailments of earnings, and individual incomes, because of unemployment and curtailed dividend payments, probably have shrunk sharply.

The income taxes which were paid in the last half of the fiscal year 1930 and those for the first half of the fiscal year 1931 were assessed against incomes for the calendar year 1929, which was one of exceptional prosperity and high earnings by corporations, despite the break in the security markets late in October.

Experts are not making any estimates officially as to the income tax payments which they expect to receive from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1931, but there is no effort to hide the fact that they are fearful that they will be considerably lower than those received during the same period one year ago, especially if the 1 per cent tax reduction program is continued.

Fall in Customs a Factor.

The net loss of $159,635,837 during the first seventy-seven days of the current fiscal year was caused chiefly by decrease in receipts of customs and income taxes. The former fell to $74,944,738 in the period this year, as compared with $135,343,611 in the same days a year ago, a loss of $60,398,873, while the latter totaled but $110,104,963 as compared with $147,889,385 one year ago, the loss being largely due to a shrinkage in back tax collections. All miscellaneous collections also fell about $8,000,000.

For the first fifteen days of September alone customs collections, at $16,662,400, were slightly more than $10,000,000 less than in the same days a year ago, and income tax collections at $54,239,239 were a little more than $26,000,000 lower.

By the purchase of an additional $20,000,000 of government 3½ per cent notes for the sinking fund the treasury improved its debt reduction to that extent, the operations in this classification representing additional debt receipts of $200,983,265 and expenditures to reduce the debt of $220,336,768 during the seventy-seven days.

The treasury also made available today a recapitulation of expenditures during the period from July 1 to Aug. 31, 1930. This showed departmental expenditures of $388,398,009, running approximately $19,000,000 ahead of the same two months a year ago, and all expenses, exclusive of public debt, at $483,395,771, about $27,000,000 greater.

PLOT TO BLOW UP JAIL AND ESCAPE IS FOILED

Negro Trusty Reports Plan of Six to Bomb Wall of County Prison in Newark.

A jailbreak plot, involving the blasting of the prison wall with nitroglycerine and the arming of prisoners with tear-gas bombs and revolvers, has been frustrated through the loyalty of a Negro trusty in the Essex County Jail at New and Newark Streets, Newark, Sheriff Harry Hulsenback announced yesterday.

Four men, the alleged outside aid of the plotting prisoners, are held at Police Headquarters in Newark following their arrest Tuesday afternoon. Six prisoners have been segregated as members of the group which plotted the break. A sister of one of the six prisoners was taken into custody, but was able to convince the authorities that she had come to the prison solely to visit her brother, and was released.

The Sheriff would give the names of only three of the six prisoners, they being the ones from whom he said confessions had been obtained. The name of a fourth prisoner also was learned, and Sheriff Hulsenback gave out the names of the four men held at Police Headquarters.

The men held at Police Headquarters are reported to be James Doherty, Howard Bowers, James McNay and Walter Kenny, all of New York. The prisoners involved were, according to the Sheriff, all members of the Arthur Cowan gang, recently arrested in connection with a series of robberies and now awaiting disposition of the charges against them. They included Joseph Sahm, Philip Donovan, James Gilroy and Walter Alberti.

The trusty was approached and arrangements were made with him to receive a load of coal in which the nitroglycerine, gas bombs and pistols were to be secreted by the outside group, the Sheriff said. The trusty was to receive the coal and turn the contraband over to the plotters. Instead he reported the plan to the prison authorities, it was said.

It was believed that yesterday had been fixed as the day for the delivery of the coal and the jailbreak.

CAVE MEN COLLECTED METEORITES IN EUROPE

But They Failed to Make Use of the Iron, Find in Czechoslovakia by Viennese Reveals.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—Meteorites that had fallen upon the earth so intrigued the ancient men who inhabited Middle Europe 20,000 years ago that they collected the heavy objects and put them into their caves. This has been discovered by Dr. Payr, director of the Vienna Historical Art Museum.

He found a cave at Troppau, Czechoslovakia, which apparently had been used as a headquarters, storehouse and workshop for the manufacture of stone weapons and implements, but the iron in the meteorites had not been made use of. Stone weapons were used in hunting mammoths.

The largest meteorite in the cave weighed sixteen pounds. These messages from the sky had been collected by ancient man either out of curiosity or superstition, but no attempt was made to utilize them either as tools or weapons, as is thought to have been done with meteorites some 15,000 years later. The collection has been removed to Landes Museum.

"It was a strange feeling," said Dr. Payr tonight, "to take in our hands these lumps of meteoric iron which had fallen from the heavens to the earth during the Glacial Age and were collected and handled by our forbears 20,000 years ago."

HEAT AND HUMIDITY GO.

One More Prostration Is Reported as City Gets Relief.

Cooler weather restored comfort to the city yesterday. The day's average temperature was 76 degrees, four lower than on Tuesday, and the humidity which had been a major cause of discomfort for several days vanished almost entirely after the rains of Tuesday evening and early yesterday morning.

The highest temperature was 83 degrees at 4:15 P. M. About this time James Ninmons, 63 years old, of 308 East 102d Street was overcome by the heat in front of 2,427 Grand Concourse, the Bronx. He was taken to Morrisania Hospital. No other prostrations were reported.

PRATT TAKES POST OF NAVY OPERATIONS

Succeeds Admiral Hughes as Chief as Latter's Resignation Is Effective.

RIFT ON ECONOMY DENIED

Adams Says Hughes, Who Is to Retire Soon, Supported Policy for Treaty Fleet.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Admiral William V. Pratt hauled down his four-starred flag as Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet today and immediately thereafter assumed his new duties of Chief of Operations in the Navy Department. At the same time the resignation of Admiral Charles F. Hughes, Chief of Operations since 1927, became effective.

Admiral Hughes will go on leave pending his retirement from active service a few weeks hence under the age limit provisions of the navy laws.

Reports that Admiral Hughes had resigned as Chief of Operations because of his opposition to the economy policies of the Navy Department were specifically denied during the afternoon by Secretary Adams, who said that Admiral Hughes, instead of opposing, was in favor of economy.

Admiral Pratt was informed months ago, during his attendance as one of the naval advisers at the London disarmament conference, that he would succeed Admiral Hughes as Chief of Operations. Admiral Hughes had suffered a paralytic stroke previous to this and was nearing the age for retirement.

Pratt Completed Manoeuvres.

Admiral Pratt was continued as Commander-in-Chief of the fleet for several months after the time set for his relinquishment of the command so that he could complete direction of the 1930 battle manoeuvres.

A large gathering of high-ranking officers was in the office of Secretary Adams for the brief ceremony of Admiral Hughes's retirement.

"Gentlemen," said Admiral Hughes, "I just want to say good-bye and to thank you for your loyal and cordial assistance, and I trust it will continue."

"I have nothing to say except that I am sorry to see Freddy go," Admiral Pratt said.

After Admiral Pratt was sworn in, the officers present, many of whom had served under Admiral Hughes in the department and in the fleet, filed past the retiring Chief of Operations and bade him farewell. In leaving the room they paid their respects to Admiral Pratt, who said afterward that he would begin work at once on the building program for a "treaty navy."

Pratt's Service at London.

At London Admiral Pratt was the chief navy man to support the American delegation's plan to reduce the strength of the United States 8-inch, 10,000-ton cruiser fleet to eighteen vessels and to compensate for the loss by the building of cruisers mounting 6-inch guns in their main batteries. This proposition, written into the naval treaty, was opposed by Admiral Hilary P. Jones and others. It is generally understood that Admiral Hughes's sympathies were with Admiral Jones in the controversy.

The new Commander-in-Chief of the Fleet is Admiral J. V. Chase, who relinquished the presidency of the general board and is succeeded in that post by Admiral Mark L. Bristol. Admiral Chase will leave Washington early in October for California waters, where he will hoist his flag on the battleship Texas.

Rear Admiral W. H. Standley, now Assistant Chief of Operations, will assume command of the destroyer squadrons of the fleet. Rear Admiral John Halligan, who so strenuously opposed the Fall oil reserve policies during the Harding Administration, is the new Assistant Chief of Operations.

Predicts Hudson Valley Frost Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

STONY POINT, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Major W. A. Welch, chief engineer and general manager of the Palisade Interstate Park system, who for years has kept close observation of weather conditions in the Hudson Valley, estimated today that the first frost in the area south of West Point will appear next week.

LAFOLLETTE THREAT TO BLAINE IN 1932

Senator May Lose Seat Then to Philip After Helping Him to Governorship.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 17.—Philip F. La Follette's smashing victory in the Republican primary yesterday, when he defeated Governor Walter Kohler for the Gubernatorial nomination by 110,000, leaves one prominent member of the La Follette camp on an anxious seat.

Senator John J. Blaine worked tooth and nail for "Fighting Bob" La Follette's second son in the primary campaign. His enthusiasm was explained readily by political observers on the theory that Mr. Blaine, if he sought re-election in 1932, as is expected, would face a formidable opponent if Mr. Kohler succeeded in defeating Philip La Follette.

Now, with the La Follette family dominating the State—the Progressives themselves admit the Gubernatorial nominee is so young and inexperienced that the big vote he polled is primarily a vote for his name—these same observers agree that Mr. Blaine's seat is none too secure, although the Kohler threat has been eliminated.

Philip La Follette has been known as more politically ambitious than his elder brother, Senator Robert M. La Follette. If he has a successful administration there is reason to expect that he will be ready to bid for advancement to the Senate in 1932.

Political observers say there is ample reason for supposing that, if the La Follettes should decide to carry a "brother act" to the Senate, Mr. Blaine would not be permitted to stand in the way. There is small reason to doubt, after yesterday's vote, that they have the power to shelve him if they take the notion.

One unexpected outcome of the primary was the defeat of two dry members of Congress, who are Progressives, by Progressive opponents running on wet platforms. Representative Edward E. Browne, finishing his ninth term, lost by 358 votes to Gerald Boileau of Wausau in the Eighth District. Mr. Browne had the active support of the Madison leaders in the La Follette camp.

The other dry to lose was Representative Merlin Hull, defeated by 5,000 by Gardner Withrow of La Crosse, in the Seventh District. Mr. Hull was a La Follette follower twenty years ago, when he held several State offices, but of late years he had lost his identity with the group, although he was elected to Congress as a Progressive.

The Seventh and Eighth are up-State districts and are predominantly rural, neither including any city larger than 30,000. Both had been regarded as safely dry.

The La Follette forces failed in their effort to defeat Representative John C. Schafer, outspoken wet in the Fourth (Milwaukee) District. Mr. Schafer entered politics as a red-hot La Follette Progressive, but broke with the Madison leaders about the time of the elder La Follette's death, and in 1928 he backed Mr. Hoover.

Cooper Named for Nineteenth Term.

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 17 (AP).—Representative Henry Allen Cooper of the First Wisconsin District, who was 80 years old Sept. 8, was renominated by the Republican party in yesterday's primary, assuring his re-election for his nineteenth term. He has served in Congress since 1892 and is the ranking member of the House.

THAYER SEEKS REFORMS.

Will Ask Baumes Body to Modify Mandatory Life Law.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP).—Modification of the law making mandatory a life term in prison for fourth offenders will be recommended to the Baumes Crime Commission by Dr. Walter N. Thayer Jr., State Commissioner of Correction.

Dr. Thayer would like to see the law amended so as to provide a minimum sentence for fourth offenders, at the expiration of which the prisoner would be eligible to parole, with a life sentence as a maximum.

Other recommendations which the Correction Commissioner will present to the Crime Commission include:

Provision for automatic restoration to citizenship in the case of convicts who have lived straight for ten years after expiration of prison term.

Permitting persons convicted of offenses punishable by fine to pay the fines in instalments.

Setting up within the Correction Department of a revolving fund so that convicts who are residents of other States and eligible for parole can be sent home. Return to the State would be a violation of parole.

MARGIN OF BUTLER IN BAY STATE 7,600

But His Two Wet Opponents in Republican Race for Senate Polled 15,000 More Votes.

M. A. COOLIDGE TO FACE HIM

Ely, Whom Mayor Curley Opposed, Is Picked by Democrats to Run for Governor.

By The Associated Press.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Massachusetts voters were assued tonight of a clear cut wet and dry fight along party lines in the November general election.

Republican voters, as a result of yesterday's State primary, had before them a ticket headed by a dry, William M. Butler, former United States Senator and former chairman of the Republican National Committee, as their candidate for Senator, with a wet, Marcus A. Coolidge of Fitchburg, manufacturer and former Mayor, as his opponent.

For Governor the Republicans had another dry, the present Governor, Frank G. Allen, as a candidate for re-election, with a wet, Joseph B. Ely of Westfield, lined up against him on the Democratic side.

Although there were few upsets in Congressional fights, the prohibition issue loomed strongly in several districts. In all but two of the sixteen districts of the State the present representatives were candidates for renomination and returns today indicated that all were successful.

7,600 Plurality Over Draper.

Former Senator Butler won the Republican Senatorial nomination by defeating Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, manufacturer, who ran as a wet, and Andrey J. (Bossy) Gillis, the "bad boy" Mayor of Newburyport, who was known as "moist." Mr. Butler's plurality over Draper was more than 7,600, with a few scattering precincts unreported.

The vote, as tabulated tonight for 1,642 out of 1,649 precincts in the State, gave Butler, 161,370; Draper, 153,688; Gillis, 22,481.

Mr. Coolidge won the Democratic nomination for Senator from a field of four opponents with a margin of nearly 27,000 votes over the nearest, Joseph F. O'Connell, former member of Congress. Thomas C. O'Brien, former District Attorney of Suffolk County, ran third, more than 9,500 behind. Former Governor Eugene N. Foss and Peter J. Joyce were the other contenders.

The vote from 1,642 precincts was: Coolidge, 81,707; O'Connell, 54,799; O'Brien, 45,212; Foss, 12,841; Joyce, 6,190.

In the Gubernatorial contests, Governor Allen swamped his only opponent, former Mayor John D. Devir of Malden, with a vote in 1,642 precincts of 305,075 to Mr. Devir's 24,916.

Fitzgerald Gets 84,622 Votes.

The Democratic fight for Governor, enlivened during the closing days of the campaign by a bitter factional fight precipitated by the efforts of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston to induce voters to support John F. Fitzgerald, former Mayor of this city, for the nomination after Mr. Fitzgerald had withdrawn because of ill health, was closer, but Mr. Ely had a safe margin of 32,580 votes, with seven precincts missing. Mr. Fitzgerald's name, on the ballot despite his withdrawal, drew 84,622 votes, compared to Mr. Ely's 117,202. John J. Cummings of Boston, the other contestant in the three-cornered contest, received 12,770 votes.

The primary was enlivened by free for all contests for several State office nominations on both party tickets, and as a result, in one case at least, the result remained in doubt tonight. With eight candidates seeking the Republican nomination for State Treasurer, the vote was split, and three of them found themselves closely bunched in the incomplete returns, with Fred J. Burrell of Medford in the lead on the face of figures from 1,545 precincts. He had a margin of 778 over Russell D. Chase of Longmeadow with Charles L. Burrill of Boston, barely 655 behind. The other five were out of the running.

The other nominees for State offices were as follows:

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—William S. Youngman, Republican, renominated; Strabo V. Claggett, Newton, Democrat.

SECRETARY OF STATE—Frederick W. Cook, Somerville, Republican, renominated; Chester J. O'Brien, Boston, Democrat.

TREASURER—Charles F. Hurley, Cambridge, Democrat.

AUDITOR—Alonzo B. Cook, Boston, Republican, renominated; Francis X. Hurley, Cambridge, Democrat.

ATTORNEY GENERAL—Joseph E. Warner, Taunton, Republican, renominated; Harold W. Sullivan, Boston.

Outstanding among the Congressional district contests was the victory in the Sixth District of Representative A. Piatt Andrew of Gloucester, in a hot wet and dry fight, brought on by the entrance of Mrs. Martha N. Brookings, State Representative, when Mr. Andrew announced himself in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

In the Second District, Joshua L. Brooks of Springfield, a wet, won the Republican nomination over a field of three others, a wet and two drys.

Other members of Congress who had opposition, but won renomination, were William P. Connery Jr. of Lynn, Democrat, Seventh District; Frederick W. Dallinger, dry, Republican, Cambridge, Eighth District; John J. Douglas, wet, Democrat, Boston, Tenth District.

GRANDI TO AVOID GENEVA.

Italian Foreign Minister Will Not Return to League Assembly.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Sept. 17.—It was learned officially tonight that Foreign Minister Grandi, who had expressed his intention of returning to Geneva before the close of the League of Nations Assembly, will not go at all to Geneva, and that Italy will continue to be represented by Senator Scialoja during the remainder of the session. This decision is interpreted in some quarters as proof that the reported agreement in principle between the Italian and French naval experts has not yet been reached. In fact, it was declared at the Foreign Office this evening that conversations are still proceeding at Geneva and that there are yet no signs that an agreement is in view. There is no truth in the report that Premier Mussolini intends shortly to pay a visit to Geneva.

LEHIGH OPENS DOORS.

Upwards of 475 Registered—Dr. Richards Addrsses Students.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 17.—Lehigh University ushered in its sixty-fifth year this afternoon with exercises in Packer Memorial Chapel. Upward of 475 freshmen are registered.

The exercises were marked by an address by Dr. Charles Russ Richards, president of the university, and the introduction of new members of the faculty.

In his address, "Education and Training," President Richards emphasized the need for a combination of both. He also stressed the importance of the development of culture and an appreciation of the finer things in life.

KELLOGG IS ELECTED WORLD COURT JUDGE

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

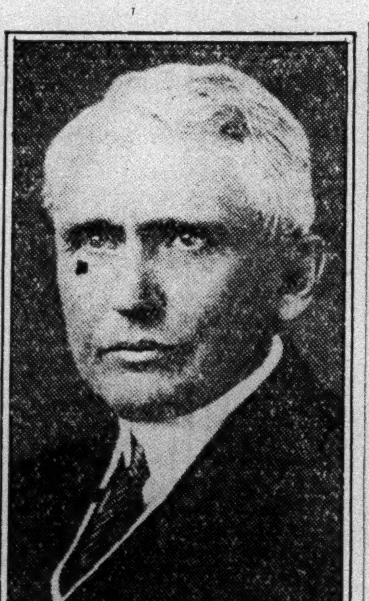
and Canada by electing Guatemala by forty-one votes out of fifty-two, Norway by thirty-eight votes and the Irish Free State by thirty-six votes. Portugal, backed largely by Latin-Americans, lost by a small margin, getting thirty votes.

China failed by five votes to obtain the Assembly's authorization to stand for re-election to the Council, getting twenty-seven votes, when thirty-two are required for the two-thirds majority necessary in such cases. Although there have been rumors that China might withdraw from the League if she failed of re-election, this is generally doubted, especially in view of the strong support she got this morning and the fact that she is practically sure of a Council seat in 1931, when Persia retires.

Nicolas Titulescu, president of the Assembly, in announcing the results and in proclaiming Mr. Kellogg as a judge of the World Court, said on behalf of the Assembly, "Our warmest felicitations go to the man whose name is indissolubly joined to the work of peace," while the delegates applauded.

Mr. Kellogg got thirty votes in the Assembly out of fifty-one, including four spoiled ballots. The fact that the vote was not larger was due to the fact that eleven American candidates had been nominated for the place by thirty-three national groups, and a number of countries, realizing that Mr. Kellogg's election was certain, felt in honor bound to vote on the first ballot for the other Americans their countries had nominated before the American group had put up Mr. Kellogg.

Only the number of votes for the winner is given out in such elections, but it is known that the seventeen other votes were divided largely among James Brown Scott, George W. Wickersham and Dean Wigmore of Northwestern University in the order named. The vote in the Council on World Court judges is never given out.



FRANK B. KELLOGG,
Former Secretary of State, Elected Judge of World Court.

Secretary General Drummond immediately cabled to Mr. Kellogg that he had been elected. Mr. Kellogg already had announced that he would accept the judgeship if chosen. His election for the rest of the Hughes term ending on Jan. 1 had been considered as certain as his election for the full nine-year term when the Assembly and Council toward the end of the month elect the whole court bench for the period beginning on Jan. 1.

The vacancy was filled today without waiting for the full court election to make sure that Mr. Kellogg would be on the bench when the tribunal begins its hearing on Oct. 20 of the important Franco-Swiss case regarding the customs zones around Geneva. It is strongly hoped here that Mr. Kellogg will be able to reach The Hague in time for consideration of this question, which is considered to involve far-reaching legal issues.

The prestige of the World Court was further increased today when Luxemburg and Colombia announced their acceptance of its compulsory jurisdiction in all legal disputes following similar acceptance of the optional clause yesterday by Rumania and Persia. All but half a dozen League members have now either ratified or signed the optional clause. Luxemburg also accepted the general act for compulsory arbitration.

Three Assembly committees, the third on disarmament, the fourth on internal administration of the League and the fifth on opium and other social questions, began work this afternoon in the secretariat. The sessions were devoted to preliminaries.

Irish Free State Appreciates Honor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Sept. 17.—The honor accorded to one of the youngest British Dominions in the election of the Irish Free State to a seat in the Council of the League of Nations is fully appreciated here where it is realized the Free State did not offer itself for election as a member of the British commonwealth group though its success was due to the support of Great Britain and the other dominions.

Hitherto the interest taken by the average Irish citizen in League affairs has been rather languid. Domestic politics monopolized public attention, but since the Free State has been promoted to a seat in the Council a less provincial view may be encouraged. It is expected members of the Free State Executive Council in the future will pay frequent visits to Geneva, where John Lester already is installed as the permanent representative.

Stimson Pleased by Election.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Secretary Stimson expressed pleasure today over the election of former Secretary of State Kellogg to the bench of the World Court.

"The State Department is gratified," Mr. Stimson said, "that Secretary Kellogg has been chosen to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Hughes as a judge of the international court at The Hague.

"Mr. Kellogg's name was suggested by the American panel (composed of Mr. Root, chairman; Dr. John Bassett Moore, Newton Baker and Mr. Roland Boyden). Mr. Kellogg was in no sense an official candidate of this government, but we may, nevertheless, express our pleasure at the high regard which the American people hold for Mr. Kellogg's legal abilities, his work for peace, and for this tribute from the nations of the world, which shows that they share our confidence."

Kellogg Awaits Notification.

Former Secretary of State Kellogg said here yesterday that he could make no statement regarding his election to the World Court until he had received official notification.

"I am sorry, but, of course, I cannot say anything until I have been officially notified," he said when informed by The Associated Press that he had been chosen to succeed Charles Evans Hughes, who resigned to become Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

LEAGUE VOTES STUDY OF EUROPEAN UNION

Assembly Unanimously Decides on Committee to Devise Plan for Closer Collaboration.

YEAR TO BE SPENT AT TASK

Resolution Provides for Calling on Non-Members to Aid in Advancing Briand Project.

27 NATIONS TO FORM BODY

French Foreign Minister to Get Work Started Before Geneva Sessions Are Ended.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—By a decision of their own representatives and with the approval of fifty-two nations of the world the twenty-seven governments which rule the peoples of Europe committed themselves today to seek during the coming year to establish a plan for "closer collaboration." They were at their own request instructed by the Assembly of the League of Nations to prepare before next September, through a committee acting with the Secretariat of the League, concrete proposals by which this closer collaboration can be obtained.

In advancing their labors they may consult and seek the aid of other countries, whether members of the League or not either in Europe or on other continents. Thus the possibility of Russian and Turkish collaboration is assured and all other continents can keep a close eye on the committee's work. Almost the only reservation is that their plan shall be of such character that it will be in full accord with the League and with the spirit of the covenant of the League.

Briand Project Is Advanced.

In that form the scheme for a federated Europe, which Aristide Briand of France launched last year, has moved forward another step. There still are some who believe that it would have been a better policy to have had a definite scheme ready for acceptance and have carried it through on a wave of enthusiasm. They argue that many years will be lost in detailed discussion, in fighting over every point, in clashing interests.

Their view it not, however, by any means universally held. There are many with long experience in the difficult work of trying to get international collaboration who say that the time will not be lost. They say that before there can be effective collaboration between governments and before talk of federation there must be years of careful preparation of public opinion in every country, because governments cannot go forward too far in advance of their peoples.

Whichever view is right, the more prudent has prevailed. The phrasing of the recommendation which the Assembly voted this morning was obviously intended not to set too high a mark for the committee's aim.

The word "federation" does not appear. It is suggested that the French memorandum of last May and the various replies which have been received may serve as a basis on which to begin work. There were no other recommendations of a positive kind. So long as its proposals fit in with the spirit of the covenant of the League the committee is free to do as it likes.

Briand to Call Meeting.

A meeting of the representatives of the twenty-seven European States for the constitution of this committee will be called by M. Briand in his capacity as reporter for the European countries before the end of the Assembly. At this meeting will be decided the form the committee should take and how its members should be nominated. In view of the fact that the Assembly resolution recommends the use of the League Secretariat, it is likely the meetings will be held in Geneva. The meeting also will settle to what extent non-European States should be invited to participate.

The draft of the resolution which was presented last evening would have limited consultation to non-European States who are members of the League, but this would have excluded the United States and other non-League members. To avoid the least misunderstanding President Titulescu of the Assembly at the request of several delegations suggested that the wording be changed so as to exclude no country from consultation and this was approved.

Today's decision by the Assembly and the process which it will follow are variously regarded by League members despite the unanimity with which it was adopted. The move was frankly deplored by some as inevitably tending to the creation of a European unit within the League which may become stronger as a unit than the League itself. By others it is regarded as a French diplomatic success, for, despite the rude check suffered on the first day, M. Briand has managed to get his European committee, which in reality if not in name is his federation, working at the framing of its own constitution.

The British Government, which from the first stipulated that there should be "no new institutions," has acquiesced in setting up this committee of twenty-seven. Backed by Switzerland and others Britain obtained the insertion of all the precautionary phrases about League control. But these precautions are treated somewhat lightly by those who see French diplomatic success in the creation of this new institution.

The attitude of the British delegation is that they and those who think with them have have reserved their whole position and that meanwhile a committee for the study of the question can do no harm and may do some good.

Danzig Election Set for Nov. 16.

DANZIG, Sept. 17 (AP).—The Danzig Senate announced today that the election for the new Volkstag would be held Nov. 16. Political observers are speculating as to whether the free city, formerly part of Germany, will show a swing toward Fascism, such as featured Sunday's Reichstag election.

2 ENGLISH GIRLS CROSS AFRICA ALONE IN CAR

Arrive in Capetown From Cairo After Five Months—Lions Sniffed at Their Tent.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Sept. 17.—Two young Englishwomen, Miss Badgell of London and Miss Belcher of Abingdon, arrived in Cairo Monday night after traveling alone in a small car from Capetown to Cairo. They are the first women to accomplish the 8,000-mile journey and they traversed the whole of the continent in five and a half months.

Twice they had adventures with lions, which sniffed around their tents, and once, after leaving Khartum, they were lost three days in the desert without water. They are in the best of health, however, and say they were courteously received by aborigines throughout the journey. One old chief in Uganda was perturbed because the women were traveling alone and kept six warriors posted outside their tent throughout the night.

The women assert their car gave no trouble and they had only five punctures. The route followed was Johannesburg, Buluwayo, Livingstone, Nairobi, Juba, Khartum, Wadi Halfa, Assuan and Cairo. In Rhodesia they were held up seven weeks by floods and in parts of the Sudan had to ship their car short distances owing to heavy rain and flooded country.

FINLAND REPLIES TO SOVIET.

Says Removal of Finns to Russia Is Part of Anti-Communist Drive.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HELSINGFORS, Sept. 17.—Finland has replied to the Soviet protests concerning the high-handed expulsions of Finnish Reds into Russia by anti-Communists.

While regretting the acts, the government says they are connected with the present national campaign to crush the criminal activities in Finland which are directed by Russia. The government desires the Soviet to return the expelled Finns for interrogation by the Finnish authorities, who do not wish to facilitate the escape abroad of offenders.

The government also draws attention to the fact that the Soviet is not able to prevent many Russian prisoners from escaping into Finland owing to the difficulty of guarding the long frontier.

INDIAN LABOR BANS ROUND-TABLE TALK

Trade Union Leader Refuses Invitation to London—Sees No Useful Purpose in Going.

SIMON MAY ATTEND PARLEY

London Hears He May Act at Conference With an Indian, in an Advisory Capacity.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Indian labor has boycotted the London round-table conference. Only one leader—Diwan Chaman Lall of the Indian Trade Union Congress—was invited to serve at the forthcoming parleys and he has declined.

Mr. Lall has taken this decision, it is stated here, because he believes his presence could serve no useful purpose in view of the failure of the unofficial peace negotiations between Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mahatma Gandhi and because of the composition of the conference. There is a possibility that some other representative of Indian labor will be invited.

Private advices have reached the Lancashire cotton piecegoods manufacturers that there is some weakening of the Indian boycott of their goods. Picketing in the Calcutta bazaars has ceased and the outlook is reported to be more hopeful in other districts.

Although Premier MacDonald recently said it would be "very undesirable" for Sir John Simon or any member of the statutory commission to attend the conference, and though Sir John later acquiesced in this decision, there is a report from India tonight that Sir John may attend the conference, after all, in an advisory capacity.

The Daily Mail's Madras correspondent cables that he understands from private information that Sir John and Sir Chettur Sankaran Nair, chairman of the Indian Central Committee (a wing of the Simon commission), will have an equal status and duties at the conference. Sir Chettur, says the correspondent, will leave Madras tomorrow for Simla to interview the Viceroy and will sail for England on Oct. 4.

TRUJILLO THANKS PORTO RICO FOR AID

Dominican President Praises Island's Medical Mission as Its First Unit Returns.

JOHNSON ENDS RELIEF TASK

American in Charge of the Work Reaches San Juan—Dominican Communications Re-established.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Sept. 17.—Praise and thanks for the work done in Santo Domingo by the Porto Rican medical mission for hurricane relief came today with the return of the first unit on the steamer Coamo.

President Trujillo sent a message to Governor Roosevelt saying the Dominican Government hastened to convey its thanks for the splendid and efficient conduct of the aid of the Porto Ricans, while Commander Lucius W. Johnson of the United States Naval Medical Corps, in charge of all hospital relief, officially reported in detail on the Porto Ricans' work, declaring that "many lives were being saved and much suffering averted by the work of the Porto Rican mission."

It is expected the remaining Porto Rican doctors and others will return on Friday.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 17 (AP).—With the restoration of communication between the capital and the rest of the country, Santo Domingo today was rapidly returning to normal after the recent disastrous hurricane.

Telegraphic and telephone communication disrupted by the hurricane has been fully re-established throughout the republic. Land travel is once more functioning at its normal pace.

The newspaper, La Opinion, whose plant was badly damaged during the hurricane and which was forced to suspend publication, resumed operations today, but with a reduced sheet, due to lack of linotypes and a paper shortage. Despite the destruction of its plant, La Opinion gave The Associated Press full and stirring accounts of the hurricane disaster.

Commander Johnson, who came to Santo Domingo to organize the medical and sanitary relief at the request of President Trujillo, sailed last night aboard the steamer Coamo for Porto Rico. The government and press of the Dominican Republic expressed their appreciation of his work.

Because of the straitened financial circumstances of the population, a well-known American druggist firm has informed its clients here that it will extend credit for six months.

R-101 TO FLY NEXT WEEK IN INDIA FLIGHT TESTS

Fifty Feet Are Added to British Dirigible's Length, Making It World's Largest.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The airship R-101 will emerge from her shed at Cardington next week to prepare for a flight to India after reconstruction work which has made her the biggest and longest airship in the world.

Not only has the R-101 been lengthened by fifty feet, making her about 780 feet over all, with a gross lift of 166 tons, but she has been equipped with two new crude-oil engines in which the reversing problem has been solved, so that all five engines may now be used for forward power. Hitherto, one engine was reserved for manoeuvring astern.

The R-101 will also have a completely new skin of specially made fabric which has been chemically treated in position. Failure of the experiment of the previously treated fabric on both the R-100 on her flight to Canada and the R-101 has led to reversion to the old wartime method of treating the fabric in position on the hull to make it gas tight, and better service is expected.

Tests of the R-101 are expected to last until about Sept. 28. The only gasoline the R-101 will carry will be for starting four of her crude-oil engines. The fifth engine will be started by a mechanical device which has proved so successful under test that it ultimately will be fitted to all of her motors. When this equipment is completed, virtually all danger of fire from the motors in the tropical heat will be eliminated.

The bonus members of the crew of the R-100 received for flying to Canada and back worked out to about 12 cents an hour in addition to their standard pay of about $24 a week, according to the periodical John Bull.

The airship's permanent crew is composed of civilians, and the journal says they are complaining bitterly of the inadequate pay on the recent transatlantic voyage and of their treatment since.

John Bull figures the flying bonus for the men whose duty included climbing out on the airship's damaged tailfin 1,000 feet above the St. Lawrence and battling with the torn and flapping fabric at the "princely sum" of $9.38.

Now that the airship is in the shed for an indefinite period the standard pay has been reduced to less than $15 a week, out of which, says John Bull, the crew are expected to pay for the new uniforms they are ordered to wear.

The Air Ministry is investigating the complaints.

Operation for Appendicitis for Archduke Rudolf Delays Trip.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—According to an announcement emanating from monarchist circles here, former Empress Zita was forced to delay her intended departure today from Lequeitio in Spain to the castle of Steenockerzeel in Belgium as the result of the sudden illness of her son, Archduke Rudolf.

The young Prince was suffering from appendicitis, necessitating an immediate operation.

DEVISE NEW VACUUM TUBE.

General Electric Experts Develop Sensitive Measuring Instrument.

SCHENECTADY, Sept. 17.—A new type of vacuum tube, so sensitive that it is capable of measuring one hundredth of a millionth of a billionth of an ampere of electric current; has been developed in the laboratory of the General Electric Company, according to an announcement made here tonight by Ellis L. Manning of the company's research organization.

The flow of electrons in the tube, which is of the four-element type, Mr. Manning said, is so small that it compares with the electron flow in a fifty-watt incandescent lamp as two drops of water compare with that which flows over Niagara Falls in a year.

One of the major applications of the tube will be for the measurements of currents used to indicate the intensities of X-ray and ultra-violet beams. Another use will be for the photo-electric measurement of stellar light intensities.

BRAZIL ESTIMATES $2,000,000 SURPLUS

Federal Revenues for 1931 Put at $152,000,000, With Year's Expenditures $150,000,000.

RETRENCHMENT IS THE RULE

Figures of the Chamber's Finance Committee Reveal a Marked Decline in Foreign Trade.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Sept. 17.—Brazil's Federal revenues from all sources for 1931 were estimated at $152,000,000 by Deputy Annibal Friere in a report made to the Chamber of Deputies by its Finance Committee at Rio de Janeiro yesterday. Expenditures for the coming year were estimated at $150,000,000, leaving an estimated surplus of about $2,000,000.

Stressing the fact that the world is undergoing a great crisis, Señhor Friere declared that the budgeted expenditures for all Federal departments were being reduced to a working minimum to the extent that "the legitimate expansion and progress of the Republic would be impaired," adding that while the balance of trade had been favorable to Brazil for the past nine years the balance for the first six months of this year had fallen off and did not compare favorably with the corresponding period last year. This he interpreted as a sign of the times calling for strict retrenchment.

His published figures show for the first six months of last year exports to the value of $222,000,000 and imports of $218,000,000, while for the first six months of this year exports totaled $181,000,000 and imports $147,000,000, representing a total decrease of $112,000,000 in foreign trade.

The fourth annual meeting of the Coffee Institute, which is a semi-official body controlling the movement of coffee, came to a close today after a three-day session. The most important measure adopted provided for the reproportioning of each State's quota passing through the various authorized seaports for export, the State of Sao Paulo receiving a quota of 8 per cent of the total entries into Rio de Janeiro instead of its former 2½ per cent and obtaining an increase from 91 to 93 per cent of all coffee entries into Santos.

Other measures adopted provided for maximum stocks at ports, daily quotas and subdivisions permissible, the length of time stocks can be retained, and so forth. A resolution was also adopted calling upon the Federal Government to cooperate more fully with the States for the successful operation of the coffee defense plan.

MORROW DEPARTS, HAILED BY MEXICO

Ends Three Years' Mission There, With Cordial Relations Firmly Established.

FOUND NATION IN TURMOIL

Envoy Settled Old Land and Oil Disputes—Helped Solve Problem of Church and State.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Mrs. Morrow left Mexico City at 7:30 tonight (9:30 in New York), ending his mission of three years here, in which he has won the highest esteem of all classes in the nation and has established an international relationship of the warmest cordiality between Mexico and her great neighbor in place of the age-long attitude of hostility and suspicion.

A statement over the signature of President Ortiz Rubio was issued this afternoon from Chapultepec Castle eulogizing Ambassador Morrow's work in Mexico. The statement says:

The work of Dwight W. Morrow as Ambassador of the United States of America in Mexico has been exceptionally significant. The good intentions which animated him in all his acts contributed immensely to the betterment of international relations, which have reached the peak of cordiality.

The Ambassador's work in favor of tourists to Mexico also shows what a great friend he has been.

ORTIZ RUBIO, President.

Car Filled With Flowers.

The Ambassador is traveling in a special car attached to a regular train. His first stop will be at Guadalajara, where he will remain for a day.

From Guadalajara he will go to a ranch near Dawson, N. M., for a few days of rest before continuing to Washington to tender his resignation to President Hoover.

The Morrows' coach was half filled with flowers sent by admirers, and so many persons went to the station to say farewell that it was extremely difficult to approach them. In addition to many residents of the American and British colonies, there were present General Agustin Mora, chief ow the Presidential headquarters staff, representing President Ortiz Rubio; Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada and other high officials, as well as all members of the United States Embassy staff.

Fernando de la Garza, chief of the Presidential household staff, is accompanying the Morrows to the border on instructions of the President.

The National University football team cheered for Mr. Morrow at the station and the envoy wished them luck in their forthcoming games in the United States.

Foreign Minister Lauds Him.

Late this evening Señor Estrada issued a statement on Ambassador Morrow's works, as follows:

"It is my duty to say that the work of Mr. Morrow has been gratifying because he has effected radical changes in procedure in contrast to the lack of confidence and even aggression used previously. As a result of the aggression, there was on our part an attitude of constant defense and suspicious vigilance.

"Fortunately, recent American Governments understood that Mexico should be treated amicably, with a liberal understanding of her national problems and on a basis of true friendship. Mr. Morrow was the agent of that comprehension. By his friendly and humane conduct and upon completion of his mission it is now the time to say so—all his acts have been carefully and delicately subject to respect for our laws, institutions and customs without any criticism of our social and administrative affairs, always showing an ardent desire to improve and accentuate our international contact with his country.

Had Art of Negotiation.

"I have known and dealt officially and personally with hundreds of diplomatic representatives and I have acquired the knowledge that the art of international negotiation is the most difficult for a diplomat to dominate.

"Prudence, sagacity and tact are necessary and I found all those in Mr. Morrow. We changed the traditional formulae and discussion by means of notes for direct, oral discussion and soon the clouded horizon of relations between Mexico and the United States was cleared.

"On his departure Mr. Morrow has not left a single delicate problem of the many existing when he came.

"I do not remember, in the history of the relations between our two peoples, that there has been sent to us a more friendly representative. An efficacious procedure for continuance of real friendship without reserve and with every confidence has been found. My sincerest desire is that in the future such conduct may be continued."

Career Marked by Results.

Special Correspondence, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 12.—The approaching departure of Ambassador Morrow is coincident with a condition of such friendly relations between the United States and Mexico as have never existed before. The problems and issues, some of extremely delicate nature, which faced Mr. Morrow three years ago, when he first came here, have been overcome to such an extent that it may be said that major issues are now non-existent.

From the moment he took over his post here Mr. Morrow believed in Mexico, and his first big task was to persuade Mexico to believe in her great northern sister. That he accomplished, largely by winning quickly the warm friendship of General Plutarco Elias Calles, then President. It was not only a sincere friendship but a real mutual admiration.

The now famous Calles-Morrow ham-and-egg breakfast at the President's ranch outside this city may have had something to do with it, but the real basis for Mr. Morrow's initial success was the getting together of two men, each feeling, from the beginning, that what the other said was meant and would be carried out. General Calles had resolved, at all costs, upon the rehabilitation of his country. Mr. Morrow convinced him that he was in Mexico to assist him to the fullest extent within his capacity as Ambassador of the country most concerned with Mexico's progress.

Mexico was at that time involved in a petroleum crisis of the first magnitude, bordering, in fact, on peril to international relations. Forty thousand words were exchanged in notes between Washington and Mexico City before a solution was found.

Informality His Rule.

Mr. Morrow approached this problem by dispensing with the formality of notes. Groups in disagreement were brought together at the same table and, after intense study, Mexican legislation on the vexatious question of confirmatory concessions of oil lands was passed.

In the oil controversy the Ambassador was assisted, especially as a legal expert, by J. Reuben Clark Jr., former Assistant Secretary of State.

In the course of Mr. Morrow's term the controversy between Church and State reached a climax, shaking Mexico to its foundations. The dispute was outside Mr. Morrow's official sphere, but it is well-known that as a private individual he offered his good offices, which were accepted by General Calles and in June, 1928, the crisis was over.

The importance of the settlement is evident from the extraordinary situation it created. For more than three years all churches in this republic, one of the most ardent Catholic communities in the world, were closed. Prelates left Mexico, and the familiar figure of the priest was missing.

During all this time Mr. Morrow was intensively occupied with the routine work of protecting United States interests, and many of his compatriots pay eloquent testimony to the tact and efficiency with which he arranged settlement of their claims or complaints.

In this connection the handling of cases under Mexico's agrarian laws is perhaps the most important. Since President Ortiz Rubio came into power on Feb. 5, 1930, there has been no expropriation of American-owned land, and no doubt is held that Mexico will find some solution for the financial end of this problem.

Mr. Morrow witnessed some periods of disorder during his Ambassadorship. Former President Obregon was murdered by the fanatic, José de Toral, who finally faced a firing squad; an attempt was made on the life of Provisional President Portes Gil, when the train in which he was traveling in the State of Tamaulipas was dynamited, and lastly President Ortiz Rubio escaped death, almost by a miracle on the day he took the oath of office.

Rebellion in 1929.

In the early days of 1929 the most serious military upheaval in many years broke out. From five different points in the republic the constitutional government was threatened by disloyal military elements. How General Calles, rushed into office as Minister of War during General Amaro's absence for medical treatment in the United States, put down the movement in a few weeks, is known to the world.

As Mr. Morrow leaves this country peace reigns, political stability is on a high plane compared with previous periods, and national finance is striding forward under the honest and able guidance of Finance Minister Luis Montes de Oca.

The economic situation, however, is not so good, for the country's main industries, mining and petroleum, are in far from satisfactory condition.

The Ambassador says his stay in Mexico has been happy; that he has made many new friends whom he will never forget. His health at times has not been too good, due mainly to minor indispositions caused by the altitude. Because of this he bought and improved a week-end residence in Cuernavaca, to which he has gone whenever official duties permitted. This country home will in the future be a week-end resting place for embassy officials. Mr. Morrow plans to give it to the United States Government.

Mexico will miss Mr. Morrow, and will watch his future political activities with intense interest.

"Here comes the Ambassador," not "the American Ambassador," has often been the cry as he has appeared at some ceremony.

MORROW TO BE HOME OCT. 3

To Launch Senatorial Campaign Then, D. G. Thomson Says.

Special to The New York Times.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 17.—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow plans to arrive here Oct. 3 to launch his Senatorial campaign, Douglas G. Thomson, who managed Mr. Morrow's primary campaign, announced today. The general election campaign will be directed by E. Bertram Mott and the State committee, with which Mr. Thomson will be associated.

Mr. Thomson said he understood the Ambassador would leave Mexico City today for the Pacific Coast of the United States, where, in compliance with his physician's orders, he will take a rest. Although it was not definitely known by Mr. Thomson where the Ambassador would go, it was said he probably would go to Santa Barbara, Cal.

Plans are being made for a reception for Mr. Morrow on his return here.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 17.—Douglas G. Thomson said in an address at the Third Ward Republican Club here tonight that Democratic leaders of the State had admitted they believed Ambassador Morrow would be successful in the November elections and were centring their efforts on holding their party into line to elect a Democratic Governor in 1931.

He added that Ambassador Morrow's prohibition speech in Newark during the primary campaign was not made voluntarily but in response to many and urgent requests that he take a stand on that issue.

NANKING DRIVE PUTS FENG IN GREAT PERIL

Chiang's Troops Take Mihsien, Thus Sharply Menacing Rebel Retreat Across Yellow River.

SHIH YU-SAN SWITCHES

Deserts Rebels to Aid Nanking Push —Reds' Use of Mortars Along the Yangtse Endangers Warships.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 17.—Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Nanking Government, has officially informed the State Council of the capture by the Nanking army of Mihsien in Honan Province, fifteen miles southwest of Chengchow, the junction of the Lunghai and Peking-Hankow railways. This greatly imperils Feng Yu-hsiang's main strategic point, cripples his retreat north of the Yellow River and renders likely his defeat at Loyang and westward.

The situation is further complicated by official reports that Shih Yu-san, rebel commander of 60,000 troops, has become friendly to Nanking and has withdrawn all his forces northward of the Yellow River northeast of Kaifeng in order to give the government a free hand unimperiled in the Kweiteh and Langfang sectors.

Shih Yu-san is famous for his revolt at Pukow against Nanking last December. He has repeatedly changed sides in the last few years, and it is known that a week ago he was dickering with Manchuria and also with Han Fu-chu, the Nanking Government's Shantung commander.

The easy capture of Mihsien by Nanking confirms reports from many sources that Feng Yu-hsiang was making a strategic retreat toward Chihli Province in order to avoid the dire alternative of again retiring to famine-stricken Shensi Province. If Feng Yu-hsiang loses Chengchow, his retreat may become a stampede as the only railway bridge over the Yellow River in Honan Province would thereby be endangered. Since the river is flooded crossings in junks are dangerous.

Manchuria now maintains silence, and all indications point to a prolongation of neutrality because of internal divisions and out of general prudence in fear of fresh Russian incursions on the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The Nanking Government is not alarmed over Wang Ching-wei's Peking announcement that more than 100,000 Szechwan troops have been mobilized and begun a march toward Hankow, a Nanking spokesman said today. Szechwan is a vast province with 60,000,000 people and is admitted a virtually independent State, the power there being held by three generals. If 100,000 troops hostile to Nanking leave Szechwan it would put the Nanking Government's adherents there in undisputed control.

The Nanking spokesman said the Szechwan troops were poorly equipped, that they lacked money and munitions and were unlikely to be an important factor even if they reached the Hankow area.

Reds Spread Terror on Yangtse.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18 (AP).—Dispatches from foreign naval patrols today said Communist depredations above Wusueh, Hupeh Province, were continuing on an increasing scale. The Reds destroyed many villages on either side of the Yangtse River, advices said. Villagers fled in terror, many seeking refuge on a sand bank above Wusueh.

Frequent firing upon passing foreign vessels by the outlaws continued. An attempt to dislodge the attackers from behind banks of the river was not considered practical, naval dispatches said, and Chinese forces ashore have taken no steps to drive the bandits out.

The American gunboat Luzon yesterday w s the target of Communist fire above Wusueh. The Luzon suffered no casualties and what punishment was inflicted upon the Reds by return fire could not be determined.

Rear Admiral Thomas Craven, commander of the American Yangtse River patrol, directed the fire of the American warship. The skirmish lasted about forty minutes.

The British gunboat Gnat, following the Luzon, subsequently was attacked by the Reds. Although the Gnat scoured the banks of the river with its guns, it failed to silence the Communist fire.

The bandits now are using trench mortars where formerly they attacked foreign shipping on the Yangtse with machine guns. This fact is causing naval authorities grave concern since a direct hit probably would sink a vessel, they said.

Britain to Relinquish Wei-hai-wei.

WEI-HAI-WEI, Sept. 17 (AP).—Official announcement was made today that this city and port of Shantung Province would be returned to Chinese jurisdiction by the British Oct. 1. Great Britain has held the place under a long-term leasehold.

DETROIT WELCOMES THE FRENCH FLIERS

Eighteen Army Planes Escort Them From Indianapolis on Their Good-Will Tour.

THOUSANDS CHEER ARRIVAL

Parade to City Hall, Where They Address Crowd in Shadow of Cadillac's Statue.

DETROIT, Sept. 17 (AP).—Major Dieudonné Coste and Lieutenant Maurice Bellonte dropped out of the clouds this afternoon for an overnight visit in Detroit, the city founded by their illustrious fellow-countryman, Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac.

Escorted by eighteen army airplanes from Selfridge Field, the transatlantic fliers in their big red sesquiplane, the Question Mark, settled to earth at the city airport at 4:18 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time), 2 hours and 13 minutes after they took off from Indianapolis. The escort had met them at the Michigan line near Toledo.

Thousands Cheer at Airport.

Thousands of persons who had waited at the airport cheered wildly as the fliers stepped from their ship. There was a brief welcoming ceremony, and then the visitors were transferred to an automobile for a parade to the City Hall. There, after the official welcome had been spoken by William P. Bradley, President pro tem. of the City Council, the airmen spoke through amplifiers to a crowd numbering well into the thousands.

They spoke almost in the shadow of the statues of Cadillac and Rene Robert, Sieur de la Salle, another compatriot whose explorations are closely linked with the early history of Detroit.

Lieutenant Bellonte spoke briefly and Major Coste at greater length. Both spoke in French. The text of Major Coste's remarks was repeated in English by René Racover, official interpreter of the good-will tour. Major Coste spoke of his pride in the achievements of Cadillac and La Salle, his admiration for Colonel Charles Lindbergh and the friendship he holds for the American people.

Tonight the fliers were guests at a banquet tendered by the Board of Commerce, the France American Society and associated organizations. They expect to take off before noon tomorrow for Chicago.

Receive Medals in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17 (AP).—Major Coste and Lieut. Bellonte landed at the Mars Hill Airport here at 11:22 A. M. today, after a flight from Cleveland.

The aviators were welcomed by Governor Harry G. Leslie and Mayor Reginald H. Sullivan, who presented them with special medals in recognition of their Paris-New York flight.

TO OPERATE AIR BEACONS.

Bureau Makes Agreement for Lights Near Peekskill, N. Y.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The cause of the continued inoperation of airplane beacons on Dunderberg and High Top Mountains near Peekskill, N. Y., the airways division of the Department of Commerce explained today, has been the inability of the government to reach satisfactory terms with the Rockland Light and Power Company, which would not run a line to the beacons for less than $5,000.

A satisfactory agreement has now been reached and commercial power will be supplied to High Top Mountain within a few months. A rate of 6 cents per kilowatt hour was agreed upon.

The Dunderberg beacon, it was explained, will also be put into operation by utilizing a wind generator in connection with storage batteries.

DELAY NEWARK PARK VOTE.

Commissioners Amend Land Deal With Prudential Company.

Final passage of the Newark ordinance which will provide for an agreement between the city and the Prudential Insurance Company to construct model tenements and parks in the congested Third Ward section was delayed two weeks by the Newark City Commission at a public hearing yesterday at which more than 200 persons were present. The ordinance was laid over because of the introduction of two amendments to sections of the agreement which were said to be ambiguous.

The ordinance provides that the city will acquire the interior of two blocks for park purposes, for which it will pay the Prudential Company $1,250,000. The Prudential will acquire the street frontages for $550,000. The company will erect tenements at a cost of $2,000,000. The rentals for these apartments must be approved by the City Commission.

BISHOP WARNS YOUTH OF HASTY MARRIAGE

Urges Friendship at Heart as Basis as Daughter of Earl of Stradbroke Weds.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Officiating at an important society wedding here today, the Bishop of Norwich, Dr. Bertram Pollock, delivered a warning against young people rushing into marriage without even having read the vows. The occasion was the marriage of Lady Helena Rous, youngest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Stradbroke, to Major Douglas Beresford-Ash.

The Bishop offered the suggestion that the sacred service of betrothal might help in emphasizing the sanctity of marriage.

"Every young man and every girl, before they start to be married, should make quite sure that they are friends at heart, with a deep, true friendship that will grow with the years," he said. "It is a wretched atmosphere for young people to find themselves in if the books they read and the talk of older people always fix on the meanness, wretchedness and caricatures of unhappy marriage and on ignominious ways of release from its hated vows."

The bride, Lady Helena, was ten minutes late for the wedding because her car was held up in the traffic jam caused by the throngs waiting outside St. Martin's-in-the-Fields for a glimpse of the principals. The portico of the famous church was crowded hours beforehand, and police had to guard against a rush after the bride's arrival.

TARDIEU TO STUDY GERMAN ELECTIONS

French Cabinet Will Meet Today, but Will Not Make Decision Until Briand's Return.

CURTIUS TALK DISCOUNTED

The Temps Says Government Which Will Follow Bruening's Will Determine Reich's Policies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—The results of the German election will be officially discussed at the Council of Ministers to be held at Rambouillet tomorrow morning. With Gaston Doumergue, President of the French Republic, presiding, Premier Tardieu and all his colleagues, with the notable exception of Premier Briand, will consider the new development in European politics. When the Cabinet meets it will be guided by several detailed reports sent from Geneva by M. Briand, but the absence of the statesman who directs this nation's foreign affairs will prevent definite decisions.

For this reason it has been decided to hold another Council of Ministers next week, by which time M. Briand will have returned from the seat of the League of Nations. Premier Tardieu, who returned yesterday from his cure at Vittel, spent part of today in an informal discussion of the German situation and other matters with his colleagues.

Curtius's Authority Questioned.

The anxiety in France over the victory of the "parties of disorder" has been lessened by the speech of Foreign Minister Curtius before the League Assembly, although the semi-official Temps asks tonight what real authority is embodied in the German Foreign Minister's assertions.

"Even in Berlin," adds the Temps, "no one knows whether the Bruening Government, whose policy has just been disavowed, will be able to maintain itself with its support so widely divided. For what Right or Left coalition will it make way? That is an important point now. It is the government of tomorrow, the one which will follow the Bruening régime, that will determine Germany's foreign and domestic policies."

Despite this evidence of a desire to minimize the sedative value of Dr. Curtius's speech, the Temps admits that the German Foreign Minister's speech in its general tone was undoubtedly inspired by a desire to maintain and develop Germany's collaboration with other peoples on a basis of real international solidarity.

The Journal des Débats says Dr. Curtius's speech was "the most moderate uttered by a German delegate at Geneva since 1926," but criticizes Dr. Curtius's approval of the Austrian Chancellor's statement upon the usefulness of regional understandings and the logic of initiating a European federation by the union of those States which find themselves less divergent in their views and aims than the rest of Europe.

This, observes the Journal des Débats, is only a roundabout way of blessing the move for German and Austrian union. In pro-federation quarters, however, it is explained that M. Briand has made no secret of the fact that one of his main reasons for advocating a federation of Europe was to reduce the danger of the union of Germany and Austria to an unimportant minimum by merging the two countries within the larger and more powerful federation organization.

Briand Regains Prestige.

M. Briand's stock has risen considerably as a result of Dr. Curtius's speech and the agreement for the appointment of a commission to study the European federation plan. The recent weakness of his position has been the occasion for bitter attacks from the Right and other anti-Briand sources, culminating in a demand in one newspaper for his resignation, but yesterday's developments have restored much of his prestige.

The French Bourse showed unusual firmness today, all stocks registering rises. The conservative Journal des Débats, always a steadfast opponent of M. Briand's federation scheme, says tonight, "It is evident the news from Geneva played a large part in the market's firmness." A feature of the trading was a large number of investment orders from the provinces where M. Briand's solemn undertaking that so long as he remains in his post there shall be no war has had a profound and reassuring impression.

GENERAL WEYLER AGAIN ILL.

93-Year-Old Spanish Veteran Last Year Had Pneumonia Attack.

PALMA, Spain, Sept. 17 (AP).—Captain General Valeriano Weyler, 93-year-old veteran of Spain's colonial wars and highest ranking officer in King Alfonso's army, is ill again today, his birthday. His illness is considered serious because of the famous soldier's advanced age, and also because of the fact that he had a severe attack of pneumonia last Winter.

General Weyler became ill while he was inspecting his holdings on this Balearic island. His son, Valeriano, is at his bedside, and another son, Fernando, has been called from Madrid to the Weyler estate at San Rocas.

After recovering from his last illness the hardy old warrior let members of his family know how disgusted he was with them because they had become alarmed.

BID BRUENING SEEK CLAIRVOYANT'S AID

Colleagues Plan to Call Upon Brahmin Fortune-Teller in Reich Political Impasse.

LOG-ROLLING MARS PARLEYS

Chancellor Not Sure Parties Will Work With Socialists—Hitler Denies Revolution Is Aim.

By GUIDO ENDERIS.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—The occult skill of a clairvoyant would seem to be required to point a way of escape from the political impasse reached by Chancellor Bruening as a result of the Sunday election for the new Reichstag.

Since the application of party mathematics as familiarly practiced by German political leaders threatens to clutter the Chancellor's negotiations, some of his colleagues are advising him to take recourse to the comforts of clairvoyancy in his present state of perturbation and it is planned to call in Mme. Terfren Laila, a Brahmin fortune teller who arrived from the Balkans today, and invite her to cast a horoscope for Germany's immediate political future.

She boasts a long string of prognostications which have made good and predicts that Max Schmeling will successfully defend the world's heavyweight title three times and that the Prince of Wales will marry next year.

Today's developments suggest that the Chancellor will need something more tangible than the blessings of an auspicious occult science if his government is to prevail, as the drift of interparty parleys is again wholly in the direction of the good old pastime of log-rolling, the perennial bane of every Reichstag crisis.

While the Bruening government prefers to carry out its intention of going before the new Reichstag without commitments which will insure its Parliamentary security, the Chancellor is still without definite promises from the parties now identified with his government that they will work with the Socialists, whose full voting strength in the new Reichstag will be required to keep Dr. Bruening in office. It was decided today to await the return of President von Hindenburg, who is attending the Reichswehr's Autumn manoeuvres in Bavaria, before further exploring the Parliamentary resources at the Chancellor's disposal.

Attempts were made today in quarters close to Dr. Bruening to discredit Dr. Joseph Wirth, Minister of the Interior, who in a radio talk last night declared that the present government required the undivided support of the Socialists, and that neither the Centrists nor their Bavarian allies, the Bavarian People's party, would join a coalition comprising only parties far to the Right. Dr. Wirth, it is now charged, spoke without the Chancellor's authority, and the attempts to disavow him are in line with efforts to prevent Dr. Bruening from concluding an arrangement with the Socialists.

Meanwhile, Adolf Hitler, down in Munich, proclaimed that the German Fascists were not plotting revolution, but that they only proposed to capture "the German soul." Addressing a huge post-election rally, he declared:

"Ours is not a physical revolution, but a revolution of the intellect, and for us Parliament is only a means to an end. Ours is not a Parliamentary party by choice, but through compulsion."

As for the 107 Deputies which the party elected to the Reichstag, Herr Hitler said they would show the nation they could both fence and foil, and would exhaust all the possibilities at their disposal in the new Reichstag to further the party's aims.

"We propose to strike the word 'victory' from our banners and replace it with 'battle,'" he concluded.

Right Merger Broached.

BERLIN, Sept. 17 (AP).—The press continued today to discuss post-election possibilities, among these a suggestion that the Fascist party and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists effect a merger, thereby becoming the largest Reichstag party. Such a coalition would have 148 seats against the Socialists' 143.

According to parliamentary tradition the Hitler-Hugenberg followers could then claim a Reichstag Presidency and urge President von Hindenburg to entrust to them the task of forming a new government.

Whether Dr. Hugenberg would be willing to find himself and his extreme Right followers completely swallowed up by the Hitlerites was regarded as doubtful.

The leaders of the People's, Economic and State parties have been approached by members favorable to a merger for Reichstag voting purposes. Such a coalition would muster a seventy-three seats. Nothing definite along that line developed, however.

TOKYO COUNCIL BODY FAVORS NAVY PACT

Committee Will Recommend Its Ratification Without the Addition of a Rider.

HELD VICTORY FOR CABINET

Decision Seen as Strengthening Ministry's Authority—Full Council to Meet Oct. 1.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, Sept. 17.—The special committee of the Privy Council today decided to recommend the ratification of the London naval treaty unconditionally. The decision of the committee to approve the pact without attaching any rider came as a complete surprise and marked a decisive victory for the Hamaguchi Government.

Count Ito will draft a report for submission to the plenary session of the Privy Council, which will be held on Oct. 1 in the presence of the Emperor. The ratification by the council as a whole is a certainty, as the council has never failed in the past to confirm a decision of the committee.

Count Ito's report is expected to contain some reference to the government's refusal to submit a copy of the findings of the Supreme Military Council and also to touch upon the question of the supreme command and the naval program, which the government admits is necessary to make up the deficit in the London treaty. But it is not expected to contain any censure of the government.

Even the most optimistic observers had not believed the government would escape without censure on the part of the Privy Council, and they had predicted the attachment of a rider to the treaty on the much debated question of the supreme command. Others, less hopeful, had gone to the extent of predicting the committee would shelve the treaty on the ground that the government had not provided the committee with sufficient data for the continuance of its work.

The unexpectedly favorable turn of the attitude of the Privy Council is being attributed this evening to the firm stand taken by the government, which has been strongly supported by public opinion.

The attitude of the Hamaguchi Government stands out in striking contrast to those of former Cabinets which have been grilled by the Privy Council on important State matters and which always adopted rather cringing attitudes. The Hamaguchi Government went so far as to hint at the reform of the Privy Council and to convey to the council that if a breach should develop it really meant to carry out its threat. The government was enabled to take this firm stand on account of the backing of such men as Viscount Makino, Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, and Prince Saionji, the last surviving Genro (elder statesman), who stand close to the throne and who are strong supporters of the naval treaty.

Today's decision brings to an end the long and bitter fight which has marked the progress of the treaty toward ratification and which has been largely a constitutional struggle between the progressive forces and the diehards who are bent on the preservation of the prerogatives handed down by tradition.

The fact that the government escapes censure on the part of the Privy Council on the question of the supreme command is seen as strengthening the authority of the Cabinet in matters affecting the military strength of the nation and as establishing an important precedent for the future.

Today's committee meeting, from which representatives of the government were excluded, gave rise to heated arguments by the opponents of the naval treaty who renewed the charges that the government violated the Constitution in accepting the treaty in face of the naval opposition and that the government had no definite plan regarding a naval program to make up the deficit in the treaty. Supporters of the pact countered with the argument that the Privy Council's only task was either to approve or to reject the treaty on its merits and that all other questions were outside the scope of the council's deliberations.

DROUGHT'S BACK BROKEN.

Some Extensive Areas Still Unrelieved, Weather Bureau States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—The drought was reported today by the Weather Bureau as "substantially relieved or effectively broken" last week over most of the area between the Rocky Mountains and the Appalachians and particularly in States that were previously most dry.

"Some rather extensive areas, however," the report continues, "are still largely unrelieved. These include principally most of Iowa, localities in Northern Illinois, parts of Wisconsin, much of Michigan and considerable sections of Ohio, where recent rains continued of a very local character and were insufficient t relieve the drought conditions."

HINDENBURG VIEWS WAR GAMES IN RAIN

Follows Reichswehr Struggle All Day, Driving in an Open Car in Downpour.

WEARS HIS OLD UNIFORM

"Blues," Strongly Attacking "Reds," Are Forced to Retreat in Turn by Commander-in-Chief.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BAD KISSINGEN, Bavaria, Sept. 17.—President von Hindenburg, clad in his wartime Field Marshal's uniform, drove about all day today in an open car in a pouring rain watching the progress of the Reichswehr manoeuvres and exhibiting an interest than he seldom displays.

Almost eighty-three years weigh on his shoulders as he climbs out of the automobile to put searching tactical questions to some proud but uncomfortable officer whose particular task of the moment strikes the President as interesting, and he needs but a few seconds over a chart before he knows what he would do in those circumstances and waits with twinkling eye for the officer to explain the measures he intends taking.

Sometimes the former Field Marshal nods vigorously in approval and sometimes a quizzical expression crosses his face. But he never says anything. These are manoeuvres to test the abilities of the officers of the Reichswehr and he has no intention of influencing developments.

President von Hindenburg attended as President of the Republic and therefore as the supreme commander of the army. The office, however, carries no uniform, and therefore he appeared in the last uniform he had worn. It was the old type of field gray, differing noticeably from the uniform of those surrounding him. The rain let up in the middle of the afternoon, but by then the old man was well soaked through.

The "Blues" did fine work during the night and throughout the forenoon. They were attacking the "Reds" strongly on a front extending the whole width of the manoeuvre area. The "Reds" were falling back slowly and steadily, meanwhile inflicting as much damage as possible.

Then the powers above took a hand. General Heye, the Commander-in-Chief of the Reichswehr, decided the "Reds" had had enough practice retreating. He caused it to be announced that the mythical "Blue" forces extending miles beyond the actual manoeuvres on either side had suffered reverses and were falling back. There was nothing for it but for the "Blue" General to cease advancing with his six divisions—only one of which was present in full strength, the remaining being represented by staffs and signalers—and order a retreat. The "Reds" had to turn about and seek to hinder the retreat to the best of their ability.

STEFANSSON THINKS ANDREE SUFFOCATED

Cites Own Experience to Back Theory of How Balloonist and Aides Met Death.

TAKES DISPATCH AS CLUE

Lays Tragedy to Stove in "Hut Close to Cliff" or to Snowdrift Burying Shelter.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A suggestion as to the possible fate of Salomon August Andree is given by the explorer Vilhjalmur Stefansson in a letter which will appear in The Times here tomorrow, in which he also compares Andree's attempt with the relief expedition for Sir John Franklin at Dealy Island and his own Arctic expeditions.

Mr. Stefansson asserts the sentence, "The [Andree] hut was built close to the cliff, where it is most steep," from a recent dispatch gives the probable solution of the Andree tragedy if parallel cases are studied.

First he tells how Captain Kellett in 1853 built for Sir John Franklin's possible occupation a hut close to a steep cliff and filled with 280 days' provisions for sixty men, which, he says would have been completely buried in any typical three-day Arctic storm. Then he recounts the experience of the four men sent from the Karluk, one of the ships of his third expedition, to land supplies on Herald Island. They pitched camp under the lee of a cliff and were buried under a snow drift.

"How death came to our men on Herald Island or to Andree on White Island is vivid to four members of my second expedition," Mr. Stefansson continues. "For other reasons than snow blanketing we had too little air in a camp where there was just such a Primus stove as theirs. Two of us collapsed without warning, the third had strength enough to crawl out and open the door and the fourth was too weak to help the others for a quarter of an hour. But he had the presence of mind to extinguish the Primus and arrange for the reviving fresh air to get into the camp.

"We agreed later that there had been no warning except that some of us thought there might have been a sensation of pressure on the temples. For the insidious carbon monoxide gas is colorless and odorless. If our men and Andrée's did not die painlessly in their sleep or around their Primus cooking a meal, it may have been when the snow gradually buried the camp, shut off ventilation and caused a lack of oxygen at a time no carbon monoxide was being generated."

ENCOURAGES FILIPINOS.

Roxas Says Slump Favors Fight for Philippine Independence.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANILA, Sept. 17.—Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the Philippine House of Representatives, spoke tonight on the work of the Philippine independence mission in America and asserted he saw a change in attitude on the part of the United States from indifference to the question of Philippine independence to positive opposition, as evidenced by statements of Cabinet members and members of the Senate Committee on Territories. He stressed the advocacy in the United States of a thirty-year period of Philippine dependence before the granting of independence.

This situation, he said, was welcomed by Filipinos as an opportunity to combat tangible opposition. Moreover, he said, American sentiment was favorable to an intensification freed of the independence campaign because of economic depression and consequent opposition in America to the free entry of Philippine products and labor.

The mission was convinced, he asserted, that Filipinos were ready to assume the national and international burdens of independence and to accept the consequences of the loss of free trade relations, but he warned against violence as needless and useless. He called upon Filipinos to unite in a display of intense nationalism and to this end to adopt a concrete legislative program. Filipino opponents of independence, if there are any, should declare themselves, he said.

He assailed the appointment of Nicholas Roosevelt as Vice Governor but held that opposition to the appointment must continue to be dignified. Senator Sergio Osmena edited the speech.

WARNS RECOGNITION WOULD SPUR SOVIET

Paul Sheffer, German Writer, Says It Would Encourage Revolutionary Moves.

FEARS EFFECT ON WORLD

Asserts America Faces in This Issue the Most Momentous Decision Since Days of Wilson.

A warning against recognition of the Soviet Government by the United States on the ground that it would give encouragement to the Soviet régime to intensify its revolutionary propaganda abroad and enable it to take advantage of the unrest now sweeping Europe as a result of economic depression is given by Paul Scheffer, German publicist, in the October issue of Foreign Affairs, out today.

Writing from his experience as a correspondent in Moscow, where for eight years he was dean of foreign journalists, Mr. Scheffer declares that in uttering his warning he is less concerned with the effects recognition might have on the United States than its possible results in Soviet Russia itself and in Europe.

American recognition, says Mr. Scheffer, far from having the effect of moderating the Soviet policy, would encourage the belief that capitalist States are actuated by greed alone; would strengthen the prestige of the Stalin régime with the Russian people and with the masses of Western Europe; would make the Bolsheviki secure in their feeling that they may pursue unhindered their subversive agitation and activities abroad, and would thus, to a greater degree than ever, aggravate the issue of the very survival of the present order.

Referring to the renewed efforts recently started in this country to bring about recognition of the Soviet Government, Mr. Scheffer writes that "not since the days of President Wilson has America been confronted with a decision fraught with such consequences for Europe."

"If America decides upon recognition," Mr. Scheffer says, "it may hereafter be necessary in history to say that in 1931 she made her deliberate choice between bourgeois Europe and the Soviets."

He points out that, contrary to the theory which inspired the recognition of the Soviet Government by various European States, such recognition has failed to establish "normal" relations between Moscow and Western Europe. With diplomatic immunity as a protection, he asserts, the Soviet Government, directly and through the Communist International, has continued to seek the overthrow of all so-called capitalist States. Thus, he points out, a diplomatic victory such as would be implied for the Soviet Government in American recognition would put it in a position to take advantage of the present unrest and inflammability of political opinion among the masses the world over.

"Efforts to overthrow the present social system may prove abortive," says Mr. Scheffer. "Nevertheless, the effect of them on the economic situation might well be to make existing conditions worse and to hamper recovery."

An American loan to the Soviet Government resulting from recognition of Moscow by "the greatest capitalistic State," as the United States is regarded by the Bolsheviki, Mr. Scheffer avers, would only intensify Stalin's economic program at home. In fact, says Mr. Scheffer, "it may well be that Stalin's plan is unrealizable without such financial buttressing."

BOMBAY POLICE SEARCH AMERICANS' ROOMS

Fail to Find Evidence of Links With Reds—Flats of Mrs. Naidu's Sisters Raided.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, Sept. 17.—A series of police raids was made simultaneously in different parts of the city early today. Among the places searched were the temporary residences of two Americans, described as tourists, and the flats occupied by two sisters of Mrs. Naidu, a Nationalist leader.

The offices of the Red Flag Union and the Young Workers' Union were also searched, and a large quantity of books, papers and unauthorized news sheets were seized.

BOMBAY, Sept. 17 (AP).—The search by the police today of the temporary homes of two Americans in the fashionable Malabar Hill section, it was made known this evening, yielded no evidence of communistic connection.

Harry Somers of Philadelphia and M. W. Kweit of Long Island, N. Y., were subjected to government scrutiny because, the police said, of their association with Mrs. Mambair, a sister of Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, one of Mahatma Gandhi's arrested salt raiders. Mrs. Mambair has been suspected of being one of the leaders of the Communist party in India, according to police records.

The Americans declined to make any comment on the action. Mr. Somers came here from Berlin for health treatment and Mr. Kweit, who has been here since last March, is interested in textiles. The Kweits were said to be preparing to sail on Saturday for Europe.

FRENCH SCIENTISTS PROUD OF CLAUDE

Progress of Sea-Power Plant in Cuba Elates Members of French Academy.

MORE OBSTACLES AHEAD

Formation of Foam in Steam Generator Now a Problem, but Inventor Expresses Confidence.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—French scientists today are jubilant over the success of Professor Georges Claude thus far in his project for generating electricity by utilizing the difference in temperature between ocean water at the bottom and at the surface in tropical regions. With the final connection made in the tube leading to the bottom of Matanzas Bay, Cuba, Professor Claude's admirers here believe the most difficult part of his task is accomplished.

According to word received by the Academy of Sciences from Professor Claude, the prospect for a successful test is excellent.

Members of the Academy of Sciences here are proud of the work of their colleague, which is going forward because of his indomitable faith in his experiment in the face of two disastrous failures in Cuba, once when a storm wrecked a tube and again when an accident occurred while the lowering of a tube was in progress.

Claude Expresses Satisfaction.

By Professor GEORGES CLAUDE.
Copyright, 1930, by Science Service.

MATANZAS, Cuba, Sept. 17.—Our third tube was made in two months by Daime, launched by Vazquez and sunk by me Sept. 7. The submarine connection was only completed Monday, Sept. 15, on account of the roughness of the sea. With it we have now obtained a rate of 4,000 cubic meters per hour of water at 13 degrees centigrade (56 degrees Fahrenheit), against the expected 10½ degrees (52 degrees Fahrenheit), corresponding to a depth of 650 meters [2,132.5 feet]. Except that the warming is a little too extreme, we are well satisfied.

Project in Cuba Described.

HAVANA, Sept. 17 (by Science Service).—There is a spot just offshore at Matanzas, east of here on the Cuban coast, where the ocean bottom suddenly drops downward. A diver, if he could stand the pressure, would find himself plunged into a cold, dark hole where the temperature is believed to be only 48 degrees Fahrenheit, or 16 degrees above freezing. The surface water is 82 degrees Fahrenheit.

This is the place where Georges Claude, French scientist, is experimenting on a gigantic scale with a power plant which will use this temperature difference to operate a turbine.

He has successfully launched an enormous tube of corrugated steel 5 feet 8 inches in diameter, and 6,000 feet (more than a mile) in length. It extends from his laboratory on the shore out and down into the icy hole in the Gulf of Mexico, 1,800 feet below water level. It will bring this cold water up to the laboratory. An intake at the surface brings the warm water up into a sunny reservoir hollowed out of the coral rock, and from there to the plant.

In Professor Claude's laboratory is a huge tank filled with this warm surface water. When this tank is subjected to an exhaustion of air the water boils, creating steam to operate a turbine near by. The big tube will simply be used to bring cold water from the bottom of the bay for suddenly cooling the steam after it is exhausted from the turbine, condensing it back into water and creating a vacuum to operate an air pump, and thus perpetuate the activity.

The whole plant is a gigantic laboratory, where M. Claude is slowly eliminating the many small difficulties which beset his scheme. The presence of gases in the sea water had to be eliminated. The formation of foam in the steam generator is a present problem. And there are many more troublesome details.

Plant to Be Used Only for Test.

M. Claude explained that the present plant would never be used for the production of commercial power. The turbine installed is a comparatively small one, although it is nearly 4 feet in diameter and looks big. It is, in fact, the same fifty-kilowatt plant which he used at Ougrée, Belgium, to conduct experiments of a similar nature on the Meuse River. The amount of water brought in by the tubes at Matanzas would operate a much larger turbine, but it is necessary to use a big cold water pipe so that the water will not become warm before it reaches the plant.

The present tube was launched on Sept. 7 only after great difficulty and two earlier unsuccessful attempts. The whole big pipe was assembled on land, and laid like a gigantic snake on a narrow-gauge railway track from which it could be pulled into the water.

M. Claude's sons, one of them a cool-headed young automotive engineer, came from France to assist their father in his project, and they are devoting full time to helping him where their mechanical knowledge and skill will do the most good. They, with two trusted workmen, were successful in launching the big tube, where a crew of sixty or more Cubans failed earlier in the Summer.

After experiments are completed in Matanzas, the whole plant will be abandoned and M. Claude will build another plant for further experiments elsewhere in Cuba.

SEE LABOR RISING IN REICH.

Moscow Newspapers Hold Poll Shows Gain in Class Consciousness.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—The Soviet press is not unduly excited over the election results in Germany. Yesterday Izvestia and Pravda carried editorials on the poll, and today there are many cartoons showing labor triumphant in different guises. Pravda and Izvestia both hold that the large number of votes cast in favor of Communists and National Socialists [Fascists] are a sign that the people do not like the Young plan. They say that many of those voting Fascist did so because they were confused by the aims and slogans announced by that party and that if they had had a clear idea of the aims of both parties they would have voted Communist.

The editorials take the Marxian attitude that the election results prove the workers are becoming more united and more class conscious under the goad of capitalism and crisis, and that this manifestation is only one of a long chain which will lead eventually to world revolution. Whether they believe the proletarian revolution imminent in Germany is not made clear, but it is certain that they see this as one of the events leading up to it.

300 Men Oppose Sabre Charge of Granada Gendarmes With Hail of Stones.

Strike Situation at Barcelona Is Threatening—Censorship of Press Ends Today.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Sept. 17.—Although the strike situation has improved at Granada and the street cars are running with guards, several clashes between strikers and non-strikers took place today.

The crowds roamed the streets breaking the street lamps and the police were often forced to use the flats of their swords and to fire volleys in the air. There was a free-for-all fight in a newspaper office when agitators tried to provoke a new strike.

In Barcelona, where the strike of the construction unions, according to La Nacion, a pro-government organ, affects 50,000 workers, the situation is threatening. The employers are not disposed to give way to the men's demand that six discharged workers shall be reinstated. This issue and the demand for higher pay are the technical reasons for the stoppage.

Despite the fear that the strike will become general, the city remains quiet. The rumors of serious clashes this morning have proved to be untrue. The Governor has suspended the Socialist paper, the Solidaridad.

"Any fool can govern with a press censorship," said Cavour. Now General Berenguer is going to try to govern without one from tomorrow. The censorship has been in force for seven years. The abrogation of the law will probably test the government's strength. Premier Berenguer returned to Madrid today to be on hand.

No one is quite sure what the reaction of the newspapers will be. There has been no way of stirring public sentiment heretofore and only after the press and speech-making campaigns have progressed will the public interest and feelings be aroused.

GRANADA, Spain, Sept. 17 (AP).—Fourteen persons were injured this afternoon as the police broke up a meeting of 300 strikers. The strikers threw stones, two of the injured being policemen. This was the first serious disorder growing out of the street car operators' strike.

The strikers met early this afternoon and were dispersed. But they reassembled later in the Plaza de Divarrambla, where they opposed the sabers of the gendarmerie with stones and other missiles. Traffic was tied up, the windows of near-by buildings were shattered by the stones and the passersby were terrified.

The demonstration was not broken up until the gendarmes had fired their revolvers in the air several times and had charged with their sabers drawn. Eight strikers were arrested. Order was restored by night and civil guards patrolled the streets.

Emilio Menor, one of the arrested agitators, told the authorities that radical elements had planned the strikes now in progress here and at Barcelona. He said others were scheduled at Bilbao, Renteria, Sagunto, San Fernando, Alcoy, Valencia, Elba, Babalona, Malaga, Seville and Oviedo as a protest against the "dictatorship" of Premier Berenguer.

It is estimated that 3,500 men are out in Granada.

CONQUERING THE PESSIMISM BOGEY

"In many companies the ailment lies in lack of vision, decline of sales enthusiasm, unwise curtailment of advertising, antiquated methods of production. . . . ."

From letter printed in N. Y. Times, Sept. 12th, 1930.

This is sound doctrine. Although comparatively conditions are not entirely favorable, the depression, as the foregoing extract implies, is in a large number of instances purely psychological. Opportunities for profit in all lines still abound undiminished.

Don't flounder about in despair—helpless—and resigned to this delusive Monster of Depression.

U. S. WILL RECOGNIZE THREE NEW REGIMES

ments are de facto in control of their respective countries and that there is no active resistance to their rule. Each of the present governments has also made it clear that it is its intention to fulfill its respective international obligations and to hold in due course elections to regularize its status.

"The action of the United States in thus recognizing the present Argentine, Peruvian and Bolivian Governments does not represent any new policy or change of policy by the United States toward the nations of South America or the rest of the world.

"I have deemed it wise to act promptly in this matter in order that in the present economic situation our delay may not embarrass the people of these friendly countries in re-establishing their normal intercourse with the rest of the world."

Several Recognitions Already.

The three South American governments have already been recognized by several countries and it is understood that Great Britain is prepared to extend recognition immediately. United States officials, however, have declined from the first to admit that there was any "race" for what might be a mythical prestige through being the first to extend an official hand to the revolutionary governments.

Moreover, Secretary Stimson said today that the decision of the United States to accord recognition was reached entirely independently of other countries. Representatives of numerous other countries have made inquiries as to the probable action of the United States, he added, and there have been exchanges of views, but the conclusions of the United States Government were based entirely upon its own inquiries and facts, while there has been no agreement for simultaneous recognition on the part of the United States and Great Britain, France or other countries.

Precedent Declared Followed.

"In acting toward these three governments in the matter of recognition," Mr. Stimson continued, "we are following the regular rules of international law and the regular policy which has characterized this country ever since the first Secretary of State announced it—Mr. Jefferson in the administration of President Washington.

"But with certain countries there are differences made by treaty, either with us or between each other. For example, the five Central American countries have entered into a treaty between themselves in which they agreed not to recognize any government which came into office by virtue of a coup d'état or a revolution. That was done in 1923, and, although we were not a party to the treaty, we were in hearty accord with it and we agreed on our part that we would follow the same policy with respect to the five republics who had agreed upon it.

Hughes Statement Quoted.

"Mr. Hughes stated the attitude of our government in regard to these five Central American governments in 1923 as follows:

" 'The attitude of the Government of the United States with respect to the recognition of new governments in the five Central American republics whose representatives signed at Washington on Feb. 7, 1923, a general treaty of peace and amity, to which the United States was not a party, but with the provisions of which it is in the most hearty accord, will be consonant with the provisions of Article II thereof, which stipulates that the contracting parties "will not recognize any other government which may come into power in any of the five republics through a coup d'état or a revolution against a recognized government, so long as the freely elected representatives of the people thereof have not constitutionally reorganized the country."

Certain Persons Barred.

" 'And even in such a case they obligate themselves not to acknowledge the recognition if any of the persons elected as president, vice president or chief of state designate should fall under any of the following heads:

" '1. If he should be the leader or one of the leaders of a coup d'état, or revolution, or through blood relationship or marriage, be an ascendent or descendent or brother of such leader or leaders.

" '2. If he should have been a Secretary of State or should have held some high military command during the accomplishment of the coup d'état, the revolution, or while the election was being carried on, or if he should have held this office or command within the six months preceding the coup d'état, revolution, or the election.'

"Those were very stringent restrictions which the different countries entered into by treaty between themselves with the objective, evidently, of discouraging a revolution or coup d'état within the five republics, and we endorsed that policy so far as those five countries are concerned.

Different From General Policy.

"It is quite different from the general policy of this country and of the general policy of international law toward the recognition of governments in the world at large.

"There are also other exceptions based on treaties. We have a special treaty with Cuba which also changes the general rule of international law and imposes on this country greater obligations in regard to Cuba than we have toward other nations, and we have treaties with other nations like Haiti, and there may be others. I am not trying to give an exclusive list, but those are all exceptions to the general policy which we are carrying out with regard to the three governments in South America."

One of the first acts of President Uriburu of Argentina after he has been informed of the recognition tomorrow by Ambassador Bliss is expected to be the naming of an Ambassador to the United States, a post which was vacant for the two years in office of Señor Irigoyen, whose isolationist policies had extended to even non-cooperation with the Pan American Union.

Uriburu Pledged to Friendliness.

President Uriburu is pledged to a policy of friendly cooperation with the United States and of participation in the activities of the Pan American Union.

Both Bolivia and Peru have had close diplomatic relations with the United States under their previous governments and little, if any, change in these relations is looked for from their new governments.

Conjecture in New York financial circles as to whether the Argentine Government might invite a survey of its currency and fiscal problems by a financial commission composed largely of Americans lacked any authoritative confirmation here. The impression prevailed in official circles, however, that Argentina would not have its financial affairs subjected to scrutiny by a foreign mission, at least under circumstances that might amount to having a foreign financial advisership set up.

Private Accounting Plan Hinted.

It is believed possible that some plan of private accounting may be arranged for United States bankers, should Argentina desire to place a loan in this country for refunding or other operations. It was pointed out in this connection that there has been no comprehensive statement of Argentine governmental finances for several years. The State Department said, however, that it had heard nothing on this subject.

Heads of the diplomatic missions of Argentina, Bolivia and Peru were delighted by the announcement of recognition but had no comment to make. They were summoned to the State Department early today and informed of the step that was being taken.

The revolution which resulted in the present provisional government of Bolivia occurred on June 25 of this year; that in Peru on Aug. 25; and that in Argentina on Sept. 6.

With recognition of the three new governments tomorrow, the United States will enjoy normal diplomatic relations with all Latin-American governments, and with all the other governments of the world except Russia.

BRITISH RECOGNITION FOR TWO

London Plans Immediate Action on Argentina and Peru.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The British Government is about to recognize the new governments of Argentina and Peru simultaneously. At least a preliminary step in that direction will be taken at the same time in the case of the two countries. This will consist of sending communications to Provisional President Uriburu and Acting President Sánchez Cerro that it is not considered that diplomatic relations with the countries concerned are in any way affected by the recent changes in governments.

No decision has been reached by the Foreign Office with reference to the revolutionary government in Bolivia.

Cuba Recognizes All Three.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 17.—President Gerardo Machado and his Cabinet, at a meeting today, recognized the new governments of Argentina, Bolivia and Peru.

France Also Acts Today.

PARIS, Sept. 17 (AP).—The Foreign Office made it known this afternoon that France would recognize the new governments of Peru and Argentina tomorrow.

Spain Recognizes All Three.

MADRID, Sept. 17 (AP).—The new governments in Argentina, Bolivia and Peru received the diplomatic recognition of their mother country today.

The Duke of Alba, who is King Alfonso's Minister of Foreign Affairs, instructed the Spanish Government's representatives in Buenos Aires, La Paz and Lima to inform the Foreign Offices in those capitals that the recent changes in government there in no way affected the friendliness that had existed between them and Madrid.

Recognition by 11 Countries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 17.—The United States, Austria, Denmark, Norway and France announced today that formal diplomatic recognition of the de facto government of Argentina would be extended promptly, making eleven governments which have taken such action without any overtures having been made by the provisional government. The movement is the result of laudatory reports from the respective legations of the foreign nations and of their business organizations in Buenos Aires.

The British Ambassador plans to visit the Minister of Foreign Affairs tomorrow, and it is understood that he will announce British recognition. The Legation of Finland also has received instructions to announce recognition.

Immediately after discounting the first allotment of Treasury notes under the credit of 100,000,000 pesos opened by local banks the provisional government cabled funds to Europe today for part payment of a long overdue note for recently constructed warships, former President Irigoyen's Administration having allowed these payments to fall into arrears.

Denies Fugitives Are Exiles.

An official communication handed to newspaper correspondents today says the Provisional Government has not deported a single person and that exiles now in neighboring countries fled because they feared prosecution for graft and other irregularities they knew would be discovered. It also announced that a government clerk earning $100 a month had accumulated $552,000 in the two years of Señor Irigoyen's last administration.

One of the first moves of the new police régime has been the renewal of the campaign against organized white slavers, who were denounced by the Jewish Society for the Protection of Women and Girls. The investigation was begun several months ago, but the police refused to cooperate with the investigating judge. The investigation was renewed today with the determination to exterminate the band of white slavers.

News Welcomed in Peru.

LIMA, Sept. 17 (AP).—The decision of the United States to recognize the new Peruvian Government, which recently overthrew President Augusto B. Leguia, is viewed here as welcome news, although officials refused definite comment.

It is felt that the action of the United States not only will increase the legal standing of the government but will help settle several Peruvian-American questions—among them the arrest of Lieut. Commander Harold B. Grow, who is still detained, and an American engineer, Charles W. Sutton. Commander Grow was arrested after the revolution started on charges that, as head of the Peruvian air forces under Señor Leguia, he intended to bomb the city of Arequipa. Mr. Sutton was accused of mishandling funds of the Lambayeque irrigation works.

Observers also feel that the recognition will be reflected in the financial realm, with quotations on the Peruvian sol improving.

The United States Ambassador, Fred M. Dearing, will officially notify the Foreign Office of his government's action tomorrow.

Plans Ready in Bolivia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LA PAZ, Sept. 17.—At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the United States Minister will visit the Bolivian Foreign Office to announce resumption of full diplomatic relations.

The new United States Minister, Mr. Feeley, will then present his credentials.

CHILE CELEBRATES TODAY.

Oldest South American Country to Mark 120th Independence Day.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 17 (AP).—Chile, whose sovereignty dates back further than that of any country in South America, will be 120 years old tomorrow.

Chile became independent Sept. 18, 1810, when a general town meeting in Santiago forced the Spanish Governor to resign and voted his powers to a military junta of seven members. Chileans, when drinking toasts to Mexico yesterday, felt they had started to celebrate their own national anniversary. Mexico proclaimed herself independent Sept. 16, 1810.

The year 1810 marked the initiation of liberation movements in Spanish colonies of North and South America, Napoleon's intervention in Spain causing the mother country to withhold her sternest opposition.

Receptions will be given tomorrow by President Carlos Ibañez and United States Ambassador William S. Culbertson in celebration of Chile's birthday.

WON'T RUN FOR PARLIAMENT

Ishbel MacDonald Declines Scottish Candidature.

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP).—Miss Ishbel MacDonald, eldest daughter of the Prime Minister, has declined an invitation to become a Parliamentary candidate for Moray and Nairn. This constituency embraces Lossiemouth, her Scottish ancestral home, where her father consequently has a vote.

Miss MacDonald is a member of the London County Council and is active in social work, but so far has refused chances to become a Member of Parliament.

SAYS SPIES TAPPED M'CORMICK PHONE

Editor's Photographic Evidence Rejected by Nye When He Avoids Accusing Committee.

DILL BLAMES LOCAL FOES

Senators, With Patterson Silent, Finally Refuse to Hear Carlstrom on His Espionage Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Photographic evidence that the two telephone lines leading to the Byron (Ill.) farm of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick had been tapped was unexpectedly placed before the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee today by one of its witnesses. The committee is meeting here to investigate the source and distribution of Mrs. McCormick's funds in her successful campaign for the Republican Senatorial nomination.

Tentatively, the committee decided the day before not to hear testimony on espionage and wire-tapping offered by Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, Mrs. McCormick's counsel. Then, just before the surprise evidence came out, three of the four committee members present drafted a letter to the Attorney General making the refusal final.

The letter was the answer to the written request of Mr. Carlstrom that he be permitted to present his evidence at the earliest possible moment. The negative reply was signed by Chairman Gerald P. Nye, insurgent Republican of North Dakota; Senators Robert F. Wagner of New York and Clarence C. Dill of Washington, Democrats. Senator Roscoe Patterson, Republican, of Missouri, refused to sign.

Editor Displays Photographs.

The witness, who displayed a series of photographs showing in detail how the telephone wires from Mrs. McCormick's farm had been connected by a wire that led to a deserted house two miles away, was Barney Thompson, publisher and part owner of The Rockford (Ill.) Daily Republic, of which Mrs. McCormick is the controlling stockholder.

After testifying that Mrs. McCormick bought the majority of the stock in the paper, which is in her home district, to prevent it from being "junked" and to save him from being "frozen out," and after explaining his reasons for not wishing to disclose what she paid for the stock, Mr. Thompson was told by the committee that he was through. Then he began to volunteer his additional testimony.

The witness exhibited three photographs, which, he said, proved that telephone lines leading to Mrs. McCormick's farm home had been "tapped." After the discovery, he said, the line was traced to a lean-to near an abandoned farmhouse. These events were subsequent to Mrs. McCormick's return from Washington in June.

"This is an interesting exhibit of the actions of the opposition to Mrs. McCormick," Senator Dill said, "but it is of no interest to the committee."

"Do you imply that this was done by the committee or on its orders?" Senator Nye demanded.

"It doesn't require any great stretch of the imagination to think that," Mr. Thompson said.

"We have recognized the seriousness of these so-called wire-tapping charges," Senator Nye told the witness. "We have satisfied ourselves as thoroughly as any one can be satisfied that no member of this committee, or any of its employes, has had anything to do with any such thing.

Demands Charge by Witness.

"Throughout this hearing we have heard the name of David S. Groh. Mr. Groh has not been an employe of this committee. Mr. Groh has not been employed by any employe of this committee. Not one penny of this committee's money has been paid to Mr. Groh for any such purpose."

"I regard wire-tapping and such actions, shadowing, to be indefensible," interrupted Senator Wagner. "It savors of intimidation."

"The committee will not further permit itself to be drawn away from the purpose for which it is here," Senator Nye said, "unless you are prepared to state that this committee is definitely connected with this wire-tapping incident. Do you now make that statement?"

"In the public mind this committee will be felt to be connected with such thoughts," Mr. Thompson replied.

"Just as man to man," he said to Chairman Nye, "you ought to give Mrs. McCormick a chance to clinch this and prove to you, all the way from the committee right up to the deserted house, that it is under the direction of the committee."

At the close of the day Senator Nye said the committee may wind up its Chicago hearings tomorrow and that it may not resume them again until after the November election.

Mrs. McCormick was not present. She was speaking in Springfield before a Republican World War veterans' organization.

Pilot Ray Lands Almost Vertically in 1,000-Foot Descent.

TETERBORO, N. J., Sept. 17.—James Ray, chief test pilot for Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., of Philadelphia, landed here this afternoon in the autogiro that he flew at the national air races in Chicago.

Ray set his windmill plane down almost vertically from a thousand feet and had a forward speed of about five miles an hour when he landed. The wheels rolled less than ten feet. The autogiro in place of the conventional wing has four revolving vanes which allow steep descents.

Predicts Early End for Trains.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Addressing the opening session of the twenty-eighth annual convention of the National Petroleum Association at the Hotel Traymore this afternoon, Captain E. V. Rickenbacker, vice president of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, predicted that in 1950 there would be 50,000,000 automobiles in the United States; that passenger trains would pass out of use within fifteen years, and that the railroads would use airplanes.

SAY SUSPECTS GOT CAPONE GUNS HERE

Police Trace Alleged Source of Gangsters' Weapons to Brooklyn Sports Store.

THREE HELD AFTER CHASE

Two Machine Guns and 200 Rounds of Ammunition Revealed in Auto After Arrests.

In the arrest of three men, arraigned in Tombs Court yesterday, the police believed they had taken an important step toward breaking up a traffic in machine guns and ammunition which they said had supplied to gangsters materials for their wars in a half dozen Western cities.

The three men were Cornelius Dertschinger, proprietor of the Hudson Sporting Goods Company at 52 Warren Street; Charles di Benedetto, proprietor of a bowling alley in Buffalo, and Joseph Bonaventura, a barber of 4,009 Church Avenue, Brooklyn.

Dertschinger, the police charged, was a source of supply for machine guns and ammunition, and Benedetto and Bonaventura had purchased weapons there.

Within recent weeks, the police said, there had been several shipments of machine guns and ammunition from New York to Chicago, Detroit, Gary, Ind., and other cities. One such shipment, according to the police, appeared to have gone to lieutenants of Al Capone, Chicago racketeer.

The arrests were made here on Tuesday evening and followed two weeks' investigation of reports that New York harbored arsenals from which gangsters were supplied. The investigation was directed by Captain Richard Oliver, who assigned Detectives Frank Phillips and Ray Renshaw, together with two undercover detectives.

The detectives heard that machine guns were being sold by the Hudson Sporting Goods Company and set a watch there. They reported that they saw Benedetto and Bonaventura enter the place several times and leave carrying heavy packages.

On Tuesday the detectives trailed the two men to Brooklyn after they had entered an automobile parked near City Hall. The detectives, following in a taxicab, raced ahead and forced the automobile to stop. In the car, the police said, were two Thompson submachine guns and 200 rounds of ammunition.

Detective Phillips jumped out with his pistol drawn and found Benedetto with a pistol in his lap. Benedetto said he had a permit to carry it and displayed such a permit purporting to have been issued by Judge Rowe of Erie County. The detectives took the men to New York Police Headquarters, and on the way, they said, the prisoners tried to reach a loaded pistol hidden behind the seat cushions.

On charges of grand larceny, based on the allegation that they had stolen the automobile in which they were found, Benedetto and Bonaventura were held in $2,000 bail each. Benedetto was held without bail on an additional charge of violating the Sullivan law. Dertschinger was held in $1,500 bail for the Court of General Sessions on a charge of selling firearms without a permit.

Commissioner Mulrooney ordered a canvass of other hardware and sporting goods stores to learn whether any of them were supplying gangsters.

Schoolboy, Struck by Auto, Dies.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 17.—Clayton Norris, 7 years old, son of Mrs. Lillian Norris, who lives on the Pluckemin Road, near here, died late last night at the Somerset Hospital, Somerville, of injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile while returning from school yesterday.

MRS. BLACK SEEKS FULL DOWER RIGHT

Renounces Claims Under Will in Move to Obtain Third of the Whole Estate.

WOULD GET LARGER SUM

Baltimore Airman and Financier Left Her Third of $3,000,000 After $650,000 Bequests.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Jessie Gary Black, widow of Van Lear Black, financier and airman, who disappeared from his yacht off the coast of New Jersey several weeks ago, today filed a petition renouncing all claims in her behalf in Mr. Black's will and applying for her dower right of a third of the whole estate.

By the terms of the will, Mrs. Black would receive about a third of the residuary estate after many other bequests, totaling more than $650,000, had been paid. The estate is estimated at more than $3,000,000.

Mrs. Black is a daughter of the late General James A. Gary, former Postmaster General and national Republican leader.

The petition, which was filed in Orphans' Court through Mrs. Black's attorneys, said:

"I, Jessie Gary Black, widow of Van Lear Black, late of Baltimore City, do hereby renounce and quit all claims to any bequests of devise made to me by the last will and testament of my husband, exhibited and approved according to law, and I elect to take in lieu my legal share of both real and personal property of my husband."

Maryland law provides that a widow is entitled to a third of the estate as a dower right. The choice of accepting the terms of the will or renouncing them and accepting instead the dower right is left to the widow. The amount Mrs. Black would receive under the will would be considerably less than what she would receive by her dower rights.

Mrs. Black's name is not mentioned in the will, the clause which provides for her appearing to the effect that "I direct my trustee to stand possessed of the residue of my estate in trust for such person or persons as would have been entitled to the same according to the laws of the State of Maryland had I died intestate."

PUPILS GATHER HARVEST.

100 East Side Children Take Crops From School Gardens.

One hundred school children of the lower east side met in Seward Park, East Broadway and Essex Street, yesterday afternoon to harvest the produce of garden plots they have tended all Summer, as members of the Gardening Clubs of the Educational Alliance. Prizes, awarded by the trustees of the organization for best attendance and effort and by Edward J. Miller of the Department of Parks for the best vegetables, were handed to the winners by Dr. Henry Fleischman, director of the Educational Alliance.

The quarter-acre patch, one of seven maintained in various parts of the city by the Educational Alliance under the direction of Walter R. Herrick, Park Commissioner, produced more than $400 worth of garden truck. In addition to cultivating their individual plots, each less than 4 by 6 feet in size, the children tended educational plots of peanuts, cotton and tobacco, as an aid to the study of horticulture.

Prize winners for best attendance and effort were:

Fred Laken of 171 East Broadway, Hyman Marcus, 81 Orchard Street; Jerome Feildman, 185 Henry Street; Lena Saltzman, 52 Ludlow Street; Mary Jocth, 24 Norfolk Street, and Rebecca Repose, 14 Hester Street.

Those who received Mr. Miller's prizes for the best vegetables were:

Jacob Eggert, 345 East Third Street; David Alterowitz, 90 Orchard Street; Elizabeth Leshnack, 27 Allen Street, and Josie Jocth, 24 Norfolk Street.

John David

-a name that is more than a name

by SIR CHARLES HIGHAM
The famous British Author and Publicist

TO thousands of men in New York, John David is the name on a number of unusually distinctive shops. No more than that! That was what the name meant to me before I met John David. Then I discovered that back of that name was a living personality. A man who by sheer ability and courage had built up a great business that was his pride and joy. He was doing what he liked to do. How many of us are doing that? He does not travel to Europe every year for pleasure and yet he gets great pleasure from these trips. Why? Because he is looking out everywhere for new ideas, new designs, new styles, that will make it possible for him to maintain his leadership as the men's dresser of New York – and he does it. Go to his shops with the same open mind that I did, and you will see what I saw - a place where a manly man can buy nearly everything he needs and keep well dressed for much less than he had ever done before.

TIRE DEALERS FIGHT STANDARD OIL SALES

90 Attend Meeting Here Urging Cooperative Plan to Combat Service Station Policy.

PRICE CUTTING DENOUNCED

Leaders Adopt Rule to Abolish Abuses in Trade—Rubber Companies Criticized.

Measures to combat the competition resulting from the recent decision of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and affiliated companies to sell automobile tires at their service stations were taken last night at a mass meeting of the Greater New York Tire Dealers' Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Means of meeting competition of national mail order houses selling tires, the retail outlets of several large tire manufacturing concerns and of direct sales to large corporations and firms also were considered by the dealers' organization.

Ninety of New York's largest tire dealers whose volume of sales is said to be millions of dollars a year attended the meeting.

More extensive sale on a nationwide basis of their own brand of tire, cooperatively marketed, was urged last night as one of the best weapons the dealers have in the present trade war. Abolition of "abuses," such as varying rebates, price-cutting, reduced prices of tires for employes of large corporations buying through their purchasing agents and other practices, was recommended and adopted without dissent.

But while criticism was leveled at the rubber companies for fostering competition against the independent dealer, several speakers last night declared the dealers "ought to do some house-cleaning of our own" to merit the confidence of the manufacturers and the public.

J. S. Siskind, head of the Arrow Tire Company, 920 Eighth Avenue, declared:

"It must be admitted that the tire dealers are also at fault in the present situation, otherwise manufacturers would not be looking elsewhere for sales outlets. We must establish a consumers' price list to overcome the suspicion that we are a 'gyp' business."

Speaking of the demoralized conditionof the retail tire business, L. A. Brown of M. Myers, Inc., 216 West Forty-eighth Street, urged that tire dealers refuse to do business with manufacturers who placed the independent dealer at a price disadvantage in the present trade conflict. Some dealers urged that a demand be made upon tire manufacturers to cease soliciting business direct from larger accounts "at prices far below our costs."

George J. Berger, president of the United Tire Stores Corporation of America, who presided at the meeting, complained that national mail-order houses were selling tires at about 25 per cent below standard prices. The sales of tires through mail-order houses within the last year, it was estimated, exceeded $50,000,000.

A price-cutting war among leading rubber manufacturers also was cited by some of the dealers as being a contributing cause of present unstabilized conditions in the local trade.

FINDS GUNMAN IN CHURCH.

Priest Routs Masked Man Prior to Funeral of Radium Victim.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 17.—A masked intruder was found early this morning in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, South Centre Street, Orange, when the Rev. John Remigno entered to prepare for the funeral of Mrs. Anna Stasi, who died Saturday as the result of radium poisoning. According to the priest, the man, who appeared to be armed, made his escape through a rear door.

Mrs. Stasi, who was 27 years old, was buried in St. John's Cemetery. She left her husband, Dominick, a tailor, and a 3-year-old daughter, Dolly, who will be examined in an effort to determine whether or not she is suffering from the disease which her mother contracted, it is said, when employed by the United States Radium Corporation from 1918 to 1922, painting watch dials.

Panama Deputy Introduces Bill for Government Monopoly.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, Sept. 17.—The control of wireless communication here, considered essential for the protection and operation of the Panama Canal, would be taken from the United States if the National Assembly passed a bill introduced by Deputy Hector Conte, giving the government of Panama monopoly control of such means of communication except in areas excepted by treaty.

This control was granted to the United States by Presidential decree in 1919 and also provided in the treaty of 1926, which the National Assembly refused to pass. No objections at the time, however, were made to radio control.

The bill of Deputy Conte also authorizes the government to censor any communications which may be considered dangerous for the security of the government or for international harmony or which may be contrary to the laws of the country.

The newspaper El Tiempo charges this is another attempt to embarras President Arosemena by placing him in the position of being unpatriotic if he defends the control already granted to the United States. The paper also reports it is informed the American Minister is preparing to bring the matter to the attention of the Foreign Office and the President.

WOMEN WETS MAKE DRIVE.

Meeting at Forest Hills Part of New Membership Campaign.

A meeting of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform was held at the home of Mrs. Joseph S. Maxwell, 229 Greenway South, Forest Hills, Queens, yesterday afternoon to enroll new members in the New York division. The speakers were Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley, chairman of the committee on political and legislative activities, and Mrs. Mabel Jacques Eichel, vice chairman of the State meetings committee. Mrs. Arthur N. Penn of Forest Hills presided.

Both speakers dwelt upon the assertion that the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment had resulted in hypocrisy among Representatives in Congress, many of whom although wet in practice voted dry at Washington, they said. In some cases, they said, they had found that drys at home voted wet in Washington. The meeting yesterday was held as one of a series to increase the membership.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Governor Ritchie tonight made an emphatic move to block any effort to endorse him by resolution for the Presidency at the Democratic State convention tomorrow.

Writing to Senator Tyding, chairman of the convention, the Governor asked that if such a resolution of endorsement should be offered, the convention should refrain from acting on it. He declared that "the proceedings of our convention tomorrow should not be diverted from the issues of the present campaign in this State by any consideration of who our next nominee for the Presidency ought to be."

$5,000,000 SCHOOL STARTED BY WALKER

He Turns First Ground for Brooklyn Technical High as 1,000 Look On.

HEAT FELLS TWO STUDENTS

Mayor, Directing Aid for Boys, Jokingly Refers to Knocking Out Young Men by His Speech.

More than 1,000 persons, including 400 students of the old Brooklyn Technical High School, were present yesterday to watch Mayor Walker, demonstrating his ability to handle a steam shovel, turn over the first bit of ground on the site of the New Brooklyn Technical High School, a $5,000,000 structure to be erected at De Kalb Avenue and South Eliot and Fort Green Places, Brooklyn.

The Mayor had spoken only a few words from the platform when a boy in the front ranks of the spectators collapsed from the heat. The Mayor was the first to see the boy fall, and directed his removal to a near-by fire house where first aid treatment was administered. Upon continuing his speech, the Mayor noticed that another boy had collapsed.

"I would not have believed I could knock out two men in such a short time," Mayor Walker exclaimed. "This is the first experience of this kind I've had in thirty years of public life. Both these boys are at least thirty years younger than I am, so I guess there's still some kick in the old gray mare."

The boys, who responded quickly to the first-aid measures, gave their names as Bruno Kopel, 483 Seventy-ninth Street, Brooklyn, and Vieno Kaven, 640 Forty-sixth Street, Brooklyn. Both are seniors in the present Technical High School.

The Mayor said that his hesitancy in regard to alloting the money necessary for the new school was due not to any disbelief in its desirability, but because he wanted first to be certain that there was a seat for every child in grammar school.

"I am particularly glad I came here today, in order to explain regarding my action when the matter was first proposed," Mayor Walker asserted. "It had been said that I was opposed to the construction of such a school because I believed that some one was 'riding a hobby.' I was not at all out of sympathy with the plan, but there were many things to be considered at that time with regard to the city budget. While there were not enough seats in the elementary schools I could not see my way clear to favor a proposition which would cost more than $5,000,000 to complete."

When he had finished speaking, Mayor Walker walked to the huge steam shovel and seated himself at the controls. After turning over the first shovelful of dirt he was asked by the engineer how he liked operating a steam shovel. "I like my own job better," the Mayor remarked.

John E. Ruston, president of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, who defended the proposition of the new school when it came up for consideration the second time before the Board of Education, said we were living in a "mechanical age" and that such a school was a necessity in a city such as New York. This is the only large city in the country, he said, which does not possess a school to answer the requests of boys who wish an industrial or technical education.

Borough President Hesterberg said that the former cognomen of Brooklyn, namely, "The City of Churches," was fast changing to "a city of schools." He emphasized that some of the finest schools in the country were situated in Brooklyn.

Arthur S. Somers, member of the Board of Education, presided at the ground-breaking exercises, in the absence of Christopher C. Mollenhauer. The invocation was spoken by the Rev. Joseph F. Conway, who represented Bishop Thomas E. Molloy. The benediction was given by Rabbi Sidney Tedesche of the Union Temple, Brooklyn. The other speakers were George J. Ryan, president of the Board of Education; Dr. William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools, and the Rev. Stanley G. Tyndall, former president of the Parents' Association of the Brooklyn Technical High School.

SEEKS TO REGAIN DAUGHTER

Mrs. R. T. Baker Acts Against O. E. Cromwells, Kin of Child.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Raymond T. Baker of New York served a habeas corpus upon Mr. and Mrs. O. Eaton Cromwell at the Harriman Cottage here today as a step in regaining the custody of her daughter, Miss Christine Cromwell.

A restraining order preventing the removal of the girl from the jurisdiction of the Rhode Island courts has been issued by Judge Hugh B. Baker of the Superior Court. The case has been set down for a hearing Oct. 6.

Mrs. Baker was the former wife of James H. R. Cromwell, from whom she was divorced several years ago. According to an agreement made as a stipulation in the divorce, the custody of the child remained with her uncle and aunt, the O. Eaton Cromwells, until Sept. 15, 1930. On this date the child was to be returned to the custody of her mother.

When the O. E. Cromwells failed Monday to obey the stipulation and the father, James H. R. Cromwell, took no steps, Mrs. Baker instituted action.

34 CHARITIES AIDED IN MEISELMAN WILL

Bulk of $750,000 Estate of Retired Fur Merchant Goes to Jewish Institutions.

MINOR LEGACIES TO FAMILY

Document Explains Former Immigrant, Childless, Seeks Remembrance in Benevolences.

Jewish charitable institutions will inherit the greater part of the $750,000 estate left by Morris Meiselman, retired fur merchant, under the terms of his will, which was filed in the Surrogate's Court in Brooklyn yesterday. Mr. Meiselman died at his home, 1,475 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, on Sept. 5.

Although the widow, Mrs. Celia Meiselman, inherits a comparatively small part of the estate, Isidor Wels, attorney and trustee, said the charitable provisions of the will had been made with her approval and that a safeguarding clause, inserted in the will to circumvent the section of the decedents' estates law, which directs that not more than half of an estate shall be given to charity when the widow survives, had been included only as a formality.

Mr. Meiselman formerly conducted a fur business at 114 West Twenty-sixth Street. He came to this country as an immigrant, and after amassing a fortune retired about five years ago to devote his time to managing realty and mortgage investments. He had no children.

The widow inherits $50,000 outright, besides personal effects, jewelry and furnishings, and receives the income for life from $200,000. Trust funds of $25,000 each are provided for two sisters, Mrs. Mamie Mallman of 1,103 Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, and Mrs. Fannie Brettschneider of 1,462 Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, who also receive $2,000 legacies. Four brothers, Joseph, Isidor, Elias and Harry Meiselman, receive $2,000 each, and similar amounts are provided for nieces and nephews.

The residuary estate and the principal of the trust funds after the deaths of the widow and sisters are to be divided among thirty-four Jewish charities in varying shares. This distribution is to be proportionate to the amount of the specific legacy given to each. In connection with these bequests Mr. Meiselman explained in his will:

"In making the provision for these beds and for the expenditure of a substantial sum for a mausoleum, I am not prompted by a desire to exploit my name; my estate represents the hard work and savings of a lifetime, and as it will not be my good fortune to leave any descendant, I desire in this way to leave behind a record of my earthly existence."

The charities benefited by the amounts of the specific bequests are:

$10,000—Home of the Daughters of Jacob, Jewish Consumptives Relief Society of Denver, Hebrew Institute of Borough Park, Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives of Denver, Israel Zion Hospital of Brooklyn, Brooklyn Hebrew Home for the Aged.

$7,500—Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids, Beth Israel Hospital, Mount Sinai Hospital.

$5,000—United Hebrew Charities, Hebrew Orphan Asylum, Machzikei Talmud Torah, Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, Rabbi Jacob Joseph School on Henry Street, Palestine Foundation Fund (Keren Hayesod), Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, Hebrew Day Nursery on Henry Street, Pride of Judea Orphans Home, Borough Park Hebrew Aid Association of Brooklyn, General Jewish Hospital Sahaari Zedek of Jerusalem.

$2,500—Jewish Maternity Hospital, Jewish Orphan Asylum of Brownsville, Hebrew Free Burial Society, Hebrew Free Burial Association on Second Street, Hebrew Technical Institute of Stuyvesant Place, Hebrew Technical School for Girls on Second Avenue, Day Nursery of the Daughters of Israel, Hebrew National Orphan House, Hebrew Day and Night Nurseries, Israel Orphan Asylum, Home of the Sons and Daughters of Israel.

BURY ITALIAN EMBASSY AIDE

Distinguished Gathering at Funeral of Gino Cantu in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—The funeral of Gino Cantu, director of commercial services at the Italian Embassy, who died suddenly last Saturday, was held today at the Church of St. Honoré d'Eylau in the presence of a large and distinguished assemblage of members of the diplomatic corps and the Italian and American colonies.

A number of French personalities prominent in public life also attended, including Marshal Lyautey, Mme. Petain, wife of Marshal Petain, and officials of the Ministry of Commerce. Signor Boscarelli, Chargé d'Affaires at the Italian Embassy, and members of the embassy staff were also present.

Signor Cantu is survived by his widow, who was Miss Gertrude Corrigan of Columbus, Ohio. He served with distinction in the Italian Flying Corps during the war and received numerous decorations, among which were the Legion of Honor and Distinguished Service Order of Great Britain. He was known in Washington, where he served on special missions for his government.

The Fascist organization in France attended the services officially and rendered Fascist honors.

CONCEDES ILLINOIS TO WETS

State Dry League Head Says They Rule Election Machinery.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—George B. Safford, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, today conceded victory for the wet forces in the State-wide referendum on prohibition at the November election.

"Under present circumstances," he said, "there seems no chance to win in the referendum. The wets are in control of the election machinery of both parties in Cook County. They have not proposed this referendum with the idea of letting the drys win. They expect to produce enough wet votes in Illinois by fair means and foul to overcome any dry vote that can be produced by the State.

"When it comes to voting for candidates individually, the drys have a chance because the choice is by districts, but in connection with the Senatorial seat or a State-wide referendum the decision is made by the State as a whole and that gives the Cook County wets their commanding opportunity to control."

Archbishop Matheson Ill.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The Most Rev. S. P. Matheson, head of the Church of England in Canada, was taken from his hotel here to the Civic Hospital under his doctor's orders tonight. He was suffering from the strain undergone at a church conference.

Archbishop Matheson will be 78 years old on Saturday. "Just tired out; nothing serious," Dr. George S. McCarthy, his physician, announced.

MRS. CRATER FACES SUMMONS BY CRAIN

Prosecutor Says Her Answers to Questions on Missing Jurist Are Not Satisfactory.

ASKS NOVA SCOTIA SEARCH

Witness Says Crater Told of Buying a Place There—Judge Reported Seen in Maine.

Search for Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, who has been missing since Aug. 6, swung yesterday to a small place in Nova Scotia, when one of the seven witnesses who testified before the county grand jury told of a conversation with Crater in which the jurist mentioned a Nova Scotian home.

At the same time District Attorney Crain, in making public Mrs. Crater's answers to a questionnaire he mailed to her in Maine, declared that he was not satisfied with her replies.

"Her answers don't satisfy me," Mr. Crain declared. "I want her here. I am going to leave no stone unturned to get her here."

Mrs. Crater said, in answer to the thirty questions, that she had neither seen or heard from her husband since Aug. 3; that she did not suspect any disappearance until Aug. 26, twenty days after the jurist actually dropped from sight; that she did not know the jurist's "most intimate social friends"; that she knew of no reason for her husband's disappearance and could not account for it in any way, and that she delayed in notifying the police because friends and private detectives were searching for him.

Believe Judge Is in City Now.

Mrs. Crater's indication that she knew that private detectives had been retained to work on the case was the first time that any of the family or friends of the missing judge had admitted that detectives had been retained. Ervin J. Smith, vice president of the International Secret Service Association at 799 Broadway, said his firm had been employed by friends of the judge and that his investigations had showed the jurist was alive and in New York a week ago. This theory gained some support yesterday, when it was learned that the police believed the judge was still alive, and one person, said to be in a position to know, declared that Justice Crater was now in New York.

Another theory which has been advanced and will probably be investigated by the grand jury, it was learned yesterday, is that Justice Crater is dead, the victim of a blackmailer, who became frightened and killed him. It was pointed out that this theory would account for the withdrawal in cash of large sums of money from the jurist's bank accounts at irregular intervals.

Supreme Court Justime Alfred Frankenthaler, one of Crater's closest friends, who testified yesterday, asserted he believed that Crater was dead, but gave no reason for his conclusion. He told the grand jury, sitting for the third day of what is expected to develop into a three-week session, that he believed the jurist was a victim of "foul play." He had luncheon with Crater, Judge Frankenthaler said, on Aug. 5, the day before his disappearance, and reported that the jurist was normal in his behavior.

Lester Hofmann, formerly secretary to Supreme Court Justice McCook, and now special assignment clerk to the Supreme Court, first department, was the witness who recalled the conversation in which Crater mentioned Nova Scotia. The conversation occurred several years ago, long before Crater's elevation to the bench, but exactly when, Mr. Hofmann could not remember. The two men had been speaking of desirable Summer vacation spots, and Crater mentioned, Mr. Hofmann said, that he had bought a "little out-of-the-way place in Nova Scotia, where I can't be reached by telephone or telegraph and where I can bury myself if I want to." He paid $1,800 for it, Crater was quoted as saying, but Mr. Hofmann could not recall the name of the place or its situation in Nova Scotia.

Asks Aid in Nova Scotia.

Though Mr. Crain admitted the value of the information was considerably lessened by the time element, he considered it of sufficient importance to notify Police Commissioner Mulrooney, who requested Nova Scotian authorities to check their records to determine if Crater was listed as a property hold in the Province. The information was scouted by Henry J. Clarke, brother-in-law of Mrs. Crater and friend of the family, who said they had never heard of such a place.

Mrs. Crater's answers to the list of questions sent her by Mr. Crain were made public after the grand jury adjourned to resume its hearing this morning. The answers were not sworn to and the District Attorney's office made it plain that the questionnaire was intended merely as a preliminary step to aid them in the conduct of the investigation prior to the personal appearance of Mrs. Crater in New York and her examination by the grand jury.

Mrs. Crater's Replies.

Mrs. Crater's replies were brought to Mr. Crain on Monday by Mr. Clarke, who came from the Crater Summer home at Belgrade Lakes in Maine. The questions and Mrs. Crater's answers follow:

Q.—Have you any idea where Justice Crater now is? A.—No.

Q.—When was the last time you saw him? A.—Aug. 3, 1930.

Q.—Where? A.—Camp—Belgrade Lakes, Me.

Q.—What, if anything, did he say at that time that might have a bearing on his disappearance? A.—Nothing.

Q.—Have you heard from him directly or indirectly since Aug. 3? A.—No.

Q.—Who are his most intimate social friends and their addresses? (No answer).

Q.—Of what organizations is he a member, including fraternities and fraternal organizations? A.—New York Athletic Club, Manhattan Club, Cayuga Club and the Masons.

Q.—Did he carry any life insurance, and if so in what companies? A.—Yes. I have no record at hand of the companies.

Q.—Has he ever before absented himself without advising you as to his whereabouts and for what length of time and when? A.—No.

Q.—Where was he when he so absented himself? (No answer.)

Q. Has he recently had any loss of memory? A.—No.

Q.—Have you noted any strange or unusual attitude shown by him in the recent past? A.—No.

Q.—Did you have reason to believe he had any enemies, and if so who? A.—No.

Q.—Why did you delay promptly notifying the police of his disappearance? A.—Because friends and private detectives were searching for him.

Q.—Who was the first person you communicated with when you suspected he had disappeared? A.—I did not suspect any disappearance. My first intimation of same was a phone call from Mr. Simon Rifkind on Aug. 26 that he had not appeared in court Aug. 25.

Q.—Had he any other banks in addition to the Chase National Bank and the Empire Trust Company in which he had an account, either alone or with any one else? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Do you know if he had any safe deposit boxes and, if so, where? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Was he identified with any business activities other than the practice of law and, if so, with whom? A.—Lecturing at New York University prior to his judicial appointment.

Q.—Who are his immediate relatives and where are they located? A.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Crater, Apopka, Fla., parents; Mrs. George Henry, Newton Center, Mass., sister.

Q.—Do you know of any reason why he should have drawn large sums of money in cash from his banks immediately prior to his disappearance? A.—No.

Q.—Did he transmit any moneys to you since Aug. 5, 1930? A.—No.

Q.—Have you received any moneys from anybody since Aug. 5 which may have come from him indirectly or which were advanced to you on his account? A.—No.

Q.—Have you received any mail addressed to him since that date? A.—No.

Q.—Have you received any communication intended for him since that date; if so, from whom? A.—A telegram from William Klein [attorney for the Shuberts and close personal friend of Crater] on Aug. 26, 1930.

Q.—Has any one been to see you to request you either to withhold information or give misleading information as to his whereabouts? A.—No.

Q.—Whom would he be most likely to communicate with, aside from yourself, if he were in distress or trouble? A.—I don't know.

Q.—What was his favorite recreation? A.—Reading.

Q.—What is the name of his doctor? A.—Dr. Hugh M. Cox.

Q.—Who were his brokers? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Is there any fact or circumstance that you know of, however remote, that in your judgment may tend to throw any light at all on the disappearance of your husband? A.—There is none.

Though Mr. Crain insisted that he intended to leave "no stone unturned" in his efforts to get Mrs. Crater to appear in person before the grand jury, it was said at Belgrade Lakes that Mrs. Crater intended to remain at her Summer home for the remainder of the month. Mr. Clarke explained that Mrs. Crater was "very low" in health and extremely nervous since her husband's disappearance.

Mulrooney to Check on Mara.

Another development in the Crater mystery was the statement yesterday by Mr. Mulrooney that Mr. Crain had promised to give him a transcript of the testimony taken by the grand jury, with which he expects to check statements made to the police by Joseph L. Mara, Crater's court attendant, and Frederick L. Johnson, his secretary. Mara's story in particular has never been regarded as entirely satisfactory by the police, and to various persons he has given various versions. When asked if he believed that Mara had told the police everything that he knew, the commissioner answered that he did not know.

Mr. Mulrooney also announced that detectives who have been looking for a "Connie" Marcus, said to have been acquainted with Crater, had been unable so far to find the right woman. A Mrs. S. Marcus of the Hotel Embassy denied any knowledge of the jurist, and her statement was upheld by the police investigation, Mr. Mulrooney said, though detectives believe there is another "Connie" Marcus living at a New York hotel.

The progress of the grand jury investigation yesterday was plainly pleasing to Mr. Crain. While he admitted that he had developed no reason to believe that Judge Crater was either alive or dead, he described the inquiry as "interesting." It was learned that Mr. Crain would investigate the savings accounts of Justice Crater, said to have been kept in two banks other than the Empire Trust Company, the Chase National and the International Trust Company.

The presence in the witness room yesterday of representatives of the Fidelity Trust Company and the Guaranty Trust Company developed some comment. Neither was called as a witness and both denied that Crater had any account in their banks, but Mr. Crain said they "probably" were called to explain the sources of checks deposited on Crater's accounts.

Other witnesses who testified yesterday included William Klein, who was recalled to say that he had no reason to believe that the missing jurist had gone abroad; Simon H. Rifkind, close personal and professional friend of Crater's; John O'Neill, elevator operator at 40 Fifth Avenue, where the Craters have an apartment; L. J. Boedker of Port Chester, who believed that he had given the missing jurist a "lift" in his car about ten days ago, but found he was mistaken, and Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan, who told of the police conduct of the case.

Other witnesses who appeared but did not testify, some of whom are expected to return today, were Arkie and Lou Schwartz, operators of the Club Abbey; Mr. Clarke, and several members of the Cayuga Democratic Club, of which Judge Crater formerly was the president.

The police of Baltimore were instructed yesterday to be on the lookout for Judge Crater. A description of the missing man was furnished to the Baltimore detectives by New York headquarters.

Crater Reported in Augusta, Me.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Delena Cyr, a waitress at the Augusta House in Augusta, Me., told State police today that she served breakfast to two men answering the description of Supreme Court Justice Crater and his chauffeur early on the morning of Aug. 9, or three days after his disappearance. Augusta is about twenty-five miles from Judge Crater's Summer home at Belgrade Lakes.

Mrs. Cyr said the chauffeur told her that his boss was a New York judge, and that they had been driving all night to get to his Summer camp. She said she noticed a gold badge the man she believed to be Crater was wearing. "He did not appear worried," she said, "but read his paper while he leisurely ate his breakfast."

Nova Scotia Police Not Notified.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 17 (By The Canadian Press).—The Nova Scotia police have not been requested to search for Judge Crater and have no information concerning him, F. A. Blake, commissioner, said today. At the local police station nothing was known of the missing New York judge.

HANS HERZL ENDS LIFE.

Dies at Bordeaux After Shooting Himself Following Sister's Funeral.

BORDEAUX, France, Sept. 17 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Hans Herzl, 40 years of age, son of Theodor Herzl, the founder of political Zionism, has died here from self-inflicted bullet wounds.

He attended the funeral of his sister, Paulina, who died in Bordeaux last week, and returning to his hotel, he shot himself. He left a letter saying that he desired to be buried provisionally in Bordeaux, but that his body should later be transferred, together with that of his sister, to Vienna, where his father is buried.

CORRIGAN PROMISES FULL HEALY INQUIRY

Will Sift Steinbrink Charges of Drunkenness and Assault Against Magistrate.

CONFERS WITH THE LATTER

Says Healy Told "Different Story" of Early Morning Fight in Brooklyn Apartment.

Chief Magistrate Joseph Corrigan promised yesterday a complete investigation, with a public report, into the charges of drunkenness and assault made against Magistrate Leo Healy by Meier Steinbrink, Brooklyn Republican leader. Healy was accused by Steinbrink of striking Estelle Cummings, the Magistrate's sister-in-law, during a row in the Healy apartment at 25 Tennis Court, Brooklyn.

While expressing the belief that Steinbrink's further charge—that the police entry of the case was falsified—was not true, Magistrate Corrigan said he would call the policeman who went to the Healy apartment to get his version of the story and the entry on the police blotter.

If the Steinbrink charges are true, on the other hand, Magistrate Corrigan said, the case will be laid by him before the Appellate Division for whatever action that body may see fit to take.

Magistrate Corrigan explained his position to newspaper men yesterday afternoon after he had had a half-hour conference with Magistrate Healy. Healy emerged smiling from Corrigan's office at 2:30 o'clock and referred questions as to what had happened to Magistrate Corrigan.

On this phase of the case Magistrate Corrigan only would say that Healy had told a "substantially different story" of the early morning affair from what was related to him Tuesday by Mr. Steinbrink. Steinbrink admitted then that his version was heresay, but said that several of the tenants of 25 Tennis Court would repeat their story to Magistrate Corrigan.

Corrigan said yesterday that he probably would call the tenants as witnesses besides the police officer. The witnesses are expected at the office of the chief magistrate at 300 Mulberry Street this afternoon. Mrs. Healy and Mrs. Cummings also may be present today.

The charge made by Steinbrink that Healy had "bought" his place on the magistrates' bench was denied indignantly by Healy, Magistrate Corrigan said. Healy said that not only was the story a lie but that he did not have enough money to pay for a bench appointment if he had been approached with such a proposition, and had been disposed to accept it.

Explaining his investigation into the case, Magistrate Corrigan said:

"The only thing of interest to me is that a man in a responsible position has made certain charges against a magistrate. If the charges are true, it is my duty to lay the evidence before the Appellate Division for whatever action that body may see fit to take. If they are not true, it is up to Magistrate Healy to take whatever action he sees fit."

WOULD ELECT MAGISTRATES

Siegel Doubts Appellate Court Can Oust Them.

The power of the Appellate Division to remove Municipal Court justices was questioned by former Representative Isaac Siegel in an address on Constitution Day, delivered under the auspices of the American Bar Association over the municipal radio station WNYC yesterday morning.

He said there was doubt as to the Appellate Division's jurisdiction over the removal of these justices in view of the fact that the Municipal Court is now a court of record. The doubt, he said, arises from the language contained in Article 6, Section 18 of the State Constitution.

He urged that magistrates and Municipal Court justices be elected by boroughs, with the provision that every voter vote for two-thirds of the candidates of one political party and be required to vote for one-third of the candidates of any other party, and an additional provision would provide that the Mayor appoint a successor of the same political affiliation as the previous incumbent in case of a vacancy.

He also urged the enactment of legislation prohibiting and making it a crime for any judge to be a director in any corporation organized for gain.

FRITZ MERCUR ARRESTED.

Tennis Player Is Held at Bethlehem, Pa., as Reckless Driver.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 17.—Fritz Mercur, the tennis player, was held today under $500 bail on a charge of reckless driving.

He was arrested this morning by Patrolman Walker, who, it is alleged, was almost struck by the machine. Mr. Mercur was accompanied by another man and two women.

Seton Hall College Begins Term.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 17.—The Fall term at Seton Hall College here was opened today with a solemn high mass, celebrated by Mgr. Thomas H. McLaughlin, president of the college. The Rev. James A. Hamilton is dean of faculty, succeeding the Rev. John J. Sheerin, who was appointed to a pastorate in Morristown.

EWALD AND HEALY NOT HEARD BY JURY

ception of Mara, is believed to have any important evidence bearing on Ewald's appointment.

Ewald Before Grand Jury 5 Minutes.

Ewald was the first witness called when the grand jury started its third day in office. He was in the grand jury room less than five minutes. Healy, the next witness, was in and out in about three minutes. Frederick L. Hackenberg, Healy's attorney, admitting that the district leader had refused to waive immunity, said he had done so "by advice of counsel." He added:

"I advised him not to waive because he is now under indictment in Federal court for failing to file an income tax return in 1927. It would be unfair under the circumstances to expect him to discuss his affairs ex parte before a secret session of the grand jury. At the proper time, before a court, with a judge and jury and with counsel present to protect his rights, he will talk."

The refusal of Ewald and Healy to waive immunity, although not unexpected, marked a change in their tactics. They had refused to testify before the Federal grand jury on the ground that to do so "might degrade and incriminate" them. They had willingly waived immunity before the county grand jury, where they admitted the financial transaction but insisted the $10,000 was only a loan.

Peter Eckert Testifies.

The special grand jury heard about the loan for the first time yesterday from Peter Eckert, Mrs. Ewald's father. He admitted, it was understood, that he gave his daughter $5,000 of the sum she gave to Tommaney for Healy. At the time, it is understood, he did not know what use she intended to make of it. He learned that she had lent it to Healy without interest or security much later. The grand jurors seemed most interested, he said, in his business affairs and his bookkeeping.

Mara, who said the waiver he had to sign before telling his story did not worry him a bit, was understood to have repeated virtually the same story he told the county grand jury. That was in substance that George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall at the time of Ewald's appointment, had first sought his endorsement of the candidate. When it was refused, Mr. Olvany is said to have turned to Healy.

Mr. Olvany and Mayor Walker were to have told their stories yesterday but the examination of bank records consumed so much time that Mr. Todd said last night he probably would not want them before tomorrow. Most of today if not all will be taken up with the examination of Mrs. Ewald, Tommaney, City Clerk Cruise, John J. Meyer and Dr. Frederick Schirp, Ewald's endorsers, and Jacob Cash, the former city marshall, who is suing Mayor Walker for $250,000 damages for alleged slander. Cash is the witness who asserts he gave Healy $2,000 the day he was appointed a marshal.

The four bank employes who testified yesterday were Robert Erskine, H. A. Black, Harry Snyder and Maurice Rogen, of the Commonwealth Savings Bank, the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company, the Corn Exchange and the Bank of America. They reespectively identified bank records of the various principles in the case showing deposits and withdrawals.

An element of mystery was injected into the case by the presence in the anteroom of the grand jury of "Mrs. Theodore," who it was said was a neighbor of the Ewalds. After the session ended, Mr. Todd said that she was Mrs. Anna Theodore. She had merely been questioned by one of his assistants, who reported her testimony was worthless, Mr. Todd said, adding that she would not be called to testify.

REGRETS NICKEL DECLINE.

Melchett, Reporting on Canadian Trip, Sees Improvement Indicated.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—In a report on his visit to the refineries and mines of the International Nickel Company of Canada, Lord Melchett, who returned this week, expresses great satisfaction concerning the efficient working of the plants and mines, but regrets the drop in nickel consumption.

"Naturally it is rather disappointing," he said, "that, owing to the depression, especially in the motor industry in the United States, the consumption of nickel has so far fallen considerably below the figure reached last year, although there is an indication that some improvement may take place in the remainder of 1930."

He was buried in the naval cemetery here. Services were conducted by Chaplain Frank R. Lash, U. S. N. The Lieutenant was the son of Rear Admiral William W. Phelps.

"FOR ten years Mary and I worked to make our own dream home come true.

"With $5,000 saved and a loan of $3,000 we bought the land and got a contractor I knew to start building at once.

"My brother asked why I didn't get a bond from the contractor. Well, I hadn't thought of it—it seemed so unnecessary.

"With the house well along and our third payment to the contractor just made, he went broke! We were left with a half-finished house, new financial and building arrangements to make, and liens for labor and material that almost wiped us out."

SNAP OUT OF IT!

SNAP out of it! Gloom has reigned long enough. It is time to drop cowardice and exercise courage. Deflation has run an ample course—to carry it any further would mean needless destruction, criminal destruction. The country is sound at the core, sound politically, sound financially, sound industrially, sound commercially. Agricultural prices, too, have been thoroughly deflated, even over-depressed. The nation has its health. It has lost little or none of its real wealth. It is living saner than when everyone was unrestrainedly optimistic. The time has come to cast off our doubts and fears, our hesitancy and timidity, our spasm of "nerves". Summer, the season for holiday-making, is over. The season for fresh planning, new enterprise, hard work, driving force, initiative, concentration on business, is here. Let's go. Snap out of it!

NEW BUSINESS WILL ARISE

Opportunities have never thrived more vigorously than in this soil of present-day commercial flux and ferment. Opportunities burst into being unexpectedly. They may be lying latent in sources unrevealed. Who will profit most from such inevitable changes and "surprises"? Plainly, it will be the business men who, in thought and action, are some long leaps ahead of their more lethargic rivals—the business men who are alert, adaptable, resilient, swift to accommodate themselves to the new and vital facts and forces in our contemporary life. Sturdy, sanguine business men will reap the rich rewards. Knowledge and precision are their tools. Feeble, fuming, palsied hesitation, myopic narrow-mindedness, can expect only a minor share (if any) in those profits that will assuredly arise from developments in progress now.

FEDERATION PLANS $5,499,000 DRIVE

Business Men's Unit of Jewish Philanthropic Group Sets Quotas for 1930.

WOULD WIPE OUT DEFICIT

Directors Meet to Discuss the Campaign Which Will Have Record Army of Workers.

Quotas amounting to $5,499,000 were announced yesterday for eighty-six trade and professional groups in New York at a luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore of the directors of the Business Men's Council of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, where plans for the 1930 campaign were discussed.

An effort will be made to make up a deficit of $2,221,000, which amount is necessary for the fulfillment of the federation's obligations to its ninety-one affiliated social agencies until the end of the present year.

In order that the goal may be attained, Samuel D. Leidesdorf, chairman of the council, said that the industrial and professional groups must raise this deficit. The remainder already has been credited to them in the form of annual recurrent subscriptions and donations already secured. Mr. Leidesdorf said the campaign this year would be in the hands of a larger volunteer army than ever before in the history of the organization.

"The response by the division heads to our earlier appeals for cooperation in our effort have been most reassuring," Mr. Leidesdorf said. "At a time so widely characterized as one of depression, unusual demands are made upon our charitable institutions. This is the last time for any one to cut down the charity item in his budget or his thinking."

NEW TARIFF BOARD TAKES DOUBLE OATH

On Fletcher's Order, Members Swear That None Bought Jobs After Vowing to Do Duty.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—At the insistence of its chairman, Henry P. Fletcher, the new Tariff Commission today took two oaths instead of one in assuming duties of office.

Up to the place where Mr. Fletcher took command, the occasion was according to pattern. The tariff employes gathered, the commission marched in with dignity, everybody stood respectfully while they simultaneously raised their right hands and promised to uphold the Constitution and perform the duties of their office. Their commissions were handed to them. They started to sign and their audience began to disperse.

Suddenly, Mr. Fletcher spoke.

"Here's another oath to be taken," he said.

L. W. Moore, the notary public administering the oath, looked at what Fletcher had found and explained it was not customary or necessary to read the second oath.

"I wan to take that oath!" insisted Fletcher.

His fellow commissioners, Thomas Walker Page, Dr. John Lee Coulter, Edgar B. Brossard and Alfred P. Dennis, stood wit hhim and solemnly swore that "neither he nor any one acting in his behalf has given, transferred, promised, or paid any consideration for, or in the expectation or hope of receiving assistance in securing that appointment."

A sixth member of the committee is yet to be appointed who may, with precedence, take either one or two oaths of office.

HERBERT HOOVER JR. GAINS.

Mother Reports His Improvement by Rest at Rapidan Camp.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Herbert Hoover Jr., elder son of the President, is progressing satisfactorily in his effort to regain a more healthful physical condition, it was revealed today when Mrs. Hoover returned to the White House. She had remained at the President's Rapidan camp to be with her son, who had been ordered by Captain Joel T. Boone, White House physician, to remain there in bed.

Young Mr. Hoover's condition is said to be due to an intestinal affliction resulting largely from overwork. He is under weight and in a "general run down condition," according to Dr. Boone, who has ordered him to spend several weeks at complete rest, much of which he will pass at his father's Rapidan camp. His wife is on her way from their home in Los Angeles to be with him.

Chemical Foundation Gives $100,000 for Research Fellowship.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The National Chemical Foundation of New York today presented to the new National Institute of Public Health $100,000 for the foundation of a fellowship for basic chemical research. W. W. Buffun, general manager and treasurer of the foundation, presented a check for that amount to Secretary Mellon in the latter's office.

The institute is a component part of the United States Public Health Service.

GETS FISH BOYCOTT DATA.

Groat to Take Up Charges in Food Racketeering Inquiry.

William B. Groat Jr., Assistant Attorney General, announced yesterday that he had received preliminary reports from his accountants on the books of two smoked fish companies, and that he expected, at the resumption this morning of the hearing on alleged food racketeering, to bring out evidence regarding charges that the two concerns had been boycotted by a smoked fish dealers' association, against which he has announced he will bring dissolution proceedings.

The directors of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, at their regular monthly meeting in the Hotel New Yorker yesterday, opposed a further rise in the price of milk, although they felt the situation for the dairy farmers was not ideal. Production conditions among farmers were reported unchanged since the last monthly meeting, when the price of milk was raised one cent. The directors opposed a further rise because of general business conditions.

Mr. Groat will call today also the officers of the Associated Flour Jobbers, Inc., whose books his accountants are examining.

CITY FINDS JOBS FOR 357.

Bureau Places Most of 425 Applicants at Unskilled Work.

Jobs for 357 out of 425 applicants were found yesterday by the City Employment Bureau, 54 Lafayette Street, according to an announcement by Edward C. Rybicki, director. Places were found for 266 men and 91 women.

Of the men placed, 240 were unskilled laborers, the remainder being skilled. The women who found employment ranged from factory workers, of whom fifty-nine were placed, to one registered nurse. They also included eleven houseworkers, eleven office workers, four waitresses, four salesladies and one dressmaker.

Mr. Rybicki said his field workers were bringing in optimistic reports from employers whom they had interviewed, but he said he was not "overwhelmed with enthusiasm for a change in conditions in October."

"I am hopeful conditions will show a decided improvement," he added, "but I am not too optimistic."

CONSTITUTION DAY CELEBRATED HERE

Bar Leaders, in Message to Town Hall Meeting, Stress Need for Its Appreciation.

TAFT POINTS TO DUTIES

Sons of American Revolution Hold Exercises—Wreath Placed at Washington Statue.

More than 1,500 persons attended a meeting in observance of Constitution Day in Town Hall last night, under the auspices of the School of Law of New York University in cooperation with the citizenship committee of the American Bar Association.

Henry W. Taft, president of the New York County Lawyers' Association, and Charles C. Burlingham, president of the City Bar Association, were honorary vice chairmen. Dean Frank H. Sommer of the School of Law of New York University was chairman. Josiah Marvel, president of the American Bar Association, sent a message read at the meeting in which he declared that at no time was intelligent appreciation of the Constitution more essential than at present.

"I trust that schools and universities everywhere will follow your lead in order that the young minds in your charge will be impressed with the thought that eternal vigilance is imposed upon them if they would retain the benefits that have been handed down to them by the fathers," President Marvel wrote.

A message from Mr. Taft emphasized that mere admiration of the Constitution was inadequate and that only by fulfilling the duties of citizenship in accordance with the Constitution's provisions could the American people live up to the great document.

An address on the Constitution, its origin, development and rôle in history was delivered by Professor John Edmond Hewitt of New York University, while George Gordon Battle dealt with the ratification of the Constitution.

Three recent graduates of the School of Law also spoke. They were John O'Connor on judicial review; Mary B. Visono on due process of law, and Edward R. Akselrad on searches and seizures.

With patriotic pageantry on a historic site, the New York Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution yesterday celebrated the 143d anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. Standing at noon on the steps of the United States Treasury Building at Wall and Nassau Streets, the site of Federal Hall, the chapter's members led a crowd, estimated by police at 10,000, in commemorative exercises.

The massed flags of the society, replicas of battle flags of the Revolution, including those of Bennington, Bunker Hill, White Plains, Monmouth, Fort Stanwix and Long Island, and the first flag flown by John Paul Jones, naval hero of the war, fluttered in the wind as Miss Louise Brave, coloratura soprano, sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," accompanied by a sixteen-piece band from the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Brig. Gen. Louis W. Stotesbury read Mayor Walker's Constitution Day proclamation; the Rev. J. Lewis Hartsock, pastor of the Highland Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of Ossining, N. Y., and chaplain of the Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution, gave the invocation and benediction, and Colonel Louis Annin Ames, president of the New York Chapter, presided and led in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Brig. Gen. Oliver B. Bridgman, president of the State organization, placed a wreath on the statue of Washington in memory of his labors as chairman of the Constitutional Convention.

Professor William B. Guthrie, head of the department of government and sociology at City College, delivered an address on "Liberty and the Constitution." The Constitution, he said, did not create the liberalism now found in it, but this was possible because of the eighteenth century liberalism in which it developed. It put into law the vague and, until then, useless theories of the time, he said. The liberties we enjoy are largely due to the Federal form of our government, he declared, with the central government and the States balanced. A Supreme Court which can "take Congress by the nape of the neck and tell it it is infringing on some one's liberties" is, Professor Guthrie said, the only way the liberties of the Constitution can be vouchsafed to the people.

If the American Constitution needs amending or changed, Professor Guthrie asserted, "we want it changed at the hands of friends, not enemies, aliens from abroad." He meant the Communists by the latter reference, he explained later.

Among the Sons of the American Revolution, besides those mentioned, were William L. Allen, Frederick H. Cone, Harold S. Hull, Colonel Henry B. Fairbanks, Ganson Depew of Buffalo and J. Henry Smythe Jr.

The Eighteenth Amendment was assailed as foreign to the spirit of the rest of the Constitution in an address by Francis J. Sullivan at Constitution Day exercises in the court room of Supreme Court Justice Norman S. Dike in Brooklyn. Mr. Sullivan is a member of the American Bar Association, which he represented at the exercises. Justice Dike presided.

"The Constitution of the United States is still a great document," said Mr. Sullivan. "There is, however, one of its amendments which is out of tune with the others. To many it seems that it has violated the standard of the other provisions. Those amendments that fail to stand the test must needs fall by the way. Notwithstanding this, the courts still provide safeguards for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Edward H. Wilson, as the representative of the Brooklyn Bar Association, pointed to the Constitution as a great document and praised the wisdom of the founding fathers.

Another ceremony marking the day was held in the court room of Federal Judge Grover M. Moscowitz in Brooklyn. Colonel William M. Dykman, former president of the New York State Bar Association, was the chief speaker, and Federal Judge William B. Sheppard was a guest in the court room. Colonel Dykman presented a resolution, pledging the members of the bar to allegiance to the Constitution, and it was adopted and placed in the minutes of the court.

BECK WARNS OF DRIFT, TO CENTRALIZATION

Peril to Nation's Foundations, He Says on Radio—Hoover Praises Bar's Aid to Constitution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The American people are slipping from the spirit of individualism on which their Cnstitution was founded toward a centralization that will bring our government to its severest test should the country ever be subjected to a long and continued period of depression, said Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, former Solicitor General of the United States, in a Constitution Day address broadcast from Philadelphia over the Columbia Broadcasting system tonight.

Mr. Beck said that America could rejoice that through all the violent storms of the last century the Constitution had stood against the "angry waves of popular convulsions like the Rock of Gibraltar," due primarily to the genius of her people for democratic institutions.

"In this we have been aided by an ever-increasing prosperity," he declared, "but should the American people ever be subjected to a long, continued and severe period of depression, the real test of our Constitution would then come."

Mr. Beck declared that the American people were tending toward a socialism which in time would threaten the very foundation of Constitutional Government. More and more, he said, they were leaving that base of individualism and looking to the central government, even "to relieve them from the consequences of their own follies or to aid them in leading temperate and frugal lives."

A letter from President Hoover on Constitution Day was read as follows:

"I am glad to learn of the splendid work which the American Bar Association is doing in promoting among our fellow citizens more accurate knowledge of, and greater respect for, the national Constitution.

"There has never been a time when the advantages of this greater charter of government stood out more clearly against the background of world events than it does today.

"As Sept. 17 is the anniversary of the day upon which the Constitution of the United States was signed, this date has been designated as Constitution Day, and it is indeed fitting that this anniversary should be appropriately observed in all parts of our nation.

"I strongly value the services which you and your associates are rendering and do commend to our fellow citizens the opportunity so appropriately afforded to refresh their appreciative understanding of the Constitution."

CLERGY ATTEND MASS FOR CARDINAL FARLEY

Cardinal Hayes Officiates at Cathedral Rites Marking Anniversary of Death.

Cardinal Hayes sang an anniversary mass of requiem for Cardinal Farley yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Cardinal Farley died twelve years ago today. More than 1,000 persons attended the mass, including the students of Cathedral College in their robes and the girls and boys in the cathedral grammar schools. In the sanctuary were Bishop John J. Dunn, a dozen monsignori and many priests, together with a number of Christian brothers. Numerous nuns were in the congregation.

After the mass Cardinal Hayes, accompanied by all the clergy, walked in procession from the sanctuary to the ambulatory and then down into the vault built under the high altar, where are the tombs of the four Archbishops of New York, the Most Rev. John Hughes, the first Archbishop of this see; John Cardinal McCloskey, the Most Rev. Michael A. Coffigan, and Cardinal Farley.

Kneeling before the tomb of his predecessor, Cardinal Hayes recited prayers for the repose of the soul of Cardinal Farley. It is only on such an occasion that the vault is opened.

The deacon of the mass was the Rev. John H. Farley, a nephew of Cardinal Farley, who is attached to the parish of St. Ignatius Loyola. The subdeacon was the Rev. Edward J. Higgins, pastor of St. Gabriel's, of which Cardinal Farley was for many years the pastor. The assistant at the throne to Cardinal Hayes was Mgr. John P. Chidwick, pastor of St. Agnes's Church.

The deacons of honor to Cardinal Hayes were Mgr. Thomas A. Thornton, pastor of St. Columba, and Mgr. Thomas George Carroll, long private secretary to Cardinal Farley and now chancellor of the archdiocese. A deacon of honor to Bishop Dunn was the Rev. Aloysius J. Hogan, the new president of Fordham University. The masters of ceremony were Mgr. Stephen J. Donahue, private secretary to the Cardinal, and the Rev. Henry F. Hammer of the cathedral staff. A niece and nephew of Cardinal Farley sat in the front pew.

Other prelates present were Mgr. Edward McKenna, pastor of St. Raymond's, the Bronx, who has been ordained sixty-one years; Mgr. Mallick J. Fitzpatrick, superintendent of the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin, Staten Island; Mgr. Daniel Burke, pastor of the Church of St. Philip Neri, the Bronx; Mgr. Robert F. Keegan, secretary for Catholic charities to the Cardinal; Mgr. Cornelius F. Crowley, pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Mgr. John F. Brady, pastor of the Church of St. Francis de Sales; Mgr. Gallus Bruder, pastor of St. Joseph's German Church; Mgr. Stephen Krasula, pastor of the Polish Church of St. John Nepomucene, and Mgr. Joseph A. Caffuzzi, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, the Bronx.

Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, preached the sermon.

For delayed elimination, doctors say—

Change Your Intestinal Flora!

The intestinal flora are the plant organism which inhabit the intestinal tract. They are of two types — putrefactive and acidophilus. Healthy intestinal functioning is promoted by a preponderance of the friendly Acidophilus type.

THE war against constipation goes on. Today the "pet ailment of erring millions" can be conquered.

If you suffer from constipation, your physician will tell you that you should take active measures to be cured. He will also tell you that this is an extremely serious matter—that the discomfort and impaired vigor that go with constipation are not all; this ailment lays you liable to all sorts of other illnesses, from sick headaches to rheumatism.

Simple Rules for Intestinal Health

There are a few simple rules that physicians agree on that are generally effective. (1) Exercise, to stimulate circulation and tone abdominal organs. (2) Correct eating, with special regard to foods containing plenty of roughage.

Finally, many doctors now will advise that you change your intestinal flora; and they prescribe Acidophilus Milk for this purpose.

Vast numbers of tiny plant organisms flourish in your intestinal tract. Some are favorable to regular and prompt elimination; others are not, and it is widely held that the poisons they create are absorbed by the system.

The unfavorable organisms are the so-called putrefactive bacteria, the germs of decay. They overwhelmingly predominate in the intestinal tract of adults.

The favorable organisms are acidophilus bacilli. They appeared in your intestinal tract soon after you were born. They favored prompt and regular elimination.

Restore the Bacilli of Health

Acidophilus bacilli thrive on milk. Therefore, to drive out the germs of decay, the first thing to do is to introduce a great quantity of Acidophilus organisms into the intestinal tract. In other words, drink Acidophilus Milk!

Walker-Gordon Acidophilus Milk is simply a preparation of pure fresh Walker-Gordon milk scientifically cultured with a hardy strain of Acidophilus bacilli.

Try Walker-Gordon Acidophilus Milk and see the difference in the way you feel! You can order it from your Borden milkman. Phone Walker 7300 or any Borden branch, and have it delivered fresh every morning.

REVIVAL OF TRADE IN SPRING FORECAST

But F. H. Sisson Tells Retail Jewelers Sudden Turn Now Might Cause Reaction.

SEES OPTIMISM JUSTIFIED

Advance, to Be Lasting, Must Have International Basis, He Says, Urging "Facing of Facts."

International conditions must improve before a sustained forward movement in business in this country can be expected, Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, said yesterday in addressing the annual convention of the American National Retail Jewelers' Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania. A sharp revival now, he asserted, would invite more reaction later, resulting in continued depression. A spirit of optimism, however, is fully justified by the resources of the country, he added, predicting that next Spring and Fall might bring marked gains.

Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, professor of marketing at Columbia University, outlined a plan of fashion forecasting through consumer surveys as a means of keeping business in step with moving trends of taste and demand.

"Facing the facts is the beginning of progress toward recovery," Mr. Sisson said. "Last year business ignored facts and discovered that there was no such thing as a new order of economics. The old economic laws still prevail and must be considered, even at the expense of being called pessimistic. Both business and the stock market at the moment are decidedly irregular and uncertain, with no sharply defined trend.

Tells of Recent Improvement.

"There has been some seasonal quickening during the last sixty days, but whether the full seasonal expansion is developing still remains a question. Corporation profits for the third quarter will be poor, although this has probably been already discounted. Thus far this year, industrial production is off about 18 per cent and corporation profits off from 15 to 20 per cent.

"Considering that this country was caught in the flux of a world-wide reaction, we have emerged with comparatively little damage. It was inevitable that with surplus production, lessened buying power and political uncertainty in many countries of the world, the United States would be affected. Our margin of profits at home depends on our exports, in which there has been a 40 per cent drop, although the gain of $38,000,000 in August shows some increased buying power abroad. It seems certain that there will be no sharp and sustained revival here until conditions in other countries improve.

"The processes of readjustment, however, are moving. They do not move according to a time schedule and no one knows when they will be completed. A sharp revival now in this country will only result in more reaction later and more depression. Over-enthusiasm should be avoided, but all indications are that the Spring will see improvement, which will become marked by next Fall."

Predicts Wider Use of Credit.

Mr. Sisson said he foresaw greater use of credit instruments to minimize the shortage of gold as a factor in the commercial and international situation. Acceptances and other forms of credit paper, he declared, would come into wider use here, while the increasing importance of the activities of the Bank of International Settlements would avoid the necessity for physical transfer of gold.

"The banks were never better fitted to aid business and industry," he continued. "There need be no worry about the credit basis for the next forward movement. Money has been piled up and consumption dammed for over a year, but they will not long remain idle. When the consumption demand and the urge for money to earn a higher return assert themselves business will go forward."

Other speakers included Bertrand H. Carter of the Carter Advertising Agency, B. L. Shinn, secretary of the National Jewelers' Board of Trade, John D. Enright, president of the Pennsylvania Retail Jewelers' Association, and Morris Geller, editor of The Modern Jeweler, Detroit.

ORDERS CONNOLLY SHIFTED

Patterson to Send Former Queens Head to Hart's Island for Health.

Maurice Connolly, former Borough President of Queens, has been ordered transferred from the correction hospital on Welfare Island to the City Reformatory on Hart's Island, so that he may recuperate more readily from an attack of heart disease, according to an order issued yesterday by Richard C. Patterson Jr., Commission of Correction.

Mr. Connolly is serving a sentence of one year for his part in the Queens sewer graft scandals. His transfer was recommended by Dr. Abraham Norman, chief medical examiner of the Department of Correction, after he had examined Mr. Connolly on Tueday. The physician said Mr. Connolly would have more light and air at Hart's Island and would recover more rapidly. Hart's Island has a more modern building than the Welfare Island reformatory.

Dr. Norman recommended that the former official be assigned to light clerical work such as he was doing before he went into the Welfare Island hospital. It is understood that he will be assigned to such work immediately.

ATHLETIC CLUB TO OPEN.

$4,500,000 Building in West Street Will Be Ready Next Tuesday.

The Downtown Athletic Club building, near the foot of West Street and extending through to Washington Street, reputedly the tallest clubhouse in the world, is to be opened next Tuesday, the management announced yesterday. The club, which already has a membership of 3,286, including representatives of every phase of Wall Street's business, measures 614 feet from the curb line to the tip of the flagpole. It is the highest structure on a New York waterfront street and represents an investment of nearly $4,500,000 for land, building, furniture and equipment.

For three days, beginning on Sept. 23, the announcement says, the club will hold open house, with a full corps of athletic and other departmental directors on hand to familiarize the members with the building's facilities. The house committee has decided to hold no ceremonies, because of the large number of members and guests expected.

BOY FLIER FORCED TO LAND IN BRONX

Fuel Exhausted, 18-Year-Old Pilot Glides Plane Over Houses to a Field.

HE AND PASSENGER UNHURT

Patrolman, Seeing Craft Falling, Calls Ambulance—Wing and Propeller Damaged.

Almost within sight of his destination, Andrew Speyerer, 18-year-old pilot of Corona, L. I., flying a Waco biplane, made a forced landing yesterday in the Bronx in a marshy meadow near Rosedale and Randall Avenues. The plane nosed over in the soft ground and long grass of the marsh, breaking a propeller and slightly damaging a wing, but neither Speyerer nor his passenger, Donald Natales, also of Corona, was injured. They were bound for Holmes Airport, Jackson Heights, Queens, from Leeds, N. Y., in the Catskills.

Speyerer said that while over the Bronx his gasoline tank went dry. He was flying at 2,500 feet, but beneath him for miles stretched apartments, schools and business blocks, with crowded streets and no spot that looked suitable for a landing. Ahead on the borders of the East River lay open fields with here and there a glimmer of water showing in the tall marsh grass.

The young pilot pushed his stick forward and started a long glide for the open spaces. Fortunately his altitude when the motor showed signs of quitting was sufficient to give him the distance he needed. Now and then his motor picked up for a few revolutions as a few drops of gasoline trickled into the carburetor, but not enough to give him full power control.

Over the emergency field he selected he put the little biplane around into the wind and landed. A second after his wheels were down the undercarriage and wheels were bound up in the tall grass, the nose went over and the tail up and the machine jarred to a stop.

Speyerer and his passenger got out, none the worse for their exciting adventure. Patrolman Joseph Banner saw the plane losing altitude rapidly and, realizing that a forced landing was imminent, telephoned for an ambulance and the police emergency squad.

The ambulance surgeon and emergency policemen found the pilot and his passenger calmly surveying the tilted machine after they had plowed through a hundred yards or so of swamp grass. The policemen helped Speyerer pull the plane down, and then the youth and his passenger arranged for the transfer of the craft by truck to the airport. Several hundred school children released from their classrooms about the time of the landing were interested and noisy spectators.

WHITNEY WARREN BACK, SAYS ITALY PROSPERS

Designer of Louvain Library Hails Mussolini Regime—Defends France on Hearst Expulsion.

Whitney Warren, New York architect, who designed the new Louvain Library in Belgium, returned yesterday on the French liner Paris from his annual Summer vacation on the Continent, which he spent this year chiefly in Italy and France. When asked about the recent expulsion of William R. Hearst, the American publisher, from France, Mr. Warren replied:

"There is no particular feeling among the French people about the matter. They considered Mr. Hearst had behaved badly and did not want to have him around. That's all. He was treated courteously by the government and received four days to leave the country. He preferred to leave at once."

Asked whether he thought that Premier Mussolini's popularity was on the wane in Italy, Mr. Warren said: "In my opinion Mussolini is stronger than ever. Italy is ahead of France now in cleanliness, fine roads and sanitation. It is a new country through his guidance. The Italian people are working and are happy. Every one gets enough to eat and the beggars have disappeared from the streets. I did not go to see him in Rome because I think that one should leave these men of big affairs alone and not call upon them, as Americans are so fond of doing abroad.

"France may be a little more prosperous in actual money than Italy, but the latter country is far ahead of her in every other way."

Boys' Club Faces $15,000 Deficit.

Charles H. Sabin, president of the Boys' Club, First Avenue and 111th Street, announced yesterday that the close of the financial year on Sept. 30 would show a deficit of $15,000 unless additional funds were contributed. Mr. Sabin's report showed an enrolment of 12,000 east side boys.

"A Significant Example"

SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH

President of the Carnegie Institute

—that great enterprise founded by Andrew Carnegie at Pittsburgh for the promotion of art, science and literature. Known throughout the world as a student of current problems.

Chairman of the Board Carnegie Institute of Technology, Director American National Theatre.

Member American Mission to Morocco 1923, Officer of Legion of Honor (France).

"Perhaps the most vital influence in the American business world in recent years has been the tendency of industrial leaders to join hands with science. No more significant example of this trend exists than your modern use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos. The great success of your experiments demonstrates the wisdom of this union between business and science."

Samuel Harden Church

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, the American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. Samuel Harden Church to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Church appears on this page.

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray.

THE TRUTH ABOUT LAXATIVES MAY MAKE YOU WELL

THOUSANDS are constantly taking harsh laxatives—thinking they are helping themselves. But they are only making their bodies dependent upon harmful drugs. Some laxatives irritate the intestine. Others rob the body of water. If you take laxatives regularly your body must harden itself to these reactions. Then harmful habits are formed.

Don't fall into the laxative habit. You run the risk of becoming an intestinal cripple. Use laxatives only as an emergency medicine.

If you are inclined to be sluggish, take Squibb Liquid Petrolatum. It is universally approved by doctors for general use to combat constipation. It is not a laxative but a harmless lubricant. It is safe at all times for every one. It doesn't build fat or form habits.

Squibb Liquid Petrolatum is pure and entirely odorless and tasteless. So be sure to ask for Squibb's at your druggist's, or Squibb Liquid "Pet," for short.

URUGUAY PRESSES BREAK WITH PERU

Montevideo Notifies Envoy From Lima He Is No Longer Held Persona Grata.

SAYS JUNTA BROKE TREATY

Revolutionary Government Is Asserted to Have Insulted Minister for Protecting Refugees.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 17.—The Uruguyan Foreign Office has announced the severance of diplomatic relations with Peru and the recall of its Minister at Lima, and at the same time sent a note to the Peruvian Minister in Montevideo which amounts to handing him his passports.

The Foreign Office published a long communication giving the history of events since the military junta assumed the government of Peru, charging the junta with violation of the Treaty of Montevideo of 1889, covering the asylum of political refugees in legations, and saying this attitude was aggravated by the junta's refusal to answer a note from the Uruguayan Foreign Office, also by refusal to submit evidence in support of charges of irregularities it made against Uruguay's Minister at Lima.

The Foreign Office explains that it published the details in view of its traditional policy of promoting close relations among American republics in order that the public of Uruguay, as well as of other republics, may judge its actions in this instance.

The note shows that the trouble began with an anti-foreign outburst at Lima after the revolution, when the United States Embassy and several legations, including Uruguay's, were stoned because of harboring political refugees.

Diplomatic Corps Hissed.

The diplomatic corps, including the Uruguayan Minister, was hissed and insulted when leaving the Peruvian Foreign Office after demanding guarantees for the safety of political refugees.

Threats of assault against the Uruguayan legation became so critical that the mob had to be repulsed with machine guns by a marine guard which had been sent to replace an infantry guard which fraternized with the mob.

The military junta steadfastly refused to recognize the right of the Uruguayan Legation to give asylum to Jesus Salazar, former president of the Chamber of Deputies, saying criminal charges were to be made against him.

When Uruguay protested against the insults to its Minister and legation, the junta expressed regret, but said the Uruguayan Minister had become persona non grata, charged that he was friendly with the deposed president, Augusto B. Leguia, and had received favors of an irregular nature from Señor Leguia.

Uruguay then instructed its Minister to leave Peru as soon as he could transfer the political refugees to other legations, and at the same time asked the junta for details of the irregularities charged against the Minister.

Details Are Refused.

The junta instructed the Peruvian Minister at Montevideo to inform the Foreign Office that the word of the military officers constituting the junta was a sufficient guarantee of the charges made against the Minister and refused to give any details.

By this time the legations in Lima were so crowded with political refugees that the diplomatic corps had agreed to give asylum to no more refugees without instructions from their respective governments. [illegible] four had already taken refuge in the Chilean Legation, and it was impossible to transfer Señor Salazar. The Uruguayan Foreign Office informed Peru that, in accordance with the Treaty of Montevideo, covering asylum for political refugees, oral charges were not sufficient to justify refusing asylum to Señor Salazar and requested that he be permitted to come to Uruguay with the Uruguayan Minister, formally promising to deliver him to Peruvian justice when formal charges were filed against him and extradition requested.

The military junta ignored this note. Señor Salazar eventually went to the Cuban Legation on his own responsibility and the Uruguayan Minister cabled the Foreign Office he would leave Callao, Peru, today.

Final Words of Communique.

The Foreign Office's communiqué concludes:

"In view of the unusual attitude of the government of Peru in ignoring the proposal of Uruguay to bring to Uruguay a political refugee, Dr. Jesús M. Salazar, who found asylum in our legation at Lima, with a premise to place him at the disposition of justice when extradition was requested, in conformity with the treaty negotiated and signed at Montevideo in January and February, 1889; in view of the evasive answer given to this Foreign Office's request for details of the charges made against the Uruguayan Minister at Lima, which would at least constitute in principle proof of the irregularities charged against him, those circumstances being aggravated by the flat refusal of the government of Peru to give guarantees which would enable Dr. Salazar to leave the country accompanied by the Uruguayan Minister, thus violating the aforesaid treaty, the government of Uruguay considers that its relations with the provisional government of Peru are, de facto, suspended and that the Peruvian diplomatic representative has ceased to be persona grata."

MUSEUM TO HONOR HENRI.

Metropolitan Will Give Memorial Exhibition of His Paintings.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art will give a memorial exhibition during the coming season of paintings by Robert Menri, noted American artist, who died in July, 1929. The honor of a memorial exhibition has been accorded by the Metropolitan to few artists, the most recent of whom was Arthur B. Davies.

Mr. Henri was one of the most conspicuous figures in contemporary American art. Not only was he well known as a painter, but as a teacher of men who have become famous in American art. The exhibition will be held in Gallery D6 at the Metropolitan. It will open on March 10, 1931, and continue through April 19.

INVESTIGATING AGENCY SUES HIGH OFFICIALS

Advertisers' Protective Service Asks Federal Injunction Against Ward, Flynn and Crain.

Attorney General Hamilton Ward, Edward J. Flynn, Secretary of State, and District Attorney Crain were named defendants yesterday in an application for an injunction filed in United States District Court to restrain them from "investigating, harassing and jeopardizing" the business of the Advertisers' Protective Service, which supplies information to about 300 clients concerning publications and charitable institutions.

The petitioners in the action are Carlisle Norwood 3d and his wife, Mrs. May Norwood, who say in their complaint that they were held in bail of $500 each on June 19, 1929, by Albert H. Vitale, former magistrate, on a charge brought by The Political News that they operated a private detective agency without a license in violation of Section 79 of the business laws.

The Political News is described as a "publication pretending to be the official publication of Tammany Hall." The Norwoods say they were freed on the charge brought against them in the Court of General Sessions, but since then, they say, the defendants have begun a second investigation.

The inquiry, according to the petition, is based on a charge brought by the "official publication of the Central Trades and Labor Council," which, it is charged, was forced to suspend publication when the truth as to its sponsorship and circulation was made known to subscribers.

The investigation, according to Sidney S. Bobbe, attorney for the Norwoods, is being conducted by Julius Dreyfuss, examiner of the Division of Licenses, and is harassing his clients and causing a loss of business. Mr. Norwood contends that his service, which has been functioning for the last seven years, has saved subscribers "hundreds of thousands of dollars a year" which otherwise would have gone to fraudulent enterprises and "racket" publications.

Mr. Bobbe explained that he based his action on the contention that the law requiring private detective agencies to be licensed violates the provision of the Constitution which protects against the removal of property without due process of law.

BRITISH CONVICT SWINDLER.

Corrigan, "Prince of Adventurers," Gets Five Years for Fraud.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Michael Dennis Corrigan, "the prince of adventurers," who, according to Scotland Yard, has swindled his victims of more than $500,000 by stories rivaling those of Hans Christian Andersen, stood unmoved at the Old Bailey today as he heard himself sentenced to five years of penal servitude after having been found guilty of fraudulently converting money entrusted to him for buying oil shares.

Corrigan stood in the dock, his face expressionless, while Detective Sergeant Winter of Scotland Yard recounted his remarkable career of adventure and crime. Forty-five years old, Corrigan was described on the charge sheet as an engineer, but that was only one of his numerous occupations. He has been a race horse owner, a financier, self-styled general in the Mexican Army, a professional gambler, a government official and for years a mystery to the police of six countries.

The prosecution had alleged that Corrigan had represented himself as being employed by the Standard Oil Company at salary of $280,000 a year.

Judge Gregory told Corrigan he had been "guilty of a series of bad and cruel frauds involving sums amounting to tens of thousands of pounds" in order that he might lead a life of luxurious ease in leading hotels in England and France.

SCORES LICENSE BUREAU.

Thomas Charges 'Reprehensive Leniency' Toward Private Job Firms.

Charging "reprehensible leniency" toward private employment agencies, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Congress in the Sixth District, Brooklyn, yesterday assailed the Department of Licenses in a letter which he sent to Commissioner of Licenses James T. Geraghty.

In making his letter public, Mr. Thomas also made public a communication he had received from the commissioner defending his department, the answer to a previous letter sent by the Socialist candidate.

In his letter to Commissioner Geraghty, Mr. Thomas stated that while 1,900 complaints against employment agencies had been received in 1928, only seven licenses were revoked and that in 1929, out of 2,004 complaints, only four agencies lost their licenses. He also declared in his letter that agencies which have had their licenses revoked had been permitted to return to business later.

legitimate second-hand cars. But later, at Police Headquarters, he is said to have admitted his part in the ring. Efforts to compel him to disclose the identity of his confederates, however, met with little success. He protested that he knew them only as "Martin and Mac." The latter he described as the "boss of the gang."

His commissions on the sale of cars, Hayes is said to have declared, ran from $50 to $300, depending largely upon the value of the car. He said he was a jewelry salesman by profession and first became interested in the ring last April while living at a hotel in West Forty-fifth Street. Previous to that, he admitted, he had been implicated in the theft of a car in Washington.

"Martin," he declared, was the first member of the ring he met, and it was "Martin" who introduced him to "Mac," the boss. The latter, Hayes said, explained the workings of the ring, saying that the cars were for export. Being without funds at the time and several weeks behind in the payment of his rent at the hotel, Hayes said, he consented to join them as a salesman.

The name of Mr. Baden, he said, was given him by Martin. Mr. Baden informed by Hayes that he was in position to sell the car at 40 per cent lower than the list price, bought it for $1,400.

LUTHERANS CONDEMN PRAYERS OF LEGION

Synods at Milwaukee Declare Petitions "Abominable in Sight of Christian."

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 17 (AP).—Two hundred pastors of the Wisconsin and Missouri synods of the Evangelical Lutheran Churches today were on record as condemning the prayers of the American Legion as "addressed to idols" and "abominable to the sight of a Christian."

Meeting in conference here, the pastors failed to take action regarding the Rev. John Henning, pastor of the Iron Ridge (Wis.) Church, whose ouster was asked by his board of directors because he refused to admit several Legionaires to communion. The Rev. Mr. Henning said he considered the American Legion "anti-Christ, since it did not officially recognize Christ in the prayers of the organization."

The pastors approved a statement that "prayers of the American Legion ritual are Christless, are addressed to idols and are abominable to the sight of a Christian."

While the meeting was called, delegates said previously, to determine if church membership should be renied to Legionaires, the convention failed to take action for or against the proposal.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17 (AP).—National headquarters of the American Legion, when informed today of the Evangelical Lutheran Churches' condemnation of Legion prayers as "un-Christlike," called attention to Commander O. L. Bodenhamer's declaration last July that the Legion "does not and cannot take a position regarding any religious faith."

Commander Bodenhamer is in New York, but other Legion officials declared the position of the organization has not changed since he issued his statement in July on the reported refusal of the Rev. John Henning to admit Legionaires to communion.

The prayers condemned are assumed to be those used in the Legion's ritual for the dead.

68 ANTI-SEMITES FACE TRIAL IN RUMANIA SOON

Two Priests and Wife of One of Them Among Those Accused of Outrages Against Jews.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 17.—A trial of anti-Semites in which sixty-eight persons are charged with serious offenses against Jews will begin soon at Marmoresh-Sziget. Among the accused are two priests, Berinde and Dumitrescu, with the wife of the former, who are accused of leading rioters and also of concluding a so-called blood treaty with the peasants whereby their promises to attack the Jews were obtained.

Mme. Berinde is said to have forced a merchant named Stein to jump into a river, while she cried out to the half-drowning man amid the cheers of a mob that he had thereby been baptized. She then is said to have dragged two Jewish women from their beds in the middle of the night and had them driven through the town by peasants.

The trial will take several weeks.

The chief of the accused, Danila, has brought countercharges against eighteen Jews of having disturbed an anti-Semitic meeting.

GENERAL POOR HONORED.

Great-Grand-Niece of Washington Attends Hackensack Services.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 17.—As part of the patriotic service at the grave of General Enoch Poor, in the cemetery of the First Reformed Church, Hackensack, Governor Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, caused a wreath to be placed on the grave and one on the monument. General Poor, an officer under Washington, died in Hackensack in 1774. He was born in New Hampshire.

The exercises were under the direction of the National Star-Spangled Banner Association and the principal address was made by its president, Captain Walter Irving Joyce of New York. The wreaths were placed by Colonel Benjamin Franklin Cleveland, a grand army veteran, a cousin of the late President Grover Cleveland. In the group of D. A. R. members present was Mrs. W. H. Wiley of Hackensack, a great-grandniece of Washington.

Girl's Feet Win Golden Slippers.

Arline Aber, 19 years old, of 102 West Seventy-fourth Street, won the golden slippers yesterday in the first annual golden slipper contest under the auspices of the New York State Pedic Society. The finals were held in connection with the formal opening of the Blyn building at 398 Fifth Avenue. Arline's twin sister, Charline, was fourteenth in the contest, which was held to discover the most beautiful feet, irrespective of size, in the city and vicinity.

FIRE 15 SHOTS IN CHASE, TAKE PAIR IN CAR THEFT

Police Pursue Fugitives for 25 Blocks in Eighth Av.—One Boasts of "Beating the Rap."

A police chase for twenty-five blocks down Eighth Avenue late last night resulted in the capture of two men, one of whom, Vincent O'Brien, 21 years old, of 159-06 Academy Street, Howard Beach, L. I., later boasted in the West Forty-seventh Street police station that he was an automobile thief who habitually "beat the rap."

The chase started at Fiftieth Street and Eighth Avenue when Lieutenant Patrick Fitzgibbons, in charge of the headquarters "strong arm" squad, saw a sedan in which there were four men pass several red lights. Fitzgibbons ordered the sedan to stop, and when it refused to obey gave chase. About fifteen shots were fired at the car's tires, but it kept on. At Twenty-fifth Street it turned west to Tenth Avenue, thence north to Twenty-sixth Street and west again. Here the occupants, seeing themselves pursued by an increasing number of police cars, abandoned their machine and scattered. Two escaped.

The others, O'Brien, whose brother Thomas, the police say, was shot to death in a gang fight at Fourteenth Street and Ninth Avenue three years ago, and Jacob Birkhardt, 18, of 422 West Fifty-third Street, were held, charged with grand larceny. The automobile was stolen recently from Jacob Suffrin of 2,240 Wallace Avenue, the Bronx, the police records showed.

CAPITAL STUDIES CANADIAN DUTIES

Washington Experts Note the Heavy Increases on Gasoline, Iron and Steel.

SCOFF AT REPRISAL IDEA

But Admit Some of the New Levies May Affect Our Exports to Dominion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The new Canadian tariff rates which became operative today were said by government experts who studied them to be lower, in general, than had been expected in the light of reports current prior to the adoption of the law. Nevertheless, those who analyzed the schedules, while holding untenable the theory that Canada was raising a tariff wall in a trade war with the United States, admitted that the higher imports might have a deterrent effect on the exchange of goods between the United States and the Dominion.

The new rate on gasoline and on certain shapes of iron and steel, the experts stated, were outstanding examples of increases in imposts which might affect United States exporters.

Heavy Impost on Gasoline.

The new Canadian act does not include in the provisions published here any new specifications concerning internal combustion engines or automotive machinery, which is one of the largest class of United States exports to the Dominion.

Gasoline has a heavy impost under the interpretation placed on the law here. Under the old schedules this product was listed independently for free admission, while under the new it is classed with numerous other petroleum and coal oil distillates, which, when imported from the United States, pay a general duty of 2½ cents a gallon.

The general duty on rolled plates of iron or steel, not more than forty inches in width and not otherwise provided for, jumped from $6 to $7 a ton. Iron or steel angles, beams, channels, columns, girders, joists, piling, tees, zees and other shapes and sections, not punched, drilled or further manufactured than hot rolled or cast, are assessed at 40 per cent instead of 35 per cent.

In the same group of manufactures cast iron or steel pipe is raised from $10 to $14 a ton, although this difference is believed already to have been provided for in an ad valorem duty allowance of 25 per cent.

Canadian imports of iron and steel products comprise about one-fourth of the $1,000,000,000 of purchases annually from the United States. Of this total, rolled iron and steel account for about $22,000,000.

Canada purchased from the United States last year 169,000,000 gallons of gasoline of a wholesale value of $19,000,000.

Increases in Food Stuffs.

There are marked increases in foodstuffs exported by the United States but similar rates, according to the experts here, have been in effect since May 2 without results that could not be traced to general business depression. The trade in foodstuffs with Canada is said to be small in comparison with the grand total of the exports to the Dominion.

Under the previous tariff law, whenever a foreign country raised the import on a commodity exported by Canada, the Canadian duties on imports of that commodity from the other country were raised to the same figure. This countervailing duty, it is understood here, was stricken from the new law and flat rates were substituted.

Thus eggs in the shell from the United States, which formerly bore a duty of 3 cents a dozen, are taxed 10 cents a dozen under the new law. But it was stated that they also have been taxed at that rate by Canada since May 2, when the Dominion duties were revised to meet the American rate of 10 cents a dozen, which went into effect last June. Beef, bacon, butter and potatoes, on which the rates have been raised considerably, are similarly affected.

Countervailing Rates Equaled.

The opinion was expressed that under the new duties countries having a "favored nation" treaty with Canada would find themselves at a disadvantage. In the classification of iron and steel manufactures the intermediate rate of many types of products was raised to the same level as that assessed against American products, and this, tariff experts stated, might work to the advantage of American manufacturers, due to their proximity to the Canadian market.

When the Bennett Ministry came into power it found that the countervailing duties enacted by the Liberal party had raised many rates. These rates, automatically set to meet the competition of the United States, have not become permanent statutes. The principal disadvantage to the United States in this arrangement is seen here in the fact that Canadian rates will not now drop automatically with the lowering of any American rates but will continue in effect until they are changed through due repeal of the law itself and the adoption of new schedules.

The State Department let it be known today that it will make no representations to Canada looking toward lower rates on United States products since it considers the new schedules represent a domestic Canadian question, into which factors not generally understood in this country have entered.

SIXTH SUSPECT HELD IN BOND THIEF RING

Police Trace $8,125 of $1,000,000 Loot to Alleged Former Convict.

The sixth member of an alleged bond theft ring which is charged with stealing $1,000,000 in securities in the past two years was held without bail yesterday for hearing Sept. 23 on the specific complaint of stealing $8,125 city of Detroit bonds from the City Bank and Farmers Trust Company, 43 Exchange Place, on Aug. 23 last.

He is Jack Harris, alias Schmisel, alias Harry Harvey, according to Assistant District Attorney Charles Garrison, who said the suspect had pleaded guilty to a similar charge on a previous occasion and served four years in prison. Harris was arraigned before Magistrate Simpson on the larceny charge. When his counsel, John J. McCauley, went before General Sessions Judge Collins to have bail set Mr. Garrison warned that he would ask that it be fixed at $50,000. Harris's counsel then withdrew his request.

The five other members of the alleged band, three of whom are said to have confessed, are Sidney Gottleib, 201 West Seventy-first Street; Harry Griffin, 71 Post Avenue; Thomas Thomson, Nathan Wilson and Borden or Horowitz, 672 Empire Boulevard, Brooklyn. They also are awaiting a hearing on Sept. 23.

They were seized after detectives, who said they had trailed the latter to the office of the Chick-Green Sports, Inc., 306 Broadway, where Borden, according to the Assistant District Attorney, was operating while ostensibly promoting miniature golf courses. Mr. Garrison said $35,000 in stolen securities had been recovered.

Harris, who lives at 50 West 112th Street, represented himself to clerks at the City Bank and Farmers Trust as an employe of the Chase National Bank, to which the $8,125 in bonds was consigned, according to Mr. Garrison. When he was asked to identify himself, Mr. Garrison said, Harris grabbed the bonds and ran. He was arrested Tuesday after being recognized in the offices of T. W. Chapman, 42 Cedar Street.

FIXES STEUBEN BIRTH DATE.

Letter, Read at Society Dinner Here, Was Written by Him to Ex-Aide.

At the annual dinner of the New York Steuben Society last night at the Hotel Plaza to commemmorate the birth of Baron Wilhelm Frederick von Steuben, Sept. 17, 1730, General John McAuley, U. S. A. retired, read a letter written by the Baron to his former aide de camp, William North in 1786. The letter, now in the Steuben collection at Hamilton College, definitely settles the date of the Baron's birth and the controversy that has arisen over the date, General McAuley said.

The letter read: "On Sunday, Sept 17, 1730, at 6 o'clock in the evening there was born at Magdeburg Prussia, Frederick Wilhelm, &c., &c., &c. This man, then, is 56 years old today. Is he rich? No. Is he wise? No. Why in the devil is he staying, then, such a long time in this world? He does not like to hang himself. Tell me, then, my dear Billy, how he ought to go out of it?"

Other speakers at the dinner were Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely and Mayor James Berg of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

CENSUS REVISES SOME CITY FIGURES

Puts at 270 Number of Communities With 25,000 to 100,000 Population.

SCHENECTADY IS LARGEST

Dearborn, Mich., Leads in Percentage of Increase—Six States Lack Cities in This Group.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—A revised list of American cities having in 1930 between 25,000 and 100,000 inhabitants, issued today by the Census Bureau, placed the total number of such communities at 270.

Schenectady, N. Y., was the largest in the group, with 95,652 inhabitants. Johnson City, Tenn., was the smallest, with 25,073. Dearborn, Mich., led in percentage of increase, growing 1,926.7 per cent to a total of 50,060 in the last decade. Six States had no cities in this population group—Delaware, Idaho, Minnesota, Nevada, Vermont and Wyoming.

The figures in the following table still are subject to revision in the final official count, except those marked (*), which are final. Those marked (†) have been revised. Minus signs in the increase columns indicate decreased populations:

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT CALLED STOCK PLOT

Counsel Charge It Was Brought Against Kelly-Springfield Co. to Manipulate Shares.

COURT DISMISSES ACTION

Acts When Defendant Fights Postponement or Withdrawal of the Case in Jersey City.

Charges of a plot to manipulate Kelly-Springfield stock resulted in the dismissal yesterday by Vice Chancellor John J. Fallon of a receivership action brought in Jersey City against the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company of Springfield, Mass.

The suit was brought on Sept. 5 by James A. Kelly of 194 Arlington Avenue, Jersey City, owner of 100 shares of Kelly-Springfield stock. A hearing was called yesterday by County Judge Charles M. Eagan as special master in his law office in Jersey City.

While John Milton, counsel for a group of stockholders opposing the action, was waiting there he was called to the law offices of Gross & Gross, whom he learned for the first time represented Mr. Kelly. He was told that Gross & Gross desired to discontinue the case. Mr. Milton refused to consent.

Meanwhile other counsel for Mr. Kelly had applied to Vice Chancellor Fallon to postpone the hearing before the special master. Mr. Milton hurried to Chancery Court, where William George and Herbert Hannoch, of counsel for Mr. Kelly and Thomas G. Haight, special counsel for the company, assembled before Vice Chancellor Fallon.

In opposing the adjournment, Mr. Milton said he hoped to prove that certain persons had entered into a conspiracy to depress Kelly-Springfield stock by applying for the receivership. He said he intended to present evidence that soon after the application was made stock of the company was sold short. Mr. Milton also declared that 5,000 shares recently were borrowed from a broker for the purpose of strengthening the receivership action.

Vice Chancellor Fallon replied: "Go ahead and prove it if you can."

Counsel for both sides conferred and arguments were resumed later in the vice chancellor's office in Hoboken.

Mr. George said that when retained he had believed the case was "brought in good faith," but that in view of Mr. Milton's statement he desired to withdraw as counsel.

Mr. George and Mr. Hannoch both consented to a discontinuance, but Mr. Milton and Mr. Haight demanded a dismissal. An order to that effect was presented by Mr. Haight and was signed by Vice Chancellor Fallon.

ADVERTISING CHANGE SEEN.

Department Stores Returning to Fundamentals, Says P. E. Murphy.

The outstanding trend in department store retailing today is away from the "fancy theories" of the past decade—such as attempts at fashion creation and taste-molding—back to the fundamental of "selling wanted merchandise at a profit," according to Paul E. Murphy, advertising manager of Frederick Loeser & Co., Brooklyn, who last evening made the first of a series of twelve weekly lectures by authorities on retail newspaper advertising to be given in THE NEW YORK TIMES club room, Times Annex, 229 West Forty-third Street.

"The importance of fashion," Mr. Murphy declared, "is not being disregarded, but is now recognized as only one selling factor, with those of quality, utility and price again being brought out into the open. Merchants are returning to the fundamentals they lost sight of when increasing population, increasing wealth and an upward price trend made the sailing easy for most stores. Now that the price trend is downward and the pressure of new forms of competition is beginning to make itself felt, department stores are confining themselves to buying and selling the merchandise that the public wants, instead of attempting to reform public taste by the creation of fashion and cultural centres, art museums, 'universities' and the like."

The opening class was attended by 160 men and women interested in newspaper advertising. All the large department stores of the city and many specialty stores and advertising services were represented in the group, in addition to members of THE TIMES staff.

The lecture next Wednesday evening will be on the "Theory and Practice of Department Store Advertising" and will be given by H. L. Redman, vice president and general merchandise manager of Saks Fifth Avenue.

MARCONI TO BE NAMED TO ITALIAN ACADEMY

He Will Be Only Scientist Proposed by Body, Which Will Urge His Appointment as President.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Sept. 17.—The Italian Academy will hold a meeting tomorrow for the purpose of electing new members. The regulations of the academy provide that the academicians shall prepare a list of names of persons qualified to become members and then submit the list to the Premier, who makes the final choice.

An exception will be made tomorrow, when, instead of a list, only one name will be submitted for the science section, and that name will be the Marchese Guglielmo Marconi. In this way the academy wants to show its unanimous desire that Italy's most famous scientist, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, shall become a member of the most important learned body in Italy. Signor Marconi's election as a member of the academy is, however, only a prelude to his appointment as president of that body.

Senator Tottoni, president, has sent in his resignation on account of ill health, and it was learned tonight the academy would unanimously request Premier Mussolini to appoint Signor Marconi president of the academy. Signor Tittoni is an ex officio member of the Fascist Grand Council, which is the most important political body in Italy.

During its session the academy will elect eleven new members.

BRITAIN CONCERNED OVER OTTAWA TARIFF

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Hawley-Smoot measure. Canada, they think, is fighting with her back to the wall. She does not want to hurt England, but if England is hurt Canada cannot help it.

A less generous attitude toward Canada, but one not very widely held in this country, is that Premier Bennett has rushed his new tariff through for the sake of having the bargaining material when he comes to the Imperial Conference in London. With the Canadian duties increased against the United Kingdom as well as against the rest of the world, he will have more to yield for the sake of inducing Great Britain to buy more Canadian grain, even though Britain has to curtail her grain imports from Argentina.

However that may be, Canada's new departure makes England's position more awkward than ever, both in her world and empire relations. Coming on the heels of the declaration of William Graham, president of the Board of Trade, that Great Britain would ratify the tariff truce agreement among the European States, it adds materially to the difficulty this country is going to have to reach some sort of economic agreement with the dominions when they go into conference two weeks hence.

The Argentine revolution is a factor in this same problem. Former President Irigoyen's partiality toward England and his unconcealed dislike of America made the obtaining of commercial advantages for this country comparatively simple, but the new Argentine President is apparently not going to play favorites as between the two chief English-speaking countries, so it behooves England not to go so far in yielding to the demands of the dominions for trade preferences as to lose the great commercial status she already has in the South American country.

To all rational persons Canada's new lofty tariff wall would seem to put a quietus to the schemes of Lord Beaverbrook and Viscount Rothermere for empire free trade, but no doubt the two peers will squeeze out of the situation an argument that Canada's new policy is a convincing proof that the Dominion can hardly wait to remove all the barriers against British exports.

EX-PREMIER KING HITS NEW CANADIAN TARIFF

He Accuses Government of Instituting High Protection Disguised as Relief for Idle.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 17.—The House of Commons today passed the anti-dumping legislation.

Former Premier King, speaking on the tariff proposals, accused the government of instituting a high protection tariff disguised as unemployment relief. He said it would bear heavily on the consumer, reduce trade and asked for an adjournment until after the imperial conference to study the proposals. He moved an amendment, worded as follows:

"This House regrets that the government has seen fit at a special session called to deal only with unemployment to propose great increases in customs taxation on a wide range of commodities under circumstances which preclude this House and the country from securing adequate information regarding the proposals and present proper parliamentary discussion of them.

"In the opinion of this house the tremendous increases in taxation proposed will not end unemployment but will inevitably increase the cost of living, and will also increase the cost of production in the primary industries, agriculture, fishing, mining and lumbering, thus making it more difficult for Canadian producers in these industries to meet world competition in marketing their products."

A triumph for the NEW
"CRACK-PROOF" TEXACO

DRIVE a few yards in reverse gear. Notice how the engine races. Notice what a pull it places on your motor! Then imagine driving across the entire continent, from New York to Los Angeles and back—all the way in reverse!

That's exactly what the "back-up" boys, world's champion reverse drivers, did with a Ford at a speed of 10 to 12 miles an hour. This is equal, according to Ford authorities, to 50 to 60 miles in high gear.

Success depended upon perfect lubrication

Practically all radiator ventilation and fan cooling were eliminated by driving backward. Their engine speed, equivalent to 50 to 60 miles in high gear, was maintained for 42 consecutive days. The abnormal engine heat was intensified to almost scorching proportions on the Great Salt Lake Desert, where the thermometer registered 121°F. Anything less than perfect lubrication would have spelled disaster.

FACTS
The driver—James C. Hargis, 26, St. Louis Interior Decorator.
Car—a new Ford roadster equipped with rear headlights. The forward gears were taken out so that it was impossible to drive any way but backward.
Conditions—Drove from New York to Los Angeles and back, 7180 miles, in reverse gear.
Products used—The same new crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil and "dry" Texaco Gasoline sold in all our 48 States.

Crack-proof Texaco meets every test

After they had conducted many comparative tests they selected the new crack-proof Texaco as the one motor oil most likely to withstand the terrific heat and engine strain. And once again the new Texaco has lived up to every expectation—has proved its longer-lasting qualities that will not break down under any driving conditions.

Modern engines demand an extra margin of protection. They demand better lubrication. Car owners demand lower oil consumption, smoother, quieter engines and freedom from carbon.

The new crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil and Texaco-Ethyl, the "dry" Ethyl Gasoline, provide all these advantages. Wherever you may be, stop at the first Texaco Service Station—the station where you see the Texaco Red Star with the Green T.

To every woman of every generation, there's a story you can't repeat too often. It never wears out. It's always good.

"My! How stunning you look!"

It doesn't matter how you phrase it. When you convey this idea, she's hearing the sweetest story ever told.

She must like to hear it or she wouldn't go to all the fuss and bother she does to deserve it.

But Chicago women for years have simplified this problem of maintaining the mode. Almost as a body, they have turned to one authoritative source for style news—the Chicago Tribune. Here they find by far the most complete showing of clothing offerings to be found among Chicago newspapers. Here they can choose and be right in their choice. For here is paraded, day after day, practically everything that is new, fashionable, smart.

The figures prove it: During the first eight months of this year, the Chicago Tribune carried 363,000 MORE lines of women's clothing advertising than any other Chicago newspaper. And more women than ever must be reading—and heeding—this style information. The following figures indicate that. Tribune total average circulation, August, 1930: 827,357 daily; 1,028,337 Sunday!

The largest and most responsive audience in Chicago for merchandise of all types appealing to women is in the Chicago Tribune. Ask a Tribune man for the full facts on how to sell to women in Chicago.

WET-DRY DEADLOCK LEFT BY PRIMARY

Republicans Claim Victory on Both Sides of Issue in State-Wide Contests.

ORGANIZATION SWEEP HERE

Theofel in Queens, Rendt in Richmond, and Other Incumbent Democrats Easily Victorious.

With the primary battle between Republican wets and drys ending practically in a stalemate, leaving the first widespread anti-prohibition drive still short of its main objectives, the local party organizations yesterday credited themselves with victories, irrespective of whether their designees were wet or dry.

Where the organization supported a dry he won, and where it selected a wet, victory came to him, the party workers pointed out. In the Democratic ranks, where universal wetness permitted no contest over prohibition, the established organization control proved similarly effective.

Final returns yesterday established the complete control of Executive County Chairman John Theofel in Queens and County Chairman Davis S. Rendt in Staten Island; the continuance in his leadership of Andrew B. Keating in the Thirteenth Assembly District, Manhattan, and the routing of five aspiring factions for posts on the Democratic State Committee in Brooklyn in opposition to the regulars.

Up-State Wet Defeats Dempsey.

The one possible exception in up-State Republican contests to the general triumph of the organization was the defeat of Represenattive S. Wallace Dempsey, chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House, a dry, running on the enforcement doctrine enunciated in the Republican national platform of two years ago. He was defeated by Walter Gresham Andrews of Buffalo, an outspoken wet, in a fight in the Fortieth Congressional District.

Mr. Andrews carried the Erie County portion of the district by a majority of 3,775, sufficient to overtop a Dempsey lead of 1,500 in Niagara County. Mr. Dempsey had the support, at least nominally, of the Erie Republican leader, Fred Bradley, but there had been previous differences between them.

Complete returns showed another wet victory and the defeat of a present incumbent as the result of the Senatorial contest in the Thirty-second District, but in this case the local party organization had been cold to a renomination. Alexander G. Baxter, Saratoga wet, with the support of most of the regular leaders, defeated Senator Thomas C. Brown of Schenectady. Senator Brown fostered an enforcement bill at the last legislative session and by his single vote in the last minutes of the session managed to side-track a resolution calling for repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Senator Brown declared yesterday that he would not run as an independent dry candidate but that he might seek a recount of the ballots. Friends had advised him, he said, that there had been "gross irregularities" at the polls.

Some Gains for Drys.

In one up-State contest where the organization was divided, a dry victory was scored and some hitherto wet territory was recaptured, at least until election day. This was in Oneida County, where the final vote gave the lead in the race for the Senatorial nomination to William S. Murray, a dry, over Willard R. Pratt, a wet. The district has been represented by Senator H. D. Williams, a wet, who is now retiring. Representative Frederick M. Davenport supported the Murray candidacy and County Chairman Leo O. Coupe, who led the opposing faction, announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election in deference to the results of the primary.

Another wet-dry battle is expected when the wet Democratic nominee for the Senate opposes Murray on election day. This is one of the districts which the democracy hopes to carry.

With the exception of Mr. Dempsey, all the up-State dry representatives were pushed to victory by organization support. The dry southern tier returned Gale H. Stalker, co-author of the Jones dry law, by a large vote, in the Thirty-seventh District. Other dry representatives successful in gaining renomination were James S. Parker in the Twetny-ninth District, Frank Crowther in the Thirtieth and John D. Clarke in the Thirty-fourth.

Not involved in the prohibition controversy, Senator W. W. Campbell, a dry, scored another organization victory over a fellow-dry in the Forty-seventh Senatorial District, covering Niagara County. He defeated former Assemblyman William Bewley.

In Erie, two wet Republican Assemblymen, W. L. Marcy Jr. in the Second District and Howard W. Dickey in the Sixth, were victors with organization support over dry opponents.

The up-State Assembly contests brought uniform success to the organization designees and present incumbents, except in the case of Assemblyman Frank H. Lattin in Orleans County, who lost to Colonel J. S. Thompson by more than 2,000 votes. In the third Westchester Assembly District, Milan E. Goodrich maintained a large lead over a wet insurgent, Alan B. Campbell.

Rendt Makes Clean Sweep.

In the Democratic factional fight in Staten Island, Public Works Commissioner David S. Rendt made a clean sweep over the candidates offered by Borough President John A. Lynch, who sought to overthrow Rendt. The Rendt State committeemen were elected as well as his candidates for the Assembly and Senate and for Sheriff.

Speculation in Richmond centred over whether the Democratic factions would bury the hatchet. Borough President Lynch at least announced that he would support the successful Democratic nominees There were still rumors that the Borough President would ask Commissioner Rendt to surrender his $12,000 a year job, however.

The Theofel organization in Queens also overcame all opposition. The various Theofel candidates for Surrogate, County Clerk, Senator and Assemblymen were all elected. Likewise victorious in the fight for places on the State Committee, the Theofel organization aided Thomas F. Creem in the First Assembly District to check the move of former Borough President Bernard M. Patten for leadership there. The vote was 5,367 to 4,300.

The status of the Harvey forces on the Republican side in Queens remained in doubt at the end of the count. The Borough President's supporters pushed to victory their candidate for State Senator in the Second District, and their Assembly candidate in the contest in the Fifth Assembly District. The De Bragga forces won most of the places on the State committee and Raymond S. Richmond, organization choice for county leader to succeed De Bragga, won the leadership of the Third Assembly District. The Harvey backers, however, were still confident that they control the majority of the county committee and can use it to offset the executive committee, which now appears to be controlled by Richmond.

Steinbrink Tightens Control.

Meier Steinbrink's leadership of the Republican party in Brooklyn became more secure as a result of the primaries, since his organization won eight of its nine contests for places on the State committee. John H. McCooey's power as head of the Democratic party in the borough was not even threatened. In the five contests for places on the Democratic State Committee, the regular organization won easily on purely district issues.

In the Thirteenth Assembly District, where the Steinbrink choice, Robert Brown, was defeated by Neil Angeloro, it was learned last night that Brown's followers would carry their fight to a meeting of the District County Committee, which will be held within the next week. Brown's friends insisted they had a majority in the county committee, and, if such is the case, Brown will be the titular head of the organization in the district, with Angeloro retaining only a vote in the State committee.

The most outstanding victory for Steinbrink was in the Eighteenth Assembly District, where Abraham H. Goodman defeated Warren G. Price, who has been leader since 1913. The final figures revealed that Goodman won over Price by more than two to one. Price was ousted as Collector of Internal Revenue last December in the move that made Steinbrink the successor to Jacob A. Livingston as county leader.

Although early returns indicated that Henry F. O'Neil retained the Republican leadership of the Third Assembly District, the final tally recorded victory for Walter H. Vernie, the Steinbrink choice. The result was Vernie 300, O'Neil 228.

HOLZWORTH TO SEEK PRIMARY RECOUNT

Defeated Republican Insurgent Expected to Make Fraud Charges in Westchester.

WARD SWINGS TO WETS

Observers Declare It Is Almost Certain Leader Will Support Repeal Plank at Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—With fifty affidavits in his hands charging fraud and irregularities on the part of the regular organization workers, John M. Holzworth, the defeated insurgent Republican candidate for Congress in the Twenty-fifth Congressional District, embracing Westchester and Rockland, indicated tonight that he might demand a recount tomorrow morning.

Although the complete returns from the district appeared to give Charles D. Millard, the organization candidate sponsored by County Leader William L. Ward, a lead over Holzworth of 3,007 votes, the Holzworth supporters were confident that a new check might make a considerable difference. It was also intimated that an appeal might be made to the courts in protest against some of the ballots.

Robert A. Patteson of Tarrytown, the dry candidate in the three-cornered fight, ran a poor third in almost every district, with his total amounting to only 3,045, as compared with 12,255 for Millard and 9,248 for Holzworth. Millard joined the wet camp after Holzworth had made an issue of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Defeat of Thomas Goodwin, former Mayor of Hastings, as State Committeeman from the Fourth Assembly District by Thomas A. Brogan, incumbent, was regarded here today as a victory for insurgent Democratic forces.

Holzworth carried the town of Rye, home of Ward. It is also Holzworth's home town. The insurgent also carried Rockland County. His lead of about 700 votes in Rockland was interpreted here as a record of protest on the part of Rockland Republicans against "the extension of Ward's bossism across the river."

Wilbur Horton of 81 Waller Avenue, resident of this city for twenty years, failed to appear before City Court Judge William Gray this morning on a charge of electioneering filed against him, last night by Lloyd Peck, a Holzworth district captain. Judge Gray adjourned the case until tomorrow morning on the promise of friends that Horton would appear.

Holzworth workers challenged all ballots in the Second Election District, town of North Salem, on the ground that County Clerk Charles J. F. Decker was instructing citizens how to vote the organization ticket within a polling place.

One up-county watcher for Holzworth was said to have sworn out an affadivit that he saw an election inspector drunk. Every time a prospective voter would come to the polls, he said, the inspector would take him outside to a speakeasy, buy him a drink and talk organization politics. The Holzworth watcher said the inspector bought him a drink and told him to vote for Millard.

In a Mount Pleasant district Holzworth watchers said they saw a ballot box open nearly all afternoon as voters cast their ballots.

Allan B. Campbell, insurgent wet candidate for Assembly in the Third District, defeated by about 2,263 votes by Assemblyman Milan E. Goodrich, a dry, said he went to polling places in Mount Pleasant and saw evidence of corruption. He was expected to swear out an affidavit today. If the protests go to court, as it now appears, former District Attorney Lee Parsons Davis, Holzworth's personal friend and adviser, is looked upon to direct Holzworth's legal fight. Holzworth is not expected to run as an independent.

Estimates today put Holzworth's campaign expenditures at about $50,000. About half of this was said to have come from his own pocket and the rest from his friends. Henry T. Pierce, formerly his campaign manager, laid his defeat to the failure of the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment to keep its promise to support him.

One of the most significant results of the primaries in this county is that Ward and his fellow-delegates to the State convention probably will vote wet. In the midst of the campaign Ward took an unexpected step in announcing that his delegates would vote as they pleased on the prohibition question at Albany. In view of the overwhelming victory accorded the wet Congressional candidates in this county it is considered almost positive in well-informed circles that Ward himself will vote wet.

State Senator Walter W. Westall, a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket, announced today that whereas heretofor he had considered his district dry and had voted accordingly, he now considered it wet and would change his vote to match the complexion of his constituency. He is a delegate to the State convention.

BAD CHECK JAILS WOMAN.

Hotel Patron Says She Got It From a Broker.

Magistrate Brodsky held Miss Florence Mills, 23 years old, in $1,000 bail for the grand jury in West Side Court yesterday on a charge of grand larceny, to which she pleaded not guilty. She was accused by George Owens, house detective at the Hotel Beacon, Broadway and Seventy-fifth Street, of having given a worthless check for $100 in payment of her hotel bill.

Owens testified that she had passed other checks at the hotel which had been returned as worthless and that she had given bad checks to department stores. Miss Mills gave the $100 check to the hotel in payment of a bill of $58 on July 3, Owens said. He testified she received $42 in change. Cash was paid for other checks the next day, the detective told the court.

Miss Mills said when she was arrested that the checks had been given to her by a brokerage firm for which she had worked in Washington. She promised to make restitution. It was said at the United States Attorney's office that the firm she named had maintained branches in New York City and that W. W. Easterday, who operated it, was being investigated by the United States Attorney.

Vause Trial Put Off.

Former Kings County Judge W. Bernard Vause visited United States Attorney Howard W. Ameli's office in Brooklyn yesterday to arrange for an adjournment of his trial for evasion of income taxes, which was on the calendar for today. Mr. Ameli agreed to put the case over to Sept. 29.

PREDICTS 100,000 VOTES FOR REDS IN NOVEMBER

Fish Tells Reserve Officers Communists Are Threat to Business but Not to Government.

A prediction that the Communists would poll 100,000 votes in the next national election was made yesterday by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., chairman of the House of Representatives committee investigating Communist activities, in an address at a luncheon of the Manhattan Chapter, Reserve Officers Association, at the Army and Navy Club, 30 West Forty-fourth Street.

Mr. Fish made this prediction while discussing the question of communism and the work of his committee. Although there is no need to be alarmed concerning the prospects of the Communist party so far as its ability to seize the government is concerned, communism does constitute a menace in the industries and should be combated, Mr. Fish said. He urged the Reserve Officers Association to form a committee to cooperate with the War Department in watching Communist activities in the army.

Speaking of the success won by the Communists in the recent elections in Germany, when they obtained nearly 4,500,000 votes, Mr. Fish said this was to be attributed entirely to the recognition of the Soviet Government by Germany. He implied that recognition of the Soviet Government by the United States would be reflected in an increase in Communist strength in this country.

Mr. Fish said his committee would continue with its investigation despite the criticism of it by some newspapers and that it would report to the House in December with recommendations. He indicated that one of the recommendations would be to vest the necessary power in the Department of Justice to enable it to follow Communist activities. He gave it as his opinion that an appropriation of $5,000,000 to this purpose should be voted by Congress, if need be.

Major William Hardenbergh presided at the luncheon.

FAILS IN NEW START INTO STRATOSPHERE

Professor Piccard's Balloon at Augsburg Again Is Unable to Rise From the Ground.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AUGSBURG, Germany, Sept. 17.—Professor Piccard's second attempt to start a balloon ascension into the stratosphere proved a failure this morning, duplicating his first effort.

At 6 A. M. Professor Piccard and his companion entered the gondola, which was then hermetically closed, but when the professor signaled to let go a sudden gust of wind from the southwest pressed the balloon sideways, and although 500 pounds of ballast were thrown off it would not rise.

When, on a second attempt, the gondola was dragged along the ground and the expensive instruments were endangered. Professor Piccard abandoned the start and declared he would await more favorable weather even if the start were dalayed until Wintertime.

PROTESTS PUBLICITY IN MARTIN INQUIRY

Untermyer Accuses Ameli and Ward Aides of Misdemeanor for Alleged Disclosures.

JUDGE IGNORES SUMMONS

Counsel Says Reports of Pending Jury Action Prompted Refusal —Charges Political Bias.

Charging that a misdemeanor had been committed by the State Attorney General's office in making public testimony taken in the investigation into companies with which Kings County Judge George W. Martin was connected, Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for Judge Martin, made public yesterday letters to Attorney General Hamilton Ward and to United States Attorney Howard W. Ameli of Brooklyn protesting against the publicity he said was being given to their investigations in order to discredit Judge Martin.

Mr. Untermyer's letter to Mr. Ameli, dated Tuesday, revealed that Judge Martin had been asked to appear yesterday morning at Mr. Ameli's office, and that he had declined to do so. The letter, signed by Mr. Untermyer, Charles J. McDermott and William N. Dykman, said that as counsel for Judge Martin they had advised him not to accept the invitation to appear.

Silent on Martin Waives.

They did this, they said, because it had been reported that Mr. Ameli and Kenneth M. Spence, Special Assistant Attorney General, planned to place the cases before a Federal grand jury. Mr. Untermyer declined to say whether Judge Martin would go before a grand jury and waive immunity. Judge Martin, who visited Mr. Untermyer's office, had nothing to say.

"At a conference held today at the office of Mr. Samuel Untermyer," the letter to Mr. Ameli said, "Judge Martin handed us a printed request for him to appear at your office at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning 'as a witness in regard to an alleged violation of 215 U. S. C. C.'"

Newspaper reports of interviews with Mr. Ameli and Mr. Spence, the letter continued, carried statements "purporting to emanate" from their offices, to the effect that the case against Judge Martin with respect to three companies would be presented to the grand jury. In these statements, the letter declared, "there seems to be a persistent attempt to unfairly prejudge Judge Martin and calculated to create public sentiment against him, so that if, as we doubt, grand jury action should be taken against Judge Martin, it would be rendered difficult if not impossible for him to secure a fair trial."

"The secrecy that the law supposes to be thrown around investigations of this kind is being violated day by day, if these reports are to be credited," the letter continued.

It called Judge Martin a "victim, but in no sense culpable," and said that if, contrary to belief of his counsel, a grand jury could be influenced by "political propaganda" to return an indictment, he would demand an immediate trial. But, the letter concluded, he could not allow the case to be tried in the newspapers.

Protests Against Methods.

The letter to Attorney General Ward, signed by Mr. Untermyer alone, declared that on behalf of counsel for Judge Martin he wished to "protest against the methods which are being employed in your office to publicly discredit Judge Martin."

"Our information is," Mr. Untermyer wrote, "that the witnesses did not make, in substance, any such statements as they are charged with having made and that, on the contrary, Mr. Milholland was assured by the witnesses that Judge Martin's connection with the Match Corporation of America was highly creditable and that he has not personally profited by his relations with that company."

Whether or not this information is accurate, Mr. Untermyer went on, he wished to protest against "these daily disclosures from your office, contrary to statute." He quoted an opinion of Chief Judge Hiscock which said that "any official conducting an investigation who gives publicity to the information which has been obtained is himself guilty of misdemeanor."

False Date Given Out, He Says.

Mr. Untermyer charged that the Attorney General's office was distributing "résumés of what purports to be but is not the testimony thus taken," and was forwarding copies of testimony to the United States Attorney in the Eastern District. He asked that these "flagrant violations of law" be stopped.

When Mr. Spence was told of the letters, he said he had "never made any statement except that three companies were under investigation," and that there was "no political tinge" to the investigation.

Mr. Ameli said he had not seen the letter addressed to him and could not say until he saw it whether a grand jury subpoena would be issued for Judge Martin.

Mr. Milholland will examine today Thomas J. Buckley, former president of Filmland Players, Inc., one of the companies with which Judge Martin was connected. The examination was postponed yesterday.

BROUN ASSAILS MRS. PRATT

Congressional Candidate Scores Rival on Unemployment.

Heywood Broun, Socialist candidate for Congress in the Seventeenth District, assailed his Republican opponent, Mrs. Ruth Pratt, in a speech at a luncheon of the Cooperative Club of New York at the Fraternity Clubs Building yesterday.

He described it as a "terrific indictment" that when a motion came up in the last session of Congress, of which she was a member, to strike out of the census plans the provision for a count of the unemployed, she did not vote. The importance of the matter, he said, lay in the fact that "discovering the number of unemployed is the fundamental step toward doing something about unemployment."

He said that last Winter, when he approached the head of a nation-wide radio chain with a proposal for a national "unemployment benefit," with 5 cents "admission" asked of each radio listener, the executive said it was a good plan. But he refused to go into it, saying, according to Mr. Broun, "I feel that President Hoover wouldn't want attention called to unemployment."

"President Hoover's optimistic attitude may have arisen from a sincere desire to help conditions," Mr. Broun said, "but I believe it is the wrong idea not to face facts."

SWIMS HALF-MILE TO SAVE BOY IN BOAT

Patrolman Rescues Youth at Manhattan Beach as Crowd Cheers Him On.

While several hundred persons looked on and cheered, Patrolman William F. McBride, attached to the Coney Island station, swam nearly half a mile yesterday afternoon to rescue a 16-year-old boy drifting out to sea in a rowboat.

Shortly after noon, Julian Frank, who lives at 92 Hoff Street, Brighton Beach, and attends the James Madison High School in Coney Island, went fishing off Beaumont Street, Manhattan Beach, in a rowboat his father, Abraham, gave him early in the Summer. The tide was slack and Julian rowed about 500 feet off shore, where he anchored.

For an hour he fished and caught nothing. Tired of watching the line, he picked up a book he had carried with him and read. The tide changed and gradually the boat was dragged out without him noticing it until it reached deep water. He drew in his anchor and attempted to row back to shore, but the tide was too strong and he lost headway.

His cry and struggles to get to shore attracted a large crowd, who summoned Patrolmen David Bailey and McBride. They immediately sent a call to the Coast Guard and the Marine Division, but as they watched the boy drifting further away, it was noticed that he seemed ill.

Afraid he might fall overboard or become frigtened and attempt to swim ashore, Patrolman McBride threw off his uniform and jumped into the water. With the cheers of bystanders ringing in his ears, he swam to the boat, by then nearly half a mile from shore, and rowed it into Manhattan Beach.

On shore Julian was treated by an ambulance surgeon from Coney Island Hospital for seasickness and escorted home by a policeman. Patrolman McBride reported to his station house and went back to his post.

BOSTON TERCENTENARY HAILED BY 1,000,000

Spectators From All New England Flock to the City—40,000 March in Pageant.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Boston took the day off today to witness the greatest historical pageant in its 300 years of existence as 40,000 marchers, 200 floats and 100 bands wound through the heart of the flag-decked city in a parade climaxing the municipal observance of the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary and the founding of the city.

Augmented by thousands of tourists from throughout New England as well as by thousands of store and office workers celebrating a half holiday, the crowd of spectators totaled more than a million along the 3½ mile line of march.

Twelve hundred uniformed policemen, drawn from every division in the city, patrolled the line of march, everyp plainclothes man on the force was on duty, yet the size of the crowds and the heat injuries and arrests were few. One man dropped dead of heart trouble, a score were treated at hospitals for minor injuries and exhaustion and about 140 were helped by doctors and nurses at first aid stations scattered along the route.

"MISS BOSTON" ARRIVES.

Gov. Allen's Daughter Born as He Leads Celebration Parade.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The real "Miss Boston" opened her eyes for the first time on this world today just as this city began its biggest celebration in the three hundredth anniversary program. At noon, the starting hour of the tercentary parade, Mrs. Frank G. Allen, wife of the Governor, gave birth to a daughter in the Massachusetts General Hospital.

The Governor accompanied his wife to the hospital this morning and then took his place as marshal of the first division of the parade. As his car passed the State House at 12:08, Frank Carlson, the Governor's assistant secretary, stopped the machine and told the Chief Executive the news.

"That's great," he said, and later at the reviewing stand he told every one that mother and daughter were doing well.

The Governor's first child, a boy, was born on Nov. 8, 1928, two days after his father was elected.

CHECK MORROW EXPENSES.

Senatorial Investigators Study Campaign Costs in Essex County.

Investigators of the United States Senatorial committee checking up the expenditures in Essex County of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Representative Franklin W. Fort and former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, during the primary campaign, yesterday interviewed Recorder William H. Rawson of Bloomfield. When asked if he could tell them how much money was spent in Bloomfield to advance the Morrow cause, Mr. Rawson said, "It wasn't necessary to spend money in behalf of Mr. Morrow."

"His workers," added Mr. Rawson, "were volunteers and even the local headquarters was provided without cost."

It was reported here that the investigators intend to canvass the entire State in an endeavor to show that more than $50,000 was spent in behalf of Mr. Morrow. Recently, Senator Nye stated that his committee was in possession of proof that more than $49,000, as stated in the filed statement of Morrow's campaign committee, was expended in the primary fight.

BODENHAMER LAUDS WORK

Veterans Assist at Ground Breaking for Bronx War Memorial—Depart for Capital.

The foreign-born people of New York will be better citizens if they cherish the art, music, literature and traditions of their native lands and contribute them to the culture of the city, Mayor Walker said last night at the dinner given at the Hotel Roosevelt by the Mayor's Committee on Receptions to the World War veterans of ten countries attending the eleventh annual congress of the Federation Interalliée des Anciens Combattants.

"No man of foreign extraction can be a great American," said the Mayor, "who forgets the ideals of the soil on which he was born. We do not ask any visitor, any adopted son, to forget any of the beauties of his own country. We will have a greater appreciation of ourselves if we have a finer appreciation of the other peoples of the world."

The Mayor's address supplemented the theme of Lieut. Col. Frederick W. Abbot of England, president of Fidac, who preceded him and who declared that the aim of Fidac was world peace.

"Not so long ago the favorite boys of our family went on a long, perilous journey," said Mayor Walker. "And now they have brought their friends and comrades in arms back with them. We are trying to make our boys' friends feel that this is their home quite as well as it is ours."

The theme of international amity was stressed also by Major O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, which is host to the delegates from nine European countries.

"In the war we learned to appreciate, to respect and to admire each other," said Commander Bodenhamer. "In peace we must continue to appreciate, to respect and to admire the virtues of all peoples if we hope to keep alive that comradeship which was born in the spirit of mutual helpfulness and which was cemented more firmly in the furnace of war suffering and sacrifice.

Comradeship as Aid to Peace.

"Comradeship, born on the battlefields and grown into friendship, has constituted the main objective of Fidac since its very inception. Comradeship promotes understanding—understanding inspires confidence—confidence points the way to a continuation of amicable settlements between nations.

"If the veterans of the World War stand together, with our ideals in unity and with our forces pledged to the suppression of petty jealousies which all too readily sway great peoples, then the veterans of the World War, who know the tortures of conflict and who saw first-hand much of its futility, will present a bulwark for peace which can and will tend to prevent a repetition of that orgy of bloodshed through which we passed.

"At the New Orleans Fidac congress there was signed the famous Fidac peace manifesto. Some of the principles enunciated in that charter have been written, directly or indirectly, into the treaties of the world since the year 1922. For instance, the manifesto called for 'outlawing war.' The pact of Paris, known in the United States as the Kellogg-Briand treaty, specifically provides for 'outlawing war.' In that same manifesto the Fidac proclaimed 'that all international agreements among governments affecting the entire people shall be open and above board, with full publicity.' In the recent London naval conference, the utmost candor and open understanding were demanded throughout the negotiations.

"So, you of the Fidac have a right to contend that your organization is far-sighted and that it is pointing the way, through comradeship, in the direction of mutual understanding between the nations of the world."

Brings Message from King Albert.

General Raoul Pontus, head of the Belgian delegation, brought a message of gratitude from King Albert for America's efforts in behalf of his country during and after the war. He referred particularly to the work of the Commission for Relief in Belgium, which Herbert Hoover headed, and exclaimed:

"Thanks to your eminent President Hoover, whom all Belgians admire as one of the greatest benefactors of humanity, thanks to Americans in general, Belgium has not perished."

General Pontus spoke with satisfaction of the large part which Belgians have played in the upbuilding of the United States since its founding.

Princess Cantacuzene of Rumania, president of the Fidac Auxiliary, delivered the final address of the evening. About 500 persons attended the dinner. Afterward the delegates boarded a special Pennsylvania train for Washington, where they are scheduled to arrive at 7:30 A. M. today for the remaining sessions of their congress.

Yesterday morning the veterans, together with a group of Gold Star Mothers and a number of school children, formed part of the gathering of 3,000 persons who witnessed the ground-breaking ceremonies for the Bronx war memorial at Pelham Bay Parkway and Westchester Avenue, where the official heads of Fidac spoke feelingly of the war and turned the first earth for the memorial grove.

General Pontus was the first to break the sod, where the limestone Corinthian shaft, 120 feet high, and surmounted by a figure of victory, will be erected. He was joined in the ceremony by Colonel Abbot and Princess Cantacuzene.

Albert E. Schaefer, Commander of the Bronx County American Legion, presided. The invocation was by the Rev. John J. Sullivan, past State Chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Among the other speakers were Captain Paul Lorch, Bronx County Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Thomas A. Dolan, Park Commissioner of the Bronx, who announced that the memorial would be completed by next Memorial Day; William J. Flynn, Commissioner of Public Works of the Bronx, who represented Bronx Borough President Henry Bruckner, and paid tribute to Joseph V. McKee as "one man who fought hard for this memorial"; Major William F. Deegan, Tenement House Commissioner and chairman of the Mayor's arrangements committee; Frank J. Schoble Jr., national vice commander of the American Legion, blinded in the war, who represented Commander Bodenhamer and addressed his remarks particularly to the Gold Star Mothers.

Colonel Abbot then presented the leaders of each of the nine foreign delegations. John J. Sheridan, architect of the memorial, was introduced but did not speak.

After the ground-breaking, the girls' chorus of Public School 71, and the school's fife, bugle and drum corps sang and played the Star Spangled Banner. The 105th Field Artillery fired a salute of fourteen guns under the command of Colonel Clarence H. Higginson. The sounding of taps by D. DiZefalo of the American Legion concluded the ceremony.

The Fidac delegates were luncheon guests of the American Legion and its Women's Auxiliary of the New York State Department at the Hotel Pennsylvania. John J. Bennett, past State commander of the Legion, presided. Addresses were made by Mrs. W. Y. McHugh of Afton, N. Y., State president of the Women's Auxiliary; Mrs. Donald Macrae of Council Bluffs, Iowa, national president of the Women's Auxiliary; Princess Cantecuzene, the Comtesse de Kerchove de Denteghem, Gneral Pontus, Colonel Abbot; Edward J. Neery, State Commander of the American Legion, and Father George Kettell, national chaplain of the Legion.

At committee meetings after the luncheon, the following committee chairmen were elected: Colonel E. C. Heath, England, propaganda; H. Demets, Belgium, constitution and finance; M. Randoux, France, war victims, and General Sir Ian Hamilton, England, peace.

Radio Set Tunes In Automatically New Programs at 15-Minute Intervals

What is looked upon as an epoch-making development in radio receiver tuning devices was demonstrated yesterday at Wurlitzer's store, 120 West Forty-second Street, before a group of observers.

A receiver equipped with the new device, which is controlled by an electric clock, had been adjusted to bring in various local stations at certain pre-determined hours throughout the afternoon. An hour or so later, when the group was present, the set responded to the pre-selections of the operator and without further human aid intercepted the programs at the proper time for the listeners.

The instrument which selects the programs is installed under the lid of the radio cabinet. It contains ninety-six small levers, one for each fifteen-minute period of the twenty-four hours, each of which may be set in advance for one of a group of nine local or semi-distant broadcasting stations. The levers are arranged in circular formation to correspond approximately to the hours of a clock. As the time arrives for a new program to be tuned in, the one in progress is shut off, a light swings across the dial to the new position and the new program is heard. Thus programs for a full twenty-four hour period may be selected in advance by adjusting the levers to the proper position.

When an interval is desired the lever is pulled out to the "stop" position. Reception then ceases at the hour set, to be resumed at the time indicated. If desired, the set can be operated as an ordinary receiver.

The instrument, known as the "Lyric" receiver, is a development of L. C. Shapiro, chief engineer of Wurlitzer's radio manufacturing branch, and his associates.

ITALY ARRESTS MORE SLAVS.

Zagreb Paper Reports 129 Will Now Go Before State Tribunal.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, Sept. 17.—Reports from Trieste appearing in the Zagreb newspaper Novosti announce that 100 more Yugoslav subjects of Italy have been arrested and will be tried in addition to the twenty-nine whose cases are already before the Extraordinary Tribunal for the Protection of the State in Rome.

The prisoners, arrested during and after the Trieste trial which resulted two weeks ago in the condemnation and immediate execution of four Slovenes, include several relatives of the men shot. The paper asserts the prisoners were mistreated in prison in Rome to force confessions.

According to Yugoslavian newspapers large numbers of deserters from the Italian troops passed along the Yugoslavian border have been crossing it every day since the Trieste executions. These deserters, many of whom are of Yugoslavian nationality, declare it to be an accepted fact along the border that an Italo-Yugoslav War is inevitable.

Bandit Has Victim Count Money.

Not only did a lone bandit, according to Fred Gallanio, a new clerk in an oil station on Central Avenue, near McLean Avenue, Yonkers, hold him up early yesterday, his first day on duty at the new job, but the gunman compelled Gallanio to count the money before taking it. The robber was anxious to learn the amount of his haul, Gallanio said.

CUBA PLANS BOARD TO SURVEY FINANCES

American Will Head Committee of Six Designed to Save Nation From 'Bankruptcy.'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 17.—A commission of financial experts, composed of five Cubans and one American financial and business expert of international reputation, will study the present economic position of Cuba and its fiscal business structure at an early date, President Machado announced to his Cabinet today.

The Executive and his eleven secretaries discussed for two hours a suggestion made by mill owners and planters of Cuba that the administration appoint a commission at once in order to save the nation from bankruptcy.

A vote of confidence was given by the Cabinet to the President in any steps he may take to bring about results. He announced that he would immediately open negotiations to procure a prominent American economist to head the commission.

A study will be made of possible revision of custom house law, the present method of government internal taxation, and imposts placed on business, commerce, agriculture and industry by the national, municipal and provincial governments.

It is admitted both by the administration and business that the critical financial situation of the country demands immediate action.

AIR TOUR REACHES ITS FARTHEST NORTH

Thirty Contesting Planes Remain Closely Bunched on Arrival at Edmonton.

MISS HOPKINS IN FIRST 10

Five Leaders' Positions Are Unchanged, but Schneider Advances Into Seventh Place.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

EDMONTON, Alberta, Sept. 17.—The thirty planes in the sixth annual National Air Tour reached the most northerly point of their 4,900-mile journey here tonight with all contestants not only still in the race, but with good possibilities of success. So close have been the finishes that the scorekeepers are a day behind in converting the results of each day's flights to the proper amount of points.

The two legs of the race made today began at Saskatoon, Sask., and with a stop at North Battleford, Sask., at noon, ended at the municipal airport here late this afternoon during a display of aerial prowess staged by the local flying club.

One by one, the contesting planes swooped across the finish mark of the north-bound voyage, and circled in for a landing.

M. E. Zeller in a Ford trimotor led the procession across the white circle in the centre of the field, followed closely by the two Waco entries piloted by Arthur Davis and John Livingston, a Bellanca with George Haldeman at the controls, and the Curtiss Kingbird piloted by Walter Beach, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

Later, in the MacDonald Hotel where the members of the tour are quartered, the scorekeepers, Arthur Schlosser and E. P. Crocker, calculated the score up to last night's control point at Saskatoon.

The five leaders remained in positions unchanged in the new schedule, but there were several changes in the five who are pressing the leaders closely. Notable among them was the entrance of Miss Nancy Hopkins in her Kitty Hawk trainer into the select ten and the advance of Edward Schneider, holder of the junior transcontinental speed record, into seventh place.

The latest score, which carries the fliers as far as Saskatoon and leaves one day's run still uncomputed, is as follows:

Plane and Motor.	Pilot.	Point Total.
Ford, 1 Wasp and 2 Whirlwinds	H. L. Russell	21,642
Waco, Whirlwind	Arthur Davis	20,563
Waco, Whirlwind	John Livingston	20,406
Curtiss Kingbird, 2 Whirlwinds	Walter Beach	20,144
Ford, 3 Wasps	M. E. Zeller	19,750
Bellanca, Whirlwind	Geo. Haldeman	19,538
Cessna, Warner	Edw. Schneider	17,565
Bellanca, Whirlwind	J. W. Smith	17,434
Travelair, Whirlwind	Truman Wadlow	15,776
Kitty Hawk, Kinner	Nancy Hopkins	15,565

HALPERN TO ASK RECOUNT.

Sees 'Political Intrigue' in 500-Vote Defeat by Hazelwood.

Dissatisfied with the unofficial count in the Republican primaries of Tuesday, which indicated he had been defeated by William Hazelwood for State Committeeman in the Fifth Assembly District, Queens, by about 500 votes, Ralph Halpern announced last night he intended to ask a formal count by the Board of Elections.

"I think the method of counting was unfair," Mr. Halpern said, "and I want to protest because certain of my watchers were removed from the polling places at the last minute. I am virtually certain that was brought about by political intrigue."

The Fifth Assembly District takes in part of the Rockaways, Richmond Hill and Woodhaven.

Ousted Prison Workers Win Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 17.—Joseph R. Welsh and Reuben J. Grubb, superintendent and instructor, respectively, in the woodworking shop at the Trenton State prison, were today recommended for reinstatement by the State Civil Service Commission. The men appealed to the commission after their dismissal by Principal Keeper Edward B. Stone last May. The commission held that the unsatisfactory work turned out in the shop, which was the basis of the dismissal, was as much the fault of the men's superior officers in the prison as it was of the two who were suspended.

W. J. Copplestone Wed at City Hall.

In the public reception room of the City Hall yesterday, Mayor Walker married William J. Copplestone of 3,076 Emmons Avenue and Miss Alyne Tydeman of 1,961 East Thirty-third Street, both of Brooklyn. Mr. Copplestone, who gave his age as 45 years, is commodore of the Sheepshead Bay Yacht Club and vice president and treasurer of the Service Metal Supply Company of Brooklyn. The bride, who was once a member of the Follies, gave her age as 34.

ANTARCTIC DOG LOST, RADIO HELPS IN HUNT

Former Driver for Byrd Seeks Ugly, One-Eyed, 'Best' Husky —Moose-Moss-Mouse.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN COVE, Sept. 17.—Perhaps it was the hot weather or perhaps it was just plain loneliness, or maybe he was kidnapped. At any rate, Moose-Moss-Mouse has been missing since early in July, and Tickle, his pal, is dreadfully lonely. Tickle is lean and hard and black, but Moose-Moss-Mouse is ugly and plump and one-eyed. Once he was white and handsome.

Moose-Moss-Mouse is a dog, a husky who lived in the antarctic with Rear Admiral Byrd and his men. His master is Christoffer Braathen, Norwegian ski-man and dog driver of the expedition, and Moose-Moss-Mouse was the leader of his team and his favorite dog. He was ugly to most people, but to Chris he was gentle, a friend.

Chris's friends used to kid him about Moose-Moss-Mouse; tell him the dog looked "disreputable" and that he ought to be sergeant major of the discard staff. But Chris developed him, fed him, trained him and declared him to be "the best dog that ever was." His name, it was said yesterday, came to him because some members of the exhibition thought he resembled a moose, others a mouse—he weighs eighty-five pounds—and others that he looked "mossy."

Chris was so fond of him that he wouldn't permit him to be shipped home on the whaler C. A. Larsen, but smuggled him aboard the City of New York and brought him to Manhattan, sometimes keeping him in his own cabin when the weather was bad. Tickle came north too, with the others. He was the leader of the team of George A. Thorne Jr., chief surveyor of the expedition.

When the Byrd festivities here and elsewhere were over early in the Summer, Chris got a position on the yacht Carib, owned by Thomas Johnson of Boston, as chief engineer. He is now with the yacht at Magnolia, Mass. He left his dog with Mr. Thorne and Tickle on the Thorne estate here and early in July Moose-Moss-Mouse disappeared. Police of Glen Cove and neighboring towns were notified but no one found him.

Moose-Moss-Mouse isn't valuable in terms of money, but Chris wants him and has written to Mrs. Daisy Miller of 307 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, president of the Animal Protective Union, to help find him. Today she broadcast an appeal for aid in finding him over WAAT.

Thugs Get $10, Miss $2,000 Payroll

Two dapper young men yesterday held up Miss Bessie Gerson, bookkeeper for the Paris Fur Dressing Corporation of 57 Paris Street, Newark, and carried off $10 that was in the cash drawer, missing a $2,000 payroll which arrived later.

KILLED IN HIS CELL IN PRISON MYSTERY

Convict Youth, Regarded as a "Squealer" by Other Inmates, Is Found Stabbed Twice.

SCISSORS MAY BE CLUE

Investigation by Officials Fails to Point to Slayer in Welfare Island Penitentiary.

Louis Ella, 21 years old, a prisoner serving an indeterminate sentence in the Welfare Island Penitentiary, was stabbed when in his cell yesterday and died soon afterward. All other prisoners denied any knowledge of the affair.

Elia, with others, had been cleaning out cells earlier in the morning. About 10 o'clock John Ryan, a keeper, heard Elia scream. Running to the door of the cell he saw Elia lying on the floor with stab wounds in the right arm and just above the heart.

Ryan ordered two prisoners to carry Elia to the prison hospital, and Joseph A. McCann, chief warden, rounded up all other prisoners in the section for questioning. None could be found who would admit having seen any other prisoner leave Elia's cell. A pair of large scissors found in a hallway near the cell was sent to the city chemist for microscopic examination.

Richard A. Patterson, Commissioner of Corrections, who investigated the stabbing, was no more successful than the keepers in eliciting information from the prisoners. Most of them said Elia was a "squealer," and was held in contempt, though he had no particular enemies.

Elia was sentenced to the penitentiary from General Sessions Court on Jan. 24 last. Previously he had served terms in the House of Refuge for habitual truancy as a schoolboy and in the Elmira Reformatory for third-degree assault. When his penitentiary sentence had expired he was to be tried on a charge of vagrancy. He was not allowed to leave the penitentiary with the regular working prisoners and was assigned to the "house gang."

Commissioner Patterson said last night that restrictions of liberty or privileges would not be imposed on other prisoners as a result of the stabbing.

WILLIAMS ABANDONS PLAN FOR WORLD FLIGHT

He Announces That Levine Has Stopped Bellanca Flight Project, but Boyd Doubts It.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 17.—The transatlantic aviation business slumped considerably today when Ted Lundgren and Roger Q. Williams announced that their projected flight around the world in an Emsco monoplane would be postponed until next year.

Mr. Williams also announced that he had received a cable from Charles A. Levine, who is in Paris, in which Mr. Levine said that he had canceled the projected flight of his Bellanca Columbia across the Atlantic from Newfoundland.

The plane is at Charlottetown, P. E. I., where Captain Errol Boyd and Lieutenant Harry Connor are awaiting a chance to fly to Harbor Grace.

After making the announcement, Mr. Williams with Mr. Lundgren hopped off for Kansas City on the way to Los Angeles.

Captain Roy W. Ammel, who is preparing for a non-stop solo flight to Paris or beyond in his Lockheed monoplane, did not fly today. Instead, he visited Floyd Bennett Field on Jamaica Bay to examine the city's concrete runway. He expressed himself as much pleased with it, indicating that if permission could be obtained he might take off from there instead of Roosevelt Field.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—No word had been received by him regarding the reported cancellation of his flight to England and he was only waiting favorable weather to hop off for Harbor Grace, N. F., and then start the projected transatlantic trip, Captain Errol Boyd said here this afternoon when informed that Charles A. Levine, owner of the Columbia, in which Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Connor flew from Montreal Saturday, had cabled Roger Q. Williams that the flight had been canceled.

Captain Boyd said the flight could hardly be canceled at this stage and questioned the authenticity of such a message purporting to come from Mr. Levine.

"I don't think we need worry about it," he remarked.

Fears Felt for Lone World Sailor.

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Sept. 17 (AP).—Fears were expressed here today concerning the safety of William Albert Robinson, who is making a world voyage in the small yacht Savaap. He sailed from Tulagi, Solomon Islands, on June 11 for Shanghai. The schooner France left Tulagi on June 23 and encountered a hurican. The France reached Samarai three weeks later, but the Savaap has not yet arrived at its destination.

MR. TUTTLE AND HIS PARTY.

District Attorney TUTTLE'S statement regarding his candidacy for Governor and his conviction that the Eighteenth Amendment ought to be repealed is to be thought of, first of all, as it affects him personally. It is wholly to his credit that he accompanied his expression of his views about prohibition with a resignation of his office as Federal District Attorney. In that position he could not well announce opposition to the law which he is sworn to enforce. For that reason, doubtless, he has remained silent until now. A prosecutor does not like to admit that a given law is unenforceable. But as a private citizen Mr. TUTTLE is now free to express his personal doubts about a Constitutional Amendment and an enforcing statute which necessarily make the National Government appear as "an alien and oppressive power where sentiment is against national prohibition." His course has thus been straightforward and manly.

As for his disclaimer of a desire to be nominated for Governor by the Republican State Convention, this is to be regarded either as a determination to make it clear that the office has sought him, not he the office, or as a specimen of that kind of political coyness which the public understands perfectly. A New Yorker, eminent in his day, said to a Democratic National Convention: "Your candidate I cannot be." But he became it just the same. This precedent, set by HORATIO SEYMOUR, seems very likely to be followed when the time comes for the Republicans to set up a candidate against Governor ROOSEVELT.

More important, in many ways, is the effect of District Attorney TUTTLE'S pronouncement upon the attitude and the fortunes of his party in this State. It bids fair to create new controversies and also many searchings of heart among the Republican leaders. The majority of them are apparently anxious that Mr. TUTTLE should run for the Governorship. They are equally anxious to get rid of the prohibition issue, which has plagued them for many years and cost them more than one election. Yet some of them still shrink from meeting the question frankly and boldly. Certain too astute Republican politicians are now whispering it about that it may be possible to nominate Mr. TUTTLE as a Wet upon a platform which is either timidly Dry or sneakingly indefinite. They point to the Democratic tactics in Ohio, where a candidate for Governor who is Dry was given a platform which is silent, but a running mate on the ticket as a candidate for United States Senator who is openly demanding the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. But there two different personalities are involved. Here in New York it would be a case of asking Mr. TUTTLE to bisect himself.

He is scarcely the man to consent to that. If the prohibition plank is not explicitly satisfactory to him, he could not in consistency stand upon it. Should he attempt to do so, it would either fly up and hit him in the face, or would prove to be so rotten that he would fall through it. In the end New York Republicans will have to screw up their courage to make a distinct choice. They cannot have it both ways. The time has passed when they can be both Wet and Dry. Mr. TUTTLE has forced their hand. If they really desire to take the prohibition issue out of the campaign, as between the two parties in this State, he has shown them the only way in which it can be done. With a repeal plank in both platforms, the campaign could be fought on State and city issues.

This political strategy has been for some time clearly the one to be followed by the Republicans. A few of them still dread a party split and the putting forward of a third Dry ticket. About that danger two things are to be said. The first is that the party stands to lose not nearly so many votes in that way as it would by dodging and shuffling about prohibition. The other is that if there is an independent Dry nomination for Governor, which is by no means certain as yet, the number of voters ready to stand up and be counted for it would probably be so small as to be negligible in the entire mass of ballots cast by both parties. However that may be, the Republican party of New York has at last been placed by public opinion, and by the courageous statement by District Attorney TUTTLE, in a position where it can no longer halt between two opinions on the subject of prohibition. Whatever its final decision, the State now is assured the advantage of knowing exactly what to think and how to vote. For Mr. TUTTLE'S part in thus clearing the air he is entitled to the thanks of all citizens who like honest politics.

SIXTH AVENUE.

Any one wandering through lower Manhattan after a few years' absence would be impressed not alone with the new skyscrapers but with the way in which some at least of the dark and narrow streets are being opened up to light and traffic. Church Street has been made over. Allen Street actually knows what the sun looks like. Chrystie and Forsyth Streets are prepared for any fate. The latest stretch of brick and mortar to feel the edge of Borough President MILLER'S lusty cleaver is the Sixth Avenue Extension, from Carmine to Canal. Undertaken seven years ago, it will be formally opened today. It will afford a new approach to the Holland Tunnel entrance plaza, and at the same time serve as an additional north and south arterial highway. That it will be of more than local benefit is recognized by the assessment: 40 per cent on the city, 53 on the borough, 7 on the property directly affected. Local property owners appear to have been let off rather easily.

This is only one course in the feast prepared for this ancient way. Eighth Avenue will come into its own when the new subway trains begin to run. Sixth Avenue will not enjoy its full heritage until the elevated is torn down above and a subway is dug beneath. Already those who dwell along its northern tip have had a taste of the joys to come. Their neighbors to the south are a trifle jealous. One cannot blame them; the removal of the elevated will work wonders with the avenue. But they must be patient. The "L" is too valuable a transit facility to be dispensed with instanter. It may have to await the digging of the Sixth Avenue subway; it must await the opening of the Eighth Avenue subway. For city and State officials to countenance its immediate demolition would flaunt the convenience of thousands of passengers and place a dangerous burden on other existing transit facilities.

CANADA'S TARIFF.

In ways of enacting a new tariff the Dominion of Canada has great advantages over the legislative methods of the United States. No year's discussion for her! The bill is introduced in Parliament one day, and the rates of duty go into effect the next. What would not our commercial classes give for such a rapid ending of delay and uncertainty? And as regards a provision for future changes in the tariff, Canada has a recourse which makes our device of a Tariff Commission look more belated and ineffective than ever. If it shall appear that protective manufacturers in the Dominion take advantage of the tariff to increase prices to consumers, "the "Governor in Council may reduce or "remove such duty." That power of the Canadian Government must evoke an envious sigh from President HOOVER.

It has been repeatedly and politely explained at Ottawa that the higher Canadian duties on many goods exported from the United States are not intended as a reprisal for the rates of our new tariff specifically aimed at Canadian exports. This is common diplomatic form. It deceives nobody. Nothing can be more certain than that, if our Congress had not rejected and despised the representations made by Canada when the Hawley-Smoot bill was pending, the Conservative party in Canada would not have won so sweeping a victory in the recent general election, and the Canadian Government would not have moved so promptly to reply in kind to the American tariff. It is to be noted, moreover, that the present "emergency measure" is only a first instalment. The Canadian Prime Minister promises a revision, doubtless upward, of the whole Canadian tariff within a few months. Thus we have the prospect of a tacit and wholly needless tariff war between two neighbor countries which have long enjoyed a prosperous trade with each other and which have been each other's best customer. Such are the crimes committed in the sacred name of Protection.

Doubtless the immediate motive given to the Canadians by our foolish tariff law has been supplemented and strengthened by a spirit of nationalism which has been growing more intense in the Dominion during recent years. Canada is ambitious to become more self-contained. She is especially keen to develop her own manufactures. A taking cry has been, "Canada for the Canadians." This growing assertion of economic independence has not failed to cause concern in Great Britain. It will enter as a serious factor into the Imperial Conference which is to open in London at the end of this month, and to which Prime Minister BENNETT of Canada will go, not necessarily as an opponent of Empire Free Trade, but as one fully resolved not to give up the right of Canada to be mistress in her own house. A preference for British goods will be continued, but the Dominion will not willingly surrender any of the advantages which she has, by nature or by legislation, for building up her own industry and commerce on a great scale. Already the Canadian Government has the promise that 25,000 men will at once be put to work in manufacturing plants, encouraged by the higher tariff to undertake larger domestic production. Thus in addition to other excuses for the new Canadian customs duties, the Government is urging them as a practical means of relieving Canadian unemployment.

It is, however, in the United States that this prompt and bold legislation by Canada will cause most disquiet. It should stir even the official optimists at Washington out of their complacency. It should open the eyes of our manufacturers and farmers to the danger of losing what has been an excellent foreign market. One has but to cast his eye over the new schedules and commodities in the Canadian tariff to see how serious is the blow which they level at our trade. Yet we as a people and a Government have no grounds for protest against this Canadian action. It simply gives us a dose of our own medicine. It is one more reminder that we cannot expect to go on forever trying to shut out foreign goods without provoking others to demonstrate that two can play at this game. For the present, certainly, it looks as if our Lady of the Snows were turning a rather cold shoulder to the United States. But in time, it is to be hoped, both countries will discover the folly of artificial interferences with a trade which is natural and profitable to both.

THE BAY STATE PRIMARY.

As Massachusetts is incurably Wet, it was natural to expect that the Wet Republican candidate for Senator, Mr. EBEN DRAPER, would be nominated. Representatives of "the younger element" kept coming out for him day after day. Representatives of the older element were putting in their fine work for Mr. WILLIAM MORGAN BUTLER, who had qualified as a thoroughgoing prohibitionist, after a period of deliberation. Mr. DRAPER'S strength would naturally come from the wicked cities, Mr. BUTLER'S from the virtuous countryside. Yet in Boston, where Mr. DRAPER should have got a plurality of some thousands, he beat Mr. BUTLER by only some 200. Mr. INNES, the Boston leader, and other admirers of high principle in politics are said to have supported Mr. BUTLER.

The latter tried to minimize prohibition. He proposed to go to the Senate to rescue business, get a forty-eight-hour national labor week, and so on. Presumably it was the secret help of the "organization" that pulled him through, or the result can be attributed directly to the inspiring candidacy of Mayor "Bossy" GILLIS of Newburyport, who ran away with more than 20,000 Wet votes. Bright hopes attach to this idol of the Massachusetts unintelligentsia. He may yet be the Huey Long of Massachusetts. Mere trivialities like prohibition disappear in the light of Mr. BUTLER'S personal triumph. Listen to the poet WASHBURN:

> As when the gannet, poised high > in the air off the rocks over the > sea, with sudden skill descends > upon the denizens of the deep, > so WILLIAM M. BUTLER has always > been quick to see and to seize > openings on the oceans of opportunity.

Can he seize elections as well as he seizes nominations? His Democratic opponent is MARCUS AURELIUS COOLIDGE of Fitchburg, a benefactor of campaign funds and, like Mr. BUTLER and Mr. DRAPER, a rich manufacturer. His candidacy was associated with that of Mr. FITZGERALD for Governor. After Mr. FITZGERALD'S withdrawal from the campaign on account of illness, too late to remove his name from the ballot, Mayor CURLEY, in an extraordinary burst of "reverse Know-Nothingism," denounced Mr. ELY, the chief remaining candidate, as an enemy of the Irish race and appealed for the nomination of Mr. FITZGERALD. Had he contented himself with asking sympathy for Mr. FITZGERALD, he would have had a generous response and might have gained his object. Instead, Mr. ELY carried Boston and the State.

Will Mr. CURLEY be satisfied with the expected defeat of Mr. ELY at the polls? An extreme degree of ill feeling has been stirred up among the Democrats. The racially "balanced ticket" has gone glimmering. Will the amiable MARCUS AURELIUS be forgiven in Boston? The Massachusetts Democrats had a beautiful chance. They have steadily tried to impair it or throw it away. It may be that they can't do it. From Republican growlers and victims of hard times they may get recruits that will make up for Democratic soreheads and seceders; and something must be allowed for the ravages of rhetoric and the perfervid temper.

WISCONSIN DYNASTS.

Aboard the brig Wisconsin the LA FOLLETTE boys are the cook and the captain bold and all the rest of it now. They have literally devoured their rivals. BOB is United States Senator, and PHIL has been nominated for Governor. The other Senator, Mr. BLAINE, is a close ally of the family. But if PHIL later wants to sit with his brother in the Senate, that alliance will not save Mr. BLAINE. His fate will be that of the bos'n tight and the midshipmite aboard the "Nancy."

By general agreement Governor KOHLER has been an excellent Executive. He is an industrialist of great success, benevolence and importance. He made independent appointments. He strove with unemployment manfully, not dismissing a single employe from his extensive works. He sought to defend the Administration from the onslaught of the LA FOLLETTES, but ebbed with the Wet tide. Nothing could save him. The victims of economic depression voted against him as a representative of the official powers which could not restore prosperity. The strict party stalwarts were indifferent to him because he hadn't exactly played the patronage game. And the great body of voters rallied to the name of LA FOLLETTE and overwhelmingly supported the son of the departed hero who was their idol for two generations. If the boys had been old enough before their father died, it is entirely probable that one of them would have sat in the Senate with him and the other in the State House at Madison. Wisconsin has not yet had too much of that talented family.

In the Senate BOB has made a good record and has impressed his older colleagues with his steadfastness, courage and skill. At Kansas City the manner in which he faced a hostile convention and won its applause, if not its agreement, is admiringly remembered. PHIL has even greater gifts as an orator, and the belief in Wisconsin is that he is an upstanding, honorable young man of unusual ability. His personality repelled the darts about the "royal family" which the Kohlerites leveled at him. To have two leaders of the same faction in full control is no new experience for Wisconsin; the only new thing is that they are brothers. But what queer Republicans they are!

OTHER GERMAN ELECTIONS.

When French Nationalist opinion discerns in the outcome of the Reichstag elections a threat to the peace of Europe, it is not without a close precedent in the recent history of Franco-German relations. Americans, like Father WALSH of Georgetown University, who see in the rise of German fascism a menace to European stability have reacted in the same manner on previous occasions. In May, 1924, there took place a Reichstag election with results strikingly similar to those of last Sunday, though it is true that six years ago witnessed no single event so impressive as the great Fascist poll on Sunday. But on May 4, 1924, the Socialists, who had held 173 seats in the preceding Reichstag, came back with only 100 seats, and the Democrats dropped from 39 to 28. On the other hand, the Nationalists, of whom the world six years ago was almost as afraid as of the Hitlerites today, went up from 66 seats to 96, and the Communists shot up from 15 seats to 62. The two parties standing for moderation and peace were almost cut in half, the two leading parties of the extremist Opposition made notable gains. Premier POINCARE lost no time in voicing his distrust of the state of German sentiment as revealed in the election. Paris was made uneasy by the fact that the new Reichstag contained a majority pledged to the restoration of the monarchy. The fact was held undeniable that "the "democratic and republican elements "in Germany have been beaten." But it was a Reichstag so viewed askance by POINCARE that proceeded to ratify the Dawes Plan, and this committed Germany to a policy of reconciliation.

In April, 1925, there was another German national election. It was held to choose a successor to FRIEDRICH EBERT as President of the republic, and it resulted in the election of the candidate of the Nationalist bloc—Field Marshal VON HINDENBURG. This time the effect abroad passed beyond disquiet to grave apprehension. For that matter, within Germany herself the beaten democratic-liberal coalition was beset with alarm for the safety of the republic. The French conservative press saw in HINDENBURG nothing but reaction and revenge dominant, and even the liberal French newspapers under a progressive Herriot Administration felt that the German people had ill repaid the French majority for its policy of rapprochement. American press opinion in the main saw in the election of HINDENBURG "a misfortune," "a revival of militarism," "a revival of monarchism." One leading American newspaper saw Germany turning again "toward defiance, destruction, isolation."

What the fruits of the election of President HINDENBURG have really been hardly need restatement. The Nationalist upheaval of May, 1924, was followed by the inauguration of a policy of appeasement, and the Kaiser's Field Marshal has served the republic with loyalty and courage. It is not necessary to argue that the conversion which came to GUSTAV STRESEMANN will come to ADOLF HITLER, or that the Fascists and Communists will rise in times of crisis to the sense of loyalty of a Hindenburg. But in large measure it is to be expected that the extremists of 1930, like their predecessors, will have to take cognizance of the facts. Their leaders cannot be altogether unaware of some of the temporary conditions that underlay their success at the polls.

BOOK ILLUSTRATION.

Children's books are still illustrated, and a few still buy books, beautifully printed and decorated, for the sake of having fine pictures to accompany text with which they are as a rule familiar. But novels are not illustrated any more. Reprints of famous works, with so-called illustrations by famous artists, are not literally illustrated. They are rather decorated and enriched.

With the change in reproduction methods brought about through the use of sensitized surfaces for getting real facsimiles, the whole trend of book illustration has altered. An account of its movement in England, not essentially different from the changes that took place here, is given by DOUGLAS PERCY BLISS in the English quarterly Artwork. A hundred years ago good cheap illustration was getting its start. THOMAS BEWICK has the credit for perfecting, perhaps for inventing, the art of engraving on the end-grain of boxwood. This method, so much cheaper than the greatly admired and very expensive steel engravings of the 1830s, enabled publishers to supply the popular demand for illustrated books and magazines. When Punch started its career in 1842 all the pictures were drawn and engraved on wood. The general liking for pictures that set the scene of a story before the eyes was intense and prolonged. It affected painters who showed at the Royal Academy, and it brought authors and artists into the closest contact.

Many names of illustrators of the nineteenth century still stir modern readers to enthusiasm, though they do not want their contemporary fiction illustrated. They want the illustrators, the descendants of DANIEL VIERGE and PHIL MAY in England, and of HOWARD PYLE, EDWIN ABBEY and many others here, to stick to magazine stories. A successful book with pictures, these days, must be a decorated book. It is often privately printed and is usually a reprint of a classic. The artist is not bound to make an accurate counterpart of anything in the author's words. He has merely to catch the atmosphere of the book and design a series of patterns suited to it. The descendants of MORRIS and BLAKE and BEARDSLEY now engage in this sort of work, though they usually have several other means of artistic expression.

Speed, cheapness and exact reproduction through photography have flooded the world with illustrated papers and books. Some of the artists are repelled by the new methods and their results, but there are many who welcome them. W. A. ROGERS, for many years a famous cartoonist, wrote in his book of reminiscences about NAST, REINHART, ABBEY and many other artists: "The art of illustration "changes every day. Let us be "thankful that it moves, for in "stagnation is death."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Benefits of Workmen's Compensation. Workmen's compensation has become such an integral part of our industrial polity here in New York State that it attracts comparatively little public attention. Miss PERKINS'S latest report will probably be read, if at all, as a matter of course. Yet it reveals, in a few brief statistics, the extraordinary extent and success of this experiment in social welfare.

Over 100,000 cases were closed by the State Department of Labor during the past year. The final compensation awards for these industrial accidents amounted to more than $35,000,000. One-half went for permanent injuries, a quarter for temporary injuries and the rest to dependents of workers killed, or to the State if there were no dependents.

Translate that sum into care of the sick and maimed, and freedom from anxiety for the hazards of industry, and you get some idea of what workmen's compensation means to the industrial workers of this State. Yet it was once fought bitterly as an invasion of constitutional privilege, and four States are still without its benefits.

Air Fledglings Increase. Operators of passenger air lines in the United States were wont to complain that Americans did their flying abroad and only talked about it at home. This charge appears to be losing force. There is now use of the air for scheduled travel which is reflected in the statistics of major passenger airlines. For example, the Transcontinental-Maddux line as a whole carried 5,169 passengers in August, 5,049 in July and 25,213 for the first seven months of the year. Its transcontinental division had 2,571 passengers last month, as against 680 for August a year ago.

Colonial Airways carried 1,282 passengers in July, as compared with 507 in the same month last year, while the August figure was 1,348, as compared with 733 for that month in 1929. The New England and Western line, operating from New York to Springfield and Boston, started its service in May. In July it carried 1,400 passengers and in August 1,600.

On the newest of the passenger lines out of New York, the New York, Philadelphia and Washington Airways, which began operations on the first of September, 1,557 pay passengers were carried in the first ten days of service. Its planes leave every hour during the flying day. But the mounting total of pay passenger miles is striking in long hauls as well as short. Although its peak business comes in the first three months of the year, when the tourist season in the West Indies is at its height, Pan-American Airways flew 318,980 passenger miles last July, as against 159,000 in July a year ago, and in August 348,000 passenger miles, as compared with 156,018 in the same month last year. It is evident that there is a growing confidence in wings.

The Last Straw. Play in the "Anglo-American" contract bridge tournament will be resumed this afternoon in London, with the American team leading by nearly 5,000 points. At the risk of being considered unpatriotic, our hearts are with the English. The polo cup stays here; BOBBY JONES has all the English golf trophies; Miss NUTHALL won the tennis title in the absence of HELEN WILLS MOODY; Enterprise is ahead of Shamrock; STRIBLING knocked out SCOTT, and Australia won at cricket. An American triumph at contract bridge would be too much.

Should this last bitter drop fall into the cup of Albion, various consolations may be offered. Very few people in this country know or care who our bridge team is. There is also a body of respectable opinion which wonders where the idea came from to make "an international tournament" of a social game. From most of the American bridge tables where the event has been noted there rises prayer, "like a fountain, night and day," for a series of grand slams, bid and made, doubled and redoubled, with the American vulnerable and the English on the top of the score!

Fall Planting on City Roofs. Unless city gardens are lovingly and expensively tended day in and day out, they stand small chance of becoming a joy forever. If, as is the case with a Park Avenue apartment house, trees in an inner court garden are replaced by fresh ones from the nursery at the first touch of blight, an air of country vigor may be maintained in town. But the case is quite otherwise with a gardener of moderate means. Returning from a week-end at the shore, he finds his geraniums parched and ivy dying. A remorseful flooding of the roof fails to bring much benefit to the plants, though it elicits complaints from tenants on the floor below.

To such city planters the advice given over the radio recently by a member of the Decorators' Club should prove cheering. For Fall and Winter gardens she suggested the use of tiles, ceramics, granite and stone statuary, small fountains and sun-dials. The plants recommended are, of course, evergreens—hardy shrubs, dwarf firs—and ivy. Iron flowers in bright colors would add a gay note, and a wall-panel of tiles or "a plaque of floral design" might serve as substitutes for growing flowers.

The gardener who finds that a healthy fern on his roof wears out in three or four weeks, and a hardy geranium scarcely lasts a month, might do well to give up the growing things altogether in his plans for Fall and Winter. With a proper garden setting of statuary, pottery, and metal chairs and tables, he could vent his horticultural impulses by cultivating iron flowers and watering floral plaques. And he need have no worry about lack of attention harming blossoms or greenery.

Publishers of The Commonweal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An item in THE TIMES of Sept. 15 regarding Dr. Selden P. Delaney's "Why Rome?" states that extracts from this new book appear in The Commonweal, to which you refer as a "Roman Catholic organ." This is misleading, as the periodical in question is published by the Calvert Associates, a group comprising members of diverse religious beliefs.

NEW FICTION.

Close the bright covers of the bitter book.
The curious tale is written to the end.
There is no need to turn the page and look
At the last scornful paragraph, my friend.

I've watched your eyes' gold fire go pale and die
Like a ripe harvest falling into rot.
And cold rattle of your courteous lie
Apes the dry bone dropped in an empty pot.

The story is a twisted hempen rope
That binds the heart and agitates
the breath;
The plot is a sharp needleful of dope;
The tailpiece is a print of dusty death.

Come, cut the noose that strangles
you and me,
And gay with silken laughter write,
Fini!

INTERPRETING MR. MORROW

His Reference to One Parable Evokes Allusion to Another.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that our Ambassador to Mexico, Dwight W. Morrow, has admonished the United States to be meeker in its international relationships and has invoked the parable of the Pharisee and the publican as the theme of his radio valedictory, he has established a novel precedent which other less informed politicians may have difficulty in matching. It will be refreshing to biblical students to watch the battles of the parables among our political contestants. Just think of the good it will do to have our stump speakers facing one another with Bibles in hand, hurling quotations at the unregenerate public in defense of their respective platforms.

After listening to Ambassador Morrow on the radio last night, I reached for my Bible to check up on how bad was the Pharisee and how good the publican. A little static had made the word publican sound like Republican, so I wanted to learn whether there were sinners in those days called Republicans who humbled themselves and prayed for mercy, confessing their sins.

Of course I found that the sinner was not a Republican at all but a publican, which in England refers to one who hangs out around the pubs or saloons and drinks liquor. Then THE TIMES account this morning of Ambassador Morrow's radio speech indicated that he had meant the United States and Mexico by his allusion to the parable of the Pharisee and the publican, and that he was thereby admonishing the United States to be meeker in its international relations instead of comporting itself like a Pharisee. In other words, Mr. Morrow thought we ought to be like the publicans, do a little drinking and a little sinning and a lot of repenting.

The most significant part of Mr. Morrow's valedictory, however, was his statement that it was the legal and moral duty of American representatives to defend the proper interests of their country and their countrymen and that no other success could compensate for failure to do so. It so happens that I know of several instances where our Ambassador has formally admitted failure in his efforts to defend his countrymen, and this led me to think that he had chosen the wrong parable to portray his real views of the Mexican situation, and that he should have recounted the story of the Good Samaritan, Luke, x, 13, wherein a certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves, and the Levite and the priest passed him by on the other side. Finally, however, a Good Samaritan who was unafraid of consequences came along and bound up the wounds of the traveler and fixed up his finances.

Let us hope that our next Ambassador to Mexico will prove to be a Good Samaritan to the Americans who have gone there to carry American goods and American ideals, then we won't question whether he is a Levite or a priest, a Pharisee or even a Republican.

BREAD UPON THE WATERS.

Donation of Books to Ships Returns Hundredfold Satisfaction.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of Sept. 7 I read an account of the loan libraries supplied for the crews of our merchant ships through the American Seamen's Friend Society. The following facts record my own experience in sending two boxes of books to sea.

One of them left this port on the Steel Inventor in 1928, remaining on that ship for several voyages to the Far East. The volunteer librarian was Lee C. Machen, radio operator, who sent the following message:

"In thanking you for your generous gifts of books in the past and, I hope, in the future, myself and fellow-officers wish to set forth our especial appreciation for the choice of books. In the name of the crew and officers and myself, many thanks."

As the selection of books this library contained was identical with that originally placed on the City of New York on her voyage to Little America, it has now been loaned to that ship as an exhibit of the kind of books sailors enjoy during their long sea voyages.

The other library has gone on two ships bound for the West Indies and South America, being thus available to more than 300 seamen within a year.

Many of these loan libraries, provided by friends through the same society, are constantly on the high seas, being in greater demand than ever. Other friendly donors feel amply repaid, just as I do, for the small investment of $25 which sends each newly issued library on one of our ships, where it will be used freely by the entire crew, both in the deck and engine departments.

There may be other lovers of the sea who will join in making similar investments.

Twenty-four-Hour Noises.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What has become of the Anti-Noise Commission that was going to put a stop to all unnecessary noises in New York City? Over a month now they received complaints about a building on Ninth Avenue, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Streets. The building is brilliantly lighted exactly at midnight. Then the noise begins. A constant slamming and banging of tin cans and boxes. It seems to come from every floor as well as the pavement; a veritable nuisance until daylight.

That noise, coupled with the usual radio loud-speakers and everyday street and back-yard noises, which go on until midnight, when people should reasonably expect a cessation of unnecessary noises, makes sleep impossible.

ABILITY TO PAY.

That, It Is Held, Should Be the Basis of Our Tax Laws.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorials and letters to the editor show a State-wide taxation contention. The non-partisan action by our Legislature and our Governor in the $75,000 appropriation and the naming of the special tax committee to investigate and report indicates that a general revision of our tax laws is needed.

The question now arises: How shall our State tax laws be revised? Shall they be revised according to the principle of "ability to pay" or shall the revision take the form of a larger tax upon the individual person through consumption taxing and a continuation of our general property tax?

Personally, I believe that ability to pay should be made to pay. The New York State Tax Revision League and its allied workers contend that the Sixteenth Amendment to our Federal Constitution is based upon the principle that ability to pay should pay, and that it was made for full use by both Federal and State Governments. In other words the State like the nation should have no general property tax and each should have all direct taxes collected upon the basis of net income. There should be one standard in taxing all kinds of investments.

This method of taxation represents the constitutional equality of man. It taxes the dollars earned instead of taxing the individual striving to earn the dollar. It taxes the net income as earned and leaves the capital for more earnings. It aids the needy.

Such aid cannot be secured by taxing our lands upon a capital basis regardless of net income, amount of indebtedness or hazard and at the same time tax all of our other investments upon the net income basis minus a living exemption. With our realty representing less than one-third of our State's wealth and the remaining two-thirds riding our real estate in principal and interest charges upon our municipal bonds, county bonds, township bonds, fire district bonds, school district bonds, and real estate bonds, so that our realty is compelled to pay more than 80 per cent of all of our State and local taxes, while all other investments (including earnings) are permitted to pay as they have been paying, does not savor of making ability to pay pay.

As a financially poor land owner recently said: "Land owners are in a predicament. Something must be done about our land taxes or all of our backs will be broken." A few days ago an aged man said to me: "I have a farm which I have worked and paid for, and now that I am too old to work I have to lease the farm and the rentals do not pay the tax." When asked what would be the result were the farm mortgaged, the reply came, "It would have to go." A father writes: "Because of our general property tax, I see people who have suffered for the necessities of life in order to pay for a home are now losing those homes."

But why mention what any one may continually see or already knows? The pen cannot picture the heartaches or the propelling forces that penury brings.

In this financial garden of the world called the Empire State, with its superabundance of "milk and honey" and with its untold wealth of brain, muscle and money, why should our electorate permit our present State-wide depressing economic condition in farm-owning and home-owning to continue unabated?

Many of our economic writers and lecturers plead for greater employment and urge for better markets, lower transportation rates and better rural bank service. Others are pressing for cheaper foodstuffs, cheaper wearing apparel, cheaper fuel and cheaper rents.

Such thoughts fill the public mind and cause the people to think, but to my mind no one or all of these much needed improvements can make for our public welfare as can taxing according to ability to pay. In our "predicament" no amount of class legislation will suffice. We must legislate for the concrete.

To tax according to ability to pay must come by legislation, with the personal equation eliminated. It is made possible by our revenue-bearing wealth and by our basic law.

We are living in the twentieth century. That basic law was made in the twentieth century for our twentieth century use. Then why should we continue to use that old human back-breaker and land-confiscator called general property tax?

The Monument at Williamsburg.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The restoration of Williamsburg to its Colonial beauty is a very interesting project. Mr. Rockefeller's munificence in this matter has won the warm admiration of all cultivated Americans, and of the Virginians in particular. Inevitably, however, such a project could not be completed without raising several difficult, not to say delicate, questions, and one of these questions I should like to call to the attention of your readers.

This is the matter of the removal of the Confederate monument from the old Palace Green. Sentiment in this matter is divided, but many old Williamsburgers fear that when the restoration project is completed the simple monument to their Confederate fathers will be removed to some less desirable location. The question of the removal is closely bound up with the end which the restoration authorities have in view. If it is desired to make of Williamsburg a sort of Revolutionary museum, then, it is argued, the Confederate monument has no place on the green. But that ignores history. Williamsburg is rich in Revolutionary memories, but the sons of the Revolutionary fathers were found in the armies of the South. This monument is a legitimate incrustation, and should be allowed to remain where it is.

ERSKINE SEES OPERA DYING FORM OF ART

It Has No Future, Not Even a Present, He Suggests at Juilliard Luncheon.

NEW STYLE IS SCHOOL'S AIM

Persinger Will Succeed Late Dr. Auer—Details of New $1,000,000 Music Building Announced.

John Erskine, in the course of significant announcements of future plans of the Juilliard Graduate School made yesterday by Ernest Hutcheson and himself, remarked that he saw no future for opera as it is imported from Europe and produced today in the big American opera houses. "I see no future for it," said Mr. Erskine, "and I don't think it has even a present."

This remark occurred in the course of a conversation in which Mr. Erskine enlarged upon the problems of American opera; the need of native opera in the vernacular; the necessity of operas of which the librettos could be heard "without the listener losing his self-respect," and the desirability of a future in which each State in America would have an opera house of its own which would produce native works and new operas, to be performed with modest forces and produced at prices within reach of the great public.

The Juilliard Foundation has plans to promote such a state of affairs and encourage native composers as well as singers. They are based partly upon successful experiments made in recent Summers under the supervision of Ernest Hutcheson and the sponsorship of the Juilliard Foundation at Chautauqua, N. Y., and also after the performance by Juilliard pupils of Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" last season in this city.

Persinger Added to Faculty.

Among the most important announcements made by Mr. Hutcheson, dean of the Juilliard Graduate School, were the addition of Louis Persinger, the teacher of Yehudi Menuhin, Ruggiero Ricci and other noted pupils, to the faculty of the Juilliard Graduate School to replace the late Dr. Leopold Auer; details of the erection of the new building, adjoining the present home of the Institute of Musical Art and costing more than $1,000,000, which will be occupied by the Juilliard Graduate School next season; the establishment of two German exchange fellowships with the Hochschule für Musik of Berlin, and important extensions of the departments of orchestra, conducting and opera under the direction of Albert Stoessel, who has resigned from the New York University in order to give all his time to the Juilliard Graduate School.

Mr. Hutcheson spoke of the profound loss to the Juilliard Graduate School of Leopold Auer. He said, "I feel the immense value to an educational institution of the knowledge and the traditions of a great musical past which such a master embodies and advances. His age may not be ours. Our age may be as great as his, although it does not seem so. But men like Auer and Siloti, women like Marcella Lembrech, give us certain great things that others cannot give us. In the place of Dr. Auer we have appointed Louis Persinger, a musician whom I have known many years and whose worth in his profession, as virtuoso and teacher, needs no encomiums from me."

Mr. Erskine, in speaking of the new and modern building which will be occupied by the Juilliard Graduate School at 122d Street and Claremont Avenue, adjoining the Institute of Musical Art, in exchange for the one it now occupies on East Fifty-second Street, said that for a year and a half there had been heated discussion as to the best location for the school. Many had believed that this building should be further downtown.

Justifies Uptown Site.

"We believe, however," he said, "that the accessibility and desirability of a situation on the north of Central Park as a theatre and concert locality will be recognized before long.

"The advantage of this site will also be greatly increased when the new Hudson River bridge is completed. Moreover, there is something in 'tradition' and 'atmosphere.' There is something in preserving, as a part of the past and present, the building where Franz Kneisel and other great teachers have worked.

"In planning the new building we have succeeded in substituting for projects which would have involved the expenditure of $3,000,000 a modern and well-appointed structure, with the best ventilating and heating systems, with ample practice rooms and rehearsal facilities and an auditorium thoroughly suitable for orchestral concerts or opera, seating 1,800 people, at a cost of a little more than $1,000,000.

"We expect that in this building a great deal of music will be going on, and that it will prove an educational and experimental musical laboratory, designed not merely for the advantage of Juilliard students and teachers, but for musicians and composers who need cooperation and the facilities which the Juilliard Foundation can place at their disposal for the working out of ideas important to the musical progress of the whole country."

The Juilliard opera class, which is expected to become, at the present rate of progress, an opera school, will probably occupy an extension of the building now under construction. In the direction of the opera class Alfredo Valenti will collaborate as coach and regisseur with Mr. Stoessel.

URGES SEASIDE PARK CHAIN

New Jersey Trade Board Head Asks Federal Aid for Program.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 17.—As a result of a two-day tour of the New Jersey seaboard by State officials and United States Army engineers, made primarily for an inspection of jetties and bulkheads constructed to protect the beach front, J. Spencer Smith of Tenafly, president of the State Board of Commerce and Navigation, has suggested development of a park system along the coast.

Mr. Smith believes the support of the National Government should be enlisted in a project for the acquisition and development of mile-long stretches of seaboard parks from Sandy Hook to Cape May at distances of twenty miles. The State board holds the Federal Government should help finance the program because residents of Pennsylvania and New York enjoy the Jersey beaches as well as its own citizens.

Feeding Test Shows Wheat Pays Live-Stock Producer

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Stressing its effort to have live-stock raisers feed wheat instead of corn, thus taking up the surplus of the former during the shortage of the latter, the Department of Agriculture today revealed an experiment showing that wheat-fed hogs bring the most profit.

The test, conducted in Nebraska, proved, the department's statement said, that hogs selling at $11 a hundred pounds returned about $1.50 a bushel for wheat. Ground wheat, fed with tankage, produced pork at a cost of $5.98 a hundred pounds, it was said, while corn at the current price, fed in the same manner, ran the cost up to $7.65.

SAYS HAMMERSTEIN HAS BAR IN THEATRE

Dancing Director Testifies It Is Fully Equipped—Producer to Be Tried on Assault Charge.

References to "a very pretty little bar" Arthur Hammerstein was alleged to have maintained in his office in the Hammerstein Theatre, Broadway and Fifty-third Street, enlivened the hearing yesterday in the Tombs Court on the assault and battery charge made by Jack Haskell, a dancing director, against the producer.

Haskell alleged that on July 3 Mr. Hammerstein struck him in the face when he complained that Harold Rand, a chorus man in the play "Luana," which was opened at the theatre last night, had punched him during rehearsal.

At the close of Haskell's testimony Magistrate Simpson ordered that a full complaint be drawn against Mr. Hammerstein, explaining he would sign it on Friday and hold the producer in nominal bail, pending trial in Special Sessions. The magistrate previously had held young Rand, who is a brother of Sally Rand, a star in the show, in $500 bail for trial in Special Sessions.

Haskell said that the trouble started when he reproved Rand for his dancing. Rand struck him so hard, he testified, that a physician had to put two clamps on his nose and bandage his left eye. Aided by one of the assistant dancing instructors, Haskell went up, he made his way in the elevator to Mr. Hammerstein's office on the third floor.

Miss Rand, however, jumped into the elevator with him and was first to reach Mr. Hammerstein. The producer, the dancing director added, shoved him into an adjoining room. Under questioning of his lawyer, Ferdinand Pecora, former chief Assistant District Attorney, Haskell described the room as a "barroom."

George J. Rosett, counsel for Mr. Hammerstein, who was not in court, vigorously protested at such a characterization of the room, to which the complainant replied: "Call it what you will, it was a fully equipped bar. I fainted there and I had a drink of water and whisky."

Under questioning of the Hammerstein lawyer, Haskell later added: "It is a bar—fully equipped, with service and any kind of liquor you want. It is a room larger than Mr. Hammerstein's office, and in one corner of it is a sumptuously furnished cubicle behind a panel door."

"Isn't it like the bar seen on the stage?" Mr. Rosett demanded.

"Oh, no," replied the complainant. "It's a very pretty little bar."

Haskell then said that as he emerged from the room to complain to Mr. Hammerstein the producer told him that he was discharged, and Sally Rand, turning to him, added: 'You were the cause of this fight.' He continued:

"I said to her: 'That's what I get for sticking up for you.' And then Mr. Hammerstein hit me a pretty terrific blow in the left eye."

The producer's lawyer waived further examination after Magistrate Simpson had refused to dismiss the charge.

SEEKS POSTOFFICE DATA.

Senate Committee Will Check Up Executive Inquiry on Leases.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—Information concerning the Postoffice Department's independent investigation of postoffice leases that cost the Federal Government $17,000,000 last year will be sought in behalf of the Senate committee now inquiring into conditions surrounding the annual rent bill.

John Holland, special investigator for the committee, said he would make a formal request for information from postoffice officials.

Representative Maas, Republican, of Minnesota, said after a conference with Mr. Holland that "irrespective of information developed by independent investigations, a sweeping congressional inquiry to fix responsibility for conditions existing in the past must and will be made."

The department's inquiry was made at the request of President Hoover, and a report concerning it is to be transmitted to him this week. The lease situation called forth charges of corruption and fraud during the Senate's consideration of the postoffice appropriation last Spring.

Chairman Blaine of the Senate's investigating committee is expected to consult other members on the possibility of beginning public hearings within the next two weeks at St. Paul.

H. FITZGERALD DIES; VETERAN EDITOR

Had Served as Manager of the Old Philadelphia Item for Thirty Years.

PAINTER AND ART PATRON

Examples of His Work in Several Galleries of This Country—Took Prizes at Exhibitions.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Harrington Fitzgerald, editor and business manager of the old Philadelphia Item until it suspended daily publication, died yesterday after a short illness, in Williamstown, Pa., where he had been visiting friends. He was 83 years old.

Mr. Fitzgerald, the last of five brothers, was a son of the late Colonel Thomas Fitzgerald, for many years owner and publisher of the daily and Sunday Item. He was born here on April 5, 1847. His mother was the former Sally Levering of Roxborough.

The former editor had long been a patron of art. His collection of paintings included portraits of many prominent Philadelphians. He was a landscape painter of note and his paintings of scenes at Valley Forge had attracted considerable attention. It is expected these works will become part of the collection at the Valley Forge Museum.

Mr. Fitzgerald had been a member of the Philadelphia art jury, which passes upon designs for public buildings, bridges and memorials.

Starting as a business man, Mr. Fitzgerald spent four years as cashier for Jay Cooke & Co., bankers, but failing eyesight obliged him to seek a year's rest. Subsequently he was business manager and managing editor of The Philadelphia Item for thirty years.

He was under twenty when his interest in art was awakened. He studied in Philadelphia under George W. Nicholson and John S. Sargent, and then went to Paris to continue his work under Gerome and Fortuny. He had exhibited pictures in most of the large Eastern and Middle Western cities, winning medals at the St. Louis Exposition of 1904, and at the American Art Society in Philadelphia. Examples of his painting are in the National Gallery in Washington, the Albright Gallery in Buffalo, the Detroit Art Museum and the Philadelphia Museum of Art. He had served as president of the American Art Society, and for twelve years was director of the School of Industrial Art in Philadelphia.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Grass Skirt Musical.

LUANA, a musical comedy in two acts and eight scenes, based on Richard Walton Tully's play "The Bird of Paradise." Book adapted by Howard Emmett Rogers, music by Rudolph Friml and lyrics by J. Keirn Brennan. Dances and ensembles staged by Earl Lindsey; book staged by Mr. Rogers; costumes designed by Charles Le Maire; stage settings designed by Cirker and Robbins; produced by Arthur Hammerstein. At Hammerstein's Theatre.

Playing romance to music in the South Seas, as they have done in "Luana," which was put on at Hammerstein's last evening, is not without its advantages. In the ineffable isles the dancing centres about the waist. For some years now the grass-skirt motive of Terpsichore has flourished most abundantly in burlesque houses. But by turning "The Bird of Paradise" into a musical show, with a Friml and score and a Rogers book, Mr. Hammerstein has restored the torso rhythm to the legitimate stage along with the bare, brown legs, the fuzzy hair dress and the open-work costumery. When Jans and Whalen are on the stage, impersonating American marines safeguarding the rights of American empire, even the humor remains anatomical and free.

In the department of letters the translation of native dialect into Broadwayese is ingeniously simplified by dropping the definite and indefinite articles. "Soldier land from beeg battleship just come in harbor," exclaims one native emissary whose fine rib stratification attests to the rigidity of his dieting. On the whole it is not a pretty spectacle. Broadway actors denied the advantages of three-piece civilization make unhappy primitives with bath-mat effects circumnavigating their middles, and the jibber of the natives sounds a little like baby-talk. But the chorus does very well; the innocent abandon of the untutored Hawaiian becomes them. As Neikia, Lilian Bond, who was educated at St. Vincent's Convent, London, sways to the narcotic strains of South Sea music with considerable elasticity.

Translating "The Bird of Paradise" in terms of music has obviously been no effortless procedure. The story, you will remember, concerns the dry rot that sets in when a white man settles down to enjoy the South Sea feminine climate. The beach-comber can only recover his white man's agression by getting out. On the other hand, the brilliant young doctor who ventures to marry a native girl begins to go without shaving before two years have gone by. The book of "Luana" remains painfully faithful to the drama, reminding you that the musical comedy actor is no tragedian.

Mr. Friml has written a fulsome light opera score that is lacking in memorable tunes. "A Son of a Sun" gains strength from Robert Chisholm's dynamic style of singing, and the staging of "Yankyula" adds considerable color to that number. Joseph Macaulay and Ruth Altman make something of the duet design of "My Bird of Paradise." But the South Sea locale has not stimulated Mr. Friml's natural talent for melody and romantic composing.

Nor has Mr. Hammerstein stuffed his production with a generosity of talent. As Luana, the bird of paradise, Miss Altman sings creditably without being a happy selection for the leading part. For humor there are Jans and Whalen, professional Broadway cut-ups. In the rapid style of glib low comedy they are lively and thoroughly uncritical. They can be low without being funny, and they can cheat the traditional kick-in-the-pants of its natural merriment by applying it to the wrong victim.

Somehow the dry rot that was once so enchanting in plays about the South Seas has come back to attack the South Seas drama at its Broadway source. Even the languorous beauty has degenerated into show-shop ugliness. Only the dancing maidens retain their grass-skirt innocence. They still smile incautiously at enraptured white men. Still they sway.

LEE EPHRAIM HERE TO STAGE 'ON THE SPOT'

Producer Says the London Theatres Are Being Affected by an Economic Depression.

Lee Ephraim, London theatrical producer who arrived on the Majestic Tuesday, will stage "On the Spot," the Edgar Wallace melodrama dealing with the Chicago underworld, for the Shuberts. The play, scheduled to open at the Forrest Theatre on Oct. 20, was successfully produced last April in London at Wyndham's Theatre, where it is now playing. For the Broadway presentation the melodrama will employ a company of American actors instead of English players, as originally planned.

Mr. Ephraim reported yesterday that the London theatres were also being affected by an economic depression and that there were only a few shows doing good business. Besides "On the Spot," he mentioned "Sons o' Guns" and "Bitter Sweet" as being among the outstanding successes.

The producer expects to remain here for about seven weeks. Upon his return to England he plans to offer a London production at Christmas of "Nina Rosa," the Shubert musical show, which will have its Broadway première at the Majestic Theatre on Saturday night.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Cinderelative" will open tonight at the Comedy Theatre. Dorothea Chard will head the cast.

The Republic Theatre opening of "Frankie and Johnnie" has now been advanced to Thursday night of next week.

Norman S. Carroll, brother of Earl Carroll, will go to Europe early in October. His trip, it is announced, will be for the purpose of negotiating with Beatrice Lillie and Maurice Chevalier to appear in the next Carroll revue, "Personalities," which is expected to go in rehearsal about Nov. 1.

"Passion Preferred," a play about Hollywood by Crane Wilbur, will be produced immediately by George Choos, probably in association with Jack Donahue. The play is expected to open in about five week's time.

Jacob A. Weiser will again give his courses in playwriting and dramatics this Fall at the evening session of the College of the City of New York.

LONDON HAILS MISS TUCKER

She Scores Triumph in Hulbert Comedy After Long Absence.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Miss Sophie Tucker scored another London triumph tonight in Jack Hulbert's new comedy, "Follow A Star," at the Winter Garden Theatre. Appearing as a cabaret artist, Miss Tucker sang at least twelve songs and her audience apparently would have welcomed another dozen, so enthusiastically was she welcomed after her long absence.

The audience was taken behind the scenes of a New York cabaret entertainment where a rehearsal was in progress. There it saw Miss Tucker as the wife of a melancholy conjurer, played by A. W. Baskcomb, who finds himself to be a Baronet at the end of the first act.

The Daily Mail's critic says Miss Tucker is a "most remarkable woman" and marvels at "her energy, courage, never flagging vitality and positively dynamic personality." Hulbert, who also won honors, appears in turn, as a cabaret producer, a sentimental lover, a guide to the newly created Baronet and finally excels himself as a Bowery tough applying for a job of "chucker out."

JANE COWL AS "VIOLA" ONLY

Her Plan to Take Double Part in "Twelfth Night" Abandoned.

Jane Cowl's proposed characterization as Viola and Sebastian in "Twelfth Night" has been abandoned and Miss Cowl is now appearing in the rôle of Viola only, according to a program announcement made at the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, where the play is being performed.

The confusion in distinguishing between the two characters is advanced as the reason for the change. The rôle of Sebastian has been taken by Jerry Bowman.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Away From the World.

OUTWARD BOUND, with Leslie Howard, Beryl Mercer, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Helen Chandler, Alison Skipworth, Montagu Love, Lyonel Watts, Alec B. Francis and Dudley Digges, based on Sutton-Vane's play of the same title, directed by Robert Milton. At the Hollywood Theatre.

Barely a whispered word escaped the lips of the spectators last night in the Hollywood Theatre as they watched a most impressive Vitaphone version of Sutton-Vane's play, "Outward Bound." Now and again there was a wave of modulated laughter, and when the picture came to an end there was a genuine outburst of applause.

It was a memorable evening in more ways than one, for aside from having the temerity to produce the shell-shocked soldier-actor's stirring work dealing with a ship aboard which all the passengers, except two known as the "Half-ways," are dead, the Warner Brothers offered their film without the usual pomp and fanfare and without any short subjects that might have interfered with the spirit of the weird but penetrating feature.

In filming this play the producers went to great pains. They engaged Robert Milton, who had directed the stage work, to supervise the picture, and wherever it was possible they obtained the services of players who had acted in the play. But be it known that those who were recruited in Hollywood to fill the places of those actors who were not available accomplish their work admirably. It is, in fact, a picture in which everybody shines, a picture that, like the play, sends one away from it deeply moved. Mr. Milton has not sought to change the action, but at the same time he has succeeded in giving to this film fine cinematic touches wherever opportunity offers.

Leslie Howard, who acted one of the "Half-ways" in the play, undertakes the rôle portrayed by Alfred Lunt on the stage. His vocal delivery, his expressions and gestures leave nothing to be desired. Considering that this is his first talking picture part, he is entitled to all the greater praise for his performance.

The basic idea of this strange chronicle is perhaps clearer in the picture than it was in the play. This idea concerns the "Half-ways," two young people in love with each other who decide to commit suicide. It is the young man's imaginings while unconscious that form the action of the piece. The young people, Henry and Ann, have turned on the gas in a humble London flat and it is their dog Laddie who breaks a window and saves them.

At the close of the production, a London Bobby talks about a bone instead of a medal for Laddie and this and what has gone before so affected several in the audience that their eyes were wet when the lights were switched on. One felt that the men and women present were more kindly on leaving the theatre than they were when they entered.

Soon after the first flashes of Henry and Ann, a strange-looking ship is seen through the fog. Aboard this vessel are Scrubby, the steward; the haughty Mrs. Cliveden-Banks, who dotes on her hyphen; sweet and humble Mrs. Midget; the Rev. William Duke, who has lost his post; the mundane Mr. Lingley, who never gave a man a second chance; Tom Prior, who has permitted his thirst to dominate his soul, and Henry and Ann.

First it is discovered by Prior, played by Mr. Howard, that the ship has no port or starboard lights; then that the only uniformed man aboard is Scrubby, who goes aloft when he is not in the saloon or looking after the staterooms; then comes the more stirring realization that they, the passengers, are all dead—bound for where! Mrs. Cliveden-Banks is anxious, but she, like Lingley, never bends. It is a mysterious journey. None can remember whither they were going when they came aboard.

Scrubby finally announces that land has been sighted. Here it might be said that the hazy outlines of oddly shaped structures that come to the screen are grouped much like New York's skyline.

Scrubby then tells the passengers that the Examiner is coming aboard. This Examiner arrives in the person of Dudley Digges, who played the same part on the stage. He looks into the natures of the individuals, meets out their punishment or reward, and Lingley, Mrs. Cliveden-Banks and Prior listen to the Examiner's verdict.

The "Half-ways" are not on the Examiner's list. They are left with Scrubby on the phantom ship. Henry hears a dog's bark, then the breaking of glass. After some time one perceives the ship's foghorn dissolve into an ambulance signal and there is a little throng of people surrounding the flat where Henry and Ann had attempted suicide.

Beryl Mercer gives as fine a performance as Mrs. Midget as she did on the stage. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. does well as Henry. Helen Chandler is excellent as Ann. Alec Francis figures as Scrubby, a rôle interpreted before the footlights by J. M. Kerrigan. Mr. Francis's performance is the best he has given in talking films. Alison Skipworth and Montagu Love do full justice to their respective rôles—Mrs. Cliveden-Banks and Mr. Lingley. Lyonel Watts plays with sincerity and feeling the same rôle in which he was seen in the play—that of the Rev. William Duke. Dudley Digges handles his part skillfully.

TO STAGE 'THE PAINTED VEIL'

Kendall and Milton Will Produce Play Based on Maugham Novel.

A dramatization of Somerset Maugham's novel, "The Painted Veil," published in 1925, is planned for production in December by Messmore Kendall and Robert Milton, who were associated several seasons ago in the presentation of several plays. The dramatization, which is the work of Bartlett Cormack, author of "The Racket," will be directed by Mr. Milton, who arrived from Hollywood last week.

Following "The Painted Veil," Mr. Milton said yesterday that he would produce under his own auspices a play called "See-Saw," written by himself and Richard Sharpe. The plot of "See-Saw" deals with the futility of bringing up children by conventional methods.

In the Spring Mr. Milton expects to return to Hollywood to resume the direction of talking pictures.

"AIDA" FOR WESTCHESTER.

Opera to Be Given at County Centre as Charity Event on Oct. 25.

Verdi's "Aïda" will be presented by the Popular Civic Opera Company on Saturday evening, Oct. 25, at the new Westchester County Centre Auditorium. The performance will be given under the auspices of and for the benefit of the Westchester County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

The completed cast is announced to include Anna Lissetskaya, Lydia Van Gilder, Giuseppe Radaelli, Alfredo Valente, Mario Valle and Emerio Ferrari.

It will be recalled that the Metropolitan Opera Company announced on last July 3 two performances of grand opera to be given here at the County Centre during the coming Winter.

NEW CONCERT HALL READY.

Louise Homer to Open Barbizon Plaza Auditorium Next Month.

The new auditorium in the Barbizon Placa, Fifty-eighth Street and Sixth Avenue, will be formally opened early next month, it was learned yesterday. Louise Homer has been chosen as the artist who will give the first public recital there, but no date has as yet been set for the event.

The new hall has a capacity of less than 1,000, and its lighting, seating and acoustics were developed after long experimentation.

Among the artists who will appear at the Barbizon Plaza this season will be Frances Sebel, soprano; George Morgan, baritone; Walter Gieseking, pianist, and Yowlanche, Indian basso.

Marion Harris in New Role.

Marion Harris, well-known singer of popular songs, will join the cast of "The Second Little Show" at the Royale Theatre next week, probably on Wednesday night. According to the management, she will replace Gloria Grafton. Miss Harris, long a favorite in vaudeville, has been seen in such Broadway musical shows as "Yours Truly" and "A Night in Spain."

THIS WORLD CALLED THEIR LOVE A SIN

But eternity made it a beautiful thing.

Steadfast in their devotion, they left this world in search of a better.

What happened after, makes this exquisite romance the most extraordinary picture ever produced.

"OUTWARD BOUND" was written by Sutton Vane, and as a play created a tremendous sensation when produced in London and New York.

It was directed by Robert Milton, and its cast includes Leslie Howard, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Beryl Mercer, Dudley Digges, Helen Chandler, Alison Skipworth, Alec B. Francis, Montagu Love and Lyonel Watts.

Those who were privileged to see it at last night's private press premiere acclaimed it as the most sensational innovation in years. We believe you will share their enthusiasm.

CLERGY AND LAITY HAIL FATHER GILLET

Catholic Delegation Meets Head of Dominican Order on Arrival From France.

OTHER NOTABLES ON PARIS

Dr. Moscowitz Returns From ORT Conference—Lindley M. Garrison a Passenger.

The Most Rev. Father Gillet, Master General of the Dominican Order, arrived here yesterday on the French liner Paris to make a tour of the branches of the order in the United States. He was met at Quarantine by seventy-five clergy and twenty-five prominent members of the Catholic laity in the official welcome steamboat Macom, with the police band on board.

After he boarded the Macom, Father Gillet was received by the delegation headed by Thomas Malone of the Mayor's commitee and the Very Rev. Raymond Meagher, Provincial of the Dominicans in New York, while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," followed by the "Marseilelaise."

The Master General was taken to the Battery, where he was driven in an automobile with a police motor cycle escort to the priory of St. Vincent Ferrer's Church, 873 Lexington Avenue, which will be his headquarters during his stay here.

When he arrived at St. Vincent Ferrer's 500 children assembled to greet him. They sang outside the church and prayers and a religious reception were held inside a few minutes later. Father Gillet was deeply moved at his reception.

Another passenger in the Paris was Dr. Henry Moscowitz, chairman of the American Ort, the society which was organized for the promotion of reconstruction among the Jews in Eastern Europe. He attended the conferences of the International Ort in Berlin and said that although conditions everywhere abroad were bad the Jews of Eastern Europe were suffering most.

Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute returned from his annual two months' vacation which he spends upon his farm near Paris.

Lindley M. Garrison, former Secretary of War, returned from a three months' trip abroad. His right foot still pains him, and he went ashore in a wheelchair.

Another passenger in the Paris was Carl Van Vechten, novelist, who said he had bene staying with Eugene O'Neill in the chateau leased by the American playwright near Tours. The latter is nearing the completion of the play he has been writing for the last two years, Mr. Van Vechten said.

Also on board were Hollis B. Shaw, artist, of 32 West Fifty-eighth Street and his wife, Lisa Paranova, dancer. They were married in Greenwich, Conn., and sailed for Europe in June.

DRY REVISES VIEW ON LAW.

President McConaughy of Wesleyan Willing to Face Modification.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 17 (AP).—President James L. McConaughy, addressing Wesleyan University students at the opening of the 100th college year today, spoke of the need of enlarging "our horizons and definitions," and said that if the present laws and enforcement methods are ineffectual, he was willing to face the necessity of modifying the prohibition statutes.

"Personally, I think the curbing of liquor an undoubted social advance," he said, "and I believe that colleges are better off under prohibition than they were before.

"If, however, in certain cities and States the present laws and methods are proving ineffectual and are causing other evils, I, for one, am willing to revise my definitions and frankly face the necessity of modification of the law.

"I urge upon you as the voters of the immediate future, upon whom the responsibility for the solution of this great question will shortly rest, to be open-minded enough to recognize any possible present failures and, likewise, to be willing to curb your own wishes somewhat for the social good."

C. W. LIGHTBODY ACQUITTED

Saskatchewan Judge Praises Rhodes Scholar.

Special to The New York Times.

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 17.—Charles W. Lightbody, student of Harvard University and Bowdoin prize winner there last Spring, was honorably acquitted of perjury and corrupt practices charges by Judge A. Ross at Yorkton, Sask., when he appeared to answer the counts which arose as a result of the July 28 Dominion election.

Mr. Lightbody, who was graduated from the University of Saskachewan here, was a Rhodes scholar from this Province in 1925 and received his master's degree from Oxford University.

Judge Ross, who urged that there should be "no more of these political prosecutions," said in acquitting the Harvard student, "You are discharged, Charles Lightbody, without taint of dishonor, and ought rather to be commended as a young man desiring to take part in the public life of your country."

HELD IN NARCOTICS PLOT.

Baggagemaster Accused of Possessing Drugs Imported on Europa.

Carl Schoch, assistant baggage master of the North German Lloyd Pier in Brooklyn, was held in $2,000 bail by United States Commissioner Edward E. Fay in Brooklyn Federal court yesterday, charged with possessing narcotics illegally imported. Schoch is 37 years old and lives at 1,140 Colgate Avenue, Bronx.

The master of the Europa had sent a wireless message ahead saying he had learned a shipment of morphine was on his vessel, but that he was unaware how it was to be got ashore. Several hours after the docking of the Europa, officials said, Schoch was caught pasting a customs stamp on a valise that had been brought ashore by a sailor.

Schoch was arrested as he attempted to leave the pier with the valise, but denied any knowledge of the contents. It was said 187 ounces of morphine, valued at $15,000, were found. Officials believe the capture may lead to the uncovering of an international drug ring.

Tarkington Regains Use of Eye.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17 (AP).—Booth Tarkington, the novelist, has practically regained the full use of his right eye, which has been failing for several years, through an operation performed at the Wilmer Eye Institute of the Johns Hopkins Hospital. Physicians there said today the author could read with the eye, and is resting after the operation, which was performed several weeks ago. They said the patient would depart as soon as Dr. William H. Wilmer, head of the institute, returns from his vacation and makes an examination. The operation was the second here. The first was performed early in 1929.

PURCHASING AGENT HELD.

Jamaica Man Accused of Using $1,787 of Business Publishers Funds

Christian G. Eurich, 36 years old, of 90 Terrace Avenue, Jamaica, Queens, was arrested yesterday and held in $15,000 bail by Magistrate Ford in Jefferson Market court on the charge that he had diverted $1,787.49 for his personal use from the United Business Publishers, Inc., of 239 West Thirty-ninth Street, where he was employed as purchasing agent. Magistrate Ford set Sept. 26 for a hearing on a charge of grand larceny.

The complaint was made by Frederick Stevens, treasurer of the publishing concern, after a shortage was discovered a few days ago during a check-up of office expenditures. Investigation was made by Detective William Crerand of the West Thirtieth Street police station, who arrested the purchasing agent at his office. Eurich admitted thefts of $35,000 over the past three years, according to Detective Crerand, and offered to settle with the company for that amount. Through his attorney, George M. Glassgold of 295 Madison Avenue, the accused man denied that he had diverted approximately $200,000 from the company during the last ten years, as indicated by his employers.

Half of 1% Decline From July 15 to Aug. 15 Is Reported by Bureau.

10 PER CENT DROP IN YEAR

But Average Food Costs Here Were Still 47 Per Cent Above 1913 Level.

WHOLESALE FALL HALTED

Check in Downward Price Trend Is Greeted as a Healthy Symptom.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Retail food prices in the United States decreased one-half of 1 per cent during the period from July 15 to Aug. 15, and a little more than 10 per cent from Aug. 15, 1929, to Aug. 15, 1930, while the precipitate decline in wholesale prices of all commodities was arrested in August, with the average at the same level as in July, according to announcements today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor.

The purchasing power of the 1926 dollar remained at $1.19 in August, the point that it reached in July.

The check in the downward trend in wholesale prices was greeted as a healthy symptom as the trend in some commodities had reached a level which was causing concern. Of the 550 commodities, or wholesale price series, for which comparable information for July and August was collected, increases were shown in 109 instances and decreases in 184 instances. In 257 instances no change in price was reported.

As to the retail prices of foods the bureau's weighted index numbers, with average prices in 1913 equaling 100, were 160.2 for Aug. 15, 1929; 144 for July 15, 1930, and 143.7 for Aug. 14, 1930.

The retail prices of most foods decreased from July 15 to Aug. 15, 1930, with the twenty-four on which data was obtained showing the following downward trend: onions, 10 per cent; plate beef, 7 per cent; chuck roast, leg of lamb and potatoes, 6 per cent; rib roast, 5 per cent; sirloin steak and roundsteak, 4 per cent; hens, oleomargarine, flour, cabbage, prunes and bananas, 2 per cent; sliced bacon, sliced ham cheese, bread, macaroni, pork and beans, canned peas and coffee, 1 per cent; tea and oranges, less than one-half of 1 per cent.

Five Commodities Increased.

Only five articles showed increased prices as follows:

Strictly fresh eggs, 11 per cent; butter, 8 per cent; canned red salmon, 2 per cent; pork chops and lard, 1 per cent.

The following thirteen articles showed no change in the month: fresh milk, evaporated milk, vegetable lard substitute, corn meal, rolled oats, corn flakes, wheat cereal, rice, navy beans, canned corn, canned tomatoes, sugar and raisins.

In the period from July 15 to Aug. 15, 1930, there was a decrease in the average food costs in thirty-four cities, ranging from 5 per cent in Butte, Mont., to less than one-half of 1 per cent in a group of twelve cities which included Newark and New Haven. Increases were noted in seventeen cities, ranging from 2 per cent in Kansas City and Louisville and 1 per cent in a group including Buffalo to less than one-half of 1 per cent in a group including New York City and Rochester, N. Y.

All of the fifty-one cities for which data were available showed decreases for the year ended Aug. 15, ranging from 14 per cent in Detroit to 7 per cent in Charleston and Cincinnati. For a group including New York City, Boston, Chicago, Newark and New Haven the decrease over the year was 10 per cent. Rochester, N. Y., showed a decrease of 12 per cent and Buffalo and Bridgeport, Conn., 11 per cent.

The increases on Aug. 15, 1930, in average costs, as compared with the pre-war days of 1913, ranged from 55 per cent in Chicago to 24 per cent in Salt Lake City. Other increases over the seventeen-year period were 48 per cent in Buffalo, 47 per cent in New York City, Boston and Detroit, 45 per cent in New Haven, 43 per cent in Philadelphia and 39 per cent in Newark.

Farm Products Wholesale Rose.

In dealing with wholesale prices the bureau said that farm products increased on an average over 2 per cent from July to August, with advances shown for barley, corn, oats, rye, Winter wheat, hogs, eggs and alfalfa and clover hay. Beef steers, lambs, sheep and cotton, on the other hand, averaged lower than in July.

Foods as a whole, the bureau said, were slightly higher than in the month before, due mainly to increases for butter, cheese, fresh pork, hominy grits, corn meal and canned corn. Fresh beef, lamb, wheat flour, coffee and sugar were cheaper than in July. Hides and skins were downward, with leather, boots and shoes and other leather products also showing minor decreases. Textile products averaged lower, with cotton goods, silk and rayon, woolen and worsted goods and other textiles participating in the decline.

In the group of fuel and lighting materials a slight advance in anthracite coal was offset by small declines in bituminous coal and coke, leaving the group level unchanged from the month before. Metals and metal products again averaged lower, with small declines in most iron and steel products, and in copper and zinc in the group of non-ferrous metals.

Building materials continued to decline, lumber, brick and paint materials averaging lower than in July. Prices of chemicals, drugs and pharmaceuticals, fertilizer materials and mixed fertilizers all were somewhat below those of the month before.

House-furnishing goods showed a slight drop. There were considerable increases in prices of cattle feed and further decreases in prices of rubber and lubricating and cylinder oils.

An increase from the July levels is shown for the group of raw materials, while decreases are shown for the groups of semi-manufactured articles, finished products, non-agricultural commodities and the group of all commodities less farm products and foods.

The following table of index numbers of wholesale prices by groups and sub-groups of commodities was made available by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average for 1926 equaling 100:

1874-76 Lincoln Sarcophagus Is Prey to Souvenir Hunters

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17 (AP).—The white marble sarcophagus in which the body of Abraham Lincoln reposed from 1874 to 1876 has fallen prey to souvenir hunters.

Left upon the lawn of the Lincoln Memorial here when the work of rebuilding the first tomb was started recently, the sarcophagus has been dismantled and some parts of it carried away.

It was not intended that the sarcophagus should figure in the restored tomb, but it was to have been preserved for its historical associations.

It was believed here that the dismantling of the sarcophagus may have resulted from a misunderstanding among the workmen as to what disposition was to be made of it. At one time it was proposed that the body of Mrs. Lincoln be placed in the sarcophagus and that it be set in one of the crypts. Another suggestion was that it be placed elsewhere in the tomb.

THOUSANDS WATCH BROOKLYN NIGHT FIRE

Chemical and Pitch Plant Razed in Gowanus Section—Hundreds of Families Are Routed.

Thousands of persons along the Brooklyn and lower Manhattan waterfronts watched flames rising high over the Gowanus section of Brooklyn early this morning as a four-alarm fire destroyed the plant of Ernst Zobel Company, manufacturers of pitch and chemicals, at Tenth Street and Second Avenue, Brooklyn.

While firemen fought to prevent the flames from spreading to wooden tenements lining Prince, Ninth, Eleventh and other adjacent streets, and sought to reduce the menace to the huge tank of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company at Eleventh Street and Second Avenue, half a block away, police routed hundreds of families from the threatened buildings.

The pitch manufacturing plant occupied half a dozen wooden buildings on a plot running 200 feet on Tenth Street from Second Avenue to the Gowanus Canal and 150 feet south on Second Avenue. Hundreds of drums of benzine and turpentine and hundreds of sacks of resin were stored in these buildings.

Four workmen were on duty on the nightshift when the fire started. The cause was not determined. But one of the workers, seeing smoke issuing from the rear of one of the buildings, warned the other three. All of thm dropped their work and raced out to turn in a fire alarm.

When the first engines arrived a few minutes later the fire had made but little headway and an additional alarm was not believed necessary at first. Fifteen minutes elapsed. Then a terrific detonation occurred as several drums of benzine or turpentine exploded. Long sheafs of liquid flame rose high above the burning building and were visible for miles around.

Additional alarms were sent in in rapid succession as explosions grew more and more frequent.

The fire also threatened a number of barges moored along the banks of the Gowanus Canal. These were moved later by fireboats and tugs.

MRS. BEERY RETURNS; LURED OFF, ACTOR HINTS

Missing Since Sept. 8, She Drove Back to Los Angeles Alone, He Says—Presses Inquiry.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17 (AP).—Mrs. Marguerite Beery, wife of Noah Beery, film actor, who was reported missing since Sept. 8 by her husband, returned to Los Angeles tonight.

She went to the home of friends.

The actor called police and informed them his wife had telephoned his home during his absence. He requested a police search he launched for her yesterday be discontinued as he believed she would return to his ranch soon.

Mr. Beery also said he had learned his wife left Las Vegas, Nev., where she was located today, alone and had driven across the desert to Los Angeles by herself.

The actor suggested police continue their investigation of his wife's disappearance, saying:

"I want the proper authorities to investigate this matter and prosecute any one guilty of enticing or luring Mrs. Beery from her home. If it can be established any person or persons are responsible for her strange absence, I shall lodge charges against them.

"If there was a man involved in the affair, I might lose my temper. Mrs. Beery is a sick woman and has been under the care of an alienist for over three years. She is subject to spells of sickness that affect her mind."

SAYS THUGS OUSTED BREWERY RAIDERS

Dry Chief Seeks Arrest of Beer Racket Boss for Alleged Attack in Elizabeth.

CHARGES POLICE NEGLECT

MacPhee Declares Aid of 40 Agents From Newark Was Necessary to Recapture Breidt Plant.

Jack Dunn, according to the police a former self-admitted boss of the "beer racket" in Northern New Jersey, is being sought by the Federal authorities on a warrant charging him with interfering with a Federal officer in the performance of his duties in connection with an alleged attack on prohibition agents in the course of a raid on the Peter Breidt Brewery in Elizabeth Tuesday night, Prohibition Administrator Alexander MacPhee announced yesterday.

MacPhee, highly indignant over the report that his men had been driven from the brewery by a gang of armed thugs, declared that the "very limit of the government's resources" would be used in bringing the guilty parties to justice. He was particularly indignant over the fact that the attack on the agents was carried out within two blocks of Elizabeth Police Headquarters, yet no police appeared to cooperate with the Federal officers. Persons in Elizabeth, however, pointed out that it was equally strange that John G. (Ace) Smith, prohibition agent in charge of the raiding party, had not seen fit to call for police aid when Police Headquarters was close by.

According to the story related by MacPhee, six agents raided the brewery at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, took nine prisoners and knocked out the bungs of vats containing 244,750 gallons of beer, which coursed down adjacent sewers. Several hours later Dunn appeared and protested that the agents had no right to destroy property. The flow of beer was temporarily stopped, Dunn and his cohorts left and the flow of beer began again. Later it was alleged that Dunn returned with reinforcements and forcibly ejected the raiding party. Smith, in turn, called Newark headquarters for aid. Forty agents were sent to help recapture the brewery.

Yesterday Kenneth Caughan and Samuel Hirschberg, appearing before Federal Judge Runyon as counsel for the brewery, claimed that the search warrant had given the address incorrectly, thereby rendering it invalid, and that the brewery was protected by an injunction obtained after a previous raid last year. It was stated that the same error in the address of the brewery had been made in the warrant for a previous raid, and its invalidity on that ground had been upheld in court. The question was raised as to how the same mistake, with its resultant advantage to the brewery, could have been made in the prohibition administrator's office a second time.

"When the situation becomes such," MacPhee said yesterday, after conferring with United States Attorney Philip Formana, who came up from Trenton to investigate, "that the United States Government has to bring forty of its officers into the city of Elizabeth in the middle of the night to preserve order and drive out a gang of gunmen and racketeers from a wildcat brewery that has flagrantly and openly violated the law almost within the shadow of Police Headquarters, there is certainly something wrong, and it should be looked into by the decent and law-abiding citizens of the community."

POISON ON GRAPES KILL A LONG ISLAND CHILD

Police Investigate a Report That Vines in Neighbor's Yard Had Been Sprayed.

EAST HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Sept. 17.—Thomas Mooney, 3 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mooney of Laclede Avenue here, died tonight in the Nassau County Hospital at Mineola from arsenic poisoning resulting, according to the police, from eating grapes sprayed with the poison. Three other children of the same family, Jane, 4; Francis, 6, and Anna, 8, are in the same hospital suffering from similar poisoning.

The children, according to Mrs. Mooney, ate grapes on Labor Day from a vine on the property of John H. Reiser of 10 Mill Street, Glen Cove, who has a Summer home on Laclede Avenue here. They were treated by a local physician for a week, after which, their condition being unimproved, they were removed to the hospital. The case was not reported to the police until tonight.

The police said that it was a violation of Penal Law 1757 to spray vines or fruit trees with poison. Upon attempting to get in touch with Reiser, they learned he had sailed for Europe a couple of days before Labor Day. County Detective Thomas Brockel was reported conducting an investigation.

500 HIRED ON SUBWAY JOBS.

Transportation Board Enforces Law Requiring Preference to Local Men.

Through cooperation between the Board of Transportation and subway contractors, about 500 men received employment on city subway construction work within the past few weeks, it was announced at the board's offices yesterday. Placements were made through the city's new employment agency. The Board of Transportation also reported the contractors, in accordance with the notice sent out by the board in April, had observed the State law requiring preference for citizens of this State in the employment of men on public works.

Board of Transportation inspectors are supervising subway contracts to see that citizens are given preference and that contractors make the required records showing citizenship. To facilitate preparation of these records, the board distributed 25,000 cards to contractors. These call for tabulation of all necessary information to fix the status of each employe under the State labor law.

Lieut. Taylor Takes Annapolis Post

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 17.—Lieutenant Everett B. Taylor today relieved Lieut. Commander Joseph E. Malcolmson as medical officer attached to the department of physical training at the Naval Academy. Lieutenant Taylor completed a tour of duty in the same position six years ago.

Bert Acosta Arrested in Wilton, Conn., Charged With Flying Without a License

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 17 (AP).—Bert Acosta, co-pilot for Commander Richard E. Byrd in his transatlantic flight in 1927, was arrested in Wilton, Conn., late tonight charged with flying a plane in Connecticut while his license was under suspension.

Acosta landed an airplane tonight in a meadow on a 200-acre farm in Wilton owned by David Evans. He told Evans that he had engine trouble and was forced to land. Evans telephoned to the State police barracks in Westport and Acosta was placed under arrest.

Acosta left New York at 3 P. M. yesterday in a borrowed airplane. At the New York City Airport at Flushing signed the pilot's register and after the printed "destination" he placed a large question mark.

The flier was suspended nearly two years ago for infractions of the Department of Commerce regulations. But when he took off in the small monoplane he demonstrated that he had not forgotten how to stunt. At Flushing he put on another skillful exhibition before landing and again after taking off.

Inspectors for the Department of Commerce, informed of Acosta's flight, said that so far as they knew he had not been reinstated as a pilot. If the plane is unlicensed, however, Acosta has broken no rules, since an unlicensed pilot is allowed to fly an unlicensed plane under the law.

Acosta was suspended in January, 1929, for low flying and stunting over Mayabuck, Conn. He was fined $500 and his license revoked until the fine should be paid. Unable to raise the money, he was without work except as a consultant. Last January he was arrested on the complaint of his wife and committed to the Nassau County jail on the charge of non-support. He was released from jail last July and at once obtained work with the Seaboard Aircraft Company, dealers in planes and parts at Roosevelt Field.

BRONX BANK HEAD DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Car of Frank A. Gallagher, 48, President of the Port Morris, Skids Into Subway Pillar.

LIFE LONG FRIEND OF SMITH

Organized Municipal Bank of East New York and Was Former President of the Cosmopolitan.

Frank A. Gallagher, president of the Port Morris Bank, Willis Avenue and 138th Street, the Bronx, and for many years prominent in civic activities in that borough, was fatally injured early yesterday when the automobile he was driving skidded on wet pavement at the intersection of Jerome and River Avenues and 168th Street and crashed into a pillar supporting the Jerome Avenue subway line, which, at that point, is operated upon an elevated superstructure.

Mr. Gallagher was taken to the Morrisania Hospital by Louis Laprosi of 417 East Sixtieth Street and Walter Losch of 1,598 York Avenue, who were driving behind him and saw the accident. Mr. Gallagher was unconscious when picked up and was pronounced dead by Dr. Ackerman upon his arrival at the hospital.

Mr. Gallagher and his attorney, Joseph Byrne, had driven uptown from the latter's office at 551 Fifth Avenue, where they had been in a business conference following an afternoon golf game together. At 167th Street and River Avenue Mr. Byrne alighted, waved good-bye to Mr. Gallagher and started on foot for his home at 1,724 Popham Avenue, the Bronx. This was at 3 A. M. Mr. Gallagher started on alone toward his home at 185 Harmon Avenue, Pelhamwood, New Rochelle.

There is a sharp grade on River Avenue at the point where it joins Jerome Avenue and Mr. Gallagher's automobile skidded into the subway structure. The steel pillar that his car struck bears a large red warning light. The police say the place has been the scene of many serious automobile accidents.

Mr. Gallagher, who leaves his wife, Mrs. Catherine Gallagher, was born on Roosevelt Street in the lower east side forty-eight years ago. Former Governor Alfred E. Smith was born not far away on South Street and the two have been close friends all their lives. They went to St. James Parochial School together, although Mr. Smith, who is a few years older, was in the class ahead. Mr. Gallagher was valedictorian and honor man of his class.

In 1899 Mr. Gallagher began his banking career when he entered the employ of the State Bank on Grand Street as a clerk. Several years later he left there to go to the Produce Exchange Bank, where he remained until 1917 when he was appointed a State Bank Examiner. In 1919 Mr. Gallagher organized the Municipal Bank of East New York and remained its head until July 1, 1921, when he resigned to become president of the Cosmopolitan Bank.

The Cosmopolitan merged with the Bank of the United States in August, 1928, and Mr. Gallagher was made a vice president and placed in charge of its branches in the Bronx. He became a director of the Port Morris Bank Jan. 29, last, and was elected its president a week later.

TOO POOR TO BURY CHILD.

Parents May Leave Body of Auto Victim for Potter's Field.

Robert McCracken, 3 years old, of 341 East Twenty-fifth Street died in Bellevue Hospital last night a few hours after he had been hit by an automobile in front of his home. His father, John McCracken, a roofer, out of work, with other children to provide for, has no money to bury the boy, so the body was left at the morgue and may be burried in Potter's Field.

Five months ago, while working on a roof job McCracken was scalded by tar and has been unable to get a job since. With his wife and two of his six children he occupies three rooms at the East Twenty-fifth Street address, paying the rent with janitor service. Three of the children are in an institution. There is no way of getting money for Robert's burial unless it comes from some unexpected source.

DRUGGISTS ASSAIL HOOVER ON DRY EVILS

National Retailers' Convention Demands Central Board of Review in Cases of Arrest.

SCORES COURT DELAYS

Group Meeting at Atlantic City Endorses the Capper-Kelly "Fair Trade" Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Responsibility for conditions resulting from prohibition was laid at the door of the Hoover Administration in a report read at today's session of the convention of the National Association of Retail Druggists here.

The report, drawn by the association's committee on national legislation, advocated passage of the Capper-Kelly "fair trade" bill, now in Congressional committee. Representative Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania, jointly responsible for the measure, addressed the gathering.

On prohibition the report said:

"Representatives of all other alcohol-using industries joined with us in support of most of the amendments to the Williamson act submitted by this association, but they were rejected. The Hoover Administration and the Republican majority in Congress therefore are responsible for the conditions of the prohibition law and its enforcement. The association has renewed its efforts in behalf of a central board of review in Washington in the revision of the regulations for the enforcement of national prohibition and supplemental acts.

"Retail druggists cannot afford the expense of appealing to the courts from decisions of local supervisors and administrators, nor can they afford the loss of time in appeals to the courts if they nave the money to go to court. Their business might be ruined before the courts reached their cases."

Representative Kelly told the druggists that if the American people continue to permit chain stores to operate uninterruptedly for ten years or more, "every young man and woman who seeks to enter business will find the doors of opportunity shut in their faces through the cut-throat competition."

The Kelly-Capper bill would permit manufacturers to fix the prices at which their guaranteed products would be sold. On this point Mr. Kelly said:

"The Kelly-Capper bill is not a mandatory measure at all. It provides that when a manufacturer desires to protect his good name under a guarantee of quality, he can retain the right to say how his wares shall be sold."

Organization of "grocers, druggists, jewelers, every independent business," was urged by the Representative, to meet the vast combines that are invading every community." He said buyers must be impressed "with the importance of all independent manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers."

The committee report said of the bill:

"Consumers must be made to understand the need of making the Capper-Kelly bill a law for their own protection more than that of independent business men.

"The consuming public will be at the mercy of mergers and monopolies when the independent business man is driven from the field of competition."

The committee praised the appointment of Harry J. Anslinger as Federal Narcotic Commissioner.

HINTS CITY MAY BAR 6TH AV. SUBWAY PLAN

Delaney Tells Transit Hearing He Has Been Told the I. R. T. Fears Bankruptcy.

THINKS ELEVATED MUST GO

But Implies That if Company Cannot Exist Without It, Present Proposal Might Be Dropped.

Informed by John H. Delaney, chairman of the Board of Transportation, that he had been "unofficially" told that removal of the Sixth Avenue elevated line would seriously impair the financial stability of the Interborough, the Transit Commission adjourned yesterday its public hearing on the question whether the retention of the elevated structure was required for public necessity and convenience. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

Mr. Delaney's statement, made while a Transit Commission employe was testifying about traffic conditions on the elevated line, was coupled with the declaration that the Board of Transportation wanted to know about it, if removal of the line would mean bankruptcy for the Interborough. He said the city transit board was convinced that the elevated line should come down before work was started on the new Sixth Avenue subway, but intimated that if the possibility of financial damage to the company demanded sparing the elevated line, there was a probability that the new subway would not be constructed at all.

Decision to Be Delayed.

The latter question, he said, would be decided by the Board of Transportation in November or December, when the engineers' plans were finished. Mr. Delaney also disclosed that plans were not being drawn in the alternative, to cover the situations existing with the elevated in place and with the structure removed.

Mr. Delaney's statement created much stir in transit circles. He did not amplify it, preferring to withhold specific statements until the Interborough presents concrete evidence of the financial effect of demolition of the elevated line. J. C. Edwards, counsel for the company, offered to present such testimony at once, but was told by Chairman Fullen of the Transit Commission to submit it when the company presented its general plea for retention of the line.

The company contends that the Sixth Avenue line not only pays its own way but yields enough additional revenue to leave a balance of about $1,600,000 a year to meet charges on the other elevated lines.

Question Is Only One Remaining.

The question of the financial effect of removal of the elevated line is the only one upon which the Board of Transportation has not made up its mind, Mr. Delaney said, declaring that it had been made up "in every other direction."

"The advantage to the city as to expense of construction of the new subway and as to the removal of the hazards of maintaining the elevated railroad is so great," he declared, "and the obvious danger and loss (if the elevated is left standing during subway construction) is so great that we desire to have this proceeding put forward as rapidly as possible."

The hearing opened yesterday with the hearing room packed with representatives of business and civic organizations that favor or oppose the early removal of the elevated structure. Harold J. Cloutman directed the presentation of evidence on behalf of a score of civic associations favoring removal of the line before work is started on the new Sixth Avenue subway. Mr. Edwards and Arthur J. Peacock appeared for the Interborough and Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph A. Devery for the city. The Transit Commission was represented by its counsel, George H. Stover.

MARION TALLEY QUITS FARM TO STUDY HERE

Opera Star Who "Retired" Two Years Ago Is Non-Committal on Her Plans.

Marion Talley, who came to New York last month from her Kansas farm, to which she retired in 1929 after having made a sensational début at the Metropolitan Opera House two years previous, has abandoned her farming, is now in this city and has been studying singing and repertory with Frank La Forge.

Miss Talley refused to admit that she was definitely headed back for the operatic stage and was equally evasive when asked if her decision of a year ago to abandon opera still holds.

Nevertheless, there is a strong indication that she plans entering again upon a musical career, which began so auspiciously for her when she made her début in the Metropolitan Opera House at the age of 19 on Feb. 17, 1926.

Miss Talley, appearing as Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto" on that night, sang before a house packed to the last inch, while a mob estimated at 5,000 milled about the outside of the theatre. Heralded as a phenomenally gifted young coloratura soprano, Miss Talley's appearance aroused sensational excitement, salvos of applause from a public prepared in advance to be enthusiastic, cables of her appearance to Europe, but reservation from the critical press, of which the general verdict was that although gifted, the young woman was not soundly and completely prepared to enter upon a Metropolitan Opera career.

With this verdict there was much indignation on the part of Miss Talley's friends and supporters, especially in Kansas City, her birthplace.

Miss Talley said nothing, at least in public, to her friends or her critics on this matter. She stayed with the Metropolitan four seasons gave many concerts, earned in that period sums variously estimated at from $300,000 to $500,000, and then announced that she would retire from her musical career and take up farming.

When she came to New York from her Kansas farm last August she announced that her wheat crop was good, her corn crop a failure and that she had come to New York to make some records. Her studies with Mr. La Forge and recent indirect references she has made to possible future musical activities cause those near Miss Talley to believe that opera and concert stages may soon see her again.

Mr. Rogers Receives a Tribute From the Boulder Dam People

To the Editor of the New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 17.—At Las Vegas, Nevada, today Secretary Wilbur is dedicating the Boulder Dam. I had been asked to go there in case Arizona Senators should start a filibuster and keep talking and talking to prevent the dedication.

They wired, "Will, you are the only man in America that can talk longer about nothing than a Senator. Then, too, we think the Democratic party should be represented and Borah can't come."

If Vanderbilt wants to make himself America's latest hero, he will break a rudder or hit an iceberg with that boat of his and let that old man win. Then we will start a Vanderbilt-for-President club.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

$203,000,000 PRICE FOR B. M. T. DENIED

Transit Officials Still Far Apart on Their Views of Purchase Figure.

HOLD A LONG CONFERENCE

But Emerge With No Report of Progress for Walker—Untermyer Issues Attack on Metz.

The wide divergence in views of various members and officials of the Transit Commission and Board of Transportation regarding the proper price basis for negotiating unification of B. M. T. and city rapid transit lines remained unaltered yesterday after a long conference attended by Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission; Transit Commissioners Fullen and Godley, and Commissioners Delaney and Ryan of the Board of Transportation.

A rumor that the B. M. T. was willing to accept about $203,000,000 for its lines and that this price was agreeable to the State and city transit officials met with prompt denial. It was learned that the conferees, far from being in harmony on a price, are still from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 apart in their respective estimates. Another conference will be held at a date to be announced later. No report will be made to Mayor Walker, it was said, until after that, and possibly not then.

It was explained yesterday that the rumor concerning a $203,000,000 price probably had its basis in the fact that a tentative estimate by transit commission engineers, based on the recapture value of the recapturable parts of the B. M. T. system and the reproduction cost of the non-recapturable parts, had resulted in an estimate of more than $202,000,000. The 1921 law under which the transit commission is just now seeking to unify city and B. M. T. lines forbids payment of any price exceeding reproduction cost and the engineering figures were prepared merely to indicate a maximum beyond which the negotiations could not legally proceed.

The conference, it was said, did not discuss the recent changes in the Interborough directorate, forecasting inclusion of that company in the pending negotiations. It was pointed out that valuations and prices must be placed upon the B. M. T. properties whether or not the Interborough enters upon the scene and that the conferees would continue their efforts to reach agreement.

Mr. Untermyer made public yesterday a long letter addressed to Herman A. Metz, public director of the Interborough, who recently refused, in response to an earlier letter from Mr. Untermyer, to retire from the Interborough board to make way for a new Transit Commission nominee more in accord with State and city transit policies. In his most recent communication Mr. Untermyer scores Mr. Metz's record on the company's board and declares that he never consulted the Transit Commission or city authorities on matters in which they were interested.

Declaring that Mr. Metz's assertion that he was elected by the Interborough stock certificate holders and not by the commission was sufficient to disqualify him, Mr. Untermyer lists the following as reasons why Mr. Metz should resign:

"Your encouragement of and vote in favor of the Interborough for an increased fare, contrary to the express terms of its contract with the city.

"Your various public statements favoring an increased fare, which you knew the city was vigorously contesting and would continue to contest.

"Your acquiescence in the attempts by the Interborough to charge against the city the vast expense of the years of its publicity campaigns, through Mr. Ivy Lee and in other ways, for an increased fare and in its efforts to charge against the city the cost of the expensive litigation for an increased fare."

"From beginning to end," Mr. Untermyer wrote, "your attitude has been out of harmony with that of the city, as voiced through several administrations.

"The commission now intends to pursue a more aggressive policy than heretofore in its assertion of the rights of the city under the contract of 1913. To that end it desires to place on the board of directors, as its three nominees, men who will insist upon the recognition and protection of those rights.

"Your expressed intention to remain on the board against the wishes and protest of the commission is inconceivable, and I take the liberty of expressing their view that on more mature consideration you will not continue to assume any such untenable attitude."

BERRY ASKS RULING IN SCHOOL BOOK CASE

Queries Corporation Counsel on Status of City Employe Who Worked for Publisher.

RYAN STARTS AN INQUIRY

Orders List of All Agents in Quest for Irregularities in Supply Purchases.

KELLER DEFENDS ACTIONS

Civil Service Commissioner Denies "Advertising" He Did for Publishers Was Unethical.

The question of the legality of the employment of John J. Keller, Municipal Civil Service Commissioner and former Alderman, by D. C. Heath & Co., publishers, of 239 West Thirty-ninth Street, to promote the sale of their books in public elementary schools, was raised yesterday by Controller Charles W. Berry, who announced that he had written to Acting Corporation Counsel Charles Horowitz asking for an opinion as to whether the commissioner's activities constituted a violation of the city charter.

Simultaneously, George J. Ryan, president of the Board of Education, said he had requested Patrick Jones, superintendent of school supplies, to prepare a list of all agents employed by book concerns in an effort to determine whether any more public officials had been interested in promoting sales in public schools.

The Controller indicated that the question in his mind was whether he had legal authority to hold up Mr. Keller's pay checks as a member of the Civil Service Commission because he had accepted employment with a concern selling supplies to a city department. The commissioner began working for the Heath company in 1924, when he was an Alderman, continued when he was appointed by Mayor Walker to the commission at an annual salary of $7,500 and severed his connections "within the last month" because the work "took up too much time."

Provision of City Charter.

Section 1,533 of the city charter makes it a misdemeanor for any city employe to become "interested, directly or indirectly, as contracting party, partner, stockholder or otherwise, in the performance of any contract, work or business, or the sale of any article, the expense or consideration of which is payable from the city treasury, or by any assessment levied by any act or ordinance of the Board of Aldermen." The charter also threatens forfeiture of the office held by such an employe, on conviction.

It was recalled that Controller Berry had ordered the payment of city checks to Mrs. Margaret Lawler, sister of Chief Probation Officer Edwin J. Cooley, stopped several months ago when it was found that she was a teacher in the Buffalo schools as well as an employe of the Probation Bureau. Cooley refunded the salary his sister had drawn from the bureau for the entire period of her coincidental employment as a teacher.

The commissioner defended his activities by characterizing them as "advertising" rather than direct sales work. He did not think, therefore, that his work for the publishers in promoting an article for the schools during his incumbency as an Alderman and commissioner was in any way "improper or even unethical."

The threat of boycott made last week against the American Book Company when it was discovered that Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, had been employed to influence sales while he was on the city payroll, provided it were determined that "the firm had used unethical means of sales promotion," was extended by the school official yesterday by the general warning that the board would take "proper action" against any publishing house found guilty of a similar offense.

As Commissioner Keller had never been employed by the board, it was pointed out that the only action Mr. Ryan's body might possibly take would be that of barring Heath books from the school list.

It is expected that Mr. Jones, in supplying the agents' list requested by Mr. Ryan, will also submit a report on sales procedure and promotion of books in the schools.

Ryan Defends School Board.

In commenting on the Keller case, Mr. Ryan again defended the board's methods of purchasing supplies and denied emphatically that political influence counted for anything in its selections.

"In view of the fact that Mr. Keller at no time during the period of his reported engagement with the book company, was in any way connected with the Board of Education, and in view of the further fact that Mr. Keller is quoted as having said that he is no longer associated with the book company," President Ryan said, "there is little for me to do other than reiterate that the official records of the Board of Education are ample proof that principals, in selecting books for use in their schools, consider the books and not who may be offering them for sale.

"The official records of the Board of Education show that the sales of the Heath Company declined in the year following Mr. Keller's reported engagement, and that with one exception they have been consistently less during every year since his reported engagement. The board will take proper action with any company shown to have employed unethical means of promoting book sales.

"Here is the official record of sales by the Heath Company: 1924, $83,179; 1925, $69,963; 1926, $86,235; 1927, $79,909; 1928, $57,751; 1929, $67,514.

"In 1922 the figures were $64,221; in 1923, $70,650."

Commissioner Keller, who is the only Republican member of the Municipal Civil Service Commission and a former member of the Board of Education, was out of town yesterday. Abraham Kaplan, president of the commission, did not appear at its offices in the Municipal Building and could not be reached for a statement of the official attitude of the body he heads toward the recent business connections of his fellow-commissioner.

Allen G. Odell, city manager of the Heath concern, was also out of town.

MRS. C. A. H. SMITH WEDS W. P. STEWART

Daughter of Mrs. E. Henry Harriman Is Married to Philadelphian at Her Country Home.

WEDDING GIVES SURPRISE

No Announcement Had Been Made of Betrothal of Widow of R. Penn Smith and Banker.

Mrs. Carol Averell Harriman Smith, daughter of Mrs. E. Henry Harriman of 1 East Sixty-ninth Street and the late Mr. Harriman and widow of R. Penn Smith, was married to W. Plunket Stewart of Murray House, Villa Nova, Philadelphia, Pa., yesterday shortly after noon at the country home of the bride in East Williston, L. I. No announcement had been made of the engagement and the marriage will come as a surprise to friends of the couple.

The bride was escorted by her brother, William Averell Harriman, and the ceremony was witnessed by only a few immediate relatives. Both the bride and the bridegroom dispensed with attendants. A luncheon followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left by motor soon after the ceremony. It is understood that they will divide their time between Philadelphia and New York.

Mrs. Stewart is the youngest daughter of the famous railroad executive and is a sister of Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, Mrs. Robert Livingston Gerry and E. Roland Harriman. She and her first husband, who died in January, 1929, were married in the Summer of 1917 in St. John's Church, Arden, N. Y., near where the Harrimans have an extensive country place, called Arden House, in Harriman. Mr. Smith, a noted banker and polo player and member of a prominent Philadelphia family, was head of the New York office of the banking firm of Cassatt & Co., of which firm Mr. Stewart also is a member.

Kin of Judge William Averell.

The bride is a great-granddaughter of Judge William Averell, a distinguished jurist, and her grandfather, William Averell, was president of the old Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain Railroad, now the Rutland. Mrs. Stewart is a well-known horsewoman and in her youth was made master of hounds of the Glen Arden Hunt, Orange County.

In April, 1927, Mrs. Stewart and her first husband contributed $100,000 in the name of their 8-year-old daughter, Carol, to the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association. When Carol was born in 1919, she received the sum as an endowment from her parents and her grandmother, Mrs. Harriman. It was a few weeks after Carol's death that her parents forwarded the endowment to the charitable organization.

Mr. Stewart was graduated from Johns Hopkins University in 1898. He belongs to the Radnor Hunt, Rose Tree Fox Hunt, Rabbit, Racquet, Merion Cricket, Philadelphia Country and Philadelphia Clubs of Philadelphia, the Maryland, Green Spring Valley Hunt and Elkridge Fox Hunt of Baltimore, and the Racquet and Brook Clubs of this city.

Mr. Stewart was divorced several months ago from his former wife, who was Miss Elsie F. Cassatt, daughter of the late Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He has a private steeplechase course on his estate near West Chester, Pa., where he maintains a stock farm with polo ponies, hunters and blooded cattle. His grandfather, David Stewart, founded the Bank of Baltimore and his father was a director of Johns Hopkins University.

She had for her attendants Mrs. Frank Cyril Fisher of New York and Mrs. Frederick W. Duval of Greenwich. They wore brown chiffon frocks, the sleeves of which were trimmed with sable. No date was announced for the marriage.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Shaw Turner Jr. of 400 East Forty-ninth Street on Sept. 15 in the Lutheran Hospital. Mrs. Turner is the former Miss Barbara Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Briggs of the Sherry-Netherland.

LA FOLLETTE WEDS HIS SECRETARY

Senator and Rachel W. Young of Washington Surprise Friends at Madison.

BRIDE ACTIVE IN CAMPAIGNS

Wedding Day Advanced That Bridegroom Might Help Brother in Gubernatorial Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 17.—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. was quietly married here today at the Maple Bluff Farm Home by the Rev. H. H. Lumpkin of Grace Episcopal Church to Miss Rachel Wilson Young of Washington. The wedding came as a complete surprise to the Senator's closest associates. While friends were celebrating the overwhelming victory in yesterday's Gubernatorial primaries of Philip F. La Follette, his brother, the announcement came from Senator La Follette's office in Madison that the ceremony had been performed.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Young of Washington. She is a Virginian by birth, but was educated and reared in Washington. Her family have been neighbors and friends of the Senator. It had been planned to have the marriage at the bride's home in Washington immediately after the primary, but yesterday's victory necessitated Senator La Follette's continued attendance in Wisconsin for some time and it was decided to have the ceremony performed here. A special permit was obtained today from Judge A. C. Hoppman.

For several years the bride has been secretary to Senator La Follette, having joined the staff in the office of the late Senator La Follette in 1924. She has participated in three political campaigns in this State and is well known to political leaders of Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. La Follette witnessed the ceremony, but neither the Senator's mother nor any member of the bride's family was present. Contrary to her usual custom, the widow of Senator La Follette Sr. did not spend the Summer in Wisconsin, as she has been devoting all of her time for the last year to writing a biography of her husband. Senator and Mrs. La Follette probably will remain in Wisconsin until Congress convenes.

Enterprise Captures Third America's Cup Race When Shamrock V Is Disabled

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Heard held off Shamrock for a time, then he went up and came about ahead of Enterprise.

They made for the line together, Shamrock being slow in stays, and Enterprise coming up on her fast. The challenger picked up speed quickly, however, and headed to the line a boat length ahead.

Skipper Vanderbilt had Enterprise's nose just to weather. It was a spectacular tussle and very close, with a shade of advantage in Captain Heard's favor.

Two minutes after the start Enterprise went about. Skipper Vanderbilt did not intend to hold close to his opponent, and possibly let his boat be back winded. Shamrock swung also. They held that next tack ten minutes and Enterprise turned away again, with Shamrock about also.

Both carried baby jibtopsails, Shamrock's being the smaller. They pointed high. Enterprise edged up into the wind by inches. As they appeared on the course, Shamrock looked in front, but Enterprise was footing to weather steadily.

They threw out spray from their bows that looked like soap suds splashing over the olive-colored water.

Enterprise seemed to be splashing more, but it was only because the foam blended in with her white hull, while Shamrock's green body was in contrast. The breeze freshened, rising to twelve knots.

They had gone four and one-half miles and about one under the better breeze when at 12:24 Shamrock's mainsail dropped. She went on slowly a few minutes under three leadsails, while the fallen sail was taken off. Then she bore around and jibed, heading back out of the race. In the meantime, a minute after the mishap to the challenger, Enterprise, keeping on, went about on the other tack.

Vanderbilt Eases Enterprise.

The breeze backed into the southwest and increased steadily, going up to fifteen, and then eighteen knots. Enterprise heeled under it. Skipper Vanderbilt eased her, luffing under pulls. There was no reason for his crowding her on with the risk of something carrying away. He finally took in her jib topsail to ease her.

Enterprise kept on a long post tack until 12:59, when she turned. Standing off to the southward, her rail was down.

Clay Head and Old Harbor Point, with their sand dunes, loomed up brown ahead and soon the turning mark could be seen lying between them off the island.

The defender went about at 1:44 and stood for the buoy to round it on her starboard hand. She turned the mark at 1:54:10, having covered the fifteen miles windward in 2 hours 4 minutes and 10 seconds.

After the turn, which was a jib, Enterprise set her ballooner and then her spinnaker for the run back. She carried the spinnaker thirty minutes and then the wind changed, lightening a bit astern. She took off the winged kite and two and one-half minutes later jibed over. Then her spinnaker was set on the other hand. The breeze went down to sixteen miles. It had backed a little southerly.

After carrying the spinnaker a time out to starboard, it was taken in with the breeze backing more. From then on it was a reach in. A stay sail was set under the ballooner and the racer speeded up with her mainsail partly drawn in.

She crossed the finish line at 3:34:16, going at twelve knots speed.

Skipper Vanderbilt brought the challenger into harbor under her own sail, declining a tow. By the time she had come in, Shamrock had her new halyard in place and lay at her mooring, her crew awaiting another day. The course tomorrow will be triangular, ten miles to a leg.

VANDERBILT REGRETS MISHAP TO SHAMROCK

Calls Across to Erin to Express His Disappointment—Sorry She Had to Withdraw.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of Enterprise, declared after sailing the defender back to Brenton Cove, that the accident to Shamrock V, preventing her from racing the full course, was unfortunate. Mr. Vanderbilt was at the wheel as his white-hulled boat returned to her haven.

In the morning it was Shamrock that first set her sails, running up her canvas long before she reached the starting line, having dropped her tender three miles from that point. Enterprise, on the other hand, was towed by the yacht Vara right up to the line.

But Shamrock had to be towed back, unable to finish, while the beautiful Enterprise completed the course and then went whizzing up under mainsail and foresails, winging her course inside the two lines of destroyers.

How fast she was footing home may be gleaned from the fact that at one point the destroyer Porter, one of the two press boats coming up to the racer on her port side, drew even.

Enterprise raced along for five minutes with the Porter, despite the fact that the powerful destroyer was doing twelve knots or better at the time. Only when the Porter put her speed up to fifteen and then to seventeen knots did she leave Enterprise astern. Passing the Brenton Lightship, Enterprise was about a mile back of the Porter.

Entering the Cove Enterprise came alongside Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Erin and Mr. Vanderbilt called over to express his regrets about Shamrock's accident.

Then Enterprise slipped further into the cove past Shamrock and to the moorings, where she rides so gently while not being raced.

Shamrock, again at her moorings, rocked back and forth ever so slightly. Her stick is the only one among the hundred or more looming up all around to sway in this manner in the almost still air. It seemed as if Shamrock were brooding at her misfortune.

LIPTON IS CRUSHED BY NEW REVERSE

Baronet's High Hopes Dashed as He Witnesses the Shamrock's Misfortune.

FINE START CHEERED HIM

End Is Harder to Bear After Auspicious Beginning — Erin's Guests Are Saddened.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—Sir Thomas Lipton this afternoon suffered the most stunning blow he has received in the thirty-odd years he has been battling stubbornly for possession of the America's Cup.

Three-quarters of an hour after the start of the race between his challenger and the Enterprise the mainsail halyard of Shamrock V parted inside the mast and the sail came down with a run.

With it tumbled the highest hopes of the most persistent challenger for the most important trophy that is sailed for by yachts anywhere on the seven seas.

It was a crushing blow, one for which there was no defense. It was delivered at a moment when Sir Thomas was at the pinnacle of hope and with a bright prospect of victory stretching out before him. Where a moment before Shamrock was a brilliant, almost sentient thing, battling brilliantly against her rival, holding her foot by foot, yard by yard in the desperate struggle of the windward thrash, she now became helpless, hopeless, beaten.

Lipton Sees Tragedy.

Sir Thomas saw the tragedy enacted before his eyes. He had been watching every movement of the two yachts from the time of the preparatory whistle. He was seated in a cane easy chair on the main deck of his steam yacht Erin, which was in a most advantageous position, about opposite the two contenders as they plowed their way through the rising chop of the seas, every stitch of canvas drawing to the utmost, while water dashed high from under the lee bows.

From time to time he rose from his chair to go to the starboard rail, the better to focus his binoculars on the contestants. He had been in conversation with Miss Eugenie Whitmore of Omaha, Neb., who is named after the Princess Eugenie, for years one of Sir Thomas's closest friends.

Guests came and went from above and below the main deck, stopping to chat with Sir Thomas, to laugh over one of his merry jests, or listen to one of his innumerable stories.

The talk was all of the promise of the day; the welcome sun after days of fog and rain, the long desirable breeze, which gave evidence of holding at least, if not increasing.

But most of all it was talk about the exciting start, in which the Britishers for once, at least, had not been outwitted; congratulations that Shamrock was making so brilliant a showing, after many of her supporters had given up the battle in the belief that the final result was a foregone conclusion. Sir Thomas was in high spirits and exclaimed:

"It was a very good start. We didn't get beaten at it, this time."

It was the height to which hopes had been hoisted that made the fall the harder.

Mainsail Folds in Flash.

Already Shamrock's supporters aboard the Erin were figuring out the rest of their race, wishes the father of their thoughts.

Here was challenger making her best showing of the series.

They were praying that she would hold her own, as she was even now doing, to the windward mark, letting themselves believe that on the run home she would outfoot the defender.

Even now she was, for the most part, making less of a fuss under her forefoot than Enterprise, an augury that she would be a far different boat down the wind than in her first effort.

Then came the catastrophe. Those who had their binoculars fixed on the contestants could hardly believe what they saw before them.

The peak of Shamrock's mainsail seemed to fold down like a flash, and then the whole towering stretch of canvas came down on the run and settled on the deck. Shamrock was brought up into the wind as the race, as a contest, was over.

The effect on the spectators was electric. All was confusion aboard the Erin as the cry went up: "Shamrock's main sail has gone."

Those who had been strolling about decks or leaning over the port rail dashed to starboard. On the sun deck luncheon was neglected in the scramble to learn what had happened.

Sir Thomas Leaps to Rail.

To the little group on the main deck the final act of the tragedy meant no less than disaster. Highest of hopes snapped with the parting of the halyard, crumpled with the sagging, shapeless mainsail.

Sir Thomas jumped to his feet and went to the rail, quite unable for a moment, like all about him, to sense the full import of what had been unfolded before his eyes.

He grasped the rail with both hands and stared at the wallowing thing that a moment before had been a living, dancing, glorious gleam of white and green.

He raised his binoculars to his eyes and dropped them again. Some one came and took him by the arm to lead him back to his chair, steadying him against the roll of the Erin which was slowing down and wallowing a bit in the trough of the sea.

Miss Whitmore, the tears which she bravely and vainly tried to repress rushing down her cheeks, fled from the deck to hide her personal sorrow from the kindly gentleman and friend whom she loved.

Other eyes on board the Erin were brimming, other cheeks were wet. Lumps rose in throats, and tongues could not frame words to express the feelings of swelling hearts, the sympathy and encouragement they would extend to the man they loved, sitting alone on his own deck, head bowed a trifle.

This whole scene of the drama was enacted in half the time it takes to tell. Friends came rushing up from all sides to express with quivering lips the feelings they realized were as nothing compared to those of the man before them. They reckoned not, however, of the indomitable spirit, of the stoical self control of Sir Thomas Lipton. First he turned to the vacant chair beside him.

"Where did Miss Whitmore go?" he inquired.

He was informed that she had felt a trifle ill and had retired to a cabin. He shook his head negatively.

"No, it is not a sickness of the head. Tell her it is all right."

Once again his first thought had been for others. His own sorrow; his bitter disappointment he had buried deeply, showing only his solicitude for a friend.

Jokes on Return Trip.

A little later he seemed to have recovered some of his old spirits and joked almost as usual.

"It is very disappointing," he said. "I cannot say what we will do. We don't know what has happened, except that the halyard parted. We don't know now when it can be repaired and how much damage was caused, and when we can race again. It's too bad. And we did so well at the start! We were making a fine race of it. Too bad we couldn't have finished it out."

After Erin anchored in Newport harbor and Shamrock had picked up her moorings, a message was received from the latter that apparently there had been no damage inside her wooden spar and that the halyard could be replaced in time for a race tomorrow.

"That's fine!" exclaimed Sir Thomas, who seemed anxious that the program should not be interrupted.

At that time Sir Thomas seemed to be also his old self, although he did not make the effort to go to the gangway to speed his guests of the day.

At one stage of the homeward journey, Shamrock and her tow, under the combination of steam and wind, had gained quite a lead on Erin.

"There you are!" exclaimed the irrepressible Sir Thomas. "You see Shamrock ahead, even without her mainsail."

THINK HER REFITTING AFFECTED SHAMROCK

English Experts Believe Speed Was Cut by Changes Made Before Sea Voyage to United States.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GOSPORT, England, Sept. 17.—Apart from today's mishap, workmen who assembled Shamrock V here believe it to be certain, apparently, that small changes made in the yacht after her trials in England have altered her metacentric balance and made her a more sluggish sailer than when pitted against her British rivals. The chief changes were in connection with her keel and ballasting.

On the eve of her departure for American her centreboard was cut down by about five feet, while all cabins and internal fittings were removed. To make up for this weight she was reballasted, possibly in such manner as to spoil the accuracy of her poise and slow her speed.

In the opinion of experts here the merest fraction of a change in trim, due to reballasting, would be sufficient to throw the yacht "out of her step," and the detection of such an error is extremely difficult. Correction, it is said, can be made only by experiment, which might, by luck, be successful the first time or not for weeks.

It is recalled here that two years ago the White Heather, one of the most famous British yachts, lost her speed after a refitting. The reason for the change puzzled everybody. One day, however, her cook casually remarked that there was no space between the mast and the galley bulkhead, as formerly, where he could hang his frying pan. Investigation showed the mast had been restepped a trifle out of place. The fault was corrected, after which White Heather sailed as well as ever.

Expert opinion among her builders holds that some such apparently trifling but really vital defect has been developed in Shamrock by alterations made in her just before leaving England, and unless the defect can be found and remedied there is no hope of her winning even a single race.

Just After Mishap Which Caused Shamrock to Withdraw.

Lipton, in 1920, Won After Resolute's Mishap, Although He Tried to Decline the Victory

Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of Enterprise, in completing the course yesterday in the third America's Cup race after Shamrock V had been disabled, followed precedent in the international yachting series and lived up to the rules governing the competition.

In the first race of the 1920 cup series Resolute met with a similar mishap when her throat halyard parted and Shamrock IV, the challenger, sailed the rest of the course alone.

However, Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of Shamrock IV, who never sails aboard his challengers, notified the committee in charge of that series that he would not accept such a victory, declaring, "I don't want to win that way."

The committee promptly informed Sir Thomas that under the regulations of the series it could not withhold credit for the victory from the challenger which automatically became winner when Resolute was unable to finish the course.

SHAMROCK CHEERED BY CROWDS ASHORE

Favorable Weather Draws Thousands to Watch Race From Newport Vantage Points.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—The citizens of Newport and the thousands of visitors who have filled the southern end of Aquidneck Island to the bursting point awoke this morning to find the best sailing weather that has prevailed since the international series started last Saturday.

Although the sun was not out, the sky was perfectly clear, and for the first time there was some real wind. With everything pointing to a good race, the crowd began drifting toward the harbor and by 9 o'clock Thames Street was a busy thoroughfare, extra policemen being posted to direct traffic and to aid people find their boats.

The housing situation had been greatly relieved by the New England Steamship Company, which sold staterooms on the Plymouth, the vessel which has been temporarily put out of service while it is being overhauled and which is at the company's dock.

The various lines reported the largest sales they have had since the opening day and so heavy was the sale on the Commonwealth that the entire quota of Newport tickets was exhausted early in the morning and a call had to be sent to Fall River and other near-by cities where tickets had been on sale for additional ones.

Motorists Get Good View.

The visibility was better than it has been any day thus far and from Brenton Point the yellow lightship was silhouetted against the sky, easily discernible to the eye. Beavertail, the extreme end of Jamestown, stood out sharply, while off in the distance Point Judith and Narragansett Pier could be seen.

It was the first time that motorists were enabled to get a really good view of the spectator fleet and it proved a thrilling spectacle, the sea being alive with craft of every description. At Fort Adams, where the motorist is within twenty yards of the boats as they pass by, the crowd displayed the greatest enthusiasm, blowing horns and waving to the yachtsmen.

Shamrock was the first to go out and she appeared to be pitching about considerably. Two hundred yards astern came Enterprise, her sailors lolling on the deck as if they were out for an easy sail and not an international struggle.

Rain Affects Visibility.

About 11 o'clock a light rain began to fall and the visibility decreased, the crowd melting away quickly, but when the sun came out around noon the line began to form again and several hundred cars were parked in the vicinity of the point.

Patrick L. Sweeney, Chief of Police, expecting the motor traffic to be heavier than on the other days, had additional men posted on the drive, but they were not needed, because a half hour later word came that Shamrock had met with an accident, and shortly afterward boats could be seen coming in from the course headed for the harbor.

At 1:30 the green-hulled craft, under tow, passed by on the way to her mooring. At Fort Adams she received a great ovation, the autoists blowing horns and waving.

Los Angeles to Fly to Newport.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 17 (AP).—The naval dirigible Los Angeles will leave its hangar tomorrow morning for the first time in several days to fly to Newport, R. I. From the yacht race there the ship will travel down the coast to New York City. It is expected to return to its base tomorrow night.

Shamrock's Designer Says the American Boat Is Superior in Mast, Boom and Rigging.

WILL FIGHT TO THE END

Feels Accident to Lipton's Craft Very Keenly, but Is Not Ready to Give Up.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—The most bitterly disappointed man in Newport tonight was neither Sir Thomas Lipton nor Captain Ted Heard, no matter how keenly the owner of Shamrock V and his skipper might have felt regarding the accident that put the green-hulled racing yacht out of the third race. The one who felt most grieved was Charles E. Nicholson, designer of the challenger.

The entire afterguard of Shamrock felt disappointed, of course, and Captain Heard, after getting the fine start he did, was very glum at the outcome. But it was Nicholson, sitting in a cabin aboard the crew's mother ship, Killarney, out in Brenton Cove, who showed the most distress.

He smiled through it just the same and declared that there still was a chance and, though it was a forlorn one, it would be accepted and everything the men of Shamrock had to give they would put forth tomorrow in the fourth contest.

Pays Enterprise Compliment.

Shamrock's designer paid the highest of compliments to Enterprise. He thinks she is the better boat, but it is in her mast, her boom and her rigging that the difference lies, Mr. Nicholson declared. He has been satisfied with Shamrock's hull at all stages, but he considers Enterprise's duralumin mast and her sliding track boom the last word in development for racing yachts.

The breaking of the halyard that caused today's disaster and the loss of the first two races have not caused discouragement among the afterguard or crew. But the latter are convinced that Enterprise is too much for Shamrock and will continue to be.

"The mast on Enterprise, if it were on Shamrock, would save a ton and a half of weight," declared H. C. Nicholson, son of the designer, in commenting tonight on the two boats.

"The difference may be visualized when I tell you that if you put Shamrock's power launch half-way up Enterprise's mast, it would produce the same leverage on Enterprise as our mast now does on Shamrock.

Had Planned Similar Boom.

"Enterprise's boom is a wonderful thing, a design that my father had in mind using with slight variations. He had planned a boom to be of practically the same shape, but, instead of being triangular, to be like two bows and strutted across inside.

"However, it is the mast which he and all of us consider the most wonderful part of Enterprise. The mast is the greatest engineering feat ever attempted in developing racing yachts. Hull for hull we are satisfied with Shamrock, but there is no comparison in other respects and my father and I both believe Enterprise is the better boat."

Colonel Duncan Neill of Shamrock's afterguard, after explaining how the halyard broke, had no comment to make other than to say:

"It was hard luck, but we will be back again tomorrow."

ENTERPRISE'S BOOM HIGHLY EFFECTIVE

British Expert at Newport Also Says the American Crew Is Excellent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Major B. Heckstall-Smith, one of the leading British yachtsmen, in a radio message from Newport tonight to The Daily Telegraph attributed Enterprise's superior speed to the lightness of her duralumin mast, which weighs approximately a ton less than Shamrock's wooden spar.

"When the centre of gravity is considered," he said, "it gives Enterprise an advantage in stability equal to about eight tons of lead ballast on the keel. The second reason for Enterprise's superiority is her triangular boom, the invention of designer Burgess, which gives more flow to the mainsail, coupled with a better setting of her canvas generally.

"These two points have taken British yachtsmen by surprise. We had not expected to be so completely eclipsed by American rigging structure and sails, which exceeded all expectations in the perfection of their workmanship.

"Finally, the extraordinary good amateur combination aboard Enterprise would defeat Shamrock and her crew even if the boats were equal."

Betting Stops on the Races; Rate Enterprise Sure Winner

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—The betting, which has been light all week, fell off entirely tonight and no wagers were reported at any of the clubs. It is taken as a foregone conclusion that Enterprise will win tomorrow and, although Enterprise supporters were willing to give 5 to 1 on tomorrow's races, there were no takers.

SHOPS BROADCAST RACE.

Newport Stores Move Radios to Street to Enable Crowds to Hear.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—Most of the stores on Thames Street that have radios moved them near the doorways or put on the sidewalk today to enable passers-by to listen to the progress of the yacht race.

Sentiment was overwhelmingly for Shamrock, and when the report came in that she was disabled open expressions of regret were general. One man said, "I've bet on Enterprise, but I'd like to see Sir Thomas win one race."

Heliotrope Crew Soccer Victor.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—H. M. S. Heliotrope, the British vessel here for the cup races, sent a team ashore this afternoon to oppose the Newport soccer team and won by the score of 1 to 0.

ONLY A FEW YACHTS SEE END OF RACE

Most of Craft in Spectator Fleet Go Home When Shamrock Is Disabled.

PATROL BOATS ARE ON HAND

Form a Long Lane for Gallant Defender on Her Way to the Finish Line.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—Tossing about on a rolling sea, only a handful of boats, the remainder of the huge spectator fleet that came out of Newport Harbor to witness the third race, saw Enterprise, like a lone white bird, cross the line this afternoon for another victory.

Although this rather small fleet of boats witnessed the conclusion of another chapter of the international series, the steamers De Witt Clinton of the Hudson River Line, the Commonwealth of the New England Steamship Company, along with J. P. Morgan's Corsair, H. E. Manville's Hi-Esmaro and other craft joined in a noisy salute as they tooted their whistles to acclaim Harold S. Vanderbilt, his crew and Enterprise herself.

Standing by, however, was one of the largest patrol escorts a single craft has ever had, for though yachts, sloops, schooners and small motor craft turned about and made their way homeward through the rough sea, once the disabled Shamrock V was towed to port, some thirty Coast Guard vessels, including the cutters, destroyers and seventy-five-footers, went the entire distance and strung out in a long lane as a cordon to the gallant defender.

Day Is Disappointing.

There was a touch of the loneliness of the sea in the final setting, as Enterprise finished without a rival out by the tug the Susan Moran and the America's Cup buoy, which on the two previous race days have been surrounded by all types of craft at the finish.

Today the disappointment was keen that the two boats did not complete the race, and considerable sympathy was expressed on every side for the crushing blow dealt Sir Thomas Lipton's hopes, as every one anticipated a thrilling race after the exciting start.

The fact that a fresh breeze was blowing and the sea was tossing craft about in unfriendly fashion added a bit more to the possibilities of a good racing day, perhaps one filled with thrills.

Overhead four seaplanes circled the fleet, and those aboard ship pulled their topcoats a bit closer as the wind whipped over the decks.

Watching the speed at which Enterprise manoeuvred after crossing the starting line, as well as the battle Shamrock was making of the race, spectators turned from a scene of an impending hard-fought contest to one of a disabled competitor and a proved great racing craft.

Official Boat Tells of Disaster.

Coast Guard cutters had already veered off as well as several of the excursion steamers, the City of Lowell and the Mount Hope, as Enterprise went off on a port tack, with the consequence that only a portion of the fleet was close to Shamrock when the accident happened.

The committee boat was soon alongside the challenger to determine the nature of the disaster and word was radioed to the destroyer Porter, carrying newspaper men, that: "Main halyard parted. Cannot tell whether repairing can be made effective in time for race tomorrow."

Other craft soon turned about and headed for Shamrock, including Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt's Winchester, with Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, on board.

Others out ahead discovered the partial nature of Shamrock's misfortune through their binoculars.

The fleet then divided, some continuing for a while watching Enterprise before returning to Newport, while others immediately turned about, especially the sailing craft.

What had been an armada dwindled to a scattered fleet of spectator craft and Coast Guard vessels.

The spectators who remained viewed Enterprise's performance only by making themselves secure to various appurtenances aboard ship, as the cross swell of the sea swayed the boats and forced those who ate lunch to hold their sandwiches in one hand and grasp a rail or rope with the other in order to keep their footing.

MacMillan Follows Enterprise.

Few of the smaller motor craft were discernible on the sea during the afternoon, but there were one or two fishing boats especially chartered for the day that bobbed through the sea and Donald MacMillan's schooner Bowdoin, used in arctic explorations followed Enterprise's entire route.

With the clear sky above, it was a perfect day for airplane observers. One of them was Gar Wood, the champion speedboat driver, who left for New York by seaplane, but had a glimpse of the race en route. Mr. Wood planned to catch a train for Detroit and then return by plane to witness tomorrow's race.

Lieut. Gov. J. G. Connolly of Rhode Island and Admiral James M. Lennon, retired, were among those on board the destroyer Porter.

Whether tomorrow's race will be the deciding one or not, there is every indication, weather permitting, that the spectator fleet will be even larger than it was at the beginning of today's race.

Hundreds who were prevented from witnessing a race yesterday because of the postponement due to fog have remained over with the desire of seeing both Enterprise and Shamrock go the full route.

RHODE ISLANDERS AT RACE.

Many Notables From That State See Yachts in Action.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—The State of Rhode Island was well represented among the spectators at today's yacht race for among the guests aboard the destroyer Kane were Lieut. Gov. James G. Connelly, State Senator William H. Vanderbilt from Portsmouth, William C. Pelkey, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee; Attorney General Benjamin McLyman, General Treasurer George C. Clarke from Providence, Judge O. H. Williams from Westerly, and Judge Burke from Providence. Alderman John Mahan of Newport was also a guest aboard the destroyer.

LUQUE GOES THE DISTANCE

St. Louis Uses Three Hurlers, but Two Give Way to Pinch Hitters—25,000 See the Contest.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Fandom's concern about ability to get seats at Ebbets Field for the world's series was decreased slightly yesterday, but not erased, when the Cardinals won a ninth-inning victory over the Robins, 5 to 3, boosted their first-place lead over the Flatbush clan to a full game and dropped Brooklyn back to only a half game above the Cubs. About 25,000 saw the game. The third and final contest of the series will be played today.

Again it was the big bat of the diminutive Andy High that sent the Red Birds winging to their second straight triumph over Uncle Wilbert Robinson's boys.

In the final frame, with the score tied at 3-all and two men on base, the former Brooklyn infielder caught one of Señor Adolfo Luque's inside pitches and whaled it over Herman's head against the right-field wall to score both runners and the ball game was practically over.

It marked the fourth time since the Cardinals entered the greater city on their victorious rush that High has broken up a ball game as a pinch hitter. He did it twice against the Giants and his tenth-inning double Tuesday paved the way for that game's winning tally.

Lindsey Hurls Ninth Inning.

Manager Gabby Street used three pitchers, but not because any one of them was roughly treated by Brooklyn. Sylvester Johnson, who pitched the first seven innings, went out for a pinch hitter, and so did Grabowski, who pitched the eighth. Big Jim Lindsey retired the Robins in order in the ninth.

Only seven hits, all off Johnson, were made by the Robins, with Eddie Moore, Glenn Wright and Ike Boone hitting all the scoring blows.

Moore, playing second base and leading off, started the Robins toward a lead with his first single in the opening frame. He advanced on Gilbert's sacrifice and scored when Wright bounced a terrific double off Chick Hafey's chest in left field.

In the second the Brooklyn lead was increased to two runs on Moore's second straight hit, which scored Hendrick. The latter had opened with a single, Boone had walked and both Lopez and Luque were easy outs.

Luque, pitching cannily, held the Cardinals until the fourth, when Jim Bottomley followed Frisch's infield out with a single and Chick Hafey lined the ball high into the left-field circus seats for a home run that tied the score.

In the lower half of that frame Ike Boone brought a tremendous roar from the crowd and sent the Robins ahead once more with a home run.

Adams Hits Double.

In the eighth Fisher batted for Johnson and drew a pass, and Blades ran for him. Douthit flied out, but Adams blasted the ball off Gilbert's shoulder for a double that brought Blades to third. Frisch sent a line drive directly into Boone's hands and Blades scored with the tying run.

Grabowski set the Robins down in order in the eighth, and Luque had succeeded in retiring both Hafey and Watkins before trouble started for him in the ninth.

He walked Mancuso, and Gelbert got a single to deep short, on which Wright, who had turned in several fine fielding plays, made a great bare-hand stop. High was inserted into the game, and his double ruined the day for Luque, the Robins and the fans.

PIRATES' ATTACK SINKS THE PHILS

Triumph by 12 to 5, Scoring All Their Runs in Seventh and Eighth Innings.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17 (AP).—Two big innings, the seventh and eighth, in which they scored all their runs, featured the Pittsburgh Pirates' 12-to-5 victory over the Phils today.

Four Phillies' hurlers were routed by the Pirates, while Erwin Brame limited the losers to twelve scattered hits.

Besides hurling the victory, Brame played an important part with his bat by collecting four hits. Al Phillips, Roy Hansen, Pat Collard and Rae Benge hurled for the losers. This quartet was assaulted for sixteen hits.

BRAVES, REDS DIVIDE; 3 HOMERS FOR BERGER

Boston Takes the Opener, 6-3, but Trails in Nightcap by 6 to 4.

BOSTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—Walter Berger, Braves' slugging outfielder, got three home runs today in a double-header which the Braves and Reds divided. Boston won the first, 6 to 3, and the Reds the nightcap, 6 to 4.

The blows brought Berger's total of homers for the season to 37. He collected his first one with one on in the third inning of the first game, and his two in the second game gave the Braves their four runs. He got one with none on in the sixth and another with two on in the eighth. In addition to this work he drove in two more runs in the first game.

The Braves knocked Frey from the box in the third inning of the first game. In the second none of the Boston batters annoyed Pitcher Lucas except Berger.

YANKEES' 7 IN 8TH FAIL TO TOP BROWNS

Ruth Strikes Out With Deciding Runs on Base and St. Louis Triumphs, 9 to 8.

COMBS HITS 20TH TRIPLE

Drives in First New York Run in Third—Johnson's Wildness Costly in Early Innings.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—The Yankees, after being held to three hits in the first seven innings, launched a seven-run rally in the eighth inning, which, huge though it was, fell one run short of tying the score, and their streak of three straight victories was broken by the Browns today by a 9-to-8 count.

Babe Ruth's fumble of Levey's double in the sixth with the bases filled allowed the last two St. Louis runs to score. He also ended the eighth-inning rally by striking out with the tying run on third and the winning run on first.

Henry Johnson was erratic and ineffective in the first two innings, in which the Browns tallied five times on four hits, four passes, a wild pitch and a wild throw by Harry Rice. Combs's triple in the third drove home the only run the Yanks made until their eighth-inning rally.

Collins Retires in Eighth.

Rip Collins, former Yankee, held New York safe until the eighth. Chapman's single with the bases filled, the fourth hit of the inning, drove Collins from the box. Blaeholder replaced him and walked Jorgen to fill the bases.

Ruffing fouled out, making two out. Then Combs's single scored two runs and Lary's single sent Combs to third. With the stage all set for the winning hit, the Babe struck out.

Gehrig opened the ninth with a bunt and beat the pitcher's throw to first. The first baseman, furthermore, stepped off the base to catch the throw, but Umpire Guthrie called Gehrig out. It required several minutes to clear the first-base region of protesting Yankees, but nothing developed from the discussion.

Rice Replaces Lazzeri.

Tony Lazzeri developed a backache after his exertions yesterday and was out of the line-up today. Harry Rice, who was a third baseman when he first broke into the big leagues with the Browns, held Tony's job until he argued with Umpire Ormsby in the fourth and was put out of the game.

FABER, WHITE SOX, DEFEATS ATHLETICS

Holds Opposition to 6 Safeties and Wins, 4-2, Despite Four Errors by Mates.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP).—Urban Faber let the Athletics down with six hits today and, despite four errors by his teammates, the White Sox won, 4 to 2.

Ed Rommel was nicked for twelve blows, four of them being clustered in the fourth frame to give Chicago the advantage. Hits by Reynolds, Jolley, Cissell and Kamm figured in the scoring, along with an error by Mickey Cochrane that allowed a run to score.

Cissell made a great running catch of a pop fly in the eighth to save Faber a lot of trouble.

Indians' Ace Stars as His Team Beats Senators in 1st, 13-7, Then Loses 2d, 6-4.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17 (AP).—Earl Averill, young Indian centre fielder, stole the show by hitting three home runs in consecutive trips to the plate and a total of four round trip wallops, as Cleveland and Washington split a double-header today. Cleveland won the first, 13 to 7, and Washington the night cap, 6 to 4.

Averill tied the modern major league record for consecutive homers with three in the first game. He drove in eight runs, enough to win the game. He missed a four straight homer on his last trip to the plate when a long fly was foul by a few feet and then grounded out.

On his first time up in the second game he hit another home run, scoring two runners ahead of him.

WILSON'S 2 HOMERS HELP UPSET GIANTS

Puts His Season Total at 52 and Drives In 4 Runs as Cubs Win, 5 to 2.

BREAKS RECORD IN MAJORS

Has Driven In 176 Scores This Season to Eclipse Gehrig's Mark Made in 1927 by One.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Three home runs, two by the great Hack Wilson and one by Cliff Heathcote, enabled the Cubs to continue for the moment as party of the third part in the National League's throbbing pennant derby.

The trio of circuit clouts sank the Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday, 5 to 2, and it is doubtful whether the Giants would have been put down at all by any other means. So it can be readily grasped that the three shots, all made off Tiny Jim Chaplin in the first three innings, played a major part in the events of the day.

In fact there was even a deeper meaning to the two that Hack deposited into the lower right field tier for, in addition to bringing the Chicagoan's seasonal total to fifty-two, they put Wilson in possession of a new modern major league record for runs batted in during a campaign.

Each blow, the first made in the opening inning and the second in the third, was delivered with a Cub comrade on base, and with these four tallies which he presented to Chicago's pennant hopes, Hack gave himself credit for having driven in 176 runs this year. This exceeds by one the major league record set by Lou Gehrig with the Yankees in 1927. Incidentally Wilson now stands six ahead of Babe Ruth.

Issue Is Quickly Settled.

Heathcote's smack came directly after Wilson's second and just about settled the issue between Chaplin and Pat Malone. In fact the Giants about this time looked as though they would have liked to have gone aft for tea, and there were strange mutterings heard where the critics gather when the McGrawmen trotted out a couple of rookies to fill rather important rôles in the fourth. One was Bill Morrell, a right-hand pitcher late of Shreveport, and the other was Joe Moore of San Antonio, who was asked to supplant Roettger in centre field.

It did not seem to be quite ethical to stack such opposition against a club fighting for a pennant, but then something very surprising happened. Morrell, pitching from the fourth to the ninth, inclusive, turned in a remarkably fine job, as he held the Cubs to only two hits, while Moore had the satisfaction of sending one of Malone's shoots for a ride that only a spectacular catch by Cuyler prevented from dropping for a triple in deep left centre.

Giants Launch One Drive.

As for the other Giants they were able to make one concerted drive against Malone. This came in the sixth, when with two out singles by Leach and Lindstrom and a pass to Terry filled the bases and a single by Ott drove in two.

But at all other points Malone was complete master of the situation and scarcely needed the two electrifying plays which Lester Bell performed in the eighth when he robbed Critz and Leach of a pair of hits.

Havana Series With Members of Pirates to Open Oct. 10.

The New York Giants will go to Havana after the National League season to open on Oct. 10 a series of baseball games with a team composed of players from the Pittsburgh Pirates, according to The Associated Press yesterday. Arrangements for the games were made by John J. McGraw and Julio Blanco Herrera. Eleven games will be played.

Dave Bancroft will be in charge of the Giants, the condition of Manager McGraw's health forcing him to forego the expedition.

Señor Herrera has offered to pay $1,000 to the first player to drive a home run over the fence at Havana.

Knocks Out Gross in Chicago Ring Before Crowd of 10,000.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP).—Primo Carnera registered his twenty-third knockout since invading America by pounding Jack Gross, a Philadelphia southpaw, into a state of helplessness in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round fight tonight. About 10,000 were in the Stadium and the receipts were about $35,000.

The fight ended amid a chorus of boos and jeers with Gross groggy, bleeding and on the floor. Gross was twice felled with heavy right hand blows to the head. He was counted out the last time he hit the floor. Gross, at 200 pounds, was outweighed by sixty-seven pounds.

The bout was announced as Carnera's last engagement before he sails for his native Italy on Oct. 11.

Belmont Closing Feature Easily Won by Gallant Fox, 1-30

GALLANT FOX AT 1-30 WINS GOLD CUP RACE

Beats Yarn by Three Lengths to Gain Purse of $10,300 as Belmont Closes.

EARNINGS NOW $328,165

Frisius, a Stablemate and Added Starter, Sets the Pace in Two-Mile Test.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Gallant Fox, 3-year-old champion and greatest money winner in the history of the American turf, ran his farewell race in the metropolitan district, and perhaps his last race anywhere, when he won the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park yesterday.

A slim crowd of blasé midweek regulars watched the son of Sir Gallahad III and Marguerite win his ninth stake of the year with its purse of $10,300 and establish his winnings at $328,165. In addition, William Woodward, breeder as well as owner of Gallant Fox, received the gold cup, valued at $2,500.

The cup race is at two miles, the longest race run anywhere in New York and one of the greatest tests of stamina the country knows. It was a fitting closing to the Belmont meeting, and despite the small attendance there was considerable discussion of Gallant Fox and his prowess from the beginning of the afternoon. He was considered a sure winner, as A. C. Bostwick's Yarn was his only competitor until Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons added Frisius, stablemate to Gallant Fox. The entry was held at 1 to 30.

Easiest Victory of Year.

Mr. Bostwick's horse ran second to Gallant Fox, finishing as close as three lengths to the winner, but Earl Sande, who again piloted Gallant Fox, had his mount under such a strong hold that the victory doubtless was the easiest of the nine Gallant Fox has won this year.

His other triumphs were in the Wood Memorial, Preakness, Kentucky Derby, Belmont Stakes, Dwyer Stakes, Arlington Classic, Saratoga Cup and Lawrence Realization. He was defeated only in The Travers, when Jim Dandy, 100-to-1 shot, came home first through the mud.

Were it not for that defeat in the Travers, Gallant Fox would be today the world's greatest money winner, as the French horse Ksar is credited with $335,340, and the Travers's purse was close to $30,000. Even so, Gallant Fox may yet surpass Ksar, as he has engagements in the Pimlico Cup and Latonia championship. It is unlikely that he will fulfill the former, but it is planned that he will compete in the Kentucky race if the track is dry and not muddy as was that in the Travers.

If track conditions are unfavorable, Gallant Fox will not again be seen under silks and will be retired to Mr. Woodward's Belair stud. Mr. Woodward has stated that Gallant Fox will not be shipped abroad as was Reigh Count after his great 3-year-old year in 1928. Great as was Reigh Count, his exploits can not come up to Gallant Fox's, and many yesterday were again disposed to rank Gallant Fox on at least even terms with Man o' War despite the many dazzling time performances turned in by Man o' War, which are in contrast to Gallant Fox's winning races in slow time.

Man o' War Victor in 1920.

Yesterday Gallant Fox required 3:24 2-5 to complete the long route which, when run for the first time in 1920, was won by Man o' War. But the distance then was only a mile and a half. Since then such great horses as Mad Hatter, Crusader and Reigh Count have finished first. Mad Hatter's time of 3:22 2-5 is the record for the stake.

While Gallant Fox did not go to the front yesterday until the far turn; that is to say, about a mile and a half from the start, the race was not much of a contest. Frisius went out to make pace for Gallant Fox, which runs best when there is a horse in front of him or alongside of him. The start was on the far turn and the first time past the stands the order was Frisius, Gallant Fox and Yarn.

There was no change until the far turn, when Gallant Fox jumped into the lead. Yarn still stayed with Frisius and soon it was apparent that he had not yet made his bid and was going to pass Frisius and tackle Gallant Fox. This transpired in the stretch. Johnny Maiben sent Yarn up to within a length of the champion, but Sande never made a move. Gallant Fox just drew off under his own steam and won as he pleased.

The fractional time follows: 0:24 2-5, 0:48 4-5, 1:14 1-5, 1:41 1-5, 2:08, 2:34, 2:59 3-5, 3:24 2-5.

AQUEDUCT RACING WILL START TODAY

Five Named to Run in Featured Bay Shore Handicap at Seven Furlongs.

BALKO FAVORED TO WIN

Bud Broom Rated Formidable Competitor—Reason Why to Be Tested in Steeplechase.

By BRYAN FIELD.

The Fall meeting of the Queens County Jockey Club at the old Aqueduct course will begin today with the Bay Shore Handicap as the feature.

There will be fifteen days of racing with twelve stakes to be decided in addition to the Bay Shore, which is a seven-furlong test for horses of 3 years and upward. Five have been named for the race, with the Sagamore Stable's Balko as the top weight and probable favorite.

Balko is the horse which carried the crushing impost of 136 pounds to a new track record at Belmont Park. He ran six furlongs down the Widener straightaway in 1:09 2-5. This afternoon he will have ten pounds less to carry and no doubt will receive his sternest competition from Bud Broom, which has several good races back of him. He should prove a very formidable competitor under 107 pounds. The others are Chatford, Peto and Black Majesty, weighted, respectively, at 106, 109 and 110 pounds.

The Bay Shore is one of the newer stakes of the Queens County Jockey Club, having first been run in 1925, when the Rancocas Stable's Superlette was the winner. The next year Harry Payne Whitney's Backbone won in 1:23 2-5, the record for the stake. Distraction won last year under 122 pounds, the greatest burden ever carried to victory in the race, so that Balko has a fine opportunity of earning a double distinction for himself. He may carry more weight than any other winner and may set a new record for the race. His chances of doing both are excellent.

Henry C. Pebler, racing secretary, had to schedule seven races for the opening day in order to accommodate the large number of horses named for the first race. Thirty-six were named and the race was split, the second half being run as the seventh race.

Aqueduct is the last courses to give steeplechasing each season, and the outstanding jumping race of the meeting is the Harbor Hill Steeplechase, scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 27. Today there will be a race for maiden jumpers, which will give Mrs. Payne Whitney's Reason Why a chance to prepare for the Harbor Hill. He is in with 135 pounds, level weights with three of the five other starters.

The Caledonian Claiming Handicap, scheduled as the third race, will give the sprinters a chance for a somewhat larger purse than in the ordinary races. Yet only four have been named, with the filly On Tap having the top weight of 113 pounds. The veteran racer Joe Marrone III is in with 112, while Scatter and Skirl are more lightly weighted.

Dr. Freeland, away fast, was eased back off the early pace, came around the field and won going away. William T. was allowed to rate far back in the early part, slipped through on the inside around the turn and was next best. Hatbroom had plenty of early speed and held on well. Nicotine, away slowly, closed a big gap. Live Oak quit badly.

Winston Guest's Templetons Beat Sands Point to Gain U. S. Open Polo Final

SANDS POINT LOSES TO TEMPLETON FOUR

Guest Brothers, Guinness and Lacey Win by 16-8 in U. S. Open Polo Semi-Final.

STRONG ATTACK DECISIVE

Victors Take Early Lead and Never Relinquish It—Greentrees to Face Hurricanes Today.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

OLD WESTBURY, L. I., Sept. 17.—Displaying tremendous length and keeping incessantly on the attack, Winston Guest's Templeton team entered the final round of the national open polo championship this afternoon, defeating Sands Point at Phipps Field, 16—8.

The first semi-final of the national championship was switched to Phipps Field from Meadow Brook, and here on their uncle's field the two Guest brothers took another step toward the title, aided by two British internationalists, Lewis Lacey and Lieutenant Humphrey Guinness.

Soon after the start of the game Templeton went into the lead, to stay there until the close. For two periods Sands Point clung to its opponent, fighting back stubbornly, but after that the winners went steadily ahead, drawing slowly away and piling up their lead.

Schwartz Plays Strong Game.

W. Averell Harriman, E. A. S. Hopping, Jack Nelson and A. Charles Schwartz made up the Sands Point side. Schwartz, particularly in the earlier periods, played well at back and prevented an earlier runaway by the Templetons.

At No. 2 young Hopping played splendidly, roving all over the field and hitting on all sides of his mounts. He was responsible for six of the Sands Point scores, and he was very much in the fight to the end, even after a bad fall in the seventh.

Winston Guest also figured in a hard fall, this one coming in the last period, but he remounted uninjured.

Lacey, playing at No. 3 with the winners, put in a fine afternoon of polo, hitting splendidly and turning in one or two amazing runs when he reversed his field like a football runner and picked his way through the entire pack. Behind him Guinness was a hard-hitting back.

Guest's Teamwork a Feature.

The two Guest brothers teamed beautifully in front, Raymond clearing the way for his brother or picking up passes nicely for scores. He had five goals and Winston six.

Two goals in the first and one in the second more than offset Sands Point's lone score of the second. Then Hopping, at the start of the third, accounted for a score that pulled his side up to within a single goal of Templeton. The two Guests and Guinness scored in rapid succession and Templeton was well away once more.

Hopping's safety shot at the period's close brought his team back a bit, but he could score only once in the fourth and Templeton had three more, to lead at 9 to 4 at half time.

The second semi-final tomorrow brings together Greentree, with Thomas Hitchcock Jr., American captain, and the Hurricanes, on which the Britons' field leader, Captain C. T. I. Roark, is No. 3.

Los Angeles Outboard Wins Querini Cup at Venice, Italy

VENICE, Italy, Sept. 17 (AP).—The outboard motor boat, Los Angeles Olympic, owned by Charles Holt of Los Angeles, today won the Querini Cup at the opening of the second international motor boat races. The American boat covered the twelve and one-half mile course at an average speed of 33 miles an hour. It also had the highest speed for one lap—36.5 miles per hour.

JONES AT MERION TURNS IN CARD OF 73

Atlantan in Practice Round for Amateur Title Golf Shows He Is Ready.

1,000 IN HIS GALLERY

Visits Doctor on Arrival to Have Treatment for Twinge in Shoulder.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17 (AP).—Followed by a large gallery, Bobby Jones today took his first practice trip around the Merion Cricket Club's east course, where next week he will compete with more than 150 other stars of national and international repute for the American Amateur golf championship.

Jones's playing was somewhat relaxed, as contrasted to the concentrating which characterizes his shots in competition, but he covered the eighteen holes in 73, only three strokes above par. He was one over par, 36 going out and two over par 34 recovering, due chiefly to lapses in putting.

Accompanying Jones was T. A. Bourne of St. Andrews, one of the British entries in the tournament. They were followed by more than 1,000 fans and every caddie who could dodge the eagle eye of the caddie master and escape from the place where they are supposed to stay when not actually working.

Crush at the Clubhouse.

There was a crush of humanity at the clubhouse entrance when Bobby arrived at the scene of his first American amateur conquest. It was at Merion in 1916 that Jones, wearing his first pair of long trousers, competed in his first national tournament, and it was there in 1924 that he won the amateur title the first time.

Here, too, Bobby is to attempt the greatest achievement known to the royal and ancient game, a "grand slam." Of the four major championships—the British and American amateur and open—he now has three. No one has ever captured all four. Jones has been quoted as an even bet to do it.

Upon arriving here from Washington, where he had visited President Hoover, Jones was fatigued from the short night journey and an extra round of sleep was his immediate concern. After a nap he visited a near-by physician to get a crick in his shoulder "ironed out." The doctor's treatment gave relief and his swing in the work-out was as smooth and his drive had the same distance as in the past.

Scores Higher Than Tuesday.

Scores of others on the course today ran higher than yesterday, the best reported being a 38—37—75 by Francis Brown, flying Hawaiian, who is amateur champion of California.

Playing in the same foursome with Brown, Charley Foley, Salt Lake City, and Gibson Dunlap and John De Paola, both of California, had 79s. Frank Dolp, Portland, Ore., turned in a 77, and Don Moe, also of Portland, had 81.

Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Jones's 1929 nemesis; Chick Evans, Chicago; George Dunlap, New York, intercollegiate champion; George McWilliams, Princeton University; George Voigt, New York; Otto Hackmeyer, Lowell, Mass., and D. Clarke Corkman, Philadelphia, spent an hour or more on the practice tee.

Harrison R. Johnston, present holder of the national amateur championship, is expected to arrive tomorrow.

FOOTBALL GIANTS TURN BACK NEWARK

Open National League Season With 32-0 Victory Before 10,000 in Night Game.

Bennie Friedman and his New York Giants took the Newark Tornadoes into camp, 32 to 0, last night at Newark in the first National League game of the season before a crowd of 10,000.

The New Yorkers, also playing their first game of the season, opened a strong offensive from the start and outplayed the Tornadoes through the first three periods. The Giants tallied once in the first period and again in the second to lead, 13 to 0, at half time. Nineteen points were added in the third quarter, and in the fourth the home team braced and held the Giants scoreless.

Friedman paved the way for the opening touchdown with a long forward pass to Sedbrook, the latter being downed on the 15-yard line. In three tries through the line, Wiberg carried the ball across, and Friedman booted over the extra point.

After this score Newark tried to gain with aerials, but the New Yorkers were too alert and play was confined to Newark's territory until the final period.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

Shipwreck on the Bleak New England Coast.

THROW out the lifeline! It's a sad tale, mates. A life on the ocean wave has its problems and its perils. One minute Shamrock V was a good tall ship sailing a September sea in what looked like the first real race of the series and the next minute it was a marine cripple fluttering the distress signal from the peak. Down came the mainsail like McGinty heading for the bottom of the sea, dressed in his new suit of clothes.

It's a more pitiful story than the yarn of the Nancy Bell. It's a marine disaster like the terrible fate of the Loch Achray, the lost ship, of which John Masefield wrote:

"Her masts was gone, and afore you knowed
She filled by the head and down she goed.
Her crew made seven-and-twenty dishes
For the big jack-sharks and the little fishes,
An' over their bones the water swishes."

The disaster off Newport wasn't quite as bad as that. No lives were lost, but British hopes that rose with the rising wind and the hoisting of the mainsail came fluttering down again with the tremendous drop in canvas. At that moment Sir Thomas Lipton, aboard his luxurious yacht Erin and surrounded by all sorts of sympathetic craft, was really "a shipwrecked sailor looking for a sail!"

The Delayed Start.

Sea-going yachts and land-going spectators began to gather at Newport late last week to watch "the races." What races? The first day's program provided an easy victory for Enterprise. It wasn't half a contest. The second sailing was a walk-away for Enterprise, with Shamrock V distanced. The third attempt ended for all practical purposes when the big wing of the British boat came down shortly after the start.

It recalls the small boy who had seen several circuses and was later taken for a trip through the Bronx Zoo. He stared solemnly at the zebras, hippos, tigers, lions and antelopes, and, after a half-hour of puzzled silence, he said: "Mother, when does it start?"

In the same puzzled way at Newport some of the spectators might say of the yacht races: "When do they start?" There hasn't been a real race yet. It's too bad, because the sporting attempts of doughty Sir Thomas to lift the cup have roused general interest, and the spectators on all sides wish him well.

The nautical explanation of yesterday's tragedy is that Shamrock's main halyard gave. A wicked wag remarked that Sir Thomas can blame it on the fact that his boat was built in England instead of Scotland. "On a Scotch boat," explained this irreverent person, "nothing would give." He escaped in the ensuing confusion, but the police have a good description of him and an arrest is expected at any moment.

Flint Rhem's Bedtime Story.

Swinging off on another tack, the great Flint Rhem mystery had the baseball world agog yesterday. Where was Flint when the light went out? The first report sounded like three chapters out of "Arabian Nights" or "The Travels of Baron Munchausen."

Those Brooklyn rooters must be a fearsome tribe. One of them in the guise of a taxi driver attempted to maim Wild Bill Hallahan, the star of the Cardinal pitching staff, by slamming a taxi door on his hand. Luckily for the Cardinals, the taxi miscreant was guilty of an error. Apparently he thought that Wild Bill was a right-hander and he pinched his right hand in the door. But Wild Bill is a left-hander and the damage to one finger on his right hand only spurred him to the feat of covering Uncle Wilbert's team with a coat of whitewash.

Then Flint Rhem reappeared at the Cardinal hostelry after a mysterious absence and told his now famous tale of kidnapping and forcible inhalation of a liquid diet at the point of a pistol. There's no getting away from it; this is an exciting baseball race.

Professor Pitkin on Babe Ruth.

Professor Walter B. Pitkin of Columbia University has written a book entitled, "The Psychology of Achievement," and in it he discusses G. Herman Ruth, the great home-run hitter. His conclusions may be of interest to baseball pitchers who have been wondering how the Babe got that way.

After proving to his own satisfaction by reaction tests and simple multiplication that the Babe is one man in 1,250,000, he writes that Ruth's achievements in baseball are due to "an amazing basal metabolism." Explaining this, he goes on: "The Babe, for many years, has eaten about ten meals a day, and his radiant heat is so intense that he cannot wear even the lightest underwear on the coldest day of Winter."

It's dangerous for a layman to come to grips with a scientist or a psychologist, but there are players in the big leagues whose basal metabolism would put Babe Ruth to shame and yet their home-run output has been insignificant. Look again, Professor. It must be something else. Why, the Yankees alone had two players, Sammy Vick and Rip Collins, whose meals and basal metabolism rivaled that of Mark Twain's famous white elephant—the one that was stolen—and the elephant in question was reported capable of eating a whole Oxford edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica at a sitting.

A Snack Isn't a Meal.

The reference to the numerous meals eaten by Babe Ruth in a day is given with no scientific proof. Either somebody was spoofing the professor or the Columbia psychologist must be counting hasty snacks as meals. As a matter of fact, there have been weeks at a time when the Babe ate only two meals a day. That was in the training season at St. Petersburg and in the boiling expeditions at Hot Springs.

The Babe would eat breakfast, play golf or baseball all day without pausing for lunch, and then sit down to a reasonable dinner in the evening. Even through the season, when he is hitting home runs, he confines his regular table sittings to three a day. It's true that after batting practice and before the regular game at the Stadium he would drop in to converse with Harry Stevens and munch a hot dog or two by way of sociability. But is that a meal? Not if you ask Babe Ruth.

The item of ten meals a day for many years is seriously challenged. As for the general proposition that the great home-run record was due to "an amazing basal metabolism," that will be taken up after a serious session with the nearest voluminous dictionary.

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The National Republican party representatives turned back the National Democratic party golf team, 47 to 20, in their annual match played on the Westchester Country Club links today. It marked the first time in six years that the Republicans have triumphed.

The match was played in foursomes, with the winning pairs receiving points to be counted in the team score. The individual winners were determined by the cards turned in during the match play.

MISS ORCUTT GAINS IN CANADIAN GOLF

Defeats Miss Williams on 19th Hole—Five Other Women From U. S. Survive.

MISS HICKS EASY VICTOR

Turns Back Mrs. Lake by 6 and 5—Mrs. Fraser and Miss Mackenzie Also Win.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—Six players from the United States and two Canadians remain in the competition for the women's Canadian open golf championship, the second round of which was played over the Laval Sur-Le-Lac course today.

The eight survivors are Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, Ottawa; Miss Helen Hicks, Hewlett, L. I., the defending champion; Mrs. Harley Higbie, Detroit; Miss Maureen Orcutt, New York; Miss Ada Mackenzie, Toronto; Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo; Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., and Miss Marion Bennett, New Britain, Conn.

The outstanding feature today was the stand made by Miss Frances Williams, young Lehigh, Pa., star, against Miss Orcutt. The Lehigh girl carried the New Yorker to the nineteenth green before she yielded. In another tense match Miss Quier defeated Miss Marjorie Kirkham of Montreal, 2 and 1.

Miss Smith Defeated.

The Canadian survivors are strong contenders. Mrs. Fraser was United States champion three times. She showed excellent form in defeating Miss Cecilie Smith, Toronto, 4 and 2, while Miss Mackenzie, the current Dominion closed champion, advanced by eliminating Mrs. E. W. Whittington, 4 and 2.

Miss Hicks scored a notable victory when she defeated Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake of New York, 6 and 5. Miss Hicks took the first three holes of the match, lost the fourth, but captured the fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth to go 6 up at the turn. The defending champion lost the tenth, halved the eleventh, captured the twelfth and then shot a par 3 on the thirteenth to halve it and end the match.

The cards:

In the sensational battle between Miss Orcutt and Miss Williams the latter played her famous opponent stroke for stroke, and the match was squared at the eighteenth. Miss Orcutt, however, won at the nineteenth hole.

Tomorrow Mrs. Fraser meets Miss Orcutt in what should prove the feature match, while Mrs. Higbie plays Miss Wattles, Miss Mackenzie opposes Miss Quier and Miss Hicks meets Miss Bennett.

KASHDAN, LIST DRAW IN ADJOURNED GAME

Result Places New Yorker Second in Chess Tourney—Final Matches Today.

FRANKFORT, Germany, Sept. 17.—Unable to do better than draw his adjourned game with List of Berlin, I. Kashdan, champion of the Manhattan Chess Club of New York, now is in second place in the international masters' tournament at the Anderssen Chess Club. Aron Nimzowitsch of Copenhagen holds first place by half a point.

The final round will be contested tomorrow and the destination of the first and second prizes, which rest between Nimzowitsch and Kashdan, will be determined by the outcome of their games with Saemisch of Germany and Przepiorka of Poland, respectively.

When play was resumed today Kashdan had a slight superiority in position. The play ultimately turned into a rook and pawn ending, in which the New Yorker strove in vain to get the upper hand. List was on his mettle and put up a perfect defense. Not until 111 moves had been recorded in the longest game of the tournament did Kashdan abandon his efforts to establish a winning position.

PEGGY'S EXPRESS WINS TROT AT SPRINGFIELD

Neil Frisco and Leona the Great Also Among Victors at Exposition Track.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 17 (AP).—Winners of today's light harness events at the Eastern States Exposition track had a pronounced margin over the field.

Neil Frisco, in the 2:09 pace, and Peggy's Express, in the 2:18 trot, pursed at $2,000, and Iska McKlyo, in the 2:24 pace, romped away with every heat, while Leona the Great annexed the first and second heats of the trot for 3-year-olds, then coasted in the concluding mile, which Larkspur won.

The first heat of the 2:18 trot just missed producing injury to horses and drivers. As the horses were negotiating the first turn, Volarro climbed up the sulky of F. E. W. For a few seconds it seemed as though the wobbling buggies must capsize and precipitate a jam. They remained upright, however, and F. E. W. was withdrawn from the heat.

Lack of Seasoned Reserve Material Chief Problem at Navy

SEASONED LINEMEN ARE NEEDED AT NAVY

Loss of Crane and Crinkley Due to Injuries Presents Big Problem to Ingram.

RESERVE POWER LACKING

But Coach Is Optimistic About Results, Paying a Tribute to Spirit of His Charges.

This is the ninth of a series of articles on Eastern football teams and their prospects for the season.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 17.—It takes more than one man to make a football team, but the absence of one or two can sometimes go a long way toward making the difference between a winning eleven and a losing one.

In a year that finds Navy facing a shortage in seasoned replacements, it will undertake the stiffest schedule in its history—a schedule that lists Notre Dame, Ohio State, Southern Methodist, Princeton and Pennsylvania. The unexpected loss of Crane and Crinkley has added complications to a situation that presented enough problems in itself to put the industry and enthusiasm of Bill Ingram to a severe test.

Both of these men, the former a great end in the making and the latter a valued tackle, were forced out by injuries sustained last year, and their withdrawal has hit Navy in the two softest spots on the team, with the possible exception of centre. It is the two outside positions on each side of the line that are giving the greatest concern to the strapping young Navy coach and his assistants, Rip Miller and Pat Moret.

Back Field Men Are Light.

The fact that he will have one of the lightest back fields of any major eleven in the country, with three men, Gannon, Kirn and Dale Bauer, each weighing only 150 pounds, isn't giving Ingram or Tom Hamilton, the back field coach, any gray hairs. Neither is the former particularly troubled over the departure of Hughes at centre, with Tuttle in the slot, and Pray, one of the few real prospects from the 1929 plebes, and Black in reserve, though it would be a deal of comfort to the coaches to have a pivot of Hughes's ability in the line as a steadying influence.

The wholesale exodus, too, of last year's guards has created no stringency, for Gray, Underwood, Ogle, Kirkpatrick, Reedy, Thompson, McRae and Johnson yield little as a group of centre flankers to Koepke, Swan, Westhofen, Chapple and Eddy, who have finished their careers. Probably the most valuable on the 1929 varsity was Joe Clifton, a tireless defensive back for three years whose work in backing up the line, breaking up passes and mopping up ahead of the ball stood out vividly.

Clifton has gone also, yet neither has his departure caused any great depression, for in Oscar Hagberg, a powerfully built 190-pound six-footer, who has the natural ability to qualify for any job on the team, Ingram has a back who is filling Clifton's shoes in a most satisfactory manner.

Ends and Tackles Needed.

It is ends and tackles that are needed at Navy, and is it the irony of fate that there should be a dearth of wing men, for last year the outlook was brighter on the flanks than anywhere else on the team. In Byng, Ingram has a capable end who turns in a finished job in every respect, but he is the only one of his kind since the graduation of Moret and Beans and the forced absence of Crane. Miller shows promise, and Destephanides, Tyler, Elliott, Smith and Torgenson also are in the running, but none of them comes close to being another Byng or Crane.

The need for tackles applies only to reserves, for in Bowstrom and Bryan Navy has two stalwart regulars, who probably can hold their own with any pair. Outside of these two there is no one else who stands out, with a half dozen inexperienced men closely bunched. Chambers perhaps has an edge on the others, among whom is Smedley, a powerful youngster, who is likely to break into the picture next year.

The need for replacements is not so pronounced in the back field, for Coleman, Castree, Toth, Binns, Antrim, Tchirgi, Hurley, Campbell, Denny, Davis, Conrad, Erck and Moncure compose a group from whom at least one more fairly good quartet can be mustered to understudy Cannon, Kirn, Bauer and Hagberg. It is lack of weight that is felt most behind the line and Navy's attack perforce must depend upon speed, deception and variety rather than upon power.

Not Worrying About Results.

Speaking in the locker room after practice, Coach Ingram said: "We have a tough job ahead of us and a tough schedule. We can't afford to point for any game, for we haven't the reserves and there are too many hard games.

"But we are not worrying about results. We are trying to bring out the best there is in all of these boys, and you can bank on their giving their best. I never saw a finer spirit."

Commander Frederick G. Reinicke, graduate manager of athletics and director of football, also emphasized the splendid morale of the squad, and the fact that Rip Miller is back on the job as line coach this year another reason why Navy can be expected to make it interesting for its opponents.

The schedule:

Oct. 4, William and Mary; 11, Notre Dame at South Bend; 18, Duke; 25, Princeton at Princeton.

Nov. 1, Maryland; 8, Ohio State at Baltimore; 15, Southern Methodist; 22, West Virginia Wesleyan; 29, George Washington.

Dec. 6, Penn at Franklin Field.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—T. A. Johnston, the club champion, scored a 78 to win the low-gross honors in the Westchester County Golf Association one-day handicap tournament on the links of the Wykagyl Country Club today. The first low net prize was captured by Nathan Schlussel of Fenimore, after his card was matched with those of T. M. Godde of Tamarack and M. H. Egan of Kisco River.

In the twelve-mile modified marathon handicap event Clarence De Mar, Albert Michelsen, William Agee and James Henigan are among those entered.

PRINCETON SHIFTS FOOTBALL LINE-UP

Captain Mestres Moved From Old Position at Guard to the Centre.

TACKLING DUMMY IN USE

Ends and Linemen Kept Busy in Perfecting Drive—Backs Try Aerial Defense.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 17.—Announcement that Captain Dick Mestres of the Princeton football team has been moved from his old post at guard to centre was made today by Line Coach Al Wittmer. Mestres worked at centre a while last year under the tutelage of Coach Wittmer although he has had no varsity experience at the post.

Head Coach Roper said tonight that no scrimmage would be held until next Monday. Today he put his squad through a brisk two-hour drill on fundamentals and indicated that program would continue throughout the week.

The tackling dummy was used for the first time today by the ends and linemen. The backs again were kept out longer than the other members of the squad, Coaches Roper, Shaughnessy and Slagle putting the men at a spirited pace through various plays and formations.

A half-hour drill on pass defense was new work for the backs. The passing was done by Bennett, Bogar, Nevitt, Howson and Nicholson, while every man received instruction in catching passes, interfering and breaking up aerials.

INNOVATION IN DRILL TRIED AT DARTMOUTH

Guards and Tackles Used as Forward Pass Receivers During First Scrimmage.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 17.—An innovation was introduced to Dartmouth football today during a long scrimmage session, the first of the year. Coach Cannell spent much time having his guards and tackles at the receiving end of forward passes, stealing a leaf from the old Yale system.

Such big men as Gay Bromberg, Paul Crehan, Bill Hoffman and Hank Barber went down the field under long passes, and possibly Dartmouth will incorporate some of these plays into its attack this Fall.

Shep Wolff of Brooklyn, a veteran halfback, displayed fine blocking work. Dick Haugen, 200-pound sophomore halfback, was also commended in this department by the coaches. Sonny Foley was given a chance at halfback position and did well, especially during the forward passing drill.

RUTGERS ELEVEN SCORES.

Triumphs Over Rider College, 12-6, in Practice Game.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 17.—The Rutgers University eleven, using plays that were intended to smooth the attack and not to score, managed to wrest a 12-to-6 victory from the Rider College team of Trenton, N. J., today in a practice game. Rider's score came in the last quarter as the result of Andy Neimith's eighty-yard run-back through the Scarlet scrubs of Karakas's kick-off.

The line-up:

SYRACUSE USES NEW PLAYS.

Squad Is Put Through Long Signal Drill for R. P. I. Game.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Coach Vic Hanson had a long signal drill with the Syracuse University football squad today. He used a number of new plays and for a first string line-up had what is expected to start the opening game against Rensselaer on the night of Sept. 27.

The line included Stoneberg and Ellert, ends; Newton, tackle; Obst and Lombardi, guards, and Vernon, centre. The back field had Titmas, quarterback; Stevens and Moran, halfbacks, and Fishel, fullback.

PASSING STRESSED IN YALE PRACTICE

Line Attack Formations Also Receive Attention in First Supervised Scrimmage.

VARIED WORKOUT IS HELD

Dummy Tackling, Charging, Blocking and Kicking Among Activities on Day's Program.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17.—Yale's varsity football players were given their first supervised scrimmage practice today under a scorching midsummer sun. Head Coach Mal Stevens used the line-up which probably will be started against Maine next week.

Forward passes and simple line attack formations were stressed. Stevens and Adam Walsh, line coach, called the players back for individual instruction and for repetition of the plays whenever a signal was miscued.

Albie Booth directed the eleven. Stevens said that the routine scrimmaging would begin Friday.

Drills Are Protracted.

Both morning and afternoon drills were protracted. Dummy tackling, charging, blocking, passing and kicking constituted the activities in the first session.

Benny Friedman, former Michigan back field star, will arrive tomorrow and spend two days in aiding the development of the forward pass. He hopes to visit the Yale squad several times this Fall.

Today's line-up was the same as that on the first day of practice except for the substitution at left half of Al Beane for Ned Austen, who is suffering from a slight leg injury and will rest for two weeks.

John Lindenberg, second-string end last year, has been put at left end. Captain John Wilbur of the 1929 freshmen has been placed at left tackle. He is the only 1933 player to become a regular, although Crowley and Parker are on the second-string back field.

Hare, end last Fall, has been assigned to left guard, which he played with the freshmen two years ago, and Fred Linehan, who was injured after being selected for right guard last Fall, has been given the position again. Alfred Loeser, shifted in 1929 from centre to guard, has been restored to centre, although Booth may be reserved for play in the second half as last year.

Beane and Jack Muhlefield are the halfbacks. Muhlefield was third-string halfback last Fall. Kempton Dunn again is at fullback.

MANHATTAN LISTS GAME.

To Play Seton Hall College Eleven at Newark Stadium.

Manhattan will oppose the Seton Hall College eleven in the Newark Stadium on Oct. 1, according to announcement yesterday. Applications for the Manhattan-Oglethorpe game, to be played at the Polo Grounds the night of Oct. 10, also were put in the mails yesterday. The distribution of tickets will start Sept. 25.

The Jaspers held a light workout yesterday, Coach Law putting the squad through a dummy scrimmage against the freshmen and then practicing on a defense against aerials. Luddy Burke, Joe Sisko, L. Anderson and D. Fairweather were in the first-string back field.

RAFFEL DRILLS WITH PENN.

X-Ray Shows No Fracture of Varsity End's Shoulder.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Bill Raffel, Pennsylvania's varsity left end, who underwent an X-ray examination of his injured shoulder, returned to camp today and took part in the signal drill.

The X-ray, taken in Philadelphia this morning, showed no fracture and Coach Lud Wray believes Raffel will be able to undertake hard work by Saturday when the University of Delaware plays a practice game here.

Swart Injured at Union.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Lars Swart, Union's veteran end, broke a finger in scrimmage this afternoon and will be off the squad for about two weeks. With the exception of some of the linesmen, the varsity showed up well in the intensive half-hour scrimmage.

Red Cagle Named Head Coach Of Mississippi A. and M. Team

STARKVILLE, Miss, Sept. 17 (AP).—C. R. Noble, head football coach and athletic director at Mississippi A. and M. College, today relinquished football coaching duties to devote his entire time to the directorship of athletics, and named Christian Keener (Red) Cagle former famous star of the army, to succeed him as head coach.

HARVARD OFFENSIVE TESTED IN PRACTICE

Squad Scrimmages for Over an Hour With Linemen Having Hard Session.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 17.—Harvard's football players had only one workout today, but the drill that ended at noon was strenuous while it lasted. Coach Horween had his entire varsity squad scrimmage for more than an hour.

It was a genuine test for the offensive, but the coaches stopped proceedings before the secondary could get in very much hard defensive work. Nevertheless, it was real football on the rush lines.

The team which already may be designated as the first varsity because of its personnel of letter men and Yale-game starters of last year was the same as yesterday. Kuhn, who was at right tackle on Monday and rested yesterday, was with the second team.

Cunningham, a substitute centre last year, was at the tackle between Talbot and Ogden. With Gildea and Hallowell available to replace Captain Ticknor at centre, both Cunningham and Richards, former centres, are being groomed for other line positions.

Much stress was placed on lateral passing. In the second back field, both Crickard and Schereschewsky are highly regarded, and Batchelder promises to be a greatly improved back this Fall.

It is planned to scrimmage the varsity squad against the scrubs Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. Until that time no changes are likely to be made.

TWO ILLINOIS STARS ON CASUALTY LIST

Yanuskus's Elbow Injured and Charle's Leg Is Fractured in Tackling Drill.

CHICAGO. Sept. 17 (AP).—The University of Illinois football camp today received a setback when two men were injured.

Pete Yanuskus, regarded as a certainty for a back field job, suffered a chipped elbow bone and will be out for a week at least. Bill Charle, freshman quarterback last Fall and a promising sophomore candidate, suffered a fractured leg in a tackling drill. He is not expected to be of much use before the end of the season.

Michigan put in two sessions on blocking and defense for kickers and passers, while Minnesota's big squad went through its first scrimmage.

A chalk talk by the coach on the plays he will use this year marked the day for Northwestern. Wisconsin's talent went through a long dummy scrimmage, using passing and spinner plays, and Chicago put in two rather light sessions, Coach Stagg continuing to work on his passing plays.

At Purdue, Linn Cook, a promising halfback candidate in 1928 but out of school last year, returned and looked well in the scrimmage.

Sixty men, the biggest squad in Indiana's history, were out today, but a third of them have had no freshman or Spring training and Pat Page gave them nothing but fundamentals.

ARMY DRILLS PUNTERS.

Fields, Frentzel and Timberlake Get Most Distance in Kicking.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Army punters had a workout today under Lieutenant Reeder. Fields, Frentzel and Timberlake got the most distance, while Elliott, Sebastian and Remus also showed to advantage.

Another scrimmage session was held late in the afternoon, with considerable time devoted to punting as the scrub team made strenuous efforts to block the kicks. Some time was also devoted to place kicking, with Herb, Fields and Letzelter booting the ball.

M'NAMARA STARS IN N. Y. U. WORKOUT

ENTIRE SQUAD IN ACTION

La Mark and Captain Nemecek Account for Remaining Two Scores by Team A.

Special to The New York Times.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., Sept. 17.—Bill McNamara, sophomore back, featured today's hard scrimmage of the New York University football squad which lasted for about ninety minutes, tallying two of Team A's four touchdowns against the reserve elevens. A hot sun failed to curtail the practice.

McNamara's runs worried his opposition throughout the drill and practically assure him of appearing in the Violet team's opening line-up on Sept. 27 against Hobart. Joe La Mark, Jim MacDonald and Jim Tanguay, second-year men who complete the varsity back-field group, also played well.

Team A registered its first score on the opening play when La Mark went off left guard for a long run. McNamara followed this a short time later on a sweep around left end. Captain Jerry Nemecek caught a long forward pass for the third touchdown and McNamara picked a hole off guard for the fourth tally.

Head Coach Chick Meehan used the entire squad of fifty-five candidates in the drills. This morning the coaches concentrated on timing and the huddle.

SECRET WORKOUTS BEGUN AT FORDHAM

Lateral Pass Brought Into Use as Squad Prepares for Opening Game Sept. 27.

Secret practice sessions were started at Fordham Field yesterday under the direction of Coach Frank Cavanaugh, whose charges are preparing for the opening game of the season with Baltimore University on Sept. 27.

The seldom used lateral pass was featured in the workout and the Maroon coach was pleased with the way in which his star quarterback, Jack Fisher, handled the ball in the face of the charging substitute linemen.

Johnny Janis, who, together with Jim Murphy, is considered by the Maroon squad as the hardest man to bring down, showed to advantage in running back kick-offs and punts and covered long distances before he was tackled by the scrubs. Charlie Pieculewicz, regular fullback, also stood out as an interfering back in the short scrimmage period.

At the end of the day Cavanaugh announced he would line the varsity up against a substitute eleven today and allow a score to be kept.

CORNELL IN LIGHT WORKOUT

First Team Scores Against Third and Fourth in Scrimmage.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—A light scrimmage was given the Cornell football squad yesterday. The first team showed up well against the third and fourth combinations, scoring easily on line plays. The second eleven, trying a passing attack, failed to make it effective, particularly against the fourth team.

Eves has replaced Pond, who has an ankle injury, on the first eleven at back, and Hackstaff has taken Brindley's place at guard on the second team.

COLUMBIA, C. C. N. Y. STAGE SCRIMMAGE

Lions Get Their First Taste of Actual Football Combat in a Two-Hour Session.

SCORING NOT PERMITTED

Kick-Offs and Punting Also Are Discarded—Lavender Starts on Offensive Play.

Columbia had its first test of actual combat against a bona fide opponent yesterday at Baker Field when it engaged the C. C. N. Y. eleven in a two-hour scrimmage. It was an intensive affair and both teams did not let down in their efforts to reach rival goal lines. No touchdowns were officially scored, however, as every time a ball carrier was headed goalward he was recalled by the coaches.

No kickoffs or punting were resorted to and the scrimmage was started in midfield with the visiting eleven in possession of the ball. The Lavender aggregation was in possession of the ball for nearly an hour, giving the Morningside eleven its first work of the season on the defense.

The Blue and White then took up the offense and was in possession of the ball for the remainder of the scrimmage.

The usual double practice was held today with a signal drill and play formation comprising the morning session of one hour and a half.

The linemen were drilled on defensive and offensive plays for one hour during the afternoon practice, while the ends and back field players were sent through a tackling session. A scrimmage concluded the day's program.

A Comparison Of Earnings

A survey of corporate earnings for the first six months of this year gives further evidence of the stability of earnings of electric light and power companies in times of business depression.

While the net earnings for this period of 552 industrials were 28% lower than last year, those of 172 railroads 33.1% lower, of 104 telephone companies .7% lower, the net earnings of more than 500 electric light and power companies, representing practically 100% of the generating capacity of the industry, were around 4.5% above last year.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Make Small Gains in Very Inactive Day—Wheat and Corn Higher.

The only movement of any consequence on yesterday's markets was a further advance of ⅞ cent in wheat, bringing the price 2¼ cents above Monday's low mark of 79⅛ cents a bushel. Yesterday's highest price of 83⅜, which was maintained up to the close, compared with $1.31 exactly a year ago; showing that the grain market's conception of intrinsic values must have been pretty wildly perverted, either a year ago or now—possibly on both occasions. The stock market almost came to a halt yesterday. Its prices made a respectable show of firmness, but total transactions reached only 1,188,000 shares. This was the smallest of any five-hour day since Aug. 1. Except for that occasion and for two days in June and July of 1928, it was the smallest full day's business since Nov. 3, 1926.

From yesterday's foreign trade return for August it will be found that exports were smaller in value than those of August in any other year since 1915, and imports the smallest for the month since 1921, but that the surplus of exports over imports was the largest reported for August's foreign trade in any year since 1921. Compared with 1929, value of exports showed decrease of 21⅛ per cent; of imports, 41¼ per cent. Since prices last month were on the average about 15 per cent below those of a year ago, it will be seen that not only values but quantities exported and imported must have decreased heavily, but that quantity of imports was apparently reduced far more than that of exports.

This is what invariably happens during severe trade reaction in this country. It is not easy to understand the estimate of the Commerce Department, given out by the President on Tuesday, and stating that, in the seven months ended with July, the purely quantitative decrease in imports was only 5 per cent. The change in total values for the period, as officially reported a month ago, was 22⅜ per cent decrease in exports and 26 per cent decrease in imports; which certainly makes the quantitative figures given out at the White House seem far astray from probabilities.

Something of restrained cheerfulness marked the weekly surveys of the steel trade. As in other branches of industry, signs of betterment are evidently not emphatic; the rate of production had not increased during the week, the motor-car industry is not helping by increased orders, and The Iron Age remarks that even "greater conservatism rules among buyers of finished steel." But it also reports "scattered evidences of breaking away from hand-to-mouth buying," and a broadening of miscellaneous demand, which it ascribes to "belief that prices have struck bottom and that liberal purchases at the present level will prove a good investment." In the closely analogous Autumn of 1921, when underlying circumstances were much more discouraging than today's, September's steel production increased only 36,000 tons over August; but in October the increase was 95,000 and in November 381,000, and an uninterrupted further increase in the first five months of 1922 brought the output in May 1,500,000 tons above that of the previous November.

Not much can be inferred from yesterday's returns of railway traffic in the first week of September. Compared with previous Labor Day weeks, loadings were again the smallest since 1922 and 3 per cent under 1920. The decrease from the corresponding week in 1929 was nearly 16 per cent; from 1928 it was 13½. According to all experience, there should be a progressive increase in the next seven or eight weekly statements, to the largest loadings of the year late in October; but the percentage of decrease as compared with other recent years will possibly be the same, and the Autumn expansion may be brief.

CHANGES IN BROKERAGES.

Bag Company, secretary-treasurer, and George A. Gillard, formerly with Craig & Nelson, director of sales. In addition to the officers, William L. Buedingen of the Star Paper Box Company will be on the board of directors.

The First National Old Colony Corporation began a four-day staff conference yesterday in the Boston offices of the company, where today's session also will be held. The conference will be continued in New York tomorrow and Saturday.

Eastern Presidents Meet Today.

The Eastern Presidents' Conference will hold its first Fall meeting at the Bankers' Club today. No announcement of the subjects to be discussed was made.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Almost entirely free of reactionary influences, the stock market nevertheless moved at a slow pace yesterday and speculative operators were disappointed by the lack of interest. Transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 1,188,580 shares, representing the second smallest turnover this year for a full five-hour day. Brokers said that selling pressure seemed to have been lifted so far as the general market was concerned, but they were unable, on the other hand, to cite any important expansion of buying interest. The tone of the market was firm most of the day, with many of the market leaders selling at slightly higher levels than on Tuesday. The net gains, however, were unimportant except in a handful of stocks. Further improvement in wheat and reports of increased industrial activity helped sentiment in Wall Street.

The Public's Apathy.

The continued apathy shown by the public toward the stock market is a matter over which many brokers are expressing concern. Some believe that it may be a year before the return of 5,000,000-share days. One market letter writer describes the public as "militantly apathetic." Bankers agree that it will be difficult to get the public back into the stock market until there are tangible signs of a recovery in business. By that time, of course, the stock market may be considerably higher; but the public, it is pointed out, has never shown an eagerness to buy stocks cheaply and sell them when they are high.

Investment Stocks in Demand.

The demand for high-grade investment stocks is gradually increasing, according to a banker yesterday. Additional funds for investment purposes have been curtailed lately, owing to smaller dividend payments, but it is believed the loss from this source is far less in proportion than the decline in the amount of new investment issues.

Dividend News.

Declaration of the regular dividend due at this time by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad removed yesterday some uncertainty on the subject. Onlookers who had watched the result of current conditions on traffic of the road and the decline of the stock below par had raised questions about continuance of the dividend rate. The Northern Pacific also came through with the usual dividend yesterday, but in this case there had been official indication that this action would be taken. B. & O. stock sold between 100 and 101 yesterday, closing at 100½.

Today's Bank Statement.

Today's Federal Reserve Bank statement is likely to show the effects of operations connected with the treasury financing earlier in the week, although the treasury's overdraft had been largely eliminated by last night. As a result of the easier conditions which have prevailed in the money market, it is expected that some further reduction in discounts will be shown, while bill holdings are also likely to be lower, or at any rate little changed. Holdings of United States Government securities are expected to show some advance, reflecting the remains of the overdraft, although the Reserve may have equalized this gain in some measure by deferring the replacement of maturities for a few days.

Pricing New Issues.

At first glance it might appear that a high rate bond should move out readily if the yield were in line with the current market, but on the contrary the question of price, whether discount or premium, is said to be playing an important part at the moment. Whenever investment bankers have anything to do with the coupon rate on a new issue it is usually the case that the rate approximates in some degree the current yield. In other words, an issue with, say, a 3 or a 4 per cent interest rate marketed well below par is harder to sell than if a 4½ per cent coupon were attached and the price slightly below par or slightly above. Conversely, if the issue had a 5 or a 5½ per cent coupon and was priced well above par, the same sales resistance would be in order. Ordinarily the majority of new issues are brought out at prices within the range of ten points below par or ten points above.

Movement of Funds to Interior.

With the passing of the tax date influences upon the money market, conditions during the remainder of the month are expected to make for somewhat firmer rates. From now until Oct. 1 the movement of funds will be away from New York and toward the interior. This is a normal seasonal trend, reflecting the Autumn needs of agriculture. It will be accelerated somewhat in the next week or so by the collection of income taxes. Yesterday's money market continued to display marked ease, with a renewal rate of 2 per cent posted at the money desk of the Stock Exchange and outside funds again available at one-half of 1 per cent concession from the official price.

Material Buying Increases.

The announcement by Edgar S. Bloom, president of the Western Electric Company, that it had purchased enough copper in the last six weeks to take care of the requirements of the Bell System for four months was regarded in Wall Street as an indication of increased buying of materials by large industrial and utility companies. It is known that several large users of copper have placed substantial orders in recent weeks for the metal, and buying of other materials, such as steel and certain chemicals, has also been carried on in substantial volume by the same interests. In time, the financial community hopes, this buying will be reflected in higher commodity prices.

Hands Across the Sea.

Time was when the stock market and the cotton market here took their cues from London and Liverpool, respectively, in view of the fact that Great Britain is five hours ahead of us in time. Now the movements of the British markets appear to be governed to a considerable degree by what took place here on the previous day. As far as the cotton market is concerned at present much more space is given to crop weather and occasionally to the boll weevil than to the demand for the staple from Lancashire spinners. In view of the depressed state of the cotton trade in England, this would appear to be quite natural.

MONEY.

Wednesday, Sept. 17, 1930.

Money market continued to function in a listless manner. Despite the heavy supply of funds on offer, particularly for day loans and maturity accommodation, business was at low ebb. On the Stock Exchange, 2 per cent ruled all day, but 1½ was made in counter trading. A little 60-day time money at 2½ per cent represented all that was done in that market. There was a good demand for business paper but the offerings nowhere measured up to the inquiry.

COLGATE PURCHASE OF KIRKMAN BARED

Exchange Listing of 71,700 Shares Discloses Deal for $5,500,000 Soap Concern.

APPLICATION BY EISENLOHR

Sparks-Withington and Other Companies Also Receive Privileges on Big Board.

Acquisition of the assets of Kirkman & Son, manufacturers of toilet goods and soaps, with assets of more than $5,500,000, by the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company was disclosed in the application to the New York Stock Exchange for the listing of additional 6 per cent preferred stock of the latter company, which was approved yesterday by the Exchange.

The terms on which Colgate-Palmolive-Peet is acquiring Kirkman & Son were as follows, according to the listing application:

"The company proposes to acquire from Kirkman & Son all of its assets, excepting only cash and securities not exceeding $670,000 in value, subject to all liabilities as disclosed on the balance sheet of June 30, 1930, of Kirkman & Son, excepting income and franchise taxes, and to issue at par in connection with such acquisition, 31,700 additional shares of preferred stock ($3,170,000 par value) less the amount of cash and securities retained by Kirkman & Son, as aforesaid.

"The board of directors of the company, by resolutions adopted at a meeting held on Aug. 27, 1930, authorized the issue of 31,700 shares of preferred stock for the purpose above indicated. The shares of preferred stock issuable for the assets of Kirkman & Son will be issued at par on the basis of net tangible assets of Kirkman & Son on the date of acquisition, and no capital surplus or paid-in surplus will result from the aforesaid acquisition."

It was announced also that the Colgate directors had approved the issue and sale from time to time of 40,000 additional shares preferred stock, to be used for general corporate purposes.

The issuance of 71,700 additional shares of preferred for the Kirkman assets and other purposes will increase the outstanding issue of preferred to 223,149 shares, it was said.

The balance sheet of Kirkman & Son showed total assets of $5,541,290 on June 30, compared with $5,351,860 on Dec. 31, 1929. Cash on hand and in banks totaled $315,854, while marketable securities, at cost, amounted to $532,083. Net profit in the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, was $231,121, while in the six months ended June 30 it was $249,454. Land, buildings, machinery and equipment were appraised at $2,990,906, after a reserve for depreciation, on June 30.

Kirkman & Son was incorporated under New York laws in 1909. The business was originally established in 1837 by John Kirkman. The company manufactures laundry soap, washing powder, cleanser, soap chips, toilet soap and glycerine.

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet's total assets on June 30 were $66,964,710, the application said.

An application was made also for the listing of 409,313 shares of new common stock, without par value, of Webster Eisenlohr, Inc. Of the new stock 395,853 shares are to be issued in exchange for a like amount of old $25 par value stock outstanding, while 13,460 shares are to be issued for an equal number of shares of old stock upon full payment of the subscription price.

The company's application shows that its net loss for the six months ended June 30 was $112,460, against a net profit of $170,132 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, equivalent to 8 cents a share on the outstanding stock. Total assets on June 30 of Webster Eisenlohr, Inc., and subsidiaries were $7,913,842.

Application for the listing of 231,785 shares of the Sparks-Withington Company's new common stock in connection with the acquisition of the business and assets of the Cardon-Phonocraft Corporation was also made.

The balance sheet of Sparks-Withington, giving effect to the acquisition of Cardon-Phonocraft, as of June 30, showed total assets of $9,322,055. Cardon-Phonocraft's assets on June 30 totaled $2,132,491.

WALKER BACK, TELLS TRANSAMERICA PLANS

Series of Specialized Holding Units to Simplify Structure—Trade Improvement Noted.

Returning yesterday from a month's absence on the Pacific Coast, Elisha Walker, chairman of Transamerica Corporation, announced that plans for the simplification of the corporate structure of the organization contemplated the formation of a series of 100 per cent-owned holding companies. One of these will be for bank stocks, another for foreign holdings and investments, a third for commercial and industrial investments, and others for stocks of Joint Stock Land Banks, insurance companies, mortgage companies, and securities companies.

Mr. Walker was accompanied by Jean Monnet, vice chairman of Transamerica, in his tour of inspection of the organization's Pacific Coast interests.

Discussing the general business situation, Mr. Walker said:

"Such observations as we were able to make were in harmony with the statistical indications that now begin to show definitely discernible improvement in freight loadings, bituminous production, building construction, automobile manufacturing and steel output.

"With the recovery in general conditions that appears to be starting, I am persuaded that the subsidiaries of Transamerica will find themselves in a particularly fortunate position with respect to the development of ample and sustained earning capacity."

$50,000,000 Montreal Station Begun by Canadian National

The Canadian National Railways announced yesterday the start of work on a $50,000,000 terminal in the business district of Montreal. The project will provide work for hundreds of unemployed men.

The terminal will use a tunnel now in operation under Mount Royal and will consolidate three stations. A concrete viaduct will connect it with the Victoria Bridge across the St. Lawrence, thus providing for the movement of trains continuously in both directions through the terminal. The viaduct will have lower spaces for garages and warehouses. Electric operation through the tunnel will be extended throughout the new terminal system. Tenders have been called for construction of the viaduct and the two bridges.

Hoxsey of Stock Exchange Notes Stock Dividends That Do Not Represent Earnings.

FICTITIOUS EXCESS CITED

Large Initial Capital Surplus Disapproved in Address Before Accountants in Colorado.

Disapproval of the practice of setting up large items of initial capital surplus was voiced by J. M. B. Hoxsey, executive assistant of the committee on stock list of the New York Stock Exchange, in an address yesterday before the American Institute of Accountants in Colorado Springs. Copies of his remarks were given out at the Stock Exchange here.

In speaking on "Accounting for Investors" he discussed desirable forms in accounting practices to the end that stockholders and the public might be better informed regarding the operations of companies whose securities are listed on the Stock Exchange.

"While admitting the necessity of a substantial capital surplus in certain types of financial institutions and of a reasonable amount of capital surplus to cover certain anticipated contingencies in other cases," said Mr. Hoxsey, "it is somewhat questionable in most types of business whether the setting up of a large item of initial capital surplus is not coming to be regarded as equivalent to saying: 'We hope we shall never be forced to be unconservative and that we shall never have losses large enough to impair the capital with which we started business, but should these things occur we are placing ourselves in a position where the matter can be handled with a minimum of disclosure.'"

Mr. Hoxsey discussed the question of "accounting for stock dividends as an acute one."

Great Latitude in State Laws.

"Under the laws of various States," he said, "great latitude is allowed as to the accounting for stock dividends on the part of the issuing company. The term 'stock dividend,' as actually used, has a very broad scope, covering every shade of transaction between the split-up pure and simple in the form of a stock dividend and the proper capitalization of actual earnings. Much of the confusion which has existed on the subject arises from this lack of an exact terminology and is accentuated by the present-day practice of crediting a greater or less proportion of the consideration received for stock to a capital account, which, as already stated, is available for either cash or stock dividends under the law of many States."

The speaker said that from an accounting standpoint he saw no need, in the case of a large occasional split-up in the guise of a stock dividend, "to make any charge against earned surplus not compulsory by law, so long as it is clearly stated to stockholders that the dividend is to be regarded in the nature of a split-up.

"A different question is presented," he continued, "in the case of small or periodical stock dividends. The stockholder, unless otherwise clearly informed, has every reason to believe that such dividends represent earnings.

Dividends and Earnings.

"They do not, however, represent earnings in their entirety unless they are not only charged against earnings at some rate, but charged against earnings at a proper rate. In view of the usually arbitrary nature of the distinction between capital and capital surplus (which would for most purposes be much better defined as 'stated capital' and 'unstated capital') the minimum measure of this proper charge against earnings or earned surplus appears clearly to be the sum to the theretofore capital and capital surplus per share, for each share issued as a dividend.

"This sum purports to represent the consideration actually received for or represented by the stock, exclusive of its equity in true undivided earnings, and, unless at least this minimum is charged, the true capital per share is diluted by the stock dividend, whether or not the increment in earned surplus is sufficient to offset such dilution. If less than this amount is charged, the amount remaining in earned surplus will be fictitiously large and may thereafter be used for duplicate payments of dividends, from the same earnings, either in stock or in cash."

Mr. Hoxsey discussed the question of whether consolidated financial statements are as inclusive as they should be and suggested methods of procedure. He touched also on the need of a uniform practice in setting up depreciation reserves.

RAIL FREIGHT OFF IN JULY.

Declined 15.3% From That of Month in 1929 on Class 1 Roads.

Class 1 railroads moved 35,579,981,000 net ton miles of freight in July, a decline of 15.3 per cent from July, 1929, and of 9.1 per cent from July, 1928, according to the Bureau of Railway Economics. Traffic declined 18.1 per cent in the East, 14.4 per cent in the West and 15.8 per cent in the South.

Traffic of all roads in the seven months totaled 247,827,151,000 net ton miles, a reduction of 11.6 per cent from the same period of 1929 and of 5.8 per cent from the same period in 1928. Eastern traffic declined 11.5 per cent, Western traffic 11.7 per cent and Southern traffic 12 per cent.

EXPORTS IN AUGUST ABOVE JULY TOTAL

Amount, Though, Is Far Below That of Month in 1929—Imports Lowest in 10 Years.

DRIFT OF GOLD CONTINUES

Steady Stream of Money Metal Flowing From Country Lately—Silver Movement Shrinks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — Although complete details were lacking to account for the increase in exports from the United States to foreign countries in August, it was stated at the Commerce Department today that it was partly due to an increase of $13,000,000 in cotton exports and a probable increase of $3,000,000 in shipments of cotton. Exports in August amounted to $300,000,000, as compared with $266,628,000 for July and $380,564,000 for August, 1929.

Imports to the United States in August amounted to $217,000,000 and were $150,000,000 below those for the same month last year. They also showed the smallest value reported for any month since 1921.

Exports of gold for the month amounted to $39,332,000, which was partially balanced by imports of $19,714,000, leaving net exports of gold at $19,618,000. In the same month last year the country gained gold to a net total of $18,390,000. The excess of gold imports over exports for the eight-month period ended on August, 1930, amounted to $183,279,000, compared with $227,564,000 for the same period last year.

The excess of gold exports over imports, the department explained, was due chiefly to heavier foreign lending, both long term and short term. New nominal capital advanced to the outside world on account of foreign securities publicly offered here in July and August totaled $97,542,000 or about $31,000,000 more than in the same months of 1929.

Replying to the comment yesterday by President Hoover on the increase of United States exports in August over July, Chairman Byrns of the Democratc National Committee said today that the President had omitted to mention figures for other months, "with which comparison would have been more fair."

"The President omitted to mention," Mr. Byrns declared, "that while August exports did show this gain over July, they were approximately $80,000,000 under our exports for August, 1929, and $79,000,000 below exports for August, 1928, with which months comparison would have been more fair. It happens, too, that the July exports, with which comparison is made by the President, were the lowest by many millions of dollars of any month within certainly the last three years, and probably within the last five or six years. Had he carried his comparison a little further, he would have had to note that while the August exports totaled $300,000,000 they were more than $400,000,000 last January and more than $525,000,000 in October of last year, when the panic first broke on the New York stock market. He would also have noted that for the first eight months of 1930, ending with August, the total of exports was nearly $800,000,000 below the total for the same months of 1929.

"Obviously," he added, "the President's seizure upon an increase in our foreign trade, which can be shown only by making comparison with the lowest monthly figure in many years, is part of the Republican strategy to try to fool the country into believing that the Hawley-Smoot, or Grundy, tariff bill has done its worst and that business, and especially our foreign trade, is now on the up-grade."

SHARE-OWNERS BACK SINCLAIR OIL PLANS

Ratify New Preference Stock and $72,500,000 Deal With Standard.

WIDE EXPANSION FORECAST

Acquisition of Prairie Expected When H. F. Sinclair Returns From Europe Oct. 1.

The stockholders of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation at a special meeting yesterday approved the creation of 5,000,000 shares of no-par preference stock and the sale of the company's one-half interest in the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company and the Sinclair Pipe Line Company to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for $72,500,000. Both of these measures were approved by approximately 75 per cent of the outstanding stock represented either in person or by proxy.

E. W. Sinclair, president, who presided in the absence of H. F. Sinclair, chairman, said there was no plan at this time to issue any of the new preference stock. In reply to a question by a stockholder in regard to the status of the common stock in case of the issuance of the new preference shares, he said:

"Directors have a full realization of their responsibility when any of the new stock is issued, and I am confident that the issuance of the stock will not be out of line with the general capital structure. There should be no cause for any apprehension on the part of the holders of common stock."

No statement was made by Mr. Sinclair with regard to the acquisition of additional properties which is pending except the remark that it would be "very embarrassing to tell the status of negotiations that might be in progress." In commenting on the sale of the company's one-half interest in the Sinclair Crude Purchasing Company and the Sinclair Pipe Line Company, however, he said that the Sinclair Consolidated Corporation would be amply protected in the supply of crude oil and of pipe line facilities.

Early Announcement Expected.

H. F. Sinclair, who has been in Europe for some time in connection with the company's interests there, is scheduled to return around Oct. 1, it was stated. It is generally believed that most of the details in connection with the acquisition of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the Prairie Pipe Line Company by the Sinclair Company will have been cleared up by that time, so that an announcement of the terms may be expected shortly after Mr. Sinclair's return.

The new preference stock, it is said, will be issued to provide for the company's requirements from time to time in its expansion program, for acquisition of properties, in effecting consolidations or mergers, for refunding of bond issues, retirement of 8 per cent preferred stock, for cash or for other corporate purposes. The dividend rate the new stock will carry is left to the decision of the board of directors.

The newly authorized preference shares will be junior to the 8 per cent preferred stock so long as any of the latter issue remains outstanding. Stockholders voted to cancel the authority to issue any further amount of the 8 per cent preferred stock, of which 141,094 shares of $100 par value are outstanding. The present 8 per cent preferred stock will probably be called for retirement in the near future.

Capital Structure as Revised.

The new capital structure of Sinclair consists of 141,094 shares of the old 8 per cent preferred stock, all outstanding; 5,000,000 shares of new preferred stock of no par value, none of which has as yet been issued, and 20,000,000 shares of no-par common stock, of which 6,124,098 shares are outstanding.

At the meeting yesterday 97,593 shares of the 8 per cent preferred stock were represented and 4,640,747 shares of the common stock, either in person or by proxy. Only one share of the preferred stock voted against the sale of the company's interest in the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company and the Sinclair Pipe Line Company to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, while one share of preferred stock and 451 shares of common voted against the creation of the new preference shares.

In view of the fact that the amendment to the certificate of incorporation must be approved by the Secretary of State for New York, the company being incorporated in New York, the stockholders' meeting was adjourned until Friday noon, Sept. 19, in case there was any objection to the form of the amendment. In this way any objection probably could be removed without the necessity of calling another special meeting of stockholders, it was said.

NEW INCOME TAX RULE AIDS MARGIN TRADERS

Eliminates Collateral Stock From Computation of Profit, Reversing Old Methods.

A new income tax ruling by the general counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue permits a taxpayer who deposits stock with a broker as collateral and later trades in the same stock, to regard the stock sold as applying against the additional stock purchased and not against the collateral stock, according to J. S. Seidman of Seidman & Seidman, certified public accountants. The new ruling, Mr. Seidman said, would be of considerable benefit to security traders.

"Heretofore," Mr. Seidman explained, "the Treasury Department consistently held that in the absence of specific identification, sales applied against first purchases. Usually the firt purchase cost less than a block of the same stock bought later, with the result that a higher profit was shown on the trade and hence a larger tax had to be reported.

"Under the new ruling, however, if the original stock is put up for margin and the same number of shares continue as margin, trading may be done in that stock without having to figure the margin stock in determining profit or loss on the trades. For example, if 100 shares of Steel, costing 155, is put up on margin for a trading account, and thereafter 100 additional shares are bought at 160 and 100 shares are sold at 170, the new ruling makes it necessary to report for income taxes only 10 points profit per share, on the theory that it was the 100 shares bought at 160 that was sold for 170.

"Under the previous rule, 15 points profit would have had to be reported, because the margin stock, costing 155 and having been acquired first, was deemed to have been sold first.

"In order to obtain the advantages of this ruling it is essential that at least the number of shares put up on margin should always be in the account. Otherwise it is obvious that the margin stock had been disposed of and hence would have to be figured in the tax calculation."

PRICES CUT AGAIN FOR OIL PRODUCTS

Standard of New Jersey Reduces Fuel Oil by 10 Cents a Barrel.

GASOLINE DROPS IN DETROIT

Independent Service Stations in California Refuse One-Cent Advance by Big Companies.

The unsettled condition in the petroleum markets of the country was emphasized further yesterday through a cut of 10 cents a barrel in bunker fuel oil by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, a reduction of 2½ cents a gallon of gasoline in Detroit by the leading distributers in that city and the refusal of the independent service stations in California to advance prices 1 cent a gallon following a similar advance by all the major companies there.

The White Star Refining Company made a cut of 2½ cents a gallon in the retail price of gasoline at Detroit, which was met immediately by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Sinclair Refining Company. This brings gasoline at retail in Detroit to 14.3 cents a gallon, including the 3-cent State tax. It follows a cut of 3 cents a gallon last week and indicates that a gasoline price war is in progress in Detroit.

Effective today the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey reduced bunker fuel oil 10 cents a barrel. The company's new prices at New York, Baltimore and Norfolk will be $1.05 a barrel; Charleston, S. C., $1 a barrel; Cristobal and Balboa, C. Z., $1.10 a barrel. Although stocks of fuel oil are unusually large, the price cut announced by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was not expected in the trade.

Independent gasoline dealers in San Francisco have voted to maintain the old gasoline price of 20 cents a gallon and not increase prices to 21 cents to conform with the new prices recently put into effect by all the major oil companies there, it was reported from the Pacific Coast. It is too early to learn whether the plan of the independents will disrupt the higher price level initiated last Monday by the Standard Oil Company of California. However, in view of the fact, that some of the major companies are known to be only luke warm on the subject of a price advance at this time, the success of the price increase on the Pacific Coast at least is threatened, it is said, especially with the independent companies maintaining a solid front.

For some time the Pacific Coast has been the scene of considerable cutting in gasoline prices and only about two months ago prices at some points were down to 6 and 7 cents a gallon, retail. This price war was brought to a close by the Standard Oil Company of California raising prices to the former level of 20 cents a gallon and at the same time announcing that it would not sell gasoline or any other refined oil product to service stations that attempted to increase gallonage by cutting the price.

ORDERS VALUATION OF STEAM CORPORATION

Service Board Action Follows Decision to Let New York Company Issue $6,000,000 New Stock

The Public Service Commission of New York State has ordered a current valuation of all the properties of the New York Steam Corporation, it was announced yesterday. This action follows the decision of the commission to authorize the company to issue $6,000,000 additional common stock, and will provide a basis for a study of the company's rates, it was said in financial circles.

In deciding to grant the company permission to sell 120,000 additional common shares at $50 a share, the commission has ruled that proceeds of the financing can be used only in the liquidation of outstanding current or funded indebtedness, and will soon issue an order to that effect. Chairman Milo R. Maltbie, in his opinion on New York Steam financing, indicated that it might be necessary to require a resurvey of the property in order to be assured that the amount of securities now to be authorized would not exceed a proper amount.

The commission, after discussing the problem, decided to proceed with valuation of the properties. Mr. Maltbie's opinion said that there has been no adequate proof in this case that the assets of the company had been preserved intact and had not depreciated in value.

"These Bonds are the direct obligation of The Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad Company. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, by endorsement on the Bonds, guarantees the prompt payment by The Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad Company of the principal and interest thereof.

The Bonds are issued under the General and Refunding Mortgage of The Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad Company dated August 1, 1924, and are secured by a direct mortgage upon all the lines of railroad and appurtenances thereof now owned by said Company and upon all properties acquired by the issuance of any of the General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds. No bonds, other than the present issue, are outstanding under said mortgage. $8,225,000 principal amount of bonds are reserved to refund a like amount of prior lien bonds (including $430,000 retired since August 1, 1924 through sinking fund) and the remainder may be issued, under the restrictions stated in the mortgage, for the acquisition of additional properties, for additions, betterments and improvements, and (up to $6,000,000 in the aggregate) for equipment to the extent of ninety per cent. of the cost thereof.

Both principal and interest of the bonds will be payable in gold coin of the United States of America without deduction for any tax or taxes (other than Federal income taxes) which the Railroad Company or its successors or assigns or the Trustee may be required to pay or to retain therefrom under any present or future law of the United States of America or of the States of Pennsylvania and Ohio.

BOND PRICES HIGHER ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Some of the Railroad and Utility Issues Reach Year's Top Quotations.

GERMAN GROUP IRREGULAR

Argentine Securities Recover—U. S. Government Obligations Improve Slightly.

Both foreign and domestic bonds were generally higher on the Stock Exchange yesterday in moderately active trading. A fair-sized list of high-grade railroad and public utility issues scored new highs for the year, chiefly on fractional advances. United States Government issues were somewhat firmer than on the previous day, averaging a shade higher at the close.

In the foreign group the heavily traded German Government International 5½s of 1965 proved an exception to the general rule, touching a new low for the year at 84½ and finishing at 84¾, off ⅜ of a point. The German Government 7s, however, advanced ¼ of a point. Although German corporation loans were generally steady, nearly all of the Rhine-Westphalia Electric Power Corporation issues finished lower, the declines ranging from ⅛ to 1⅛ points.

Argentine Government bonds made substantial recoveries on the news that normal diplomatic relations would be resumed with Argentina by the United States. Other South American loans were quietly traded.

American Telephone and Telegraph debenture 5s of 1965 proved one of the most actively traded issues of the domestic list. This issue touched a new peak for 1930 at 107½, up ⅝ of a point. Railroad bonds, as a group, were far more active than the utilities, although of the latter group New York transit bonds continued active. Interborough 5s, of 1966, stamped, made a new high for the year at 74¾.

Trading in industrial issues was lethargic. For the most part the net changes for the day in this group were of small consequence. Notable exceptions, however, were Cespedes Sugar 7½s, which fell 10 points to a new low at 50, and Fisk Rubber 8s of 1941, which dropped 4½ points.

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Cincinnati, Ohio.

Award of a new issue of $1,000,000 City of Cincinnati (Ohio) viaduct bonds, due serially from Sept. 1, 1932 to 1956, was made yesterday to Eldredge & Co. at a price of 100.239 for the bonds as 4s. Eighteen other bids were submitted in competition. The second highest tender was 102.32 for the bonds as 4¼s, made by the First National Bank, New York, and associates, and the third was 102.25 for 4¼s, put in by the First National Old Colony Corporation.

The issue will be placed on the market today at prices to yield 3.50 to 3.90 per cent. The city reports an assessed valuation of $1,108,557,000 and net bonded debt of $45,098,497. At the last previous sale the city sold an issue of $950,000 as 4½s at a price of 100.578.

Wichita Falls, Texas.

Offering of a new issue of $640,000 City of Wichita Falls (Texas) 4½ and 4¾ per cent refunding bonds will be made today by Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc. The 4½s, due from Feb. 10, 1931 to 1946, will be priced to yield 3.25 to 4.30 per cent, and the 4¾s, due from Feb. 10, 1946 to 1960, to yield 4.35 per cent. The bonds are issued for the purpose of refunding water works bonds recently called. The assessed valuation of the city is reported as $79,062,600 and the net bonded debt, including this issue, as $2,732,804.

Utica, N. Y.

A new issue of $402,000 City of Utica (N. Y.) 4 per cent bonds, consisting of $362,000, due from July 15, 1935 to 1950, and $40,000, due from June 6 and Aug. 1, 1936, will be offered today by Edward Lowber Stokes & Co. The first block of bonds will be priced to yield 3.90 per cent and the latter to yield 3.95 per cent.

Cambridge, Mass.

Award of a new issue of $1,000,000 City of Cambridge (Mass.) short-term notes, dated Sept. 18, 1930, and due Jan. 16, 1931, was made yesterday to the Shawmut Corporation of Boston. The price paid was par for the notes as 2.11s.

Winnipeg, Man.

The City of Winnipeg, Man., is planning to market soon a new issue of about $3,500,000 of improvement bonds, according to private advices received here yesterday. The issue has been approved by the City Council, but no date has been set for the offering of the bonds.

Selection

When stock market averages are not getting anywhere and when most businesses are in the doldrums, there are always some companies progressing.

The stock market is selective, and business, like the market, is always composed of cross currents. Painstaking selection of investments, whether bonds or stocks, is at all times vital to the most effective employment of investment funds.

$16,000,000 IS SET AS PORT BOND ISSUE

Securities Will Be Put Out to Construct Inland Terminal Near the Chelsea Piers.

BANKERS CONSIDER PLANS

Chase Corporation, It Is Said, Will Be a Bidder in Addition to National City and Guaranty.

The Port of New York Authority, which has not been in the market with bonds in almost a year, plans to put out a new issue of $16,000,000 within a few days, it was learned yesterday. The proceeds are required for construction of the new inland Terminal near the Chelsea piers on the block bounded by Fifteenth and Sixteenth Streets and Eighth and Ninth Avenues. Meetings in the offices of the Port Authority this week were attended by interested bankers.

In previous years the Port Authority has invited two banking groups to submit sealed bids for the issues, one headed by the National City Company and the other by the Guaranty Company of New York. This time, however, it is understood that a third group, headed by the Chase Securities Corporation, will also be invited to bid.

Although the terms have not been announced, it is understood that the new issue will mature serially in from about ten to twenty years and that the rate of interest will be named by the bidders. Port Authority bonds bearing 4 and 4½ per cent coupons are now quoted on a 4.20 per cent basis. The Port Authority is permitted by law to receive less than par for its bonds if the interest cost does not exceed 6 per cent.

The last financing by the Port Authority was on Oct. 22, last year, when $30,000,000 4½s, due from Nov. 1, 1939 to 1953, were marketed to finance construction of the Hudson River Bridge. This issue, which is callable at 105 after Nov. 1, 1939, was awarded to a syndicate headed by the National City Company. The price paid was 92.857, equivalent to a 4.896 per cent basis.

Although most financing for the Port Authority has been done by the National City Company and associates, the group headed by the Guaranty Company obtained an issue of $12,000,000 of 4s early in 1928.

GAIN IN DELIVERIES BY GENERAL MOTORS

Dealers' Sales to Consumers in August Increased by 6,000 Cars Over July.

BETTERS LAST YEAR RATIO

Last Month's Deliveries to Dealers Totaled More Than 3,600 Cars a Day, Sloan Reports.

Deliveries by General Motors dealers to consumers in August showed an increase of more than 6,000 cars over the July total and sales by the manufacturing divisions of the corporation to dealers increased by more than 5,500 cars during the same month, according to figures announced yesterday by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president. While the total for deliveries to consumers and sales to dealers are well below the August totals in 1929, the increase shown this year compares with a decrease in August when compared with July, last year, in respect to sales to dealers, and the increase in deliveries is relatively much larger than shown last year.

August deliveries to consumers by dealers totaled 86,426 cars, compared with 80,147 in July and 151,722 in August last year and 147,079 in July last year. Sales to dealers by the manufacturing units of the corporation in August were 76,140 cars, compared with 70,716 in July and 157,111 and 147,351 in August and July, respectively, last year.

Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and oversea shipments, during August amounted to 85,610, or more than 3,600 cars a day, compared with 79,976 in July and 168,185 in August, 1929. The following table gives a comparison of the total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, by months since the first of this year and 1929:

	1930.	1929.
January	106,509	127,580
February	126,196	175,148
March	135,930	220,391
April	150,661	227,718
May	147,483	220,277
June	97,440	200,754
July	79,976	189,428
August	85,610	168,185

It was announced yesterday that the Ford Motor Company accounted for 41.6 per cent of all new cars registered in the United States for the first seven months of this year. In Wayne County, Mich., which includes Detroit, 51.9 per cent of all new cars registered in August were Fords, and in the first eight months of this year more than three of every five cars registered in Wayne County were Fords.

AUTO ACCESSORIES GAIN.

Orders Received Viewed as Signs of Uptrend in Industry.

Orders received by accessory manufacturers from automobile companies have been accepted by Wall Street as indicative of the fact that business in the automotive industry is on the uptrend.

Thompson Products, Inc., reports that it has received orders for valves and other parts from Lycoming, Cadillac, Chrysler and Buick since the first of the year. The Lycoming order, just received, is for 160,000 valves and will cover Auburn Motor production over an eight-month period.

The Pressed Steel Company of Great Britain, affiliated with the Edward C. Budd Manufacturing Company, has received orders for two new style, all steel, single piece body models for two of the largest quantity production automobile manufacturers in England. Officials of the company estimate that the size of the orders would indicate an estimate on the part of the companies of an increase in sales during 1931 of approximately $4,500,000.

$1,000,000 Uruguay Gold Arrives.

A shipment of $1,000 gold from Uruguay arrived yesterday on the steamship Eastern Prince consigned to the Guaranty Trust Company. In addition to this import the Federal Reserve Bank listed the arrival of $35,000 gold from Brazil in its daily gold statement. There were no exports of gold and no changes in the amount of the metal held under earmark for foreign account.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

Trend Upward on the English Exchange — Internationals Improve Sharply.

FRENCH STOCKS ADVANCE

Bourse Session One of the Most Active Since Spring—German Tone Continues Firm.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The stock markets displayed a slightly better tone today, price movements generally favoring the holders. British Government funds were irregular, with the sterling dollar rate easing to $4.86—$4.86 1/16.

With the steadier tendency in prices at the close in Wall Street yesterday, Internationals were much better here today. Columbia Graphophone recovered to £3 3/16, His Master's Voice Gramophone to £3/16, Hydroelectric to $40½, Radio Corporation to Brazilian Traction to $38¼ and International Holding to $5⅛.

In the rayon group Courtaulds recovered to £2 7/16 and the textiles were steadier. Cables and Wireless eased a little. The preferred and A ordinary fell to 78 and 26, respectively. Unilever was up to £2 11/16. Imperial Railways dropped 3s 6d to 22s 6d, the market being disappointed with the dividend which is to be reduced to 5 per cent.

Rubbers showed no decided tendency, the commodity declining to 4 3/16d a pound. Oils were good, Royal Dutch rising to £30½ and Canadian Eagle to 9s 6d. In the mining section Kaffirs received renewed support. A rise to 12 6d in Bwana. m'Kubwa was the only feature in Rhodesians.

Credit was somewhat less plentiful today, the market making fairly heavy payments for new bills. Business in discounts again was very quiet, with the undertone steady.

Trading Brisk in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Influenced by the cordial relations between European statesmen evidenced at Geneva, which have counter-balanced the political tension of the past few days, the Bourse received appreciable stimulus today. Trading during the early past of the session was brisk for the first time in many weeks.

Provincial orders, added to routine professional exchanges, caused all the leading stocks to rise, and although there was a period of dullness just before the close, it was one of the best sessions since Spring.

Rentes made good gains, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 89.75; 1918 4s, 103.30; 1920 amortizable 5s, 138.25; 1928 5s, 104.05; 1920 6s, 103.75; 1927 amortizable 6s, 107.20.

Ten Big Electric Locomotives Are Ordered by New Haven

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has ordered from the General Electric Company ten electric passenger locomotives that will be the most powerful on its line. The cost will be $2,000,000.

The new locomotives will move fifteen eighty-ton Pullman cars up to sixty-five miles an hour on alternating current and up to fifty-eight miles an hour on direct current. They will be equipped for both kinds of electricity so that, besides operating between here and New Haven, they may be run in the direct current zones of the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Stations. They will be of 3,500 horsepower, of 200 tons weight and will be built at Erie, Pa. Delivery is expected next August.

NEW STOCK ISSUE.

Electric Power and Light.

Additional financing for the Electric Power and Light Corporation is announced for today with the offering of an issue of 100,000 shares of $6 dividend cumulative preferred stock, by Bonbright & Co., Inc. The stock will be priced at $100.50 a share, to yield more than 5.95 per cent. Last week the same bankers offered an issue of $15,000,000 of the company's 5 per cent debentures.

The Electric Power and Light Corporation, which is identified with the Electric Bond and Share Company, will use the proceeds from the sale of this stock, together with that of the sale of the debentures, for the retirement of current indebtedness, for working capital and for other corporate purposes.

The company operates chiefly in Western and Southwestern States. In addition to its electric power and light business the company has entered the natural gas industry through its subsidiary, the United Gas Corporation.

An airplane tour of the communities served by the American Water Works and Electric Company, Incorporated

Birmingham, Alabama, is in the midst of the greatest coal, iron and limestone fields of the South. It is one of the World's great steel centers and famous for its cement and countless other products. Building permits in the last 6 years have doubled those of the previous 22 years. The city's population now exceeds 250,000.

THE water needs of this rapidly growing city, one of the great industrial centers of the United States, have been supplied by The Birmingham Water Works Company, one of the subsidiaries of the American Water Works and Electric Company, for forty-five years.

Few securities have ever been considered sounder than those of successful and growing utility properties. In addition to its electric companies, its group of forty water works utilities provide a sound basis for the securities of the American Water Works and Electric Company.

Send for booklet devoted to the securities of our water companies.

GRADUAL GAIN SEEN IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Weekly Reviews Report Buyers Breaking Away From the Hand-to-Mouth Policy.

SOME FIRMNESS IN PRICES

Consumers Appear to Have Reached Conclusion That Present Levels Are at the Bottom.

Steel market reviews of the past week by the trade publications find hope for encouragement. There is scattered evidence of breaking away from hand-to-mouth buying, the first deviation from that policy in many months. Superficially at least the betterment of the past few weeks is maintained, and there is still a unanimity of opinion that the corner has been turned.

Iron Age says in part:

"No sweeping change in the attitude of the trade has yet developed, but the fact that any sizable forward commitments should be negotiated or even considered is sufficient to give the market a more buoyant tone.

"Willingness to contract ahead has thus far been most notable among pig iron buyers, with a number of large consumers covering for the remainder of the year and in a few cases through the first half of 1931. Details of transactions are being closely guarded, but recent sales are known to include three of 4,000 to 10,000 tons, while inquiries in various parts of the country embrace nine of 2,500 to 10,000 tons, the larger ones calling for steel-making iron.

"Since no marked increase in the flow of iron and steel to major consuming outlets appears imminent, the broadening of demand is attributed to the belief that prices have struck bottom and that liberal purchases at the present level will prove a good investment.

"A manifestation of the same conviction is seen in the efforts of some of the motor car makers to place contracts covering their requirements in automobile parts through the first six months of next year.

"Greater conservatism rules among buyers of finished steel. More than half of September has passed without bringing an appreciable gain in aggregate bookings. The steel industry's operations, as measured by ingot output, remain unchanged at 58 per cent of capacity.

"The chief source of encouragement is an increase in demand for sheets and strip. Thus far in September, specifications for strip have been 10 to 20 per cent larger than in the first half of August, while the leading sheet producer's volume of orders last week was the best since April. A fair amount of contracting is reported also, especially in sheets.

"Tin plate specifications are undiminished and are frequently of an urgent character. Can companies in drought areas find that they overestimated the damage to crops and are pressing tin mills for deliveries."

Steel, formerly Iron Trade Review, says in part:

"Those steel market reports which do not record slight improvement in demand this week reveal no worse than a static condition. Many discern in the price situation, which is spotty and somewhat contradictory, a slow accretion of strength. There are numerous indications that large consumers of steel appraise present levels as the bottom. Some automotive interests, for example, seek contracts for the first half of 1931, while an electric refrigerator manufacturer would cover first quarter requirements. Producers vacillate in pricing current and fourth quarter needs, but refuse such long-time commitments.

"Eastern plate mills are endeavoring to eliminate concessions under 1.70c, Coatesville. In the East there is talk of a $2 per ton rise in structural steel and concrete bars, though at Chicago these products are weaker. Pittsburgh district makers of heavy steel are endeavoring to stabilize at 1.60c to 1.65c. In some quarters recent advances in sheets are not observed. Producers note that some users who recently pressed for concessions are now willing to continue current levels into the fourth quarter.

"In point of production, steel is almost passive this week. Operations at Cleveland have advanced from 41 per cent to 50, and at Buffalo from 48 per cent to 53. Birmingham and Pittsburgh hold at 55 per cent. Chicago mills are down 2 points to 55 per cent, and Youngstown 1 point to 58. Steel Corporation subsidiaries this week average about 68 per cent, maintaining the entire industry at about 60.

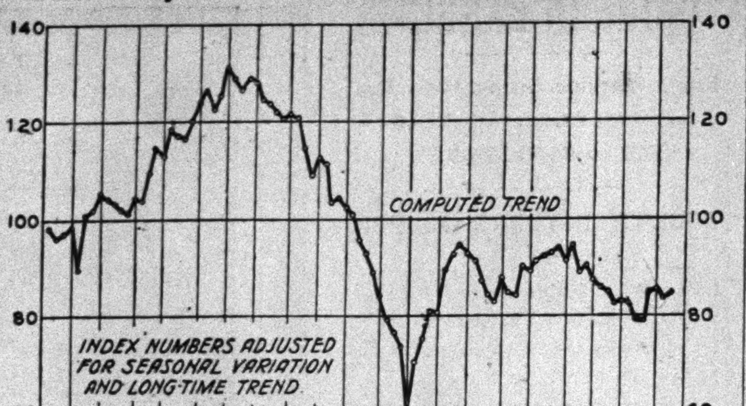
"With the withdrawal of the Illinois Central inquiry for 2,300 freight cars only 110 cars are in the market—the least in ten years. Track material buying, however, is approaching. Chesapeake & Ohio is inquiring for 8,000 tons of angle bars, spikes and bolts.

"There are signs of improvement too in raw materials. Pig iron is more active at Chicago, Cleveland and New York, automotive shipments expanding and more interest being evident in forward requirements. The week's sales at Cleveland totaled 16,000 tons, at New York 10,000 tons. Releases on coke are freer at Chicago. Scrap is in a mixed market, with large accumulations by consumers a deterrent to activity and a stronger price situation."

The Iron Age composite prices remain unchanged, pig iron at $16.88 a gross ton and finished steel at 2.142c a pound.

An adjustment in the steel bar price at Pittsburgh lowers Steel's composite of iron and steel prices 4 cents this week, to $32.64, which compares with an average of $32.99 for August.

Steel Activity Gained on Pre-Holiday Level And Adjusted Index Rises to 84.6 for Week



Steel mill activity in the week following the Labor Day week made a fairly satisfactory showing, the leading interest having resumed operations at 65 per cent of capacity, which was the rate which prevailed in the last week of August. The favorable nature of this showing is tempered a bit, however, by the fact that from a seasonal standpoint the most usual course of steel mill activity is a dip in the holiday week followed by an increase in the following week to a level slightly above that of the pre-holiday week.

The adjusted index of steel mill activity, which is corrected for typical seasonal changes, therefore shows an increase for last week, but the rise is to a point slightly below the level of the last week of August. The figures are: For last week, 84.6, as compared with 83.6 for the week ended Sept. 6, and 85.2 for the week ended Aug. 30. The index stood at 114.5 for the week ended Sept. 14, 1929.

The day's news yesterday included reports of the appearance of signs of forward buying in some raw materials, particularly in copper and pig iron. Finished steel buying remains at a low ebb, however. The Iron Age reporting that the first half of September passed without an appreciable gain in aggregate bookings. The current level of mill activity appears to be sustained by the activity of miscellaneous small consumers rather than by any increase in steel buying on the part of the major consuming industries.

REPORTS ON INGOT OUTPUT.

Dow Jones & Co. Puts Gain in Week at 2 Per Cent.

An increase of about 2 per cent was shown in the steel ingot output for the week ended last Monday, according to Dow Jones & Co., due primarily to the fact that the preceding week included the curtailment which was in effect over Labor Day. The company places the output for the week at 58 per cent of theoretical capacity, compared with 56 per cent the previous week and about 57½ per cent two week previously. The report continues:

"Output of the United States Steel Corporation is placed at nearly 63 per cent of theoretical capacity, as contrasted with a shade under 63 per cent in the Labor Day week and a fraction under 65 per cent in the final week of August.

"Leading independent steel companies are estimated at above 52 per cent, against under 51 per cent in the preceding week and a shade over 51 per cent in the last week of August.

"At this time last year the steel corporation reported a drop of 3 per cent to 88 per cent, while independents were down 1 per cent to 81 per cent, and the average was at 84 per cent, off nearly 2 per cent.

"In the second week of September, 1928, the steel corporation was running at 79 per cent, with independents at 81 per cent, and the average was above 80 per cent.

STRUCTURAL STEEL ORDERS

Awards in the Last Week Total About 25,000 Tons.

Awards of fabricated structural steel in the past week totaled about 25,000 tons, and included substantial projects in the South and West, according to the weekly survey of construction by The Iron Age. The publication says:

"New York contributed 3,000 tons of structural steel awarded for two apartment buildings, one of 2,000 tons at Eighty-eighth Street and Central Park West, the other at Christopher and Bleecker Streets requiring 1,000 tons. The State of West Virginia closed on 3,600 tons for two highway bridges, and the State of Kentucky on a 5,000-ton bridge over the Ohio River at Ashland.

"New projects, totaling about 35,000 tons, included 2,500 tons of apartment construction in New York, consisting of 1,500 tons for a building at 227 East Fifty-seventh Street and 1,000 tons in a building at Eighty-sixth Street and Madison Avenue. A garage for the New York Central Railroad on West End Avenue, New York, calls for 6,300 tons. Other sizable new projects are 5,000 tons in Cincinnati for a viaduct for the Union Terminals Company and 4,500 tons in Milwaukee for a viaduct.

Phone Deal Permit Sought.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has asked the Maryland Public Service Commission for permission to purchase capital stock of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore in the amount of $3,175,700. The latter company simultaneously has asked permission to issue additional stock in the amount mentioned.

FINANCE COMPANY SOLD.

Industrial Acceptance Corporation, Ltd., Bought by Canadian Firm.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—Announcement by the Montreal investment house of Greensfield & Co. that they have purchased the Industrial Acceptance Corporation, Ltd., marks the passing of an important Canadian business from the United States to Canadian control. The Industrial Acceptance Corporation was organized in 1925 as a wholly owned subsidiary of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation of New York. An opportunity to acquire the business in Canada was recently presented by the decision of the parent company to withdraw from the foreign field in order to make available all of its capital resources for its rapidly developing business in the United States, following the consummation of an arrangement for the financing of General Electric business in that territory.

Following the passing of control from New York to Canada, the board of directors of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation has been reorganized to include representatives of the new Canadian interests in the business. At the same time the board will have the benefit of the experience of the chief executives of the present New York company.

WESTERN ELECTRIC BUYS COPPER AHEAD

Orders to Meet Requirements of Bell Telephone System for Four Months Are Placed.

WORLD PRODUCTION UP

148,321 Tons Smelted in August, Against 143,615 in July—Domestic Market Quiet.

Edgar S. Bloom, president of the Western Electric Company, subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, announced yesterday that his company had purchased enough copper in the last six weeks to meet the requirements of the Bell telephone system for approximately four months. He indicated that the company felt that the present price of copper warranted purchases to cover requirements at least to the end of 1930.

There has been no change in the Bell System's $700,000,000 expansion program for 1930, it was said. Owing to the decline in the prices of raw materials, however, there has been a saving of about 15 per cent since the beginning of the year.

Several other large users of copper are reported to have placed similar orders for future requirements. These purchases have frequently been made on scale-buying orders, which were executed as a result of the recent dip in the price of copper from 11 cents to 10¾ cents a pound for domestic delivery. Large orders have also been offered at as low as 10 cents a pound for shipment in 1931. The copper producers, however, have declined these bids.

In view of the fact that the orders placed by Western Electric and other large users are for future delivery, copper authorities do not believe that stocks of copper will show an immediate reduction.

Copper buying was quiet for domestic accounts yesterday, but a fair volume was sold for export. Sales on Tuesday for foreign accounts totaled 3,250,000 pounds, and up to noon yesterday, 1,500,000 pounds had been sold.

World copper production in August totaled 148,321 tons, compared with 143,615 tons in July, it was announced. The following table gives in short tons the world output for June, July and August, based on smelter reports, without segregation as to the country of origin of the ore:

SEES GOOD BUSINESS SIGNS.

Willys-Overland Head Encouraged by 30% August Gain.

L. A. Miller, president of the Willys-Overland Company, said yesterday that the 30 per cent increase in the August business of the company over July, combined with the first general improvement in car loadings and steel tonnage, indicated a "definite and encouraging upturn." He said other statistics indicated an improvement in purchasing power, production and sales, and continued:

"Merchandise stocks generally, not only in the automotive field but in various lines, are very low, and there is sound reason to believe that the shipment of delayed orders for finished goods and heavy wheat shipments from the crop area may continue the upswing in traffic contribution to railroad income. After a prolonged depression such as we have had there comes a time when a positive upturn in business is inevitable."

"The long-continued rise in stock prices last year brought confusion to —— traders who base their operations upon graphs and threw general discredit upon chart reading as a guide to speculation.

"Recent months, however, have brought so many problems to the student of stock market activity that an earnest search for guide posts and oracles has gone forward. Along with the return of many traders to the economic faith of their fathers has come a renascence of chart reading."

DECLINE IN AUGUST IN BANKERS' BILLS

Drop of $10,311,541 From July, but Total Outstanding Is Above Year Ago.

EARLY INCREASE FORECAST

Acceptance Council Says Market Could Absorb Sharp Rise in Volume of Credits.

A decline of $10,311,541 in the outstanding volume of bankers' acceptances took place in August, according to the survey by the American Acceptance Council, which shows that as of Aug. 31 the total of acceptance business amounted to $1,339,383,765, against $1,349,695,306 at the end of July. Although the decrease shown last month contrasts with a gain of $73,000,000 in acceptance credits last August, the current total is still $138,847,619 above the figures for the corresponding date of last year.

Coming at a time when the acceptance business is normally undergoing seasonal expansion, the decline for August is taken as a reflection of the business inactivity which was generally reported last month. It is understood, however, that a substantial advance in bill volume may be looked for as of the close of September, several large acceptance credits having already been arranged.

Commenting on the council's August survey, Robert H. Bean, executive secretary, said:

"Extremely easy money conditions, delayed orders for commodities due to the business depression throughout the world and greatly reduced commodity prices are the more important causes of the present drag in the acceptance credit demand.

"The only gains in the present report are those covering acceptances against domestic warehouse credits which increased $8,000,000, dollar exchange credits which increased $5,400,000 and those based on goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries which showed a further advance of $6,500,000 and which have now passed the $500,000,000 total.

"Import acceptances declined $5,000,000, domestic shipment acceptances were off $3,200,000 and export acceptances, showing the greatest change, were off $22,000,000.

"As an indication of the influence the adverse conditions of the current year have had on the acceptance business it is to be noted that bank credits for imports and exports alone are now $87,500,000 below the volume in use a year ago. The gains to account for the present grand total increase over 1929 figures have come principally in warehouse credits and in foreign transactions.

"Information now available, covering the first half of September, point to a considerable volume of new bills in the current month. Notable in these advices is the $30,000,000 grain credit syndicate that has just been arranged with the Grain Stabilization Corporation. These bills will make their appearance shortly through a group of the large accepting banks and should favorably affect the total reported as of the end of the month.

"A real scarcity of bills has been felt in the acceptance market for some time and the dealers could easily take care of a considerable increase in offerings. There has, however, been no desire to disturb the situation by any readjustment of rates, the belief prevailing that within a short period a sufficient new supply will be available for all market demands."

COTTON LEVELS RISE IN NARROW TRADING

Early Recovery of $1 a Bale From Low Marks of Week Induces Hedge Selling.

SOUTHERN SPOTS FIRMER

Rains in Belt Cause Easier Tone—Activity in Yarn Centres Grows, First Time in Several Months.

Prices rose 10 points or more in early trading yesterday on the Cotton Exchange. The recovery of $1 a bale from the low levels of the week, however, brought about more hedge selling. A setback before the close left final quotations 1 point lower to 5 points higher on the day. Fluctuations were narrow for the third consecutive session, with factors evenly balanced. Spot sales so far this week aggregated 175,000 bales, compared with 191,000 in the corresponding time last year.

Steadiness in Liverpool and a firmer tone in Southern spot centres, owing to the general disposition to withhold cotton from the market, stiffened prices in the first hour's trading. The combination of mill price fixing and short covering became an influence on all three contract exchanges, and not until December approached 11¼c did small selling orders in the May and July deliveries halt the upturn.

Several spot houses did the first appreciable hedging business of the week at the higher price level, and when the weather map showed rainfall had been confined to extreme Eastern sections, the market developed an easier tone. The weekly report reflected the effects of recent heavy rainfall in halting picking in many sections, but it was added that moisture had started new growth west of the Mississippi.

Advices from the Carolinas showed that cotton being delivered to cooperative organizations is offered to spinners even with the December delivery in New York for ⅞-inch middling, a half cent more for strict middling and a half-cent discount under December quotations for low middling.

For the first time in several months, a definite increase in activity was reported in yarn centres.

Irregular Wool Prices at London.

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP).—The wool sales were continued today, with offerings amounting to 10,428 bales, of which 8,500 were sold. The attendance was good and a large selection of medium to superior sorts met with better competition at the opening rates.

Home dealers were the chief buyers. Fine greasy crossbreds were rather firmer, Cape of Good Hope and Natal grades were quiet and snow whites were bought in, owing to low bids.

FINANCIAL NOTICE.

STOCKHOLDERS' PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE

Four Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock

Chicago & Alton Railroad Company

TO HOLDERS OF THE ABOVE PREFERRED STOCK:

The Chicago & Alton Railroad, as an operating railroad, has been, by the Interstate Commerce Commission, under a tentative plan for a consolidation of the railroads of the United States, allocated to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company.

For the purpose of acquiring the ownership of the property of the Chicago & Alton, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has purchased, or agreed to purchase, the 3½% and 6% Bonds of the Chicago & Alton Railroad, with the avowed purpose of reorganizing the road in a foreclosure proceeding.

In view of the fact that no provision has been made for the above Preferred Stock in any of the negotiations now pending, and in view of the fact that the interests of Preferred Stockholders are definitely affected by a reorganization in the foreclosure proceedings now being conducted, it is deemed advisable that the stockholders organize for the protection of their interests.

In view of the situation above stated, the undersigned have agreed to act as a Committee to represent and protect the holders of the 4% Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock, of which there are 195,440 shares of the par value of $100 per share outstanding. The Bank of America National Association, No. 44 Wall Street, New York, has been designated the Depositary of the Committee.

All holders of the above stock, who desire to act in concert with each other and cooperate with the Committee, are requested to deposit their stock with the Depositary as early as possible in order that the Committee may take such action as it deems essential for the protection of stockholders' interests.

All certificates of Four Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock deposited should be duly endorsed in blank for transfer. WHEAT PRICES RISE, SHIFTED BY SPREADS

Differences Between Chicago and Winnipeg Are Widest of Season at Finish.

LIGHT OFFERINGS LIFT CORN

Oats Go Higher on Small Purchases—Rye's Close Is Irregular as Winnipeg Drops.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Spreading operations between wheat and corn and between the local market and Winnipeg resulted today in erratic price changes within a range of 1 to 1½ cents. September acted tight toward the last and closed 1 cent higher, while deferred futures were unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Local operators who recently sold at Winnipeg and bought here were active in undoing the spread, having a good profit. The difference at the last between the two markets was the widest of the season, Chicago September going to 2⅞ cents over Winnipeg October, while the December was 4⅛ cents above.

Hedging pressure continued in the Canadian market, while support was not aggressive and the close was unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Liverpool finished ½ to ¾d. higher. Buenos Aires was weak and 1¾ to 2⅛ cents lower, part of the decline being due to a break of ½ cent in the exchange rate.

The breaks in wheat found supporting orders in the hands of commission houses. Sentiment, as a whole, favored the bull side for a turn.

Light rains were reported in Southern Argentina, which had some effect on Liverpool. Buenos Aires October ended ½ cent under Winnipeg. No improvement was shown in the foreign demand for North American wheat.

The Northwestern movement of Spring fell off materially, Minneapolis and Duluth receiving only 560 cars for the day, against 934 on the same day last year. The trade believes the peak of the movement has been passed. Deliveries at Canadian interior points are also running below those of a year ago, laid by some to recent beneficial rains.

Primary receipts were 1,978,000 bushels; a week ago, 2,568,000, and a year ago, 1,561,000. Shipments, respectively, were 1,947,000, 2,336,000 and 1,647,000 bushels.

Deferred deliveries of corn were as strong today as they were weak yesterday. Commission house and local buying found offerings light, with the finish 1 to 1⅛ cents higher, May leading. Near-by months gained ⅝ to ¾ cent. An increase of around 3,000,000 bushels in the open interest in May corn yesterday suggested considerable short selling. Sentiment as a whole was more favorable to the buying side.

Cash corn gained ¼ to ½ cent on the September, while country offerings were again light.

Primary receipts of corn were 542,000 bushels; a week ago 739,000 and a year ago 962,000. Shipments, respectively, were 322,000, 440,000 and 362,000 bushels.

A large holding of oats is attributed to interests who have a use for the cash grain, and this tends to restrict local selling operations. Open interest in the September is small and the market is easily influenced. Little buying made the close ⅞ cent higher. Deferred futures gained ⅛ to ¼ cent.

Rye finished ⅜ cent higher to ¼ cent lower, with scattered liquidation induced by the big discount of rye at Winnipeg. December in the Canadian market was 11¼ cents under Chicago at the last.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

CANADA WHEAT POOL PLAN.

United Farmers Oppose Any Permanent Governmental Board.

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—The movement toward compulsory pooling of wheat in Western Canada has not ended, despite failure of the proposal to set up a wheat board to handle the 1930 crop of the Dominion prairie district. This was indicated in a statement from the offices of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section.

"We would not be satisfied with a government-appointed wheat board as a permanent institution," says the organization's statement, "as a wheat board appointed by the government means putting our business into politics, and that is what we object to. The farmers must retain control. The U. F. C. considers that the part played by the government should be only to grant the growers an opportunity of saying how their products should be sold."

The body will continue to press for legislation to permit the farmers by referendum to determine how their products shall be marketed. A recent wheat pool ballot in Saskatchewan was heavily in favor of the 100 per cent pool, pool headquarters announced.

CANADIAN WHEAT FORECAST.

E. W. Beatty Puts Year's Crop at About 375,000,000 Bushels.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—Canada's wheat crop this year will be between 365,000,000 and 375,000,000 bushels, according to E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is visiting Vancouver. The estimate is considerably in excess of 1929 production.

"There is an improved movement in wheat to coast ports and overseas and railway handling of crops has now become almost a matter of routine from long practice," Mr. Beatty said. "This year's crop will present no difficulties in handling, and grain will move to Vancouver as fast as the port is able to care for it."

Americans Buy Canadian Barley.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—Activity in barley featured the coarse grain section in the trading here today. Exporters reported good sales to the United States despite the 20-cents-a-bushel tariff. This export, it is believed, is due to the acute feed shortage across the border.

STOCKHOLDERS ORGANIZE.

Committee of Chicago & Alton Preferred Owners Formed.

Formation of a committee to represent holders of 4 per cent noncumulative preferred stock of the Chicago & Alton Railroad was announced yesterday. With a view to vesting ownership with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. recently purchased large amounts of Chicago & Alton 3½ and 6 per cent bonds, the object being to reorganize the road under foreclosure proceedings. No provision for stockholders has been made.

Harry M. Blair, president of the Associated Bond and Share Corporation, is chairman of the committee. It includes Allen F. Moore, Monticello, Ill.; William G. Wheeler, formerly general solicitor of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, and Frederick G. Curry, vice president of the Bank of America National Association. Samuel J. Marshall is secretary. Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett of New York, and Hobart & Minard of Newark are counsel. The Bank of America is depository.

New Ship Board Freighter Tested.

Speed and manoeuvring tests of the Shipping Board freighter Lorain were held outside the harbor yesterday. Several commissioners and a number of shipping men made the trip as guests of the board. The Lorain left Pier 6, Hoboken, at 8:30 A. M. and returned at dusk.

The vessel's cargo consisted of tractors, harvesters, threshers and other farm machinery, valued at about $3,000,000. She will call at various Black Sea ports and the cargo will be distributed to Soviet farms. The next sailing date in connection with the order has not been announced, but the company plans to start operating weekly sailings to Russia, beginning some time next month.

NEW SAXON GAS COMPANY.

Formed by Elektra and Saxon Public Works to Merge Local Concerns.

Elektra, A. G., principal subsidiary of Saxon Public Works, Inc., has organized with Energie Aktiengesellschaft a new corporation named Landesgasversorgung Sachsen, A. G., it was learned yesterday. The new company will furnish gas to the population of the free States of Saxony and will represent a consolidation of existing gas companies in the territory. Its initial capital will be 5,000,000 marks, or $1,250,000.

The economic advisory council of the Association of Saxon Communities has approved the new company, which already has taken over generating and distributing systems serving more than 500,000 inhabitants.

Elektra, A. G., is capitalized at 15,000,000 marks, or $3,750,000, and is 81.51 per cent owned by Saxon Public Works, Inc. It owns participation directly in nineteen subsidiary companies, and through one of these, Eltbahn, has an indirect interest in seven Saxon electrical companies.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—3 per cent for the best names. Tuesday—3 per cent for the best names. The quotations are for four to six months' paper.

Seasonal Gains Raise Query.

It is as yet too early to judge whether the improvement in retail sales and in some wholesale lines is merely seasonal or marks a real turn in the situation, according to views expressed yesterday. Sufficient of a vacuum, it was pointed out, had been created during the last four months in consumer purchasing of merchandise to account for the present increase in retail turnover. Should the demand continue into October and November, however, it was argued, sufficient momentum may be generated to carry general business forward well into next year.

See Men's Wear at Peak for Week.

From the volume of buying orders placed on men's and boys' wear in the last three days, the current week gives evidence of being the most active which the trade has experienced in a long time, it was indicated yesterday. Resident offices reported that Monday was the busiest day seen this season, with Tuesday slightly quieter and yesterday almost equaling Monday's volume. Practically all branches of men's and boys' clothes and furnishings were active, it was said. As yet there have been no repeat orders on topcoats or overcoats, with the exception of a camel-pile sport coat which has been bought heavily, buying offices stated.

Canadian Branch Plants to Gain.

Higher Canadian tariff rates put into effect yesterday will bring a sharp increase in the number of branch plants established there by manufacturers in the United States, exporters predicted yesterday. Among immediate effects of the new Canadian rates on economic conditions here, it was said, will be a substantial reduction in our export volume and the aggravation of present unemployment conditions. American manufacturers will be able to keep up their sales in Canada by circumventing the tariff raise with branch plants.

"Thin" Markets Firm Prices.

Rather "thin" markets are already beginning to develop in a number of commodities, it was reported here yesterday. On a very slight increase in demand, prices stiffen perceptibly, it was said. This in fact was offered as the explanation of a good deal of the recent firming up which has been noted in several commodities. At current levels, some of which are below pre-war prices, the quotations on several basic materials were said to be attracting the buying of large corporations on a long pull commodity investment basis alone.

Reordering Starts on Gift Wares.

Improvement in consumer buying has enabled retail stores handling gift-ware items to clear their stocks and to reorder in substantial quantities. Reorders jumped noticeably last week and have continued heavy during the last few days. Stores outside the metropolitan district have done most of the buying although local establishments are more willing to purchase than they were ten days ago. One sales agent reports that merchants who placed orders for Oct. 15 and Nov. 1 delivery are calling for immediate shipment of their goods. Articles retailing from $3.50 to $7.50 appear to be in the best demand.

Orders Gain at Furniture Show.

The attendance of buyers at the holiday lamp and novelty furniture show being held this week at the New York Furniture Exchange has dropped below earlier estimates. Registrations have been running only slightly above totals for a year ago. The discrepancy in attendance is being made up in part, however, by the willingness of buyers to place volume orders for later delivery. Novelty furniture, including goods for children's rooms, and decorative pieces suitable for holiday gifts have been in good demand and are moving readily at regular prices.

Endorse Silk Promotional Plan.

Endorsement of the silk promotional plan being sponsored by the Raw Silk Association of Japan was voted yesterday by the Board of Managers of the Silk Association of America. A cable notifying the Japanese organization of this action was sent yesterday by President T. B. Hill. The Japanese plan will be financed by a tax on raw silk exports. The board also approved a definition and construction for grenadine yarn. William Skinner of William Skinner & Sons, who has served on the board for twenty-eight years, and Charles Cheney, head of Cheney Brothers, who has held that position for twenty-one years, were elected honorary members of the board.

Cotton Textile Directors to Meet.

The meeting of the board of directors of the Cotton-Textile Institute will be held some time next week, when the recommendation of the executive committee that the employment of women and children for night work in textile mills be eliminated will be considered. That the recommendation will be undoubtedly accepted by the board seems evident, as the move has received widespread commendation not only in mill centres but throughout the country. The annual meeting of the institute will take place on Oct. 15. It is the expressed intention of the leaders in the movement to take immediate action on the subject, as they feel that the time is propitious.

Burlap Lower in Quiet Market.

Burlap prices in the local market dropped 5 to 10 points during the past week and, while small quantities of goods were purchased in a declining market, the volume was not sufficient to stiffen quotations. There were spurts of activity in the Calcutta market, but on the whole the tone was easier. Little interest was shown there, and stocks continued to accumulate. These prices were quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

	8-oz.	10½-oz.

Gray Goods Orders Limited.

While general activity was limited in the gray goods market yesterday, a fair volume of business developed in a few of the printcloth constructions. Prices continued to be firmly maintained. In printcloths most of the buying was centred on 38½-inch 60-48s at 4¼ cents and 64-60s at 5¼ cents. There was also a good call for 39-inch 68-72s at 6 cents. Little interest was evinced in 39-inch 72-76s at 6⅝ cents and 80-squares at 7¼ cents. Sheetings moved more briskly, with 37-inch 4-yard quoted at 5⅜ cents and 40-inch 3.85-yard at 7½ cents.

Machado Predicts Sugar Crop Will Increase 6,000,000 Bags

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 17.—That the sugar output of Cuba at the close of the manufacturing season of 1930-1931 will be far greater than in the past year is the opinion of President Machado and his Secretary of Agriculture.

In an address before the Mill Owners and Planters' Association today the Executive gave among other reasons the fact that 366,700 acres of new land had been cleared and planted to cane this year. Based on the average yield of 12 per cent sugar from every 2,500 pounds of cane, the additional acreage would yield 6,000,000 bags of sugar more than the past season's acreage. Of the total of 157 sugar mills ready to begin operation in January, 129 report a total increase in cane acreage for the coming season of 306,000 acres, according to official data given out by the Department of Agriculture.

The increase in acreage has been made in anticipation of new measures to be enforced by the President and the legislative powers to bring about a possible reconstruction of Cuba's economic structure and a substantial reduction in the cost of manufacturing cane sugar, according to Secretary Molinet.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—While heavy hogs were in demand today, a break in the price of fresh pork loins curtailed the call for light weights. Prices were steady to 25 cents lower, with most sales showing 10 to 15 cents under Tuesday's average. Shippers bought slowly. Light weight packing sows of good quality were strongest. The top was off 15 cents to $11, while the day's average was 10 cents lower at $9.90. Most sales were at $9 to $10.85, with heavy weights $10.15 to $11; medium weights $10.65 to $11; light weights $10 to $10.80 and packing sows $8 to $9.50. Packers bought 14,700 and shippers 2,500, with 5,000 left over. Receipts were 16,000, with 22,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Continued liberal supplies of cattle with a curtailed demand incident to the Jewish holidays next week resulted in a break of 50 cents in steers and yearlings, with some sales showing $1 under last week's high points. Best yearlings sold up to $12.75 and heavy steers to $11.50, with the bulk of the beef cattle at $10 to $11.50. Receipts were 13,000.

Prices of lambs declined 25 cents, with offerings large and the demand only fair. Most natives sold at $8 to $8.25, with Westerns at $8 to $8.50. Sheep were steady at $2.50 to $4. Receipts were 25,000.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—Pressure is relatively high from the upper Mississippi and lower Missouri Valleys southeastward to the South Atlantic Coast and thence eastward over the ocean, and it is low over the remainder of North America and Greenland, with centres as follows: Edmonton, Alberta; Cochrane, Ont., and Port Eads, La.

Showers have occurred within the last twenty-four hours in the lower lake region, the Appalachian region, the Atlantic States and along the east Gulf coast, while fair weather has prevailed in practically all other sections.

The temperature has risen in most sections west of the Mississippi River and it has fallen slightly in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, but the weather is still unseasonably warm in latter sections.

The indications are for showers in the South Atlantic States and for generally fair weather elsewhere in the Washington forecast district during the next two days.

The temperature will be slightly lower in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States Thursday, and it will rise during Friday as far east as the Appalachian region.

NEW $3,000,000 JAIL ASKED IN BROOKLYN

Patterson Requests $30,000 to Start Replacing 80-Year-Old Raymond Street Building.

DENOUNCES OLD STRUCTURE

Tells Mayor It Is Antiquated and Has "Every Vicious Feature Condemned by Penologists."

Describing the eighty-year-old Raymond Street jail in Brooklyn as an antiquated institution embodying "every vicious feature condemned by modern penologists," Richard C. Patterson Jr., Commissioner of Correction, sent a formal request to Mayor Walker yesterday for permission to build a new $3,000,000 prison on the present site, to house more than 1,000 prisoners under modern conditions.

Commissioner Patterson requested the Mayor's permission to ask the Board of Estimate for an issue of $30,000 in tax notes to enter into a preliminary contract for architects' services. The amount is the customary 1 per cent of the estimated construction cost and would provide preliminary sketches and drawings. Commissioner Patterson plans to build the prison so that additional floors may be added as need arises without disturbing the original floors. Present plans call for an institution housing 850 men and 250 women, with proper facilities for segregating young offenders from hardened criminals.

Lists Evils of Old Building.

"The present Raymond Street jail was built about eighty years ago," entirely outlived its usefulness. It is of antiquated construction, poorly lighted and ventilated and so arranged as to make adequate segregation of the young and impressionable from the vicious and hardened practically impossible. It has no mess hall, no adequate hospital facilities, no receiving department where prisoners can be bathed and given clean clothing, no facilities for exercise other than a barbarous 'bull pen' on the inside between the two cell houses, and no facilities whatever for giving the prisoners fresh air. It has, in short, every vicious feature which has been condemned by modern penologists, sociologists and social workers for the past thirty or forty years.

"Experience has convinced us that jails of the type of Raymond Street, where it is impossible to segregate the various classes of prisoners properly are merely schools of crime where young boys and young men still in the impressionable stages of their careers have vicious characters crystallized by contact with older offenders of the most degraded type. The obtaining of facilities for segregating these young offenders is in itself sufficient justification for the construction of a new institution, to say nothing of the other vicious features previously outlined."

While the plans for the new institution are still tentative, it is expected to have many of the modern features included in the new Jefferson Market Prison in Manhattan, including modern sanitary facilities, up-to-date lighting and ventilation and a modern power plant. The old prison is used for both civil and criminal prisoners, and at times its capacity has been taxed even to segregate these classes. Warden Harry Honeck has said that the institution's lack of facilities for segregation has greatly increased its problem of discipline.

Public Demand Is Cited.

Calling attention to the public demand for a new prison, Commissioner Patterson continued:

"During the past half century there has been constant and persistent agitation on the part of social and civic organizations and public-spirited individuals of Brooklyn concerning the present Raymond Street jail. Each year, for the past fifty years, successive grand juries have bitterly condemned it, while during the past ten years an unceasing flood of newspaper articles and editorial opinion has called attention to the institution's inadequacy, coupled with insistent demands for a new institution to take its place.

"We do not believe that the matter can be further ignored. There is every reason why a new jail should be built; there is not one reason against it other than the city's ability to finance the program."

Commissioner Patterson's communication to the Mayor was the first formal step toward getting the new institution started. The Mayor is expected to grant permission to apply for the architects' fee to the Board of Estimate as a matter of course. After a contract is drawn up between the architects and the city, the board will be asked to approve it and to vote additional funds to start actual construction.

Mayor Walker has said the city should build as many public improvements as possible at this time because of the unemployment situation, which has lowered construction costs.

LONGSHOREMEN WIN OVERTIME DISPUTE

Shippers Agree to Renewal of Union Contract on Terms Asked by Workmen.

TO SIGN NEXT WEDNESDAY

Delegates Named to Conclude the Agreement After Equalization of Wages Is Promised.

Sydney E. Morse, secretary of the Transatlantic Steamship Conference committee of shipping representatives, announced yesterday the willingness of the shippers to renew last year's wage agreement with the International Longshoremen's Association. It was expected, following a meeting between representatives of 40,000 union men and ship operators at the conference office, 8 and 10 Bridge Street, that the union would agree to a renewal.

Representatives of the union, headed by Joseph P. Ryan, president, and David Spencer, vice president, met with the employers Monday and agreed to renew the agreement if one of its clauses was interpreted with more satisfaction to the union. They gathered again yesterday and were told by Frederick Toppin, vice resident of the International Mercantile Marine Company, that the employers were agreeable to their demands.

Union men held a meeting afterward and appointed a committee to sign the agreement next Wednesday and at the same time to clarify the interpretation of the clause in question. The present wage scale is 85 cents an hour and $1.30 for overtime. Checkers, who also are union members, receive $6.50 a day and the same overtime as the other workers.

The troublesome clause relates to overtime. Heretofore, when longshoremen have reported at 7 o'clock in the morning to unload a ship they have been paid for four hours overtime whether they worked that long or not. But if they started work at 6 o'clock, they have been paid only the amount of overtime they actually worked.

They demanded that the agreement be interpreted to give the 6 o'clock starters the same benefit as those who start at 7, and the operators acceded.

The union committee, which is expected to sign the agreement next Wednesday, includes Mr. Ryan, Mr. Spencer, John Nolan, representing New Jersey; J. J. Sampson, representing New York; James Wilson and Emil Camarda, representing locals in Brooklyn, and Joseph B. Franklin, representing Staten Island. The agreement affects all union longshoremen between Portland, Me., and Norfolk, Va.

PUTS MINIATURE GOLF ON ROUND-WORLD SHIP

Dollar Line to Equip All Its Vessels—Coast Lumber Rates a Problem.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The first miniature golf course to be placed aboard an off-shore passenger liner plying out of San Francisco will be on the round-the-world Dollar liner President Fillmore, which will sail next Friday.

Dollar Line officials said today that all their vessels, round the world and transpacific, would be equipped with the miniature courses as rapidly as possible. The course for the President Fillmore is now being installed here.

The Panama Mail liner El Salvador, which arrived here last Saturday morning, was the first liner to come into port with the miniature golf course aboard and, according to steamship officials, within the next six months all passenger liners coming into the port will be equipped with one or more of the small courses.

With canned and dried fruits moving eastbound in vast quantities, intercoastal operators are faced with a serious problem over the rate on lumber for November. The current rate is $8 per thousand and the October rate has been placed at $9. At the time these rates were set there were practically no offerings, but within the past two weeks canned and dried fruits have begun to move eastbound in heavy volume, crowding out what lumber there was to move.

The canned and dried fruit movement is due to continue for the next two or three months and, with the lumber rate fixed at a minimum of $9 per thousand, there will be little or no lumber handled. Not until the canned and dried fruits movement lets up will lumber have a chance and this will enforce a rate for November much higher than the October figure of $9.

The November lumber rate is expected to be fixed by the conference lines within the next week.

If the present movement of eastbound cargo holds it would not be surprising to see the November lumber rate fixed at not less than $10 and possibly $11.

BACK AFTER LONG CRUISE.

David Whitney and Wife Visited North Cape in 4-Month Trip.

Sumar, the 160-foot yacht owned by David Whitney of Detroit, returned yesterday from a four-month voyage that led from New York to Southampton, England, and north as far as the North Cape for a Summer view of the midnight sun. From there the boat cruised back to Oslo, Marieham and Stockholm, thence to Copenhagen, through the Kiel Canal to Hamburg, and back to Rotterdam.

After returning to Southampton, the vessel left for the Bay of Biscay to put in at Lisbon and Madeira before sailing for Bermuda. The voyage covered nearly 7,000 miles. The vessel, designed by Henry J. Gielow, Inc., has been in service four years and has covered 75,687 miles under the command of Captain Barney Madsen. She probably will remain in the Tebo yacht basin at Brooklyn for three months or more. Both Mr. and Mrs. Whitney made the voyage.

Sails for West Indies Sept. 25.

Sailing of the steamship Madison for the West Indies Sept. 25 is announced by the Western Ocean Steamship Corporation. The vessel is receiving cargo at Pier 24, North River, for St. Thomas, St. Croix, St. Martin, St. Kitts, Nevis, Antigua, Guadeloupe, Dominica, Martinique, St. Lucia, Barbados, St. Vincent, Grenada, Trinidad and Demerara.
